TOWN EXCITED

Four Burglars Caused Turmoil in Merrimac, Mass.

They Robbed Town Policeman and Then Locked Him in a Cell—Blew Open the Safe in Post Office and Got $1000 Belonging to the Postmistress—People are Searching for the Burglars

By Associated Press to The Sun

MERRIMACK, Mass., Nov. 10.—Atwood Nixon, the only officer of the local police force, was knocked down early today, robbed, handcuffed and locked in a cell in the town jail by four unknown men who later blew off the door of the post office safe with a charge of dynamite, stole the valuables contained therein, and departed without leaving any clues behind them. Before departing the burglars held up one man at the point of a revolver and fired two shots at another, both bullets going wide of the mark.

The sounding of the fire alarm called the entire male population of the town to the scene and all citizens began scouring the town bent upon capturing the thieves. Nixon met the men about 3:30 o'clock this morning. Without a word they sprang upon him, knocked him down and handcuffed him with his own handcuffs. Then they went through his pockets and relieved him of his gold watch and chain and $26 in money, then, taking him to the town jail they thrust him into a cell, locked the door and went away.

Soon after this Philip Quimby, night watchman at the electrical power station, heard the sound of the explosion which wrecked the safe in the post office. He walked up the street to investigate and was met by the burglars who levelled their revolvers at him and told him that if he did not go back where he came from they would kill him.

Quimby imediately went back to the power station and on arriving there sounded a general alarm on the fire whistle.

The citizens of the town poured out of their houses and thronged the streets, inquiring of each other the cause of the alarm being sounded. It was not long before they found out, as Charles Howe, the engineer at the Walker Carriage company's shop soon appeared with a thrilling story. He told how he had met four men as he was coming down the street and someone in the party had fired two shots at him, neither taking effect.

A search by the citizens disclosed the fact that the post office had been the scene of an unusually bold band of burglars. The door of the safe was completely blown off and papers and records were scattered all about the office.

It occasioned considerable surprise among the citizens that Policeman Nixon was nowhere to be seen, and accordingly a search for him was begun. Among other places the town jail was visited and the officer was found handcuffed in a cell. Nixon said that the burglars were four in number, their ages ranging from 25 to 31 years. Nixon said that he would know two of them if he should meet them again. He described them as being well dressed and barring their treatment of him, very gentlemanly.

In their hurried departure, the burglars left behind them a horse and carriage which they had obtained from somebody out of town.

The government lost practically nothing through the robbery, but the postmaster, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Smart, had $1,000 in money and valuables taken.

It has been the custom of the postmaster to keep the greater part of the money and stamps in a safe deposit vault, so that the amount of government funds in the office was trifling.

As soon as the townsmen learned of the robbery each one became a self-appointed deputy and a thorough search for the thieves was begun. Surrounding cities and towns were notified and when the first car arrived in Haverhill, two person having a suspicious appearance were placed under arrest.

The Haverhill police this morning began an investigation of the safe blowing at the post office at Merrimac. State Officer Hammond was called into the case and with Captain Shannon and two policemen drove to that town but no clues were secured to the gang, which, it is believed, consists of semi-professional safe-blowers who have have been operating throughout Essex county for the past two weeks.

This morning Herbert C. Upton and Arthur S. Adams of Beverly were detained at the police station. They came to this city from Merrimac on one of the first electrics this morning, but after satisfactorily answering all questions and making known the object of their trip to Merrimac, they were allowed to depart.

Adams is employed by Dr. Stickney of Beverly and with Upton he had driven over the road last evening with a carriage which Dr. Stickney wished repaired by a Merrimac firm. The local police inquired of the Beverly police regarding the two men and as they also had letters disclosing their identity the two men were not held.

State Officer Hammond, after investigating the Merrimac job was of the opinion that te gang was the same which secured $330 in the liquor saloon of McCarthy & Cronin in tis city last Saturday morning.

SHOE
FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

There are a whole lot of young women that wore Spring Heel Boots last year. They won't wear Spring Heel Boots any more. Their mothers with their good judgment will not allow them to wear high heel boots, and that's right. The effect of high heels on young women's ankles would be ruinous. We could foresee all this, so we make a boot for young women with heels ½ in. high and 2½ in. long which support the ankle better than the spring heel and please the young women much better. We make these boots double sole, solid throughout—Vici Kid Lace with Kid tip and with Patent tip. The Box Calf with tips of the same is as good style as any boot we make.

Price $2.00. D and E wide.

GOMPERS' ADDRESS

PRESIDENT SAMUEL GOMPERS, A. F. of L.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—Having on yesterday got the machinery of their meeting well started, the delegates to the 23d annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor today reassembled for deliberation on subjects, the important nature of which has drawn labor leaders to Boston from all sections of the country. President Gompers' address and the reports of Secretary Morrison and Treasurer Lennon were printed yesterday, so that the principal item of routine, as arranged for today, was to be the report of the executive council of the federation. Then it was expected that the many recommendations contained in President Gompers' address would be acted upon by the convention. His emphatic declaration that the great danger which confronts the federation is the internecine strife between affiliated unions over the jurisdiction of trades has been the chief topic of discussion amongst the delegates. It was generally accepted that some decided action on this matter would be taken before many days, if not immediately.

Shortly after 9 o'clock President Gompers called the delegates to order.

FALSE ALARM

Officer Lennon Caught Boy Who Pulled It in

The false alarm fiend has started on his work of giving the fire department runs for nothing. This morning about 10.30 o'clock an alarm from box 225 was sounded and a portion of the department responded. This box is located at the corner of Little and Lewis streets and when the department arrived there was not the least sign of fire, but Police Officer Lennon had a young man about 18 years of age in his custody, having arrested him for ringing in the alarm.

After Chief Hosmer found out that the alarm was a false one he dismissed the department and held a consultation with the young man, who gave his name as Wayne. Wayne claimed that he had nothing to do with ringing in the alarm.

He said that he was with a crowd of fellows when a fellow named Thomas Archibald, residing in Centralville, broke the glass on the box and inserting the key in the lock, opened the box and pulled in the alarm. The whole gang then ran away. Wayne was making himself scarce when Officer Lennon grabbed him.

Wayne was questioned pretty closely and after his name and residence had been taken, Chief Hosmer went to the police station and reported the matter to Supt. Moffatt, who will have the matter investigated. At the present time the chief and the police have only the word of Wayne, who claims that Archibald pulled in the alarm. The officers believe they can convict the crowd with the pulling in of the last two false alarms which were located in Centralville, one having been pulled in from box 67 in Hildreth street, opposite Lilley avenue and the other from box 132 at the pumping station, in West Sixth street.

Wayne, in relating the incident to the police, said that Archibald broke the glass, but another boy who was in the vicinity said that there had been no glass on the box for three or four days. It is pretty certain that there was glass on the box, for there were signs of freshly broken glass near the foot of the pole on which the box is located.

CRUISER PRAIRIE

IS GOING TO THE ISTHMUS OF PANAMA.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—The United States cruiser Prairie left the League Island navy yard yesterday under sealed orders for Newport News, where she will coal. From there it is expected the cruiser will proceed to the Isthmus of Panama. The Prairie has on board a battalion of marines and a full supply of quartermasters stores.

BRASS THIEVES

Arrested by the Police This Morning

The arrest of William McCarty, 22, and Joseph McCrann at an early hour this morning, has brought to light one of the very worst cases of vandalism in the history of this city. All of the big thefts of brass and other metals that have been reported to the police during the last few months are attributed to McCarty, McCrann and Arthur Burnhart, who is now serving sentence at the Concord reformatory.

The wholesale destruction of new machinery, stored at the Coburn Shuttle works, at the corner of Plain and Tanner streets, for the sake of their brass fixings and trimmings was done by the trio now in the hands of the police. McCarty and McCrann admitted everything to the police shortly after their arrest. McCarty was not in some of the big raids made by the other two; in fact McCrann made McCarty his partner in crime after his former associate, Arthur Burnhart, had been sentenced to the reformatory for the time being in order that they might watch his movements and find out who his associates were. The arrests were made by Capt. Kew, Inspectors Donaldson, Laflamme and Mahler and Officers Cawley and Cogger.

POISONING CASE

Dr. Huntress Says Responsibility is Not Placed

The committee inquiring into the poisoning at the State hospital in Tewksbury have come to one conclusion—that atropine tablets, not belladonna in the liquid form, was given to the eleven patients who were poisoned at the hospital a few days ago.

In view of the fact that the committee has agreed upon the form in which the poison was administered and that there were no atropine tablets in the medicinal closet in the ward where the poisoning occurred, the committee finds itself face to face with twin theories—either the tablets were taken from the laboratory, or they were smuggled in from the outside.

Atropine is the active principle of belladonna and an atropine tablet dropped into a glass of water would not create any noticeable discoloration.

In conversation with a Sun reporter this forenoon Dr. Huntress said: "The committee has not yet arrived at any conclusion. There is no one inmate of the institution, in particular, that we suspect and no such statement as appears in the morning papers was given out by any member of the committee.

"The committee cannot afford to disclose the line of investigation. We have not given out any statement and will not until we have concluded the investigation. The committee will not meet today and I do not expect that we will get through with the investigation before another five days, at least."

"Then the committee has not yet placed the responsibility for the poisoning?" said the reporter.

"Certainly not," replied the doctor.

"No one in particular is suspected?"

"No, sir."

"You wouldn't want to go on record as saying that the committee hasn't got its suspicions?" queried the reporter.

"No, I don't know that I would, but to tell our suspicions would mean, of course, a break in the line of our investigation. The main thing for the committee now is to find out where the poison came from; then and not till then will the committee be able to place the responsibility."

DYNAMITE CASES

ACTION BEGUN IN SUPERIOR COURT AT LAWRENCE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LAWRENCE, Nov. 10.—In the superior court yesterday three cases, growing out of the dynamite explosions during the construction of the Middleton & Danvers street railway in North Andover in February, 1902, were placed on trial. The plaintiffs are William D. Houe, Garrett E. Welch and Ernest Lane and the defendants the Boston & Northern street railway, Middleton & Danvers street railway and Loring N. Farnum, contractor. The dynamite was used in excavating for the roadbed, and the explosions were the result of charges of dynamite which had not exploded, being struck by picks. There were three separate explosions, one man being killed outright, two dying from injuries and several being hurt. Welch lost the sight of one eye, Houe had his jaw broken, and his head was cut and bruised.

FROZEN TO DEATH

MAINE MAN PERISHED IN SNOW STORM.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ELLSWORTH, Me., Nov. 10—A searching party yesterday found the body of Ansel P. Goodell in the woods five miles from his home in Plantation Eight, lying on his back at the foot of a tree where he is supposed to have fallen from exhaustion while trying to make his way home through a heavy snow fall Saturday.

Goodell and Fred Witham entered the woods on a deer hunt Saturday, during one of the severest snow storms ever experienced in eastern Maine. They got on the track of two deer, and when the deer separated the hunters parted company.

Later in the day Witham reached Franklin, and when Goodell did not return home Sunday a party was organized to look for him, the search being continued yesterday. Just before noon the body was found partially covered with snow.

MARTIAL LAW

Proclaimed in District of Hasan Kala

By Associated Press to The Sun

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 9—Martial law has been proclaimed in the district of Hasan Kala, province of Erzercum, Asia Minor, and troops have been quartered in all the villages of that district in consequence of the revolutionary movements on the part of the Huntschakists, or members of the Armenian revolutionary society. Two bands of Huntschakists recently crossed the Russo-Turkish frontier with the intention of inciting the inhabitants to rise against the Turkish government; but they were quickly overtaken by troops. One band was exterminated and the second was driven back into Russian territory. The Turkish governor of the district has redistributed among the Kurds the weapons which they recently were compelled to give up.

FITZ. FAVORITE

In His Bout With George Gardner

By Associated Press to The Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 9—Robert Fitzsimmons and George Gardner, who are to meet in this city Nov. 25 to battle for the lightweight championship, are quietly preparing for the encounter.

While Fitzsimmons is favorite at odds of 2 to 1, Gardner is gaining admirers every day. A glance over the latter's record shows that in the last year he has had several important battles with men of his own weight, and he has always come out successful.

It is his admirers' confidence in his ability that has made Fitzsimmons the favorite, and they are willing to back him for any amount of money.

These comparisons of the men will be interesting:

MANY WILLING TO ACCEPT DOCTOR'S OFFER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Dr. A. L. Nelden of 13 East Twenty-ninth street was the busiest physician in the city yesterday. His sudden growth of practice was due to an advertisement in which he offered $5000 for the right ear of a healthy male or female, the only stipulation being that the ear should have perfect curves, a full loop and be 2½ inches long by 1¾ inches wide. Dr. Nelden desires to graft this sort of an ear to the side of the head of a friend of his, who lost an ear in a fight with a grizzly bear in Colorado.

When the doctor opened his office yesterday, he found 30 persons in his waiting room, and the sidewalk and steps leading to his house literally jammed with people who were willing and anxious to part with their right ears for a consideration. In all Dr. Nelden examined more than 300 persons, but of this number only two were selected as desirable subjects, and one of these will be selected for the operation.

KILLED HIMSELF

Minister Rosano Dead in His Bed

By Associated Press to The Sun

NAPLES, Nov. 9.—Minister of Finance Rosano committed suicide by shooting during the night. He was found dead this morning in his room, a revolver at his side.

Signor Rosano was given the position of minister of finance in the new Italian cabinet, the formation of which was only announced last Wednesday.

ATTACKED BY SOCIALISTS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, Nov. 9.—Since the formation of the new cabinet, the socialists have attacked Signor Rosano, the minister of finance, charging him with corruption during his political career, challenging him to disprove the charges and adding that otherwise they would bring the matter up at the opening of the Chamber of Deputies.

It was at first announced from Naples that the minister had been stricken with apoplexy and died while taking a train for Rome. Later it became known that he had committed suicide which caused a sensation.

JOHN MITCHELL

Does Not Expect to Enter Cabinet

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 9—"There isn't a bit of truth in it, so far as I am concerned," was the comment made today by John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers' union, concerning a dispatch from Pittsburg, Pa., published this morning which stated that Mr. Mitchell would become a member of the cabinet of President Roosevelt in the event of his election, to succeed George B. Cortelyou, who was to resume his former position as secretary to the president.

"I saw the story this morning," said he, "but it is all news to me. I know nothing whatever about it. There isn't a bit of truth in it, so far as I am concerned and that is all that there is need of saying about it."

IN HIS SALOON

Liquor Dealer Was Found Murdered

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Nov. 9—With a bullet hole in his forehead and a shattered glass in the floor beside him, Theodore A. Huffmeyer has been found dead in his saloon. The police believe he was killed by some person whom he thought was a friendly customer. William Becker, the bartender, was arrested soon after the crime was discovered, but was quickly released.

Although the cash register had been robbed, the detectives are not inclined to believe that robbery was the motive for the murder. A glass of beer on the bar, a 10-cent piece beside it and a glass and seltzer bottle which the saloon keeper had dropped when the shot was fired, all support the theory that he was shot by a late customer.

Huffmeyer was a brother-in-law of County Commissioner Jacob B. Thelen, and reputed to be wealthy.

EMPEROR WILLIAM

Had Polypous Removed From Larynx

By Associated Press to The Sun

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—Emperor William Saturday underwent an operation for the removal of a polypus from his larynx, which was performed by Prof. Moritz Schmidt and was entirely successful.

The only inconvenience suffered by the patient is that he has been enjoined not to speak until the wound caused by the operation has healed.

The bulletin announcing the result of the operation caused much astonishment, even among court officials, who had no suspicion that the Emperor was suffering from any affection of the throat.

The Emperor does not appear to have known of the growth in his larynx, and, until a few days ago, it is not thought he suffered any discomfort from it.

HELD IN $2000

Lottery Ticket Swindle in Lynn

BOGUS TICKETS SENT ALL OVER COUNTRY

United States Authorities in the Case

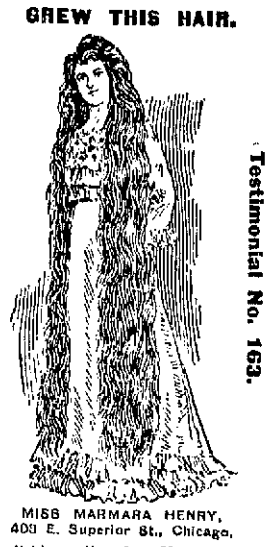

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 9—United States postal authorities will take action on the bogus lottery ticket swindle discovered in Lynn through the raid on the Wells printing office yesterday morning. William F. Wells, who did the printing, was arraigned in police court this morning and pleaded not guilty to a charge of aiding and promoting a lottery. He was held in $500 bonds for hearing on Tuesday. His attorneys, Starr Parson, city solicitor, and W. Bennett Murphy, asked for reduction of bail, but Judge Berry said that the case was one of gigantic fraud and that hundreds of thousands had been swindled. Not only was Wells apparently engaged in printing lottery tickets, itself a violation of the law, but the tickets were bogus, and further the United States postal regulations had been violated, if what he understood of the case proved true.

Further examination of books seized at the printing office show that the tickets were sent to all parts of the United States. Most of the distributing was done directly from Dayton, Ohio, where the tickets were shipped by express, and some was done from New York. Further shipments of tickets were made according to instructions from Dayton, Ohio, where the headquarters of the swindlers appear to be located, although there is reason to believe that some direct shipments to customers were made from the Lynn printing office, as letters have been found from agents asking for more tickets. One Worcester man writes that he has been looking for just such a scheme for years. Among the printed tickets and drawing announcements seized is one of the Honduras lottery printed for the drawing of Nov. 14, announcing the name of the man who drew the capital prize of $30,000 on that date. The ticket that bears the number printed against this name on the announcement was found in an envelope in Wells' desk with other lucky numbers, showing that the prizes were never given out. Wells still insists that nothing was done by him other than to print the tickets and send them by express as ordered from Dayton. The postal authorities have not noticed any large amount of mail for Wells and believe that the express companies did most of the forwarding of slips. Since Wells' arrest the police have received information that indicates another gang has been actively at work in Lynn printing bogus lottery tickets and selling them through New England and there are rumors of still another man engaged as a wholesale agent and doing his own printing on a small hand-press at his own home for a lottery that is never drawn. These things are under investigation.

THE IRISH LEAGUE

Held Rousing Meeting in Barristers Hall

There was a rousing meeting of the United Irish league in Barristers hall last evening, when the need of larger quarters was again made evident by the fact that standing room was at a premium.

The executive committee reported that a larger hall was under consideration and the committee and officers were invited to make an inspection of several halls next Friday night, with the purpose of selecting the one most suitable.

It was announced also that the prizes in the membership contest would be a solid gold ring with the initials U. I. L. in raised letters and a cash prize exchangeable for a similar ring or a gold headed cane in case the prize should be won by a gentleman. The treasurer was appointed to receive the list of new members and make out the membership cards so that no contestant will know what the others are doing.

It was decided to run a ladies' night on Nov. 24th and the following committee was appointed to make all the necessary arrangements:

Mr. McMenamin, Miss Lizzie Honan, Richard Lyons, Michael Nellon, Michael Connolly, Delia Conway, Minnie Clancy, Bridget Gaynor, Julia Reilly, E. J. Gallagher, John Lee, Della Clancy, Katie Conway, Maurice O'Connor, Edmund Costello, Patrick Connelly, Alice Landers, Miss Lynch, Julia Casey, Miss McGowan, Katherine Clancy, Sarah McNichols, Peter McCann, Peter McNamara, Michael Casey, Michael A. Lee, Maria Mullin, Bernard Gagan. The committee will meet Tuesday evening. The sociable will be free to the ladies.

Five new members were admitted and the secretary of the recent sociable reported that the proceeds would amount to $50. A musical and literary program was then carried out, including songs by Mr. Gagan and Miss Honan. Addresses were delivered by E. J. Gallagher, Richard Lyons, Michael Connolly and Mr. Rourke.

Mr. Lyons delivered a very fine address upon the subject of Irish immigration. He gave statistics showing how the country had been depopulated by the stream of immigration to this and other countries since 1847, stating that if it continued for fifty years more the population, now about four millions, would have entirely disappeared. He urged upon the members not to encourage the bone and sinew of the Irish race to leave their homes and perhaps their parents without a friend to aid or protect them in their declining years. He predicted that under the operation of the land act new industries would spring up offering opportunities for profitable employment at home, so there would not be the necessity of leaving the country to obtain a livelihood such as formerly existed. Furthermore he predicted that the cession of home rule in the near future would revive the industries and commerce of Ireland so that the people could live in comfort and abandon the idea of going to other lands.

It was announced that a public meeting will be held before the end of this month with a prominent speaker. The meeting adjourned for one week.

WRESTLING MATCH

HEIDKE OF THIS CITY TO MEET REINECKE OF WORCESTER.

Frank Heidke, the welter weight wrestler of this city, employed at the Harvard brewery, will soon have an opportunity to show his prowess against one of the best men of the country, for he has recently challenged Charles Reinecke, the 145 pound wrestler of Worcester, and Reinecke has accepted the challenge.

Mr. Reinecke will be at The Sun office Tuesday evening, prepared to make a match and desires to meet Mr. Heidke at that time and place. If possible, the match will take place in Lowell and as it has been several years since good wrestling has been seen here, a bout in this city should draw well.

LOWELL MAN FOUND DEAD.

Robert Lewis, a cigarmaker, whose home was said to be in Ellersville, Pa., but who recently had been employed in Lowell, was found dead in a room on High street, Nashua, Friday night. Medical Referee James T. Greeley pronounced death due to heart disease.

DEATHS

HOWARD—Charlotte Straw Howard, wife of William H. Howard, died at her home, 30 Arlington street, yesterday afternoon, of nephritis. Deceased was 55 years of age and leaves beside her husband two sons, Albert S. Howard and William H. Howard, Jr., both of this city; a sister, Mrs. Henry M. Thompson of Lowell, and a brother, Herman F. Straw, of Manchester, N. H. Her only daughter, Sarah C. Howard, died June 13th last, and Mrs. Howard's death was hastened by this bereavement.

McELROY—Allen McElroy, aged 57 years, died yesterday morning at her home, 372 Church street. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Timothy Keefe and Miss Annie McElroy; one son, Bernard; one sister, Mrs. Annie Gormley of Somerville; and two brothers, Patrick McQuade of this city and James of Ireland.

ALLEN—Thomas Allen, aged one year and nine months, died yesterday at the home of his parents, Thomas and Mary, 8 Harrison street, Haverhill. The body will be brought to this city today for burial.

GRAIN—Alfred Frain, infant son of John and Mary Frain, died Saturday afternoon at their home, 44 Butler avenue. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery, Undertaker Molloy in charge.

CRIGG—Charles Crigg, son of Patrick and Mary Crigg, died at his home, 260 Lakeview avenue, last evening, aged 19 years. He was a well-known member of the Lowell Military band and acted as janitor of their room. Besides his parents he leaves three brothers, James, Joseph and Bernard, and one sister, Mrs. Arthur Simpson.

MALLORY—Rev. Norman Clark Mallory, D. D., who was widely known in New England, and in the Central and Western states, died Saturday morning in Warrenville, Ill. While running to catch a train he suffered from an attack of heart failure, and expired in a short time.

Dr. Mallory was the son of a Castile, New York, farmer, and was born Sept. 23, 1835. He attended Madison, now Colgate, University, Hamilton, N. Y., and was graduated in 1861. He was graduated from Hamilton Theological Seminary in the class of 1862. Other members of the class were W. E. Stanton, D. D., now of Florida, and William Newton Clarke, the present president of Hamilton Theological Seminary, and the author of many books, particularly Clarke's Theology, which is a celebrated work. Dr. Mallory married Miss Lydia Anderson of Earlville, N. Y., and settled in Morrisville, N. Y. He afterwards became pastor of the First church, Manchester, N. H., and he accepted the call of the First Baptist church, Lowell, and assumed its pastorate in 1870, remaining for about three years.

Dr. Mallory leaves besides a wife three sons, Hervey Foster Mallory, corresponding secretary of Chicago University; Rollin Elias, a travelling auditor for the National Biscuit Company, with a route from Chicago to Denver, Col., and Dr. Norman Anderson Mallory of Lowell, Mich.; a brother, Rev. O. E. Mallory, pastor of the Dewey Street Baptist church, Worcester; two sisters, one Miss Sarah, for many years a teacher in Spellman Seminary, Atlanta, Georgia, now a resident of Castile, N. Y.; three grandchildren and a host of sorrowing friends. The interment will be at Earlville, N. Y.

SARGENT—Luther H. Sargent, aged 61 years, died Saturday at his home in North Chelmsford. For several years Mr. Sargent's health had been so delicate that he was compelled to withdraw in a large degree from active participation in the affairs of his village and of the town, but in his days of physical vigor he could always be counted upon as an inflexible supporter of all measures designed to promote the highest interests of the community.

When a young man he took an active part in a local temperance organization, and along political lines he was an ardent supporter of the principles of the republican party. One year he represented his town in the lower branch of the legislature.

At the time of his decease he was a member of the board of trustees of the Adams library. For a long term of years he was the valued bookkeeper for Silver & Gay. Mr. Sargent possessed some literary tastes, his nature was singularly refined, and coarseness of thought or expression found no lodgment with him. He was truly a good man and the world has need of more of such refined and honorable characters. He leaves a widow and one child, Mrs. C. Frank Butterfield of North Chelmsford.

GREEN—Mary E. Green, a former resident of Lowell, died today at the home of her mother, Mrs. Catherine Black, 156 Chapel street. Deceased was 53 years of age and formerly sang in St. Peter's church choir. She is survived by her husband, John Green, four sons and four daughters, her mother and two brothers, Edward and William P. Black.

NORTH BILLERICA

A pleasant birthday party was held Saturday evening at the home of Miss Grace Chandler, the occasion being her 14th birthday. The little hostess entertained about forty of her friends during the evening, games and other pastimes being enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Thomas Atkinson and Catherine O'Brien were united in marriage at St. Andrew's church yesterday evening at 5 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Desroches, O. M. I., officiated at the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Annie Doorris, while Dennis Shallow was the best man. After a short wedding tour the happy couple will reside in North Billerica.

A baked bean supper was held at the Baptist church Friday evening. The affair was under the direction of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The social party under the auspices of the Philadean club, which was to have been held on the 19th of this month, has been postponed until Dec. 4.

George Dyson and Thomas Chisholm, who have been visiting in North Billerica, will resume their duties on board the training ship Enterprise tomorrow.

FROM YESTERDAY'S LATE EDITIONS

HE SOLD LIQUOR

John Goddard Told This Story in Police Court

"I bought a gallon of whiskey Saturday night and sold it.

"Because I refused to sell a quart of whiskey for her she called the cop and told him to take me away."

These are samples of a series of damaging statements made by John J. Goddard, who pleaded not guilty to a compiaint charging him with drunkenness.

He was arrested in Mrs. Fitzgerald's boarding house, 29 Bridge street, Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Fitzgerald told the officer that Goddard was drunk and disorderly.

The officer said Godddard was drunk when arrested.

"I'll tell you the whole story if you'll allow me to speak," said Goddard.

"You may speak," said the court," if you wish to be sworn."

Goddard wished to be sworn and he "squared away" on his story.

"I have a brother, your honor, who is very hard of hearing and he's very noisy when drunk. I was trying to keep him quiet, but I couldn't do it. I was not drunk.

"I'll tell you the whole trouble, your honor. I've been selling liquor for Mrs. Fitzgerald right along and—"

"What's that?" said the deputy, with a snap.

"That's the truth," said Goddard. "I suppose I'll convict myself, but I'm going to tell the truth. I sold liquor for her for months. She allowed me 31 a gallon for it."

"How much did you charge for it?" asked the court.

"When the officers raided Mrs. Fitzgerald's place a few days ago," he continued, "they found some whiskey. She wanted me to say it was mine, but I wouldn't do it. I told the officers it belonged to her and I had six half-pints of whiskey in my pockets when I was talking with the officers."

Goddard struck off on another whiskey selling tack, but the court said "That will do," and the illegal vendor, self-confessed, went back to the dock. He was fined $5.

MINISTER WELLES

Found Sermon Subject in Police Court

Rev. T. Clayton Welles, pastor of the Highland Congregational church, was in police court today sizing up the situation, as it were. The reverend gentleman was in search of a sermon subject. He is a friend to his fellowman and in order that he might be better able to assist his fallen brethren he decided to study all phases of their conditions and surroundings, including police court.

Rev. Mr. Welles was visibly distressed over conditions, as he found them in police court and he made up his mind that he would rather continue as a spiritual adviser than to assume the trying office of police court judge.

There was an unusually large number of drunken offenders in court. The dock was filled and there was room for only one more on the side seats supplied for the women.

The minister of the gospel was surprised to discover the evidence of so much drunkenness in a no-license city and he spoke to the police about it.

The police told him that the number of drunken offenders this morning was larger than usual; that the aggregation represented the draggings of the police net since Saturday at noon.

"Monday mornings in a license year," said one of the officers to the minister, "the dock is inadequate to accommodate the prisoners. The crowd this morning is larger than on any morning since the 1st of May, but not any larger than the average daily crowd in a license year."

Another officer said that if the city went license the coming year, the police court dock would have to be enlarged.

The good minister was sorry to witness so much evidence of drunkenness, but was glad to learn that today's police court crowd was exceptionally large and to learn from an officer's own lips the benefits of the no-license system.

There were twenty-six drunks in all.

Two women sentenced to the prison for women at Sherborn appealed. Judge Hadley explained to them that under the new law, if a prisoner at that institution behaved well, she would be released in three months. The women heard what the court had to say, and although they deserved the sentence imposed, they were inclined to be a bit stuffy and left the court room without withdrawing their appeals. A few moments of silent reflection, however, sufficed to convince them that it didn't pay old offenders to be stuffy and they asked to be returned to the court room for the purpose of withdrawing their appeals. The court allowed them to do so.

JUVENILE CASES.

Eli Cayer and William Burns, juveniles, charged with larceny, were ordered in $100 each for their appearance before the court, Friday morning, Nov. 13.

FOR DRUNKENNESS.

James Connors, state farm; Philip Couture, workhouse, one month; Thomas F. Lynn, jail, twenty days; Thomas F. Cassidy, jail, ten days; Kate Coates and Annie Fahey, Sherborn; John Totten, Patrick O'Hare, Thomas J. Lannon, Thomas Canfield and David Welch, $6 each; Ovild Couture, John J. Goddard, Thomas Jackson, George Black, Edwin V. Bird and Patrick O'Neil, $6 each. Four first offenders were fined $2 each and three were released.

RECOUNTS BEGUN

McManmon Gains One in First Precinct

The recount of the votes cast for representative in the 25th district was begun by the registrar of voters in the basement of city hall, this morning.

The four registrars were present and Candidates McManmon and Roarke and a few spectators. Up to 11.30 o'clock only precinct 1 of Ward Four had been recounted.

In this precinct John J. McManmon gained one vote and the three republicans lost one each.

The recount of the vote in the 27th district is due to start at 3 o'clock this afternoon, but it is doubtful if the 25th will be finished by that time. Registration for the city election begins tomorrow evening and the recounts must be finished by that time.

TWO SEIZURES

LIQUOR OFFICERS GOT NEXT TO SOME BEER.

The liquor officers made two seizures between Saturday noon and Sunday night. The first raid was at 129 Salem street, about 6 o'clock Saturday evening. Two cases of beer were found. It is alleged that the place is kept by Denis Landry.

The second raid was at the house of Isidore Dyer, 348 Chelmsford street. The officers visited the house shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night and found two men in the kitchen, drinking beer. The men made their escape, bottles and all, but the officers found more of the contraband stuff, which they took unto themselves.

LOWELL GIRL

Figured in a Sensation in Wakefield

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lake, bride and groom of but four days, were the cause of considerable excitement yesterday afternoon, which drew a crowd of fully 300 people to the corner of Avon and Railroad streets, Wakefield.

Mrs. Lake, who has a room with her husband at the residence of Edward de Anguera, 35 Avon street, left the house shortly before 2 o'clock, to take dinner with her sister, Miss Susie Tillotson, who boards with Mrs. Charles H. Richardson at 49 Avon street. To this arrangement Mr. Lake objected. He followed his wife to Mrs. Richardson's front door, where he was refused admittance. This so enraged him that he would not allow his wife to dine with her sister, and by main force dragged her by the arm back to the street.

Mrs. Lake broke away from her husband several times and tried to join her sister, but Lake forcibly dragged her back to the street each time. So fiercely did husband and wife struggle that most of Mrs. Lake's clothing was torn to shreds.

Chief-of-Police Cate was notified and was quickly upon the scene with Officer Kennedy, and they hustled Mr. and Mrs. Lake into a hack and drove away to avoid the crowd. After hearing both sides of the story, Chief Cate asked Mrs. Lake if she wanted her husband arrested she answered "No." When asked if she was afraid of him and wanted protection she again answered in the negative and wanted to accompany her husband to their room, to which Chief Cate assented.

Hardly had they reached their room, when they received orders from Mrs. De Anguera to leave at once. Without any words, and after Mrs. Lake had changed her torn clothing, they departed, taking the train which left Wakefield at 3.30 o'clock, going toward Boston.

Mrs. Lake, who was formerly Miss Rowena Tillotson, is a very pretty and refined young lady about 22 years of age. She is a Lowell girl and resided on Appleton street in this city. She first met Lake, who is many years her senior, last June at Crescent Beach. He immediately became infatuated with her and was extremely jealous, so much so that, a few days before they were married, he commanded her not to speak to any of the male boarders, Mrs. Richardson's husband included.

A few hours before they were married, she rushed into her sister's room, where several of her friends were assembled, and said: "I cannot marry him." When asked why not, she said "I do not dare do any different." They were married, however, last Wednesday night by the Rev. Hugh A. Health of the Wakefield Baptist church.

Miss Susie Tillotson is prostrated over the affair, and lay in an unconscious state for hours after it happened.

SWEET CHARITY

Movement in Interest of Destitute Children

A meeting was held in Knights of Columbus hall yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the local council, the object being to devise a means of providing for the sustenance, care and education of destitute Catholic children.

His Grace Archbishop Williams has established a bureau of charities for this purpose in Boston, and has appointed a committee of priests to interest the Knights of Columbus in the work so that orphans and other destitute Catholic children in every city of the state may be provided for as far as possible without letting them be sent to state institutions.

Mr. T. C. Lee called to order and introduced James J. Nolan of Boston as presiding officer. Mr. Nolan outlined the scope of the work. Addresses were made by Mgr. Teeling, of Newburyport; Joseph C. Pelletier, Esq., state deputy K. C.; Rev. Fr. Anderson, of Boston; Dr. M. F. Sullivan, of Lawrence; Rev. John J. Shaw, Rev. James A. Walsh and Rev. Fr. Ronan.

The meeting was intended to cover Lawrence, Haverhill and Newburyport, and these cities were represented by delegates.

The object is wholly charitable and charity was the keynote of the addresses. Rev. Fr. Shaw in his address said there can be no true Catholicity without charity and he knew of no greater charity than the care and protection of destitute children. Christ showed his love for little children when he said, Suffer them to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

Rev. Fr. Ronan said he had been working along the lines of this charity for years, as head of an orphanage for girls and hoped that at some future day he would be able to add a department for boys.

Mr. Nolan cited many instances showing that this work had not received the attention that it should have, not from want of a charitable spirit but for lack of organization. He hoped the evil would be remedied so that fewer Catholic children would become public charges with the risk of falling among evil associations.

OWES EVERYBODY

LAWRENCE MAN SENTENCED IN LAWRENCE POLICE COURT.

Benjamin S. Emery was arrested for drunkenness in Lawrence, last Friday, and another complaint charged him with assaulting his wife, Elizabeth Emery. In police court Emery admitted being drunk but pleaded not guilty of the assault. Mrs. Emery and her little girl were in court. Mrs. Emery testified that the defendant came home drunk Thursday, smashed glass in the house and struck her. Policeman Benoit and Policeman Woodcock testified that when they went to the house, the defendant had run away, that they located him near a saloon.

Emery claimed that his wife smashed the glass and cut herself, and screeched and yelled because the defendant would not give her money for beer. He said he never touched her. "Lizzie," he said, "you know I did not strike you, that since I married you, there has been trouble because you get drunk." He wound up by stating that he would never live with her again.

While he told his story she interrupted with, "That's a lie Ben, that's a lie." She stated that he often told her he would do as he liked with her because she was not educated, that he could even murder her. She stated that he whipped her every time he got drunk, that she supported him and bought clothes for him, that he owed everybody in Lowell. He denied that. For drunkenness he was fined $5 and for assault on his wife he was sent to jail for four months. As he went to the cell room he bade his child good-bye with "good-bye Dollie."

GREAT ENTHUSIASM

AT MEETING OF THE MATHEWS YESTERDAY.

Literary work in the Mathew Temperance Institute received a decided impetus yesterday when a special meeting of the society was held in the afternoon and the members turned out in large numbers.

Vice President George L. Hunt presided and unusual interest and enthusiasm was manifested in the matter. The committee appointed to devise ways and means in which to further literary matters in the society, reported that the following dates for the formation of the various classes. Music class, Tuesday evening, Nov. 17; parliamentary class, Friday evening, Nov. 20th; and the reading class, Sunday, Nov. 22.

The success of the various classes is assured from the start, if enthusiasm is to be taken as a criterion. During the meeting several of the members made brief remarks relative to literary work, among them being ex-President John J. Lyons, John A. McKenna, M. H. Harrington, James M. Fagan and others.

Following adjournment a musical and literary program was carried out, with the following numbers: Piano solo, Wm. McAloon; solo, James Fagan; recitation, James B. Coughlin; solo, Mr. George F. O'Dwyer; recitation, John A. McKenna; solo, Thomas Kearney; solo, Walter E. Flaherty; recitation, Frank J. Higgins; solo, Thomas J. Lynch; solo, Wm. Dwyer.

Messrs. William F. McAloon and George F. O'Dwyer officiated as accompanists throughout the exercises. The entertainment was conducted by Eugene Crane, ex-President Thomas H. Gallagher and the society secretary.

This new departure, which has found ready support in the Mathews, of improving the members intellectually is heartily commended on all sides by the many friends of the institute. In the past the Mathews have always been prominent in undertakings of a literary nature, and the revival of the once-famous reading circle is hailed with delight by all interested in the society's work.

ANNUAL HUNT.

The 20th annual grand Tyngsboro hunt was held Saturday afternoon. The contest was between teams captained by Walter T. Perham and Charles Sherburne. The latter's side won, the scores being 39,500 to 20,750. The makeup of the teams follows: Captain Walter T. Perham's team: Walter T. Perham, captain; P. A. Clirkin, Harry Davis, William Ayer, Austin Davis, George W. Stevens, J. F. Spaulding, Lorenzo Ayer, Charles E. Hunter, James Gotham, W. P. Butterfield, Ernest Bridgeford, C. P. Littlefield, P. O. Kable, Charles Carkin, A. R. Brown, Edward Littlehale, George W. Brown and Walter H. Brown; Captain Sherburne's team: Charles Sherburne, captain; R. H. Lawrence, G. B. Perham, S. Cowing, E. A. Perham, O. S. Cummings, Edward Hessey, J. Bowers, A. R. Farshall, G. W. Sherburne, H. C. Hodgman, J. H. Brown, L. C. Woodward, L. R. Perham, S. Roberts, Vaimos Stone, Joseph Stone, Harry G. Spaulding, Charles H. Brown.

As a result of the contest the losers will have to stand the expense of the ball and supper which will be held on Wednesday. The committee in charge of Saturday's hunt was as follows: O. L. Wright, A. A. Flint, J. B. Butterfield.

FUNERALS

HAND—The funeral of Henry V. B. Hand took place Saturday afternoon from his late home, 172 Grand street, Rev. R. A. Greene officiating. The bearers were Orville Clifford, Wm. Bryant, S. Mitchell, Charles Tilton. A delegation from the Odd Fellows' fraternity was in attendance. Interment in the Edson cemetery. Undertaker Weinbeck in charge.

COSTELLO—The funeral of William B. Costello took place yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from his late home, 42 Stanley street. There were a number of beautiful floral pieces, including one inscribed, "Our Papa," from children of the deceased. The bearers were Capt. Albert Gibson, John Kennedy, John Warburton, James Letterell, Michael Gilligan and Samuel O'Neil. Thomas Boyle had charge of arrangements at the house. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery. Undertaker Davey in charge.

WALSH—The remains of late Mary A. Walsh were consigned to their final resting place in the family lot in St. Augustine's cemetery in Andover this morning. The funeral took place from her late home, 15 Grove street at 8.30 o'clock and was largely attended by friends and relatives of the deceased, including many people from out of town. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church in Suffolk street where a high mass of requiem was celebrated at nine o'clock by Rev. James A. Walsh. The choir under the direction of Mr. Fred G. Bond sang the Gregorian mass and during the service several appropriate solos were rendered by different members of the choir.

The remains of the deceased reposed in a handsome black broadcloth casket with silver trimmings and it was surrounded with a wealth of floral tributes, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends and acquaintances.

The bearers were Messrs. Kennedy, Duffy, Carney, and Keuney. The interment was in St. Augustine's cemetery, Andover, and was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

McCLUSKEY—All that was mortal of the late John A. McCluskey was consigned to its final resting place in the Catholic cemetery this morning. The funeral took place from his late home, 204 West Manchester street at 8.30 o'clock and proceeded to the Sacred Heart church, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated at nine o'clock by Rev. Fr. Treache, O. M. I. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Thomas H. Muldoon sang the Gregorian mass and during the service several appropriate selections were rendered by different members of the choir.

The bearers were Messrs. Thomas Ledwidge, John J. Daly, William Bowen, Henry Conley, James Rooney, and Julian Mercere. Present at the funeral was the following delegation from North Billerica Council, Royal Arcanum: John Conley, John Meehan, John J. Conley and Thomas Stedden. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the last sad rites of the church were solemnized by Rev. Fr. Treache, O. M. I. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

DOYLE—The funeral of the late Peter Doyle took place this morning at 9.30 from his home, No. 18 Shafer street, and was largely attended by sorrowing friends and relatives. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church where a mass of requiem was held at 9.45, Rev. Timothy Callahan officiating. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Bond, rendered Schmidt's mass, and at the offertory the Pie Jesu was sung by Mr. Bond. At the conclusion Miss Ethel Ranger rendered "Over the Stars There is Rest." As the remains were born from the church the De Profundis was sung by the full choir, Mr. M. J. Johnson, presiding at the organ. The bearers were John Callahan, Edmund Kelly, Patrick Hendriken, Michael O'Brien, all of Boston, and Edward Barrett and Wm. Brogan of this city. Among the floral offerings were a large spray of chrysanthemums from the Whitney family, also a beautiful spray from Miss Kate McEwin. The interment was in the family burial lot at New Calvary cemetery, Boston, under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

CADY—The funeral of Ransom B. Cady, who died in Roxbury, took place Saturday afternoon at the chapel in the Lowell cemetery, and Rev. R. A. Greene officiated. Undertaker Young had charge of the funeral and burial was in the Lowell cemetery.

TICE—The funeral of Samuel C. Tice took place yesterday afternoon at his home, 98 Cosgrove street, and Rev. Mr. Sayers, formerly of the Blossom Street church, was the officiating clergyman. The burial was in the Edson cemetery, Undertaker Young in charge. The bearers were Messrs. H. Hunter, H. Stoffer, S. Mealey, H. Wright, C. Corey and J. Dilsworth. Delegations from the Pawtucket lodge of Masons and the Fraternal Helpers were present at the funeral.

QUIRK—The funeral of Bertha Quirk, aged one year and five months, child of John and Edith, who died in Newton, took place Saturday upon the arrival of the body at the Northern station at 3 o'clock. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery, Undertaker Savage in charge.

WORMS

"I write to let you know how I appreciate your Cascarets. I commenced taking them last November and took two ten cent boxes and passed a tape-worm 16 ft. long. Then I commenced taking them again and Wednesday, April 8th, I passed another tape worm 20 ft. long and over a thousand small worms. Previous to my taking Cascarets I didn't know I had a tape-worm. I always had a small appetite."

ROMOC

"No matter how dainty food may be or how carefully prepared, it looks simply repugnant to you, does it not?" says the Romoc man. "That dull pain in your stomach caused you to simply loathe the sight of food—you cannot eat and yet you want something and don't know what. When you do eat, you suffer tortures afterwards. Do you realize what will happen to you if you continue in this way. Your body will become depleted and any sickness is apt to take hold of you. If you escape such evils, you will do as lots of other dyspeptics have done—die of exhaustion. Or perhaps the irritation of your stomach will become so bad that gastric ulcers will form and hemorrhages from the stomach will ensue. You positively can avoid all these troubles by taking Romoc. It is Nature's own remedy. It contains no injurious drugs nor a particle of alcohol. Romoc builds up your entire system. It will make your stomach strong and will help it to digest the food eaten and what is best of all create a healthy, natural appetite. F. OF L. CONVENTION

Annual Meeting Held in Faneuil Hall

Gompers and Mitchell Among the Delegates in Attendance—Pres. Driscoll Welcomed the Delegates to Boston—Gompers Says a New Battle is Waging for the Trade Union Movement

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Assembling for a convention, which, according to labor leaders, is likely to be the most important meeting ever held in the United States, for the consideration of problems arising out of the relation of capital and labor, almost 500 delegates gathered in Faneuil hall today for the first sitting of the twenty-third annual deliberation of the American Federation of Labor. All the delegates, including Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell, the president of the United Mine Workers, had arrived yesterday and everything was in readiness for the opening of the convention at 10 o'clock this morning. The subjects to be taken up at the sessions, had not been announced, but from the discussion of the delegates, since their arrival, it seemed probable that the convention would pass upon whether the federation affiliated members would ally themselves with any political party, the socialist party for instance. Other topics mentioned have been trade jurisdiction, industrialism as distinct from trade autonomy, child-labor and the means of its prevention and the eight-hour day. Great interest prevailed also as to what action, if any, would be taken on the "Open shop issue" with President Roosevelt in connection with the Miller case at Washington.

President Gompers called the convention to order, and after the credentials had been examined, President D. D. Driscoll of the Central Labor Union of Boston, extended a cordial welcome to the visiting delegates.

After extending the greeting of Boston, President Driscoll made reference to the State Board of Arbitration, saying that the workingmen were always ready to abide by the decision of this tribunal. "We have many good state laws, but want better," he continued. "We mean to have the child-labor law lived up to."

In accepting the gift, Mr. Gompers touched upon many phases of the labor movement. He said that a new battle was waging for the trade union movement. "It is a fight," he said, "for the people in the cause of justice." He asked that the American Federation of Labor be judged upon its merits and upon what it accomplishes and that all preconceived notions be abandoned.

Chairman Owen Miller, from the committee on credentials, then reported. The committee reported credentials from representatives of 101 international unions, 123 central labor unions and 110 locals and federal labor unions, besides delegates from the state branch. Credentials also were received from the fraternal delegates.

John Grady and William Mullen, representing the United Trades congress of England; John Simpson, of the Canadian Trades congress, and Harrietta A. Keyser of New York city, representing the church association for the advancement of the interests of labor.

Protests were filed against delegations from the bakers' and confectioners' international union, the central labor union of Knoxville, Tenn., and the central labor union of Burlington, Vt.

Resolutions were adopted to the effect that the delegates while in Boston purchase newspapers from the Boston news boys' union.

This was followed by a flood of motions bearing upon union printing, smoking union cigars and wearing union-made clothing. One delegate suggested that if there were to be any entertainments furnished to the delegates that the talent be actors and actresses who are members of unions. All of these were kuickly disposed of by the chairman, who declared that they were entirely out of order.

The nature of the motions and the manner in which they were presented occasioned considerable merriment.

Before adjournment, at noon, President Gompers announced the appointment of President Henry McMahon of the Boston Typographical union, No. 13, as assistant secretary of the convention, and Thomas J. Minihan of the team drivers' union and Andrew J. Lambert of the hoisting and portable engineers' union as sergeant at arms and messengers.

CARDINALS MET

First Consistory of New Pontificate

NO AMERICAN CARDINAL WAS APPOINTED

Pope Wore Full Pontifical Robes

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, Nov. 9—The first secret consistory of the new pontificate was held today. No American cardinal was appointed. Several appointments of bishops and archbishops were made, including that of the Rev. J. J. Harty, as archbishop of Manila, Philippine Islands, who as an exceptional privilege, received the pallium at an extra consistory when he came to Rome for consecration.

The Rev. Pedro Gonzales y Estrada was appointed bishop of Havana and the Right Rev. Maximilian Reynoso y delCoral, formerly bishop of Tulancingo ,Mexico, was appointed titular bishop of Norcesarea.

The meeting of the cardinals was simple and private. Only the pope and the cardinals were present today. The latter gathered early in an ante-chamber near the hall of the consistory, whence they passed into the latter place, the many papal guards in attendance rendered them sovereign honors.

The pontiff walked from his apartment accompanied only by the personages in immediate attendance on him. As he entered the hall of the consistory, the picture produced was very striking, the red gowns of the cardinals and the white robes and gold and red mantle of the pope giving a pleasing coloring to the scene. He wore the full pontifical robes, which are only used at a secret consistory once in each pontificate, namely, for the first one. When the pope had seated himself on the throne, all those present, one by one, paid him homage, after which the master of ceremonies, called upon all but those authorized to take part in the consistory to leave the hall, which was done.

When the doors had been closed and a guard had been stationed before them outside, Pope Pius intoned a prayer. Cardinal Oreglia, dean of the sacred college, then thanked the pontiff for having put aside his private preferences and accepted the burden of the church. The pope replied in an allocution which received universal approbation.

Then the appointment of the two cardinals proceeded, Mgr. Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, and Mgr. Callegari, archbishop Padua, being announced by the pope who said in Latin:

"What have you to say?"

This was all, so every doubt was laid at rest for the present regarding the appointment of another American cardinal.

The confirmation of the appointment of Rev. J. J. Harty as archbishop of Manila and of the Rev. Pedro Gonzales y Estrada as bishop of Havana and the Rt. Rev. Maximilian Reynoso y del Coral as titular bishop of Nocesarea following.

The pope then bestowed the apostolic blessing after which he returned to his apartments.

GUTTED BY FIRE

LIVELY BLAZE IN BLOCK IN BELFAST, MAINE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BELFAST, Maine, Nov. 9—A three-story wooden block owned by F. B. Knowlton, was badly gutted today by a fire which originated in the third story occupied by a young men's club. The loss was nearly $10,000, partially covered by insurance. The losses were estimated as follows:

On the building about $2500; F. B. Knowlton, dry goods on the first floor, $2500; Stephenson & Sargent, confectioners, first floor, $2500; W. H. Clifford & Son, hair dressers, second floor, $250; Miss Ethel Webster, tenement, second floor, small; Dr. Fowler, tenement, third floor, small.

The Windsor hotel was saved only by the absence of wind.

SEVERELY INJURED

FIVE PERSONS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Five persons have been severely injured by an automobile accident on Mount Arlington Hill, near Hoptalong. They were Mr. and Mrs. James W. Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. William Blanchard and Charles W. Hoffman of Brooklyn.

While rounding one of the sharp curves Rankin, who was driving the machine, lost control. The automobile ran into a horse and carriage coming down the hill. The carriage was wrecked and Mr. and Mrs. Rankin on the front seat of the machine were caught in the debris. Their injuries will not prove fatal, however. The others in the party leaped from the machine when they saw that a collision was inevitable and were badly bruised.

GAS EXPLODED

Occupants of Sirk Block Got a Scare

A gas explosion that shook a portion of Salman Sirk's new block at the corner of George and French streets, tearing down ceilings and forcing walls, occurred about 10.30 this forenoon. The shock was plainly felt in Bridge street, and although there were many narrow escapes, none of the occupants of the block were injured.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. The odor of gas was quite strong in the different tenements in that portion of the block during the morning but no leak was found.

The explosion occurred in a tenement occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Tibbets. Mr. Tibbets is manager of the Boston Theatre, opposite city hall.

Walter W. Williams, an electrician in the employ of Derby & Morse, was engaged in wiring the tenement. He was connecting the wires about a gas jet when the explosion occurred.

To The Sun reporter Williamson said it was very evident that the gas was between the floors, but he couldn't account for it; that is he couldn't account for the fire necessary to do the business. He examined the meter and found that it was all right and an examination of the gas jets showed that they were all turned off.

The ceiling over Williamson's head came down but he escaped unhurt. Two ceilings on the floor above fell and two side walls on the same floor were blown out. People in the block were badly frightened. One woman was prevented from jumping out of a window by the timely arrival of a male tenant.

As soon as the explosion occurred men were set to work to ascertain the cause and plasterers were also engaged to rebuild the ceilings. No definite conclusion as to the cause of the explosion was arrived at up to the time of writing.

McMANMON GAINED TWO IN 25TH DISTRICT

Rourke Gained 11 in Ward Seven

The recount of the votes cast for representative in the 25th distdict, wards 4, 7 and 8, which was begun by the registrars of voters this morning, was completed late this afternoon, and the recount of the votes cast in the 25th district begun.

At the time of going to press in this this edition the registrars had one more precinct to count in ward eight and with eight precincts out of nine counted the vote was about the same as the original count in the case of the three winners, though McMannmon had a gain of two votes.

The only remarkable changes noted were in ward seven where in one block of 60 ballots Ripley gained 10 votes while another block he lost 10 votes. On still another block Roarke gained 11 votes.

No material changes are looked for in either district.

ARMED OFFICERS

Searching for a Gang of Hold-Up Men

By Associated Press to The Sun

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 9—The Rock Island railroad officials last night sent out a special train bearing armed officers and bloodhounds to Dexter, Iowa, in the hope of capturing a gang of hold-up men.

The officers spent the night in the woods between Earlham and Dexter, but had no encounter with any robbers. A section man walking along the track, however, shot at a man whom he saw slouching along the right of way, but he escaped in the timber.

About ten days ago the general officers in Chicago received a letter directing the officers to see that $10,000 was thrown off No. 6, the Denver flyer, somewhere in Iowa Saturday night. Supt. Slifer came to Des Moines and it was decided to make the appearance of acceding to the demand of the hold-up men.

A special was made up at Council Bluffs to follow No. 6 about 10 minutes and it bore armed men and bloodhounds.

The engineer of No. 6 was given the money to throw from his engine at the given signal, the explosion of three torpedoes under his side of the machine. The torpedoes were not exploded. It was rumored today, however, that No. 5 preceding No. 6 half an hour had exploded the torpedoes. This or some other new information resulting in organizing a special force of armed officers who went out on a special from Des Moines to Dexter and then patrolled the right f way between Earlham and that town all night. Nothing developed, however, and the men remained in the timber watching for the criminals in vain.

The officials of the road will not discuss the matter. No. 6, wich passed through here to the east at 11.30 o'clock bore a large number of armed men prepared for an attempted hold-up.

HE WANTS HANNA

President Asked Him to Manage the Campaign

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A conference of significance and importance was held at the executive offices today between President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna of Ohio.

The president formally requested Senator Hanna to retain the chairmanship of the republican national committee and to conduct the campaign of next year. In the course of the conference, the subject of the presidential campaign was considered briefly, not only the chairmanship of the national committee being involved, but also Mr. Hanna's reported aspirations to the presidency. Senator Hanna, it is understood, indicated his desire to retire from the work of active political management. The president, however, urged him in strong terms to continue in the political harness, pointing out to him that as the head of the organization he would inspire great confidence throughout the country.

No definite conclusion was reached, the understanding being that further and more extended conference would be held in the near future.

When Senator Hanna left the White House, he declined to discuss the subject of the national chairmanship or comment on the reports that he might be a candidate for the presidency. From other sources, it is learned that the senator has indicated that he will not be a presidential candidate and has let it be understood that he means what he says.

FATALLY SHOT

Excited Dog Caused Arthur Keller's Death

By Associated Press to The Sun

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me., Nov. 9—An excited dog caused the death of Arthur Keller, of Dorchester, Mass., who together with his brother-in-law, George Ray, also of Dorchester, was gunning at Walker's Point, nearly two miles from Kennebunkport.

Keller and Ray were running after game when Ray suddenly stopped to fire. Just as he was about to discharge his gun, a dog which the men had with them, jumped, knocking the gun from Ray's hands and changing the course of the contents toward Keller who received a full charge of buckshot in the right side.

Keller was removed to the nearest house by his brother-in-law, and although medical assistance was quickly obtained, the man lived only half an hour.

STRONG DENIAL

President Has Not Conferred With Pope

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Some annoyance has been caused to the president by the publication of stories to the effect that he had been in communication with the pope with respect to the creation of another American cardinal and it was stated today by authority "that the president has made no request upon the pope for the appointment of an American cardinal either directly or indirectly in any way, shape or manner." It is also declared to be untrue, as has been stated, that any relative of the president has visited the vatican as his representative in church affairs. It is furthermore stated that there is "no foundation for the story that the president has requested that a cardinal be sent to attend the world's fair. No such suggestion has been made by the government of the United States and it has invited no one, of royal blood or otherwise, to attend the fair."

DR. LOUGEST

HAS HAD MORE EXPERIENCE IN THE TREATMENT, AND MADE MORE GREAT CURES OF DIFFICULT, PROTRACTED AND CHRONIC DISEASES AND WEAKNESSES OF MEN THAN ANY OTHER LIVING SPECIALIST.

Dr. Lougest's treatment has been tested on more than twenty thousand (20,000) young, middle-aged and old men, who, as the results of errors or excesses, were tortured by the woes of nervous debility or decay. It has never yet failed, even in the worst cases, to bring back manly power, remove every trace or symptom of weakness, build up the physical and mental health, and prepare men anew for the duties and pleasures of both married and single life.

Lost manhood, seminal weakness, effects of youthful indiscretion, nervous debility, pimples and blotches, hair falling out, loss of memory and energy, impotence, rheumatic pains, discharges and all private diseases quickly and permanently cured by an original and never-failing treatment. Blood poison, ulcers, stricture, varicocele and diseases of the kidneys, bladder and blood cured in the shortest possible time, without the use of mercury or hindrance from business. Dr. Lougest's treatment for the complete cure of stricture and all unnatural discharges is the most wonderful of modern times. No matter how long the discharge has continued nor how many self-styled specialists have failed to relieve, let alone cure, Dr. Lougest will positively guarantee to stop the discharge entirely within (3) three days by means of his New Method Treatment. This treatment removes stricture, positively without pain, detention from business or the use of obnoxious or injurious medicines. No Experiment! No Failure! Nine-tenths of all the long standing discharges, strictures and weaknesses of men are caused by the experiments of the many inexperienced and self-styled specialists of the present day.

Many a man who has been fooled by the "Pay When Cured" racket, knows that it is the last and only resort of a dying out pretender to get a patient into his clutches. Beware of such schemes. Don't be deceived by misleading statements such as these seemingly charitable offers.

Don't entrust your lives to anyone not qualified by years of experience to treat you. Don't even step your foot across the threshold of an office run by inexperienced, irresponsible, illiterate pretenders. You had better save your money and let the disease take its own course than be practised and experimented upon and in the end lose both your money and life.

Dr. Lougest's offices occupy the entire building of five floors at 313 Columbus avenue, and they are supplied with every known means and device that science, skill, knowledge and money can provide that will aid in determining the exact location and nature of these diseases and effecting their cure promptly and thoroughly, and by the same sure methods as are used in the most celebrated Paris hospitals, which invariably result in

ABSOLUTE CERTAINTY OF CURE.

ARMENIAN PLOT

New England Merchant is Involved

EVIDENCE IS IN HANDS OF POLICE

Circular That Called for Volunteers

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Through tellers who have reached this country, further details have come to light of the Armenian plots which have resulted recently in three murders and one suicide in London of men prominent in the Huntchakist society. It is said, secret service agents and the police of several large cities in this country, are now at work and that evidence in their hands involves a prominent New England merchant and a resident of this city, said to be widely known in Armenian circles.

Letters bearing on the plot have just been received in this country from Sagatel Sagouni, the first victim of assassin in London. These letters Sagouni had intercepted and mailed to agents on this side of the Atlantic before he fell. They showed in detail the plans for disposing of the leaders in his faction of the Armenian society. They were addressed to the Armenian central committee in London, but were intended only for the eyes of one man, a trusted agent. How they fell into Sagouni's hands is not known. The evidence they contained is supplemented by a circular bearing the official seal of a secret society in Chicago and signed by its officers which has been secured in Salem, Mass. The circular calls for volunteers to take up the work of killing those opposed to the society, who are denounced as cowards. It is said the distribution of similar circulars in Boston, Providence and New York resulted in the volunteering of 50 men who were sent at once to Europe on their deadly mission. They were given orders, it is said, to act under the instructions of a central committee in [illegible]

HELD IN $10,000

Boy is Charged With Manslaughter

By Associated Press to The Sun

TAUNTON, Mass., Nov. 9—Eleven year old Walter Bassett, who was arrested Saturday charged with shooting Peter Clark, another little fellow of the same age, today was held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. Bail was placed at $10,000. The sureties were furnished and the boy was released from custody. When Bassett appeared in court today, his attorney waived examination and the order holding him for the grand jury was immediately issued.

Bassett is alleged to have shot the Clark boy with a shotgun Saturday afternoon, when the latter insisted upon crossing a piece of land near the Bassett home. The full charge struck Clark in the head and he died almost instantly. The Bassett boy was immediately arrested, but after a preliminary hearing was released on $10,000 to appear in court today.

TEACHER REMOVED

WAS SUSPENDED, BUT SHE GOT HER MONEY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BENNINGTON, Vt., Nov. 9—Miss Rose Murray secured a judgment against the town Saturday for $56 and costs for wages. She was a teacher in a district school when smallpox broke out, had never been vaccinated, and was suspended for that reason. The case will be appealed.

MINERS SATISFIED

THEY WILL CONTINUE AT THEIR WORK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SALT LAKE, Utah, Nov. 9—That the coal miners in Utah are unfavorable to the general strike movement inaugurated in Colorado is indicated by specials from several coal mining camps.

According to the reports received the men are satisfied with the present scale of wages and will continue to work, disregarding the orders to strike. There are about 300 men employed in the coal mines of the state.

58th CONGRESS

The Extraordinary Session Was Opened Today

Cannon Elected Speaker of the House—Hanna and Gorman Received Tremendous Ovations in the Senate

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The fifty-eighth congress convened in extraordinary session at noon today in accordance with the proclamation of President Roosevelt, for the purpose of enacting legislation necessary to make effective the Cuban reciprocity treaty. The day was devoted simply to personal greetings and organization.

The house assembled the largest membership in its history and the scene before the gavel fell in that body was one of animation, both on the floor, in the cloak rooms and in the lobbies and corridors.

The day was crisp and bright and the capitol building presented the appearance of a new structure with its coat of white paint and complete renovation within.

Crowds of eager spectators, both men and women, thronged the corridors and rotunda of the capital early in the day and the galleries to which admission was had by card only were taxed to their capacity long before the hour for assembling arrived. Many high officials of the government left their desks at the departments to witness the opening of the session and greet their legislative friends. Many strangers in Washington had their first glimpse of congress while the capitol was the mecca of the Washingtonians.

Committee rooms, which had been in the hands of renovators during the recess, were thrown open and many informal receptions were held by popular chairmen.

With the speakership question out of the way in the universal endorsement of Mr. Cannon, there was nothing to worry the legislative mind and the day was given up to the sentiment of the occasion.

Many handsome floral tributes to members were borne in unusual profusion to the lobbies back of both the senate and house chambers to be placed later on the desks of the members.

The new members of the house received their initiation to house employees and doorkeepers and many were turned back for identification because of their slight hesitation on presenting themselves for admission. Such incidents contributed to the general lively animation and good humor of the occasion.

GALLERIES CROWDED

GREAT INTEREST IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—The House of Representatives convened at noon today in extraordinary session. Today's session was full of interest to the spectators, likewise to the new members, but to the veteran it was but a routine proceeding.

The fact that a speaker was to be elected and that this was the first session of a new congress, added to the interest that usually attaches to an opening day. Long before the hour of noon, when the gavel fell, the galleries were filled, the ladies being largely in the majority. Many more were disappointed, holders of cards of admission even being among this number. Among the spectators were public officers, diplomats and a great many out of town visitors.

The floral display in the speaker's lobby was never more elaborate than today. The popular members on both sides were remembered by friends in lavish fashion.

The bright colors of smart gowns, the flowers and other scenes usual on a first day lent picturesqueness to the occasion. During the hour or two prior to the opening, members kept coming in.

The leaders of both sides were early on the scene. Old friends and associates met and chatted. New members were introduced to their colleagues.

First of importance among today's events was the election of Mr. Cannon as speaker, next was the swearing in of the members and the drawing for seats.

Many familiar figures of the last congress were missed today, some retiring voluntarily, others failing of re-election and a few going to the senate. Galusha A. Grow, the veteran member from Pennsylvania and former speaker, was among the absent ones.

The democrats rallied around a new leader, Mr. Williams, (Miss.), having been chosen to take the place of Mr. Richardson (Tenn.), who retired from the leadership of the minority.

At a quarter to twelve the floor was cleared of all save those entitled to remain within the law-making chamber, but the humming was not lessened to a perceptible degree.

Promptly at noon Clerk of the House Alexander McDowell dropped the gavel, formally calling the house to order.

Prayer by the chaplain followed.

After a call of the roll by states, the clerk called for nominations for speaker.

Mr. Hay (Va.) chairman of the democratic caucus, nominated Mr. Williams (Miss.).

No speeches were made in making the nominations.

The roll then was called.

The mention of Mr. Cannon's name was received with applause on the republican side and that of Mr. Williams as the minority candidate was likewise greeted on the democratic side. The red carnation was much in evidence on the republican side, fully one-third of the members of the majority side wearing the blossom on coat lapels.

It was just seven minutes of one when Clerk McDowell announced the vote, showing Mr. Cannon to have received 198 votes and Mr. Williams 166, Mr. Cannon being declared duly elected as speaker of the house.

Mr. Williams (Miss.) and Mr. Grosvenor (Ohio) were appointed a committee to notify Mr. Cannon of his election and to escort him to the speaker's chair.

As Mr. Cannon entered the north doors with Mr. Williams and Mr. Grosvenor, the applause beginning with a ripple, grew in its intensity as he approached the speaker's desk. Members of both sides of the chamber arose and joined in the ovation to the newly elected speaker.

Mr. Williams introduced Mr. Cannon, saying:

"Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:—It is a high honor to present a speaker of the House of Representatives—the greatest parliamentary body on the surface of the earth. It is an especial honor to present this house this particular speaker. I think the majority have selected their best type and I am satisfied the minority will be given a full measure of fairness and impartiality from him. I have the honor to present your speaker, the Hon. Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois." (Continued applause on both sides of the chamber.)

Mr. Cannon, in a brief response, said: "Gentlemen, members of the House—I appreciate the honor you confer in choosing me as the presiding officer of the House. After 28 years of service in the House such an expression of your confidence touches me profoundly. I thank you. In the performance of the duties of the office I bring to the service a sincere desire to acquit myself with courtesy, efficiency and fairness.

"If I err, it will be an error of the head, not of the heart.

"The contests on the floor touching policies that abound in partisanship will be spirited and earnest. The majority determines. I am quite sure that in the consideration of the people, however sharp, may be our differences, we will not forget that courtesy and demeanor which should always obtain between manly opponents, who honestly differ.

"In the performance of the duties of speaker, I bespeak the kindly co-operation of each member of the house."

Mr. Bingham (Pennsylvania) called "That Father of the House," bestowed by reason of his having seen the longest continuous service, administered the oath to the speaker.

The members were then sworn in by Mr. Cannon.

Following this a resolution was adopted re-electing the old officers of the house—Alexander McDowell, clerk; Henry Casson, sergeant-at-arms; Frank H. Lyon, doorkeeper; J. C. McElroy, postmaster; and Rev. H. N. Couden, chaplain.

By resolution, the speaker appointed a committee to notify the president and the senate of the election of Mr. Cannon as speaker and Mr. McDowell as clerk. Another resolution was adopted for the appointment of a committee to join a committee from the senate to notify the president of the presence of a quorum in the two houses and that they were ready to receive any communication he may have to make.

Mr. Dalzell offered the resolution adopted in the republican caucus providing that the rules of the 57th congress be adopted for the 58th with the addition that the committee on industrial arts and expositions be made a standing committee and increased to 15 members.

Mr. Williams (Miss.) said the minority should have a larger representation on the committees than now provided, saying that when their representation was reduced it was explained to have been due to the fact that the democratic membership had been decreased. Now, he said, it has been increased and he hoped the majority would grant the request.

Mr. DeArmond (Mo.) said the rules should not be adopted for the entire congress, but only for the extra session. Then he said they could be tested. He also spoke for an increased representation of the minority on committees.

Mr. Dalzell, replying, said that if there was merit in the request of the minority, it no doubt would be recognized. He said the rules were the same that were in force in the fifty-first congress and substantially the same as those in force in the 52d and 53d, when the democrats were in the majority.

On demand, the ayes and noes were called, the resolution being agreed to by a vote of 191 to 165.

The daily hour of meeting was fixed at 12 o'clock noon.

The biennial lottery for seats was begun at 2 o'clock. Unanimous consent was granted with applause that Mr. Bingham (Pennsylvania), the oldest republican member in point of service, might choose his seat before the drawing began.

FLOOD OF BILLS

WAS PRESENTED IN THE HOUSE TODAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Several hundred bills were introduced in the house today.

A statehood bill for New Mexico, introduced by Delegate Rodey has the distinction of being the first house bill of the 58th congress and will be No. 1. Representative Bartholdt (Mo.) sought this distinction for a bill restoring the army canteen, but was compelled to take second place and this bill is No. 2. A bill giving congress the right to regulate trusts was introduced by Representative Palmer (rep., Pa.) Representative Sibley (rep., Pa.) introduced a bill to increase the pay of rural free delivery carriers.

Representative Greene (rep., Mass.) introduced a bill to induce favorable employment of American ships. Representative Sulzer (dem., N. Y.) introduced bills providing a territorial form of government for Alaska; to abolish granting rebates on exports and imports carried in American ships; an eight-hour bill and bills for the erection of monuments in Washington to Samuel J. Tilden and Ames J. Cummings. Representative Shafroth (rep., Col.) introduced bills establishing the metric system of weights and measures.

GORMAN AND HANNA

RECEIVED WITH LOUD CHEERS IN THE SENATE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—With galleries crowded, with the chamber a mass of elaborate floral tributes and nearly every senator in his seat, the gavel of President pro tem Frye sounded at noon today, calling the senate together in the second extraordinary session of the 58th congress. The special session of the senate following the adjournment last spring of the 57th congress eliminated much of the routine work which otherwise would have been performed today. New senators had gone through the formality of taking the oath of office, seats had been assigned and excepting appointments to committee vacancies, all functions of organization had been complied with.

For more than two hours before the senate was called to order the galleries were filling up with early arrivals.

Senator Hanna's pronounced victory in the Ohio election won for him what was one of the most pretentious floral designs ever seen in the senate, a shield three and a half by four and a half feet, of blue immortelles, in which was wrought out of California grasses, ribbons, and red, white and blue immortelles, the design of the American eagle identical with that on a silver quarter of a dollar. The shield was surmounted with a gorgeous cluster of American Beauty roses. The offering bore the inscription:

Fully as many or more smaller tributes were banked around Senator Hanna's desk.

Senator Gorman's triumph in the Maryland election was recognized by big floral pieces, a handsome wreath more than two feet in diameter, with a crossed cluster of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums. Chrysanthemums were used in abundance and there was hardly a desk that did not carry one or more huge bunches of these flowers. The fact that most of the new senators received the congratulatory offerings at the spring session of the senate reduced the number of floral pieces, but seldom has there been seen in the senate a collection so gorgeous.

When Senator Hanna came through the swinging doors he was greeted with cheers, which increased to thunderous applause as he was followed a moment later by Senator Gorman and the two met in the centre aisle for a cordial handshake.

The senate was called to order as the hands of the clock reached noon, and the Rev. F. J. Prettyman of Washington made the opening prayer.

The formal proclamation calling the congress in extraordinary session was read.

Mr. Bacon (Ga.) presented the election certificate of Senator Stephen Mallory of Florida, who took the oath.

Mr. Platt (Conn.) offered a resolution to notify the house of representatives that the senate was ready to proceed to business.

Mr. Hoar and Mr. Gorman were appointed a committee to join a committee appointed by the house to inform the president that congress had organized and was ready to receive any communication he had to make.

A resolution offered by Mr. Cullom fixing 12 o'clock noon as the hour of convening daily sessions was adopted, after which the senate, at 12.14 p. m., adjourned.

BOLD ATTEMPT

TO BURN A HOUSE IN RUMFORD FALLS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

RUMFORD FALLS, Maine, Nov. 9—A bold attempt by an incendiary to burn the home of Mr. Roy, a mile from this village, early today was frustrated by a prompt discovery of the fire by the occupants. A large pile of rags saturated with kerosene beneath the house had been ignited. The damage to the house which is owned by Hon. John P. Swasey did not exceed $50.

EXHIBITS FOR ST. LOUIS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9—Frederick Koltchoff and Charles Hemicler of St. Michael, Alaska, have arrived here with a part of a large Arctic and Alaskan collection of exhibits for the St. Louis exposition.

They are on their way to New York where the collection will be shown during the winter. Mr. Koltchoff declares that the introduction of reindeer from Northern Europe has proved a costly folly.

FOREST FIRE

SIGHT THAT WAS ENJOYED BY CHICAGOIANS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A forest fire was the unusual spectacle enjoyed by hundreds of Chicagoians last night. Four companies of firemen fought the blaze for hours. The fire started in the barns of the Graceland cemetery. In a few minutes the hay sheds were blazing fiercely. After destroying the buildings and wagons, the fire spread to the shrubbery growth and trees which covered a tract of almost four square blocks. The loss will exceed $50,000.

The tract combines almost virgin forest with carefully cultivated shrubbery. Rabbits, squirrels, gophers and other small animals abound in the inclosure. Scores of animals were killed as they ran among the crowd while others were captured and later turned loose. Two frame buildings, three greenhouses, 27 wagons and many tons of hay were destroyed while the large growth of shrubbery and trees was almost consumed.

NEW DIPLOMAT

Is Prominent Here and in Paris

HE IS A NATIVE OF FRANCE

His Part in the Dreyfus Case

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Philippe Varilla, the newly appointed diplomatic agent at Washington of the republic of Panama, is well-known to many persons in New York and Washington as well as in the inner political circles of Paris. He is a Frenchman by birth and was educated at the famous military school at St. Cyr, near Paris. At St. Cyr he was a classmate of Emile Dreyfus and took a prominent part in producing evidence in the defense of that officer at his trial at Rennes, France. Varilla's brother is the editor of Ma Le Matin, one of the best known Parisian journals.

"Philippe Bunau-Varilla and Philippe Varilla are different persons," said a gentleman who knows Panama's representative at Washington, "and it is the latter who has been sent to represent the republic of Panama at the national capital."

The story of the part that Varilla took in the Dreyfus case is an interesting one. A dozen years ago Philippe Varilla set out on an expedition to Central Africa. Upon the eve of his departure he received a letter from Dreyfus, who had been one of a party of French engineers to explore the country Varilla intended to visit. Dreyfus' letter was written with the object of advising him of the character of the country and telling him of the best way to succeed in his mission. Varilla kept the letter and filed it away with his papers. He returned to Paris after Dreyfus had been convicted and sent to Devil's Island. At an officer's dinner in Paris one evening a young subaltern came in with the celebrated bordereau which had been used as the basis of the evidence to convict Dreyfus, and the document was passed around among those present.

Varilla saw the importance of the document as a newspaper story and asked to be allowed to take it until the following day. He carried the bordereau to his home and compared it with the letter he had received from Dreyfus on the eve of his journey. To his great surprise there was not the least similarity in the chirography. He carried the two documents to his brother, the editor of Le Matin, and the two became convinced that the bordereau was a forgery. Editor Varilla caused a fac simile of the bordereau to be published in the issue of Le Matin, and asked if there were any of the readers of the journal who could identify the author of the document, as it evidently was not written by Dreyfus. In response to this appeal a Parisian stock broker appeared at the office of Le Matin with a number of letters written by Col. Esterhazy. These letters were compared with the writing of the bordereau and it was shown beyond question that Esterhazy was the author.

Philippe Varilla came to this country a few years ago in behalf of the shareholders of the Panama canal company to negotiate the sale of the rights of that company.

SAFE WRECKERS

WERE FRIGHTENED AWAY BY THE EXPLOSION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 9—Safe breakers wrecked the shoe factory office of Cobb & Putnam, Brookline street, during the night. The sound of the explosion, nitro-glycerine being used, was heard some distance away and attracted attention that evidently frightened the cracksmen, for the inner doors were not penetrated.

The attempt was discovered this morning when the factory was opened.

VALUABLE CATCH MADE BY STEAMER ALEXANDER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9—The whaling steamer Alexander, just arrived, brings a catch in whalebone reckoned as being one of the best of the season.

It amounts to 12,000 pounds, worth in the neighborhood of $75,000, and was taken from seven whales. She reports the death on the voyage of John Landons, an old whaler 75 years of age of general debility.

The whaling bark Andrew Hicks also arrived and brought 850 barrels of sperm. She took 25 whales in all during her cruise, but they were mostly small, some giving up only five or six barrels. She lost two men by pneumonia during the voyage.

DAWES COMMISSION REPORT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., Nov. 9.—The reports of the Dawes commission and the attorneys of the Cherokee nation show that there are 4,420,070.13 acres of land subject to allotment in the Cherokee nation, from this must be deducted reservations of one acre for each country school, for cemeteries and small reservations for mission schools and new towns along railroads. This allotable land is valued at $13,189,000. The rolls show that there will be 40,000 Cherokees on the final rolls. The per capita share of each, not deducting the reservations above mentioned would be $328.32, leaving a surplus of $2.72 in land due each citizen.

GIFT OF $25,000

WAS MADE TO GRACE CHURCH OF CHICAGO.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—In announcing a new policy for Grace church, which will make it a church for business men and asking an endowment fund of $100,000, the Rev. William Waters has told of a recent gift of $25,000.

This sum which was presented as a memorial to the late William G. Hibbard by his widow and six children, Mr. Waters said, would form the foundation for the fund needed and he appealed to his hearers to raise the balance, $75,000 before Easter Sunday next.

Mr. Waters explained at some length his plans to have Grace church be to the Episcopalians of Chicago what Trinity church is to New York, a centrally located place of worship that will attract those who are busy during the day and are unable to take the time to attend service at more remote churches.

SWORN CIRCULATION FOR OCTOBER

The sworn daily average circulation of the Lowell Sun for the month of October, 1903, was 14,232

A gain of 725 copies per day over the average for the year of 1902.

Sworn to by Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, preseman of The Sun, before me, November 2, 1903.

JOHN J. HOGAN, Notary Public.

☞An advertisement placed in The Sun is of more value to the advertiser than if it were inserted in all the other newspapers in Lowell, and the cost of inserting it in The Sun is about ONE THIRD the price charged by the other papers.

John Mitchell, the great strike leader, was a great object of attraction in Boston yesterday. Thousands tried in vain to see him.

It seems to be all off with Colombia. She wants the status quo ante restored. This is the time when the United States will not "ante."

The New Hampshire Dry Hook is on a par with the Chinese exclusion act. It will soon be necessary to provide the photographs of the men on the dry list.

The pastor who went to police court for material for a sermon hit upon a rich mine of material. Almost every day furnishes material for many stirring sermons.

The poisoning mystery of the state almshouse is still unsolved, according to the statement of the investigating committee which, however, has not yet finished its work.

The opposition to Mayor Collins' renomination and re-election, whether conducted by democrats or republicans, is likely to fall flat this year. Collins will be his own successor. Fred S. Gore will run himself into a big political hole.

BATES SLATED FOR U. S SENATOR.

The friends of Gov. Bates are beginning to boom him for United States senator, to fill the first vacancy that occurs. Of course a man of Senator Hoar's age is liable to drop off at any time and if Roosevelt be re-elected they figure that Senator Lodge might enter the cabinet. In such an event John L. Bates will bob up as a candidate for the vacancy, although he has little to commend him as the successor of either senator. The legislature could easily select a better man from the congressmen, ex-congressmen and ex-governors; but it seems that Bates is ambitious and will fight openly for everything in sight. He is not the man to lose an opportunity of improving his graft.

THE OLNEY BOOM.

Practical Politics has this to say about the Olney boom for the presidency:

"The next development of national interest in Massachusetts will be the announcement of the movement to press Richcard Olney forward toward the democratic presidential nomination. It will not come right away, but it is down on the cards for due consideration later on. Perhaps it is not right to say that there will be a formal step of that sort, for a lot of the work is to be done quietly, and the real attitude of the state democracy is to be that of offering Olney in answer to the demand of other and more powerful states."

When the proper time comes then the boom for Mr. Olney will be launched and it is bound to make a deep impression all over the country. Compared with Olney such men as Mr. Hearst would have to hide their diminished heads.

THE PRESIDENT'S INDIGNITY TO MILES.

As the the presidential contest approaches, some of President Roosevelt's official acts are looming up against him as calculated to injure him with the voters. It will be acknowledged that Mr. Roosevelt was originally placed upon the republican ticket as candidate for vice president on the strength of his record as a rough rider in the Spanish-American war. He figured in a skirmish on San Juan hill and shot a Spaniard in the back. That was the extent of his victory and his experience in battle.

It would naturally seem unbecoming for a soldier of this stamp to belittle such a veteran warrior as General Miles, yet that is what President Roosevelt did on more than one occasion.

When an order was passed transfering General Corbin from the war department to the command of the Eastern division, President Roosevelt took occasion to pay him a glowing tribute. Still later Captain Bradford, chief of the bureau of construction in the navy, was transferred to sea duty and the president eulogized him in strong terms. But General Nelson A. Miles was retired by an order signed by one of his discredited subordinates and the president did not see fit to pay him a parting compliment. The fact was that Miles as a soldier after forty years of the most illustrious service was by far a greater and a more patriotic figure in the eyes of the nation than the president himself. Furthermore, Roosevelt feared Miles as a presidential possibility, and between the two there is little doubt that the nation would prefer Miles.

That explains why the greatest living soldier of the United States today was slighted by the president. But the people of this country understand the situation. The old soldiers understand it, and they will retaliate at the polls if Roosevelt be nominated for president on the republican ticket next year.

IMPORTANCE OF THE PANAMA COUP.

The eyes of the world are fixed upon Panama at the present time.

England and Germany had each a hankering for an interest in the Isthmian canal.

Each had hoped that by some species of logrolling, the United States could be induced to adopt the Nicaraguan route. Then either England or Germany could secure the Panama route and build a canal that would be superior to the Nicaragua.

In any case the United States by the present coup with Panama has carried out a masterly piece of diplomacy that will probably give us full and complete control of the waterway to connect the two great oceans.

The value of having absolute control of this connecting link in case of war is incalculable.

The United States can not only build the canal as it pleases, but can control and own it afterwards, something that means more to this country than the acquisition of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines all combined.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay have quietly effected in this matter a piece of diplomatic work of supreme importance to this nation.

It is not known just what was at the bottom of Colombia's refusal to do the square thing with the United States in regard to the canal treaty. There may have been something more than mere greed in her unreasonable demands of the United States.

Columbia has lodged her protest at Washington against the recognition of the de facto government in Panama but Colombia has spoken too late. She had her opportunity when the ratification of the canal treaty was required. She had little regard for our wishes then and we have less for hers now. Colombia has lost Panama for all time and lost the interest she might have had in the canal. It serves her right.

It is not understood that the United States has given any cause for a declaration of war by Colombia, but if under the circumstances Colombia does declare war, she must be met. We opine that a few gun boats and their marines will give Colombia all the fighting she needs if fighting she wants. She finds the bonus for the canal grant slipping from her grasp and it is not likely she will ever control it again.

SEEN AND HEARD

Capt. John E. Pillsbury, who has been selected to become chief of the bureau of navigation in the navy department, was born in Tewksbury.

The members of the Collinsville club will be the guests of M. A. Corcoran at his home on Butterfield street, Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th.

Charlie Seede, who has been appointed captain of High chool basketball team, is the son of the late John T. Seede, who was a star bowler in this city.

The work of the Lowell High school can be appreciated when it is realized that it has 1000 pupils on its membership rolls. There are few educationny institutions which are called colleges that have near so many pupils.

The Granite Cutters' union of this city has donated a sum of money to help build a memorial monument to the late Rev. Frederick O. Macarthy of Rockland well known as an exponent of the socialist cause.

Our city lost three very companionable men in the deaths of Jason Fuller, Samuel Tice and William Costello. They were in different lines of business—the first was a grocer-farmer; the second, a mill overseer, the third, a painter. Yet all were genial in their dealings with fellowmen, and were generally liked. A companionable man, who appreciates thrift and responsibility, is a distinct gain to a community.

"I want to go to Stone street," said a colored man to Conductor Frazer on a Broadway car, recently.

"I don't know of any such street in Lowell," replied the conductor.

"Do you know where Hanson's stables are?" asked the colored man.

And then the conductor knew that his passenger wanted Rock street.

The late Daniel Gage probably purchased and cut down more wood lots than any other person or firm in Lowell. The work of his axes and sawmills is seen in almost every direction as you travel from Lowell for miles and miles countryward. His heirs are continuing the work.

The committee appointed at the mass meeting held in the Linden district of Malden for the purpose of securing better electric car accommodations have waited upon President Sullivan of the Boston & Northern and President Bancroft of the Boston Elevated. Both have promised to bring the matter before their directors, and the committee feels confident of getting better service.

RAIN AND SLEET COMING.

Rev. R. L. Hicks of St. Louis, who has made some remarkably accurate weather predictions, says for November weather:

"About the 10th it will turn much warmer, winds will turn southerly, the barometer will begin falling in the west, cloudiness will rapidly ensue, and rain will follow. The areas of rain will pass eastwardly over the country from about Thursday, the 12th, to Sunday, the 15th, being followed up closely on the west and north by a temperature that will turn the rain to sleet; a blizzard is not at all improbable at this time."

Of course, the full force of this storm may not strike Lowell, but we are likely to get some if it. Watch and see.

TOMMY BYRNE FOR MAYOR.

"A good man, like a barrel hoop, crushed to earth, will rise again," said Tommy Byrne, the mill boy orator, and the defeated but unquelchable candidate for representative, as he blew into The Sun office yesterday.

Tommy was loaded with nomination papers and he allowed that he could get three hundred autographs in as many minutes.

"I was a small toad in the representative puddle," said Tommy, as he picked a hair of suspicious length from the right sleeve of his a la Duke of Redbank coat, "but I want to assure you, my prince of good fellows, that I will be a — of big toad in the mayoralty puddle."

"Then your defeat in the representative contest hasn't unnerved you for the battle," suggested the reporter.

"Not a bit," replied Tommy. "I meet defeat in business life every day and I want to assure my scrificated and carbonated gentlemen who are running for the mayor's chair that I will march with them hand in hand through the golden harvest field, hand in hand by the spinning wheels and thundering looms, hand in hand by the monuments that mark the resting place of dead heroes, hand in hand—"

"What is your platform?" interrupted the reporter.

"Reformed economical republican protection for the benefit of all concerned," replied the versatile megaphonists. "I stand for government for all the people. I confess that I am an untutored politician and it may be that I am infatuated with the exuberance of my own verbosity but I do lay claim to the title of orator.

"This will be the fight of my life. I understand that a candidate for councilmanic honors from ward 5 will advocate overhead sewers and underground electric lights. I want to warn that man that I will veto every order of his that I can lay hands on. Such an arrangement might work all right down south, but it won't go here, not if Tommy Byrne is mayor. I have engaged Huntington hall for three nights, Nov. 16, 23 and 30. I will give a series of lectures on economic constitutionality and incidentally suggest a remedy for the abolition of graft.

"Mine will be a cold water candidacy, no beer or hard liquors allowed. I will accept all invitations to speak before clubs, societies or select circles on whatever subjects that such bodies shall see fit to assign. If that isn't strong enough for the people I'll come around tomorrow and make it a good deal stronger.

"Thanking you for your indefinite kindness, I remain, Lowell's public servant,

"THOMAS H. BYRNE."

POLO NEWS

Frank Wodtke, the Flying Dutchman, who played with Chelsea last season, is going to play rush on the Anderson team this season. He will also captain the brewery team, and his side partner will be little Jack Mercer, of the old Clinton team. Unless Mercer allows Wodtke to be the whole thing there will be trouble in Anderson.

The Lawrence Telegram says that Fred Jean's contract calls for $85 per week. By the way that Fox spoke when he was in this city we were given to understand that the big fellow would draw over a hundred every week.

Phil Jason and "Sunny Jim" Daly are among those who will be eastern stars this season. Phil writes that he is doing well and feeling fine, and says that he will stay where he is. "Sunny Jim" probably remembers his former trip to the west, as he recently refused the offer from the Danville management and says he will stay "at home." Manager Foor is greatly disappointed. —Muncie Star.

Already the Lawrence team of the American polo league has started crowing. Just because the down-river team has won six out of nine games the Lawrence Sun says: "Lawrence will be the top notcher all right this year." That same old cry has been heard year in and year out. The other teams in the league allow Lawrence to be jollied for a few weeks and then step in and take the cream.

A meeting of the managers of the American polo league will be held in Boston Friday.

A few remarks in regard to "roughing it up" come from the Richmond Item. Says the Item: "Who is a rougher player than 'Wild Charlie' Farrell or Tommy Holderness? Holderness has hurt more men than any other player in the league." This observation is rather uncalled for, and from Richmond more especially. Secretary Durbin says that the referees will be instructed to do everything in their power to stop such tactics, and that players will be fined for fouls instead of the management, as was the case last year.

John Roberts and Peggy White, of the Elwood team, arrived in Elwood Thursday and began practice at once. Reports say that "Big John" rushes just as swiftly and Peggy stops them just as cleverly as of yore.

Paddy Moran, halfback of the Danville team, ventures an opinion in regard to the Western league pennant possibilities. Paddy says that Muncie, Marion and Richmond will be the first three teams at the last of the season and that Anderson won't be anywhere near one, two, three.

It is said that 500 advance tickets have been sold in Anderson for the first game of the season between that city and Marion.

BOSTON DEMOCRATS

GAIN A MEMBER OF LEGISLATURE ON RECOUNT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—The democrats have gained a member of the legislature by the recount of the vote for representative in ward 24. The ward will now be represented by Messrs. Coulthurst and Lennard.

Not a Sick Day Since.

"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and so in thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver and Kidney Troubles and General Debility." This is what H. F. Bass of Fremont, N. C., writes. Only 50c at H. C. COTTON MARKET

Strong Opening Led to Heavy Realizing

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—There was a continuation yesterday of the great activity and excitement recently noticed in the cotton market. Influenced at first by the strength at Liverpool, less favorable weather forecasts and reports that New England spinners were buying more heavily, the market opened strong 7 to 16 points higher and on the call advanced another few points on the active months. This gain added to the already sensational advances of the past few days, led to heavy realizing. The receipts also promised to prove very heavy and in spite of a continued demand from outsiders and shorts the market was depressed in the first ten or fifteen minutes to 10.92 for January, 10.97 for March and to 11.00 for May. The market continued active at the lower level and ruled about steady on further coverings and demand from various sources including purchases by brokers representing New England interests.

THE McKAY WILL

LIBERAL PROVISION MADE FOR HARVARD UNIVERSITY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—Provisions for life annuities to relatives and friends, amounting to nearly $55,000 a year and for a liberal trust fund in favor of Harvard university, are made by the will of the late Gordon McKay, which was filed for probate here yesterday.

The annuities range from $11,500 given to Mrs. Marian VonBruning, to $100 each given to Victor McKay and to Robert McKay.

The Harvard university trust fund is to result from the accumulation year by year of 80 per cent. of the net annual income from the estate after the annuities are paid, said income to be held and invested by trustees named by Mr. McKay until one million dollars is reached, at which time the full amount is to be paid to the president and fellows of Harvard university to be used for the promotion of applied science.

FOOD POISONS

HOW THEY OPERATE ON DIFFERENT PERSONS.

Dr. Wiley, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, says in speaking of the experiments made in Washington last winter, that the doses of borax given to the 12 young men acting as poison testers were increased in each case until the man was made ill. This illness was caused in some cases by the administration of small doses. In other cases nearly three times the amount of borax was necessary bfor the subject showed signs of being poisoned. That is, a young man in apparently the best of health could be poisoned by preservatives that another man withstood until the quantity taken was greatly increased. Our chemically preserved foods quickly injure some who may be in a state of excellent health, and again they may be slow in having a bad effect. They are sure to have this in time, however, but it is plain that the limit of toleration greatly varies. It is the same thing in the case of the alcohol drinker. What will send one man under the table, it is well known may make another simply merry, and leave a third totally unaffected in deportment. There is a very old saying, "what is food to one may be poison to another," and the Washington experiments demonstrate this truth.

Dr. Wiley explains his work as having for its purpose simply the enforcement of the laws. Goods charged with what are virulent poisons for some people should be marked as containing the dangerous element, if it is decided to leave the consumer to decide whether to risk using it in his family or not. What a man pays for he should get in every case. Legislation, Dr. Wiley says should be brought into harmony in matters relating to preservatives and colors, so that laws may be uniform, free from any tendency to persecute or annoy, and supported by an enlightened public opinion, both on the part of the producer and the consumer.

FOR THE LAZY

AND THE LISTLESS—HOW TO BE PUNCTUAL.

Punctuality is a virtue that needs to be fixed as a habit. Its possession is one of the chief elements of success. Good business men learn this as one of their first practical lessons, and they not only adhere closely to its practice in the conduct of their business, but demand this same qualification of their employes. They soon learn that neglect to meet engagements promptly occasions inconvenience to the parties interested, and that failure to attend to business affairs at the proper time is very detrimental to one's business interests; that lack of promptness causes delay, and delay is attended by loss.

It is said that Webster was never late at a recitation at school or in college, and he was just as punctual in after life in court, in congress and in society. Horace Greeley, although one of the busiest of men, managed to be on time for every appointment. The habit of punctuality and promptness is characteristic of men of affairs.

Tardiness in business, in school, in fact, anywhere, is loss of time, and time is valuable. The manager of a mill employing a large number of persons said: "It is very important that we have a clock in the office that keeps perfect time, because the loss of a few minutes by all of these employes means the loss of many dollars to the company." A certain factory locks its doors at 7 o'clock each morning and the factory hands who arrive after that time are kept out until nine, and are docked one-fourth of a day's wages. At a certain coal mine it is a rule to permit no miner to descend the shaft to work after seven in the morning. If any later they must remain out until after noon, thus losing the wages for one-half day's work.

Railroad and street car men are required to be at their posts of duty promptly on time. Even slight failure in this respect is considered cause for dismissal. The managers of factories, mills, shops and all business concerns must exact punctuality of their employes in order to secure efficient service, and to conduct their business successfully.—School News.

HILL ORDINANCE

Adopted by Committee on Explosives

CASEY'S DRAFT WAS TURNED DOWN

Committee Held an Interesting Meeting

The Hill-Casey explosive ordinance contest was resumed before the special committee on explosives at City hall last evening, and Mr. Casey was "bumped" real hard by his brother members.

Some time ago Messrs. Hill and Casey were appointed a sub-committee to draft an ordinance and while the other members of the committee were patiently waiting for them to report, a morning paper printed a lengthy document, purporting to be an ordinance prepared by Alderman Casey, which would be presented at the meeting of the committee.

Already there had been considerable talk of one-man power on the committee and the members were none too kindly disposed towards each other when this publication appeared and it made the relations somewhat more strained. When the date of the next meeting arrived, Aldermen Casey and Hill were the only members present and each had his own ordinance to present. After two unsuccessful attempts to get a quorum, the committee finally got together last evening and immediately one of the members called for the reading of both ordinances.

Alderman Hill spoke briefly for his own, which was considerably shorter than its rival. He said it followed the statutes pretty closely, was as brief as possible and in his opinion covered the law.

Councilman Hard said he favored Mr. Hill's ordinance with two amendments. He would have dynamite kept entirely outside of the city limits and have the venders of explosives licensed. He suggested that the penalty be $50 instead of $20 and that the chief of the fire department inspect all places 12 times a year to see if the laws were enforced.

Mr. Casey couldn't see any merit in the Hill production, claiming that it did not carry out the recommendations of the expert. He thought his own covered the matter and worked no hardship upon any corporation doing business.

Mr. Hill asked wherein his ordinance was lacking and Mr. Casey after criticizing it said:

"What's the matter with mine?"

"It's too long winded," promptly replied Mr. Hill. "It contains sections that are unnecessary and don't mean anything."

The committee then took up Mr. Hill's ordinance by sections and after adopting the amendments offered by Mr. Hard, it was voted to recommend the Hill ordinance at tonight's meeting of the common council.

Mr. Casey was much put out at this action and said he would present his ordinance as a minority report this evening in the board of aldermen.

HOWELL SENT TO PRISON.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 10—Richard L. Howell of Millville, who was arrested in New York recently on the charge of embezzling $14,000 of the funds of the Millville N. J. Loan Association, was yesterday sentenced to four years imprisonment by Judge Trenchton.

GOVERNOR BATES

Issues His Thanksgiving Proclamation

Gov. Bates yesterday issued the following proclamation:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
By His Excellency John L. Bates, Governor.
Proclamation for a Day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise.

In accordance with ancient custom, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, I appoint Thursday, the 26th day of November, as a day of Thanksgiving and praise unto Almighty God for his manifold mercies and blessings to this commonwealth and its people.

Abundant has been the harvest of the farm and the harvest of the mill. Peace and prosperity have made their home with us. Our people are provided with the necessities of life, and to the necessities have been added the comforts. Happy because of these conditions, our citizens are yet more fortunate in the spirit inherited from the fathers that causes them to love morality, to foster education, to practice virtue, and to help their fellow-men. Therefore, may all the people, in church and at home, everywhere within our borders, join on the day thus set apart in prayer and praise to God for the heritage of the past, the blessings of the present and the hopes of the future.

"That our sons may be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as corner-stones, polished after the similitude of a palace;

"That our garners may be full, affording all manner of store;

"That our oxen may be strong to labor; that there may be no breaking in nor going out; that there may be no complaining in our streets. Happy is that people, that is in such a case; yea, happy, is that people whose God is the Lord."

Given at the council chamber, in Boston, this 4th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1903 and of the independence of the United States the 128th.

JOHN L. BATES.

WILLIAM L. OLIN, Secretary.

AMATEUR SLEUTH

CAPTURED AN ALLEGED COLD HANDS' GIRL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Some time ago a man who gives his name as Paul Merkler of New York reported to the police that on Oct. 27 he met a colored woman on Ferdinand street and talked with her some time. Soon after the woman left he discovered that he had been robbed of $280, and he became satisfied that he had been the victim of the cold hands game. Merkler said he would know the girl if he met her again and since that time he has been playing the role of detective. Last evening he met Patrolman Underhill of station 5 on Tremont street and pointed out a woman he was following as the one he was looking for. Merkler and the policeman followed her to 20 Holyoke street and as she was about to enter the house the policeman stopped her. She said her name was Jennie Williams, 28 years old, and that she lived in that house. Merkler was positive in his identification and the woman was turned over to the 4th police, who locked her up on the charge of the larceny of the $280 from Merkler. The 5th police say that they have had several complaints from men that they had been robbed by a woman at the Holyoke street house and they think they may make several cases against the woman if the men who lost their money show up.

ISSUE REFUSED

Boston & Northern Petition Turned Down

FINDING MADE PUBLIC BY RAILROAD COMMISSION

Reasons for Dismissing the Petition

The board of railroad commissioners yesterday dismissed the petition of the Boston & Northern street railway company for the approval of an issue of stock to carry into effect and complete an issue originally undertaken by the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill, a leased line. The finding of the board is as follows: "The Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill street railway company was authorized under chapter 93, acts of 1894, to increase its capital stock by the amount of $1,500,000. Pursuant to this authority it issued stock to the amount of $1,000,000. April 24, 1893, the company voted to further increase its capital stock by the amount of $500,000. One thousand shares of the stock thus authorized were duly subscribed, paid for and issued. The remainder 4000 shares were subscribed and an assessment of $5.00 was paid upon each share. Subsequently the Lynn & Boston, now the petitioning Boston & Northern company, bought the property and assumed the obligations of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill, all the outstanding shares of stock of the last named company being surrendered and cancelled. The Boston & Northern company has recently levied an assessment of $95 upon each of the 4000 shares above named and now asks the board to approve the issue of these shares. It contends that, having acquired all rights and assumed all the obligations of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill company, it is bound to carry out the agreement with the subscribers for the above-mentioned stock, and that, in doing this it may issue the stock at par, being exempted from the provisions of section 30, chapter 109, revised laws, by virtue of the special act above named.

"We cannot concede the correctness of this contention. The agreement of the subscribers was with a company now incapable of issuing stock as the result of an arrangement carried out with their knowledge and consent. Notwithstanding the vote of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill stockholders to issue these shares, the subscription for them and the payment of a first assessment levied upon them, the shares were in fact never issued. We cannot now consent to an issue of the Boston & Northern stock in place of them upon the theory that the petitioner can carry into effect and complete the issue originally undertaken by the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill company. The petition is therefore dismissed.

FIERCE GALE

SEVERAL VESSELS WERE DRIVEN ASHORE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 10—A fierce gale has been raging along the entire seaboard for the past two days and several vessels have been driven ashore. The American schooner Edith Emery has been lost at Port Au Basque and the Canadian schooner Florence is ashore at Fortré.

The schooners Terefoil Janet, Arthuse and a number of other New Foundland vessels also have been wrecked.

Two boats were driven to sea from Lawaline, a tug was sent after them, but it is feared that their occupants perished.

THREE BOYS ARRESTED

FOR PLACING OBSTRUCTIONS ON RAILROAD TRACK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BARRINGTON, R. I., Nov. 10—Three Italian boys each about 16 years old, were arrested here yesterday charged with putting obstructions on the railroad track. They are Frank Marchielli, John De Rosa and Pasco Tock. It is claimed that the boys placed blocks of wood on the track on the Providence and Warren branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in this town. The blocks were of sufficient size to give the cars severe jolts, but not large enough to derail the train. They will be arraigned before Judge Bosworth in the district court of Bristol.

SENATOR MORGAN

Receives Entreating Letter From New Envoy

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—M. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the envoy of the new republic of Panama, yesterday sent the following letter to Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama:

"Republic of Panama, Nov. 9, 1903.

"Hon. John T. Morgan, U. S. Senator, Washington:

Mr. Senator:—As a champion of the completion of an inter-oceanic canal across the American isthmus, as the minister plenipotentiary of the new republic, I feel myself bound to express to you my admiration for the display of indomitable will you have shown in the service of this noble conception.

"The fact that we have fought for a common ideal is not lessened by the minor fact of having defended different solutions.

"If I have not been on the same side with you, allow me, Mr. Senator, to say that it is simply because I entered into the field of active life about one-third of a century after you.

"Gradual and scarcely noticeable changes in the technical necessities of the waterway are accountable for the differences of opinion between the champion of the solution of the middle of the nineteenth century and the champions of the solution of the beginning of the twentieth.

"Now, Mr. Senator, I say to you and most respectfully entreat you to take the high place which is due to the honored veteran of the noblest fight that ever took place for the progress of the world and the welfare of mankind.

"I beg you not to throw away the title which the thankfulness of humanity owes to you, that of the father of the Isthmian canal. I beg you to take the laurels of the victory which is yours by accepting with a generous and Christian mind what the changes in the necessities of ocean traffic has made inevitable. You will well crown a noble life inspired by the greatest, the most patriotic, the most disinterested aim.

"I am, Mr. Senator, most respectfully yours,

"(Signed) P. BUNAU-VARILLA."

Senator Morgan yesterday admitted that he had received a letter from M. Bunau-Varilla, and reference to the communication said: "I have not discussed the letter in public and the fact that it was written came from another source."

SINGLE TAXERS

HAD A LIVELY TIME AT THEIR MEETING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—"I have been patient under abuse and insult and I will not stand it any longer. Unless this resolution is passed you will have to elect another president."

This declaration of President C. B. Fillebrown of the Massachusetts Single Tax League at the annual meeting of the league in Chipman hall, Tremont Temple, last night precipitated a heated discussion.

The debate was precipitated when Treasurer Willis introduced a resolution, the last clause of which read:

"It is further affirmed that any contention or vote as to the right or wrong of private property in land is foreign to the purpose of the league."

Judge Pike moved to lay the resolution on the table.

President Fillebrown then said this resolution did not commit the league to any action upon this question, but set it right on action taken a year ago.

A warm discussion followed in which different speakers said President Fillebrown's action was outrageous.

The resolution was finally passed in an amended form by a vote of 35 to 7.

CASE SETTLED

YOUNG CORBETT AND PIERCE AGREE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—The case in which William Rothwell, known as "Young Corbett" in pugilistic circles, charged William A. Pierce of Boston, editor of the Boston Police News, with libel, was disposed of yesterday afternoon by Judge Ely of the municipal court, who nol prossed the case at the request of the district attorney. The principals to the suit reached an agreement outside of court. The case attracted the attention of the local sporting world, and a number of Boston sports were on hand to watch the proceedings. Attorney M. J. Creed appeared for Pierce, while Rothwell's interests were looked after by Attorney Carstarphen of New York. Harry Pollock, Young Corbett's manager, who accompanied his protege here from New York, was subjected to the annoyance of an arrest on mesne process at the instance of parties said to belong in New York, alleging debt. The arrest was made by Constable McDonald. Pollock quickly gave bail for his appearance in court here when wanted.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

ADDRESSED MEMBERS OF PHILO S. BENNETT BOYS' CLUB.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10—William J. Bryan last night addressed several hundred boys, members of the Philo S. Bennett club of the People's church. He will appear in the probate court today, when his counsel and the attorney for Mrs. Philo S. Bennett will decide upon the decree of the probate court in accepting the will of Mr. Bennett for probate. Both sides will then take an appeal to the superior court. Mr. Bryan will appear because Judge Cleave and of the probate court would not accept as part of the will the sealed letter which instructed Mrs. Bennett to give Mr. Bryan $50,000, and Mr. Stoddard will appeal because Mr. Bryan has been named as executor.

FORGE VILLAGE

The musicale given by the Girls' Guild was very entertaining and a good test of the new piano. A great many of the village people attended and were well pleased.

Mr. Higgly from Groton school has promised to give another musical treat next Wednesday evening.

The Groton school string band will give a concert in the new parish house on November 18th for the benefit of the mission.

St. Katharine's church will hold a fair on the 19th.

The store of Wilbur E. Parsons was broken into on Saturday night. Fruit, candy and some hosiery were taken. It is to be hoped that the thieves will be caught, as the experience in the village has been very unpleasant.

LEIGHTON IS DEAD

HE WAS ONE OF "BUNCOE" REED'S VICTIMS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 10.—Buncoed eight years ago out of $3500, a blow to his pride from which he never recovered, John F. Leighton died yesterday of softening of the brain which followed the discovery of the fraud of which he was the victim. Leighton was 71 years of age, a native of this place and long known as one of the county's most prosperous farmers. At Worcester in 1897 he claimed to identify John Reed as the man who defrauded him.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY

PAWTUCKET MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 10—James Muldoon, a young man employed in the mills at Valley Falls, was held up and robbed by two men at the Miller street bridge here, less than four minutes' walk from Main street square, at 9 o'clock last night. The men secured $9.00.

Muldoon reported to the police that his assailants were large men, one of whom seized him by the throat and arms, while the other went through his pockets. His description of the men was meagre.

FOUGHT A DRAW.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BROCKTON, Nov. 10.—A twelve-round boxing contest between Mattie Baldwin and Jimmy Hanlon, both of Boston, held here last night, was declared a draw. Billy Cass and Pete Scanlon were scheduled to go six rounds, but Cass was given the decision in the second round. Jim Barrow, of Whiteman, got the decision in a six round bout with Fred Dantuch of Hanover.

HAND CAUGHT

IN GEAR OF GRINDING MACHINE.

While operating a grinding machine at the Kitson Machine shop yesterday afternoon, W. N. Hill, an employe of that company, who lives at 264 Appleton street, met with a painful accident, which will disable his right hand for many weeks.

Mr. Hill accidentally got his right hand caught in one of the wheels of the machine and he sustained an ugly gash about four inches in length across the palm of his hand just at the base of the thumb.

At the Emergency hospital, where he was taken to have the wound cared for, it was found that the ligaments of the thumb had been severed and in order to avoid amputation of the thumb it was necessary for the doctors to place the victim under chloroform and sew the cords together.

It will be several weeks before the hand will be in condition to warrant Mr. Hill's return to work.

NEW CONSTITUTION

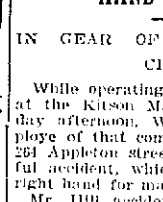

ODOPTED BY THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION.

The executive committee of the Christian Endeavor Union of Lowell and vicinity, was held last evening at the parlors of the Young Men's Christian association, the president, Roy. Robert F. True, in the chair.

The attendance was large and the meeting enthusiastic. The most important item of business was the adoption of a practically new constitution to meet the present needs of the work, and which means an advance step in the progress of the local union. Another item of interest was the projection of a public rally to be held Wednesday evening of the United Society of the World.

All indications point to a renewal interest in this work, which will doubtless place the union among the foremost of the state.

NASHUA DISBANDS

THE MEMBERS OF TEAM WERE DISCOURAGED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NASHUA, Nov. 10.—Manager Frank Montgomery and Capt. Charles Cone of the High school foot ball team resigned and the team disbanded by the consent of all its members at a meeting held yesterday noon. What future action will be taken is unknown at present. The cause of the breaking up of the eleven is trouble over two members who played at Keene last Friday when they were behind in their studies.

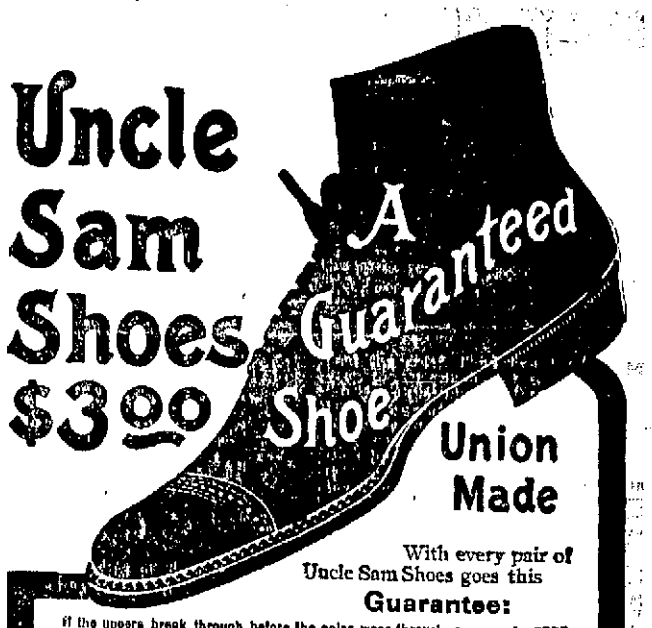

Principal L. S. Hastings when asked for a statement said: "I have been informed that the team has disbanded. This the members did of their own accord. I simply made inquiries regarding the men who played at Keene, but asked for no resignation. That is all I care to say."

The manager and captain say they believed their resignations were desired and took time by the forelock. The members were also discouraged, they say by lack of financial support. What effect the action will have on the triangular league remains to be seen.

LYDIA YEAMANS-TITUS AT THE CASTO.

For refined humor of the highest type, for genuine, pure, clean fun and clear artistic merit the offering of Lydia Yeamans-Titus at the Casto, this week, holds first place. This is high praise, but it is well deserved. Madame Titus, who has a fine soprano voice, which would be worth listening to in ballads, quite apart from her impersonations, mimics the various types of ballad singers, etc., one comes across in the drawing room and on the concert platform. All are wonderfully clever, but the imitation of a child singing a song for the first time is assuredly remarkably so. Madame Titus does not caricature a child, she becomes one for the time being, and her infantile enunciation and her babyish style are exceedingly well thought out; there is not a feature that is overdone, so the resemblance is far greater than is usual in such imitations. The Musical Goodmans scored an immense hit in their refined musical act, which is very good. Hubert Devean was a distinct success in "Studies in High Art." As an artist he stands in the front rank and the comedy work is exceedingly clever. The closing picture, "After the Snow Storm," is novel. Mr. Devean draws a picture of a house nearly hidden in snow, the trees snow-laden, and in all forming a pretty picture. Then the sleigh loaded with merry people is seen to drive by. It is a creation which must be seen to be appreciated. The comedy sketch of Emerson and Omega entitled "Inside-long-18-it" is a funny concoction of merriment, and is a big laughing success. John E. Drew, the character commedian and dancer, and Goines and Hazard in coontown talk and melodies were favorites and scored. Reserved seats will be in demand this week and they can be obtained by calling telephone 815-3.

WHARF ON FIRE

Portland Had a $60,000 Blaze

By Associated Press to The Sun

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 10.—One of the largest wharf fires which Portland has seen in years, broke out at 10.30 last night in the storehouses of J. H. Hamlin & Sons on Brown's wharf. The firm of Hamlin & Sons is among the largest American exporters on shook and similar stock to the West Indies and the storehouses were filled with shook and finished hogsheads and barrels awaiting shipment. The buildings were two stories in height and were practically destroyed.

An authoritative estimate of the loss was not obtainable last night as J. C. Hamlin, the resident member of the firm, is at Little Rock, Ark., but it is estimated that the value of the goods in the sheds exceeded $50,000. The firm carried heavy insurance. The buildings were the property of the J. R. Brown estate, which owns the wharf. They were worth $10,000 and the damage to wharf, the extent of which cannot be ascertained until the fire burns out will be in addition to the loss on the buildings. The Brown estate is well insured.

ORDER RECALLED

WESTERN UNION ASKED TO SHOW CAUSE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—The board of aldermen yesterday called back from Mayor Collins the order passed two weeks ago directing the Western Union Telegraph company to remove all of its poles in the city limits of Boston within a period of 60 days from the passage of the order. This action was taken at the request of Alderman Martin Lomasney, who introduced the order into the board.

After the order had been called back the board voted in favor of new order calling on the Western Union company to show at a hearing to be held Nov. 30, why the poles should not be removed. The messenger situation remains unchanged.

GRANITEVILLE

The Pepperell Court of the M. C. O. of F., held a box party last Saturday evening, which was well attended. Joseph Wall acted in the capacity of auctioneer for the evening, in a very fine manner. The highest contribution was $1.55 and the lowest was 85 cents. A neat sum was realized. Perry's orchestra furnished music for dancing.

Sparks from an engine were responsible for a slight blaze on the property between the Acton line and the town farm Sunday. Damage slight.

The local football club will have as its opponents next Saturday the Acton association, and a hot game is expected. On the last occasion of the Acton boys' visit a tie score was the result of a well-played contest. The local team is looking for games and would like to hear from the Beachmonts or some other organization. Address James R. Healey or Mr. Putney, Graniteville.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

All this week special services are to be held at the Second Congregational church. The services started Sunday morning, and the sermon was preached by Rev. Robert W. Dunbar. His text was, "Where does religion come in?" In the evening Rev. Robert W. Dunbar spoke again, and his text was, "How I have received."

In the death of Mr. Luther Haines Sargent, which occurred Saturday, this village has lost one of its most highly esteemed citizens. He had resided here for about 40 years, and there has been quite a change in this village, since he first came here to reside. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home in Main street.

The sale of the Snyder property yesterday afternoon brought out quite an attendance of the prominent real estate men of the city. The property is situated at the corner of Branch and Queen streets, and consists of three stores and six tenements. The bidding started at $8,000, and was purchased by Henry A. Williams for $10,300 plus unpaid taxes, making a total price of about $10,700. The property is assessed for about $9,000.

INVALID SAVED

AT A FIRE AT BEACHMONT LAST NIGHT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—A lively blaze which broke out in an unoccupied cottage on the Banks property on Endicott avenue, near the corner of Winthrop avenue, at Beachmont, shortly before 11 o'clock last night, destroyed four summer cottages and created considerable excitement. The loss is estimated at $6000.

Only one of the cottages destroyed was occupied. In that Mrs. Hoyt, mother of Patrolman Hoyt of the Chelsea police, a confirmed invalid, was alone with a servant, and she barely escaped with her life. All of the household goods were destroyed.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Frank Eaton, who lives nearby, and who called her husband. He run to fire box 45 to pull an alarm, but the box would not work, and it was necessary to send in a call by telephone. Assisted by William Clark and Robert Wilson, Mr. Eaton hastened to the assistance of Mrs. Hoyt, who was carried to safety.

She was very much excited and was with difficulty restrained from attempting to return to the building to save her money and valuables at a time when to enter would almost certainly have been fatal.

AGAINST HEINZE

SUPREME COURT WILL NOT ISSUE WRIT OF CONTROL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 10.—The supreme court yesterday denied the writ of supervisory control asked for by F. A. Heinze to rescind the order granted by Judge Clancy and decided that the Boston and Montana company should be entitled to permission to survey the Minnie Healy mine through the Piccolo and Diamhetta workings. The Boston and Montana company under the term of the order is permitted to make weekly inspections until the appeal in the case has been decided.

GREAT SUCCESS

Bazaar at Primitive Methodist Church

NETTED A VERY HANDSOME SUM

Money Will Go to Building Fund

The results of the four days' bazar at the Primitive Methodist church proved more encouraging than the most enthusiastic of the bazar conductors expected, the total profit being $1177.89.

The following figures tell the story:

Sunday school department	$311.26
Ladies' Aid	339.44
Men's League	179.00
Wesley League	168.93
Miscellaneous	342.16
Total	$1371.70
Total expense	193.81
	$1177.89

No lotteries or any chance games entered into the bazar and the people of the Primitive Methodist church feel as if they had accomplished a great deal. The result will be devoted to the building fund.

It will be remembered that the church fresh from the hands of the carpenters and plasterers, was badly damaged by the magazine explosion at South Lowell, and the misfortune of the little band of workers, who had striven so hard to establish a comfortable house of worship, appealed to the public in general, with the result that the substantial sum, herein mentioned, was realized.

Rev. Mr. Matthews, who has been an untiring worker in the establishment of the church and the development of his parish, and his willing and ambitious parishioners are to be congratulated upon the splendid success obtained by the bazar.

LOWELL MAN

CRIMINAL'S MEASUREMENT APPLIED TO HIM AT SALEM.

For the first time in the history of the Salem police, the Bertillion system of measurements was used at the police station, Friday forenoon, says the Salem News.

Michael F. Carey, alias Frank B. Welch, of Lowell, the pickpocket, arrested Saturday night, and held for the grand jury at District court yesterday, was the one measured.

Deputy Inspector Gustavson of the Bureau of Identification, department of police, in Boston, came to Salem specially to do the measuring, bringing with him the necessary implements. To the layman the process is an interesting one, although to the one being measured, it is probably not so fascinating.

The Bertillion system is the accepted system of measurement of criminals all over the country and has been in vogue in this city under the supervision of Inspector David Donaldson, for about two years.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS

STIRRED UP OVER BILLS THAT ARE UNPAID.

A well attended meeting of the Spanish War Veterans was held last evening at Memorial hall. Capt. Dodge was delegated to investigate the cause for the non-payment of the Memorial Day bills which the command contracted and for which the city appropriated the sum of $150. A special meeting will be held next Monday evening to hear Capt. Dodge's report.

At the meeting three propositions were received and two recruits were mustered in, one of the men being a member of the Rough Riders under President Roosevelt.

The command will hold a smoke talk two weeks from last night to which all Spanish War Veterans of the city are cordially invited.

PEDDLER'S PARADE.

The Independent Order of Odd Ladies held a Peddler's Parade at Post 120, G. A. R., hall in Merrimack street last night. During the early part of the evening a business meeting was held and it was voted to hold a bean supper on the 23d of this month.

After the adjournment of the meeting the parade was held and it proved to be a very enjoyable affair. A long line of young people entered the hall dressed in quaint costumes and after a short drill passed about selling their wares. A good sum was realized by the peddlers.

Songs were rendered by Miss Belle Lavigne and piano duets were given by Miss Lillian Goodwin and Miss Elsie Grant.

HAPPY DAYS

When Friends Say "How Well You Look."

We can bring those days by a little care in the selection of food just as this young man did.

"I had suffered from dyspepsia for three years and last summer was so bad I was unable to attend school," he says. "I was very thin and my appetite at times was poor while again it was craving. I was dizzy and my food always used to ferment instead of digesting. Crossness, unhappiness and nervousness were very prominent symptoms.

"Late in the summer I went to visit a sister and there I saw and used Grape-Nuts. I had heard of this famous food before but never was interested enough to try it, for I never knew how really good it was. But when I came home we used Grape-Nuts in our household all the time and I soon began to note changes in my health. I improved steadily and am now strong and well in every way and am back at school able to get my lessons with ease and pleasure and can remember them, too, for the improvement in my mental power is very noticeable and I get good marks in my studies which always seemed difficult before.

"I have no more of the bad symptoms given above, but feel fine and strong and happy and it is mighty pleasant to hear my friends say: 'How well you look.'"

IN SECOND PLACE

Lowell Pulled Out of Tight Place in Haverhill

Haverhill came near turning the trick on Manager Gray's team in Haverhill last night.

Lowell won after four minutes extra play, but it was a game that the Gray boys will remember for some time. In fact it was just such a game as one will see only once in a season. The score was 23 to 21. At the close of the third period it was an even thing at 21 each, but four minutes after the extra period opened Skip Fields found the basket on a great throw from near the centre of the rink, and the Lowell boys trotted off the floor a happy lot.

Lowell started off like an easy winner and the six hundred spectators began to think that it was all off with Haverhill.

The first period ended with the score 13 to 2 in Lowell's favor, but in the second period Tighe, Lew, Dionne and Ellsworth got in their fine work and at the close the figures were 16 to 13 in Lowell's favor. Tighe started the Haverhill work in the third and with one minute to play the score was 21 to 20 in Haverhill's favor. Just then Lew committed a foul and it being the third chalked up against Haverhill it meant a point for Lowell and the score was tied. Then the teams started in again after a brief rest and after four minutes of play Fields threw his basket. The Lowell team showed up in great form and Abbott continued his great defensive work, that has made him a favorite in Lowell.

Fields never played better in his career. Haverhill will come to Lowell tonight and if the game is anything like last night's it will be worth going miles to see. The lineup and summary:

LOWELL.		HAVERHILL.
Allard	rf	lb Harrington

Score, Lowell 23, Haverhill 21. Goals from field, Allard, Field 6, Holleron 2, Abbott 2, Lew 2, Harrington, Ellsworth, Dionne 3, Tighe. Points on fouls, Lowell 3, Haverhill 5. Fouls committed, Allard 3, Kynoch 3, Field 5, Holleron 6, Lew 7, Harrington 1, Tighe 3. Referee, Murley. Timers, Gray and Driscoll. Attendance, 500.

MANCHESTER 30, NASHUA 17.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 10.—The Manchester basketball team continued on its triumphant career by polishing off the Nashua club in approved fashion here last night. The visitors were never in the running, but they showed praiseworthy gameness and made several brilliant plays. Against the clock-work methods of Smith's men, however, their opportunities for baskets were scarce. The score was 30 to 17.

Devlin played a star game for Manchester, caging six baskets. Pat Doyle and McFarland did the honors for Nashua on the offensive line, and Kelliher did good work in the back field. Nashua tried out Crogen, a Connecticut league recruit, who retired in the second period in favor of McFarland.

Pat Doyle, the well-known Manchester boy who is a player of the Nashua team, and Lynch had it out in lively style throughout the game. Both played fast and hard and at the finish each had three baskets to his credit. Lynch slipped up on a number of chances. Doyle fouled repeatedly and was rather rough in some of the tactics he adopted. Lynch proved his equal and the players had it out in great style much to the delight of the spectators.

Manchester excelled in passing the ball and kept the Nashua players guessing as to where the ball was. Their floor work was very good, Captain Qualey excelling in this respect.

A number of the players received hard bumps and on three or four occasions it was necessary to call time. Crongan, who relieved Guthrie in the third period, was in the game but a few seconds when he had the middle finger of his left hand badly torn by catching it in the wire netting.

Frank Devlin scored the largest number of baskets, securing a total of 6. He played everywhere and was effective in his blocking. Healy played brilliantly but was unfortunate on his shots, the majority striking the edge of the basket, to roll off. The only goal he got was a bully raiser and came after the player had dodged the entire length of the floor through the Nashua contingent. Donnelly played well and was relieved by Regan in the third period.

HOLYOKE 11½, SPRINGFIELD 7.

Holyoke defeated the league leaders Springfield, 11½ to 7, last night in a fast and clean contest in Holyoke. The first basket from the field was scored 18 minutes from the call of play, and previous to that only two fouls had been called. In the second half Fox and Michaelman were ordered from the floor by Referee Byers because he thought they were fighting, whereas they were only wrestling. The usual demonstration against the referee ensued. The summary:

HOLYOKE		SPRINGFIELD

BASKETBALL NOTES.

We are in second place now.

The Cadet band is more than pleased with the handsome treatment they have received from Manager Gray, and want to express their thanks.

The admission of a sixth city in the New England league is under contemplation, and a meeting of the league will be held on Wednesday afternoon in Nashua to take action. Chelsea will probably be admitted.

The western league has released all claim to the following players who wish to play in the New England league: Curry, Edgers, Macaloushi, Lynch, Glon, Keegan and Leighton. Several of these men are recognized stars, and they will be used to strengthen the Nashua and Haverhill teams.

Haverhill will play in Lowell tonight. Lew, Harrington and Tighe, three of the former members of the P. A. C. team and three corkers at that, will be in the lineup of the visitors. The Cadet band will be on hand to give another concert prior to the game and between periods. "Dutchy" McDonald will referee the game and the attendance promises to be the largest of the season. The young lady clerks in several of the down town stores have made up parties to attend the game and cheer for the local team. It will be a warm game, for after last night's contest the Haverhill boys believe that their chances are good to pass Lowell in the league race.

Harry Hough, who played right forward on the Pittsfield basketball team against Westfield, was injured in the game Saturday night and it is probable that Capt. Deal will not allow him to go into the game again until Saturday. In some way he was thrown against the baseboard with great force, striking on something that projected and ripping his right leg open above the knee. It required several stitches to close the cut.

Hough is very eager to go into the game and does not like the idea of being taken out with his injuries. On account of this the team will be somewhat weakened this week, but it is hoped that he will be ready for the game with Springfield Saturday evening.

The results of last week indicate that Pittsfield is the fastest team of the octet. With Windelkin and Shields in the lineup, the team that is representing Springfield will be found a match for the great aggregation that is playing for the Shire city, but at the present stage of the game Pittsfield is certainly first choice, as the New York stars will be able to play only the games in Whitney rink for the present at least. Pittsfield has a finely balanced team of great players and is likely to be alone in the lead at the end of this week.

Mike Hickey's team has more than justified the expectations. It has emerged victorious from four hard games and has shown itself capable of putting up some grand basketball. At the same time it has also shown that it can give a poor exhibition and thus far has given little evidence of real team work. Manager Hickey expects this defect to be remedied as soon as the players have grown accustomed to one another and he is urging continually the necessity of a passing game.

Chicopee was the disappointment of the league last week. Most people expected to see the Chicopee men make a runaway race of it from the start. The disappointment has not been through any inability of Chicopee to play as fast as it was believed the team could play, but rather through the unexpected strength displayed by Pittsfield and Springfield.—Springfield Union.

CYCLE NEWS.

Two retirements have been announced in the cycle-racing field—one of Walthour, a southerner, and the other of Major Taylor. Both give superabundance of wealth gained from cycle racing as a reason for retirement.

Despite this fact, there is every reason to believe that both riders will again be seen in harness next season. In fact, the name of Walthour is already on a contract to race under the management of Ell Winecott until Jan. 1, 1905. That nulls the retirement story from Walthourville, otherwise Atlanta, Ga. Taylor has earned between $10,000 and $15,000 this year. He will hardly find another opportunity to clean up a like amount in any other field. Probably after mature deliberation he will think it all over again and decide to shy his castor once more into the ring.

"On to Australia" is the cry of the racing men. Lawson and MacFarland are now on their way there, and a number of European cracks are reported to have announced their intention of competing in the land of the kangaroo. "Plugger Bill" Martin is already on the ground. He departed from these shores some months ago, quietly and without any one knowing of his departure. The Australian racing season is just opening, and Martin will make his first appearance in Sidney at a meet given for the benefit of Waine, a favorite antipodean rider.

According to R. Sumi, the Japanese importer, who is now in this country, cycle racing is on the top wave of popularity in the empire. The best tracks are in Tokyo and Osaka, but he says nearly every little country town possesses a course of some sort. The mile record stands at about 2.25, the slow time being due to the sandy and poorly improved tracks that are the rule. No admission fee is charged, and as a result crowds of from 10,000 to 20,000 are common.

"Looping the loop" on bicycles, which has been a relaxing sensation in Paris for some time, finally has been prohibited by the police. They took action after a man and his wife sought to perform the feat on a tandem, and landed in a hospital instead.

Five additional companies of cyclists are to be added to the French army. At the recent manoeuvres one company carried out a night "march" of 53 miles, from Berzieux to Sedan, in six hours and a half without a single straggler.

Owen Kimble, the American racing man who has spent the season riding on European tracks, sails for home this week. He has had a fairly successful year, being placed in a large number of important races.

GERMANY HOLDS OFF

Will Not Mix up in Panama Affair

By Associated Press to The Sun

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The Colombian commission, if it comes here, will receive no consideration from the German government. The correspondent of the Associated Press called the foreign office's attention to the statement made yesterday by Arturo de Brigard, the Colombian consul-general in New York, that the Colombians were clamoring for a German protectorate over their country and that the Colombian government had been asked to send a commission to Germany to offer Emperor William certain pieces of land on both seas, in return for Germany's protection. The reply was:

"We have heard nothing on the subject, but if a commission comes with such a proposition, it would not be entertained for one moment. We have no intention of mixing ourselves in the affairs of the jethinian states. We are still without any communication from our consular representatives in regard to the revolution or asking protection, hence we have omitted to ask the United States to look after German interests. The statements regarding our commercial interests in Columbia and Panama have been much exaggerated, but, we hope to see our trade there prosper better after the United States builds the canal."

THE GILLIS CASE

POWERS IS HELD BY THE POLICE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—On Saturday last Mary Gillis, 33 years old, single, who had been living in apartments on Madison place, went to the house of a Mrs. Martin at 19 Cobb street, where she took two or three rooms on the ground floor.

Mrs. Martin was told that she was sick at the time she went there, and she shared her rooms with James Powers, 40 years old, who has occupied rooms with her for a long time.

About 8 o'clock last night Powers is said to have called Dr. Maurice Gerstein, who had an office at the corner of Davis and Washington streets, and when he arrived the woman was dead, and, in the doctor's opinion, had been so for some time.

The dead woman had a black eye and bruises on the nose and body, which it is said she had when she went to the Cobb street house last Saturday. Dr. Gerstein refused to give a death certificate.

Powers was taken to station 5, and will be held pending the action of the medical examiner, who will hold an autopsy today.

The police were not satisfied with Powers' statements, which were to the effect that the last time he spoke to the Gillis woman was about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He told the officers that she had been very sick all day yesterday, and about 4 o'clock he went to her room to give her something to drink, but she could not swallow it. He was sure she was alive then, but he could not satisfactorily explain to the officers why he waited until 8 o'clock in the evening before he called a doctor.

Latest Development of the Paris Hat

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The charming salon of Mme. Carlier in the Rue de la Paix is the rendezvous these autumn days of the smart Parisienne and the equally stunning Americaine, each intent upon the pleasant pursuit of a chapeau. The creations displayed at this fascinating atelier are certainly the summum bonum of sartorial exclusiveness. If manners make the man, hats undoubtedly play a conspicuous part in making the woman. The possession of a becoming hat has often been the cause of more jealousy, hatred, malice and uncharitableness in the feminine world than one can well imagine. When two women meet at the beginning of a season the first thing they do is to pick each other's hats to pieces—in their minds; the next is to pay flattering compliments about them. Indeed, so all powerful is the question of head gear that some one has said a woman will make every sacrifice for her husband, will die for him if need be, but will always wear the hat she likes.

One of the confections over which the women were unblushingly breaking the tenth commandment at Carlier's was a cerise beaver. When I say cerise you very likely in imagination conjure up the hard, glaring, pinkish red we have been accustomed to associate with this color. The new cerise nuance is an exquisite blending of the pink and dahlia tones of the season. The almost imperceptible crown of this flat, round beaver creation was covered with a silk braid arranged in flat circles dotted with military buttons. Smart cerise and white wings on which circular velvet motifs were introduced completed the trimming. This description may sound rather bizarre, but to see the hat was to love it. Another delightful model was a gray fawn beaver rolled well up at one side, through which was thrust a long black feather. A similar plume encircled the crown.

The styles in headgear are most diverse, although most hats fit the head close in the back and have broad effects in front. They do not match the toilet, but harmonize perfectly with it. Some of the new models have such a frontal width that one wonders whether there is a face inside. The large hat we have been wearing for several seasons is held responsible for women not greeting each other with a kiss. It is well we have been educated up to the new extension brim, for should the contagion spread, to paraphrase a familiar quotation, "When brim meets brim then would come the tug of war." The club mainsail chapeau of last summer was extremely grotesque, and its successor of the woodpecker variety has only tacked in a different direction and is quite as absurd. The saving grace of the new development is, however, the fact of its not being a plaything for all the winds of heaven, as it holds its own on the head with commendable tenacity.

The kind of hat women of good taste will wear for all round occasions is a low, flat affair which comes down snugly over the face. This fashion may not be becoming to madame or mademoiselle, but it is chic, and she'll wear it without a murmur. A few models of the high crowned directoire type are observed. These are not evolved for the exclusive Parisienne, but are designed to catch the eye and please the fancy of the ultra feminine who insists upon something striking. There is a natty new Breton sailor very suitable for morning wear trimmed simply with queer wings in shadings to match the walking gown. The sailor shape is also smart when ornamented by a Rombey ruche of satin ribbon and the brim faced with velvet.

Our heart is still true to the picturesque Devonshire hat, and reproductions of that dear duchess' favorite head covering will grace many reception and carriage costumes.

To continue the millinery talk, velvet is the material with which the happiest effects in the chiffon world are obtained this season; not the old time kind, but the soft, exquisite texture the Paris and Lyons firms are turning out in the new chiffon velours. A Caroline Reboux medium sized plateau charmingly illustrates the velvet possibilities. This little hat is formed of gathered wood colored velvet, and the suspicion of a crown is made by the addition of a rosette in the center. A slightly curved brim at the left side is faced with shirred chiffon velours, under which rests a bunch of mauve roses.

The hat question naturally suggests the veil, without which the average woman is about as complete as a ship without a rudder. This adjunct of the toilet is often chosen with a recklessness actually disfiguring. A veil's first duty is to be becoming, and its selection should be made with regard to the coloring of the wearer, the scheme of dress and the type of beauty. Large spots sparingly sprinkled over a surface are never good on the face. This hit or miss arrangement of dots is perilous to trifle with, and the crossbarred affair makes the wearer look like a rabbit behind a wire. The most attractive veil is the fine diamond meshed black one without spots. It is both cheap and ladylike, two very important points. A leading Paris house is reviving the Victorian lace "full." This relic of our grandmothers' day is charming on a beautiful woman with a certain verve who looks well in almost anything. Such a one may adopt this quaint fashion for a fad. A safe rule to follow in veils is that a face covering should strike the eye as such no more than a wall paper should overshadow the pictures.

UP TO DATE PARISIAN HEADGEAR.

Paris is prepared to be jauntily rotund in silhouette, and the short, dumpy woman's day is not yet. She has certainly pegs to hang her grievance on in the short skirts standing out full a little below the waist, in the great sleeves and in the fussy pelerines. Let her accept Paddy's consolation and "keep never minding," for there is a hybrid garment neither pelerine nor bolero, but a combination of the two, which is just the wrap for her to choose. This pretty jacket reaches the waist line back and front and is held in place by a bolero extension beneath the arms. The sleeves and cape are modeled in one.

A stunning little tailor costume which took my fancy was a dark wood brown cloth with a hairy surface on which were distinctly seen red and green flecks. The skirt fitted beautifully at the waist and flared in a fluffy fullness at the feet. Down the front width was a panel four inches wide formed of narrow green and red braid, the ends of the braid being finished with small enameled buttons. The inevitable pelerine, trimmed with braid and buttons, finished the short, bloused jacket.

To be worn with this gown was a white silk shirt waist fashioned of heavy louisine. An "off the shoulder" yoke effect was stitched solidly with row after row of chain machine stitching in red, green and black. A long stole and collar and the high, fitted belt were also stitched. This stitching is one of the season's smartest trimmings for tailor mades.

Dyed wool laces will be much used, and a silk lace cut out and filled in with designs in thread is the dernier cri. An effective trimming is of braid or ribbon put on over a contrasting color which shows a trifle between the rows. The narrow belt and pouched waist are things of the past, the accepted coiture being a high, crushed directoire or fitted corselet fastened with an elaborate buckle of quaint design.

I must not forget to mention the new fur purse bags made of all the fashionable skins. They are mounted in gold and silver and sometimes studded with turquoise or emerald cabochons. A useful little pocket for the handkerchief is fitted at the back.

The up to date handkerchief is so frail and tiny, with its diminutive square of mull and lace frills, that the accepted place of bestowal is in the glove. Mme. La Mode has decreed that our glove shall not have a silver lining, but one of contrasting color in kid.

One of the pretty whimsicalities of the moment is to wear a miniature set in a circle of pearls or diamonds on a short chain around the neck. The swagger woman is now having all her jewelry reset after the antique, in which the new fashion which is the old is represented.

Evening toilets will be gorgeous if the handsome brocades which one sees on every hand go into their making. The all lace gown will be de rigueur, and the extreme rult is to embroider the lace with colored silks. Shaded mousseline de soie is evolving many of the prettiest ball costumes. A deep rose shading to a delicate pink in this material is wonderfully effective.

In all this wealth of material and style a sartorial tragedy is possible if there is a lack of suitability in the selection. A gown may be Paris made and chic to a degree, but if donned by the wrong woman she has the unfortunate appearance of masquerading in some one else's finery.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

Character Told by Shoes.

Scarpology is the name of a novel method of divination which is now attracting some attention in Europe. It was invented by a scientist of Basel, and it is based on the assumption that the character of any person can be told from his shoes.

When a heel and sole are worn equally, meaning thereby when neither is in a worse condition than the other, one may be confident, if a man wears the shoe, that he is energetic and is endowed with excellent business ability, and, if a woman, that she is loyal to her husband and a good housekeeper.

The outer edge of a sole if much worn is a sure token of a fantastic, wayward spirit; but, on the other hand, if the inner edge is worn the wearer is timid and irresolute.

When the shoes are much worn along the outer edge and the leather around the toes begins to look shabby, the other parts of the shoes meanwhile being almost as good as new, one may be confident that the wearer is a rogue."

The Newest Trimmings.

Embroidery, galloon and stitchery of various kinds will play an important part in the decoration of our garments during the winter, and those who are fortunate enough to have hoarded pieces of old needlework, brocade or embroidery should bring them out. A dainty vest, collar or other decorative trifle may be evolved by ingenious fingers from small pieces skillfully applied to a blouse or coat. Sapphire blue louisine with embroidery in greens and blues would be effective, and nut brown silk with embroidery of gold and Indian red would be equally pleasing.

A SMART WINTER COAT

THE stunning coat sketched is of heavy cloth in castor color. Four inverted box plaits form the front and flare into a three-quarter skirt. The back is plain and tight fitting. Three large and handsome brown butterfly ornaments fasten this smart wrap. The neck is collarless, and a double cape gives the necessary broad shoulder effect. The sleeves are also double and have an underpuff of the cloth. The castor beaver hat is trimmed simply with a white bird.

Belts to Be Worn This Winter.

Belts are wider than they have been. The new waistband is from two to four inches wide and rather bright in coloring. Suede and doeskin belts have taken the place of the shiny leather ones considered smart in the summer. All the belts fasten with the harness buckle or an antique clasp. A charming suede belt may be made at home with slight expense and trouble. Cut a piece of suede an eighth of an inch wide and the required size of the waist. Bind on each edge with ribbon. Graduate one end to a point and draw the other through the buckle in plaits. The belt is finished when a harness maker has riveted the eyelet holes in place. This belt is one of the new crushed kind.

The Season's Favorite Colors.

Now browns trimmed with white petuite are among the smartest shows of color and dark blue, with grass green, continues in the affection of many. As to gray, the dark shades are returning to favor, and one of the smartest costumes among the Paris models is a dark gray cloth with scarlet velvet trimmings.

The Care of Woman's Wardrobe

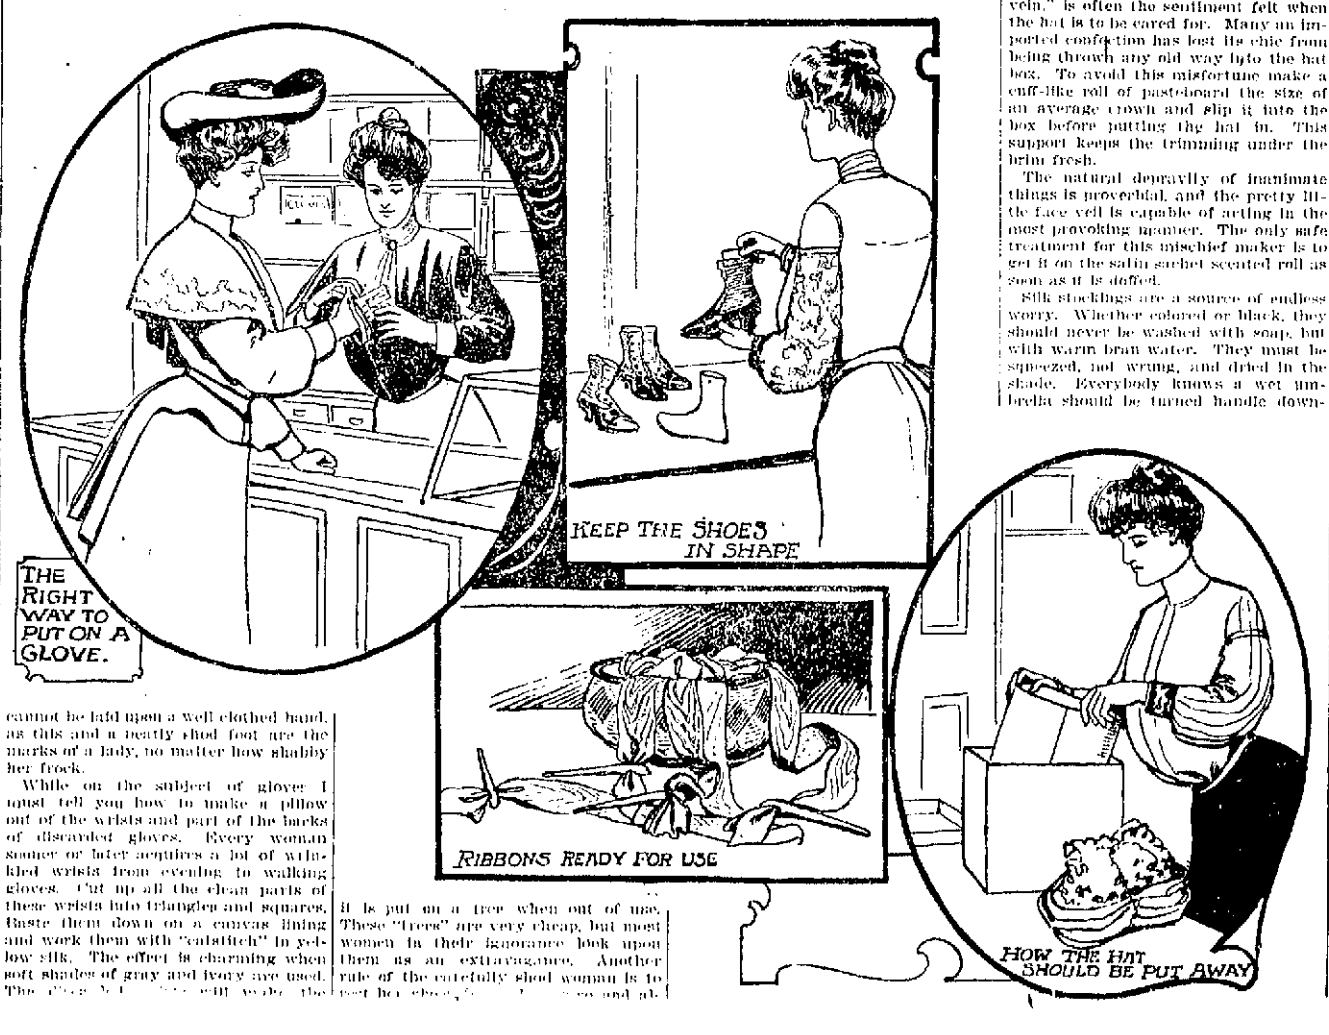

THE average woman does not number among her luxuries the services of a maid. In our effort to be elegant nowadays the term maid has become very elastic and comprehensive in meaning. The word is often used to describe our drudge of all work as well as the trained domestic specialist. The particular maid to whom I refer is the one devoted entirely to madam and her sartorial interests. If we all cannot enjoy the comfort of having our belongings taken care of by a lady's maid we can go into training and do the work for ourselves in a professional manner. The art of knowing how is invaluable to the woman of limited wardrobe who is ambitious to always appear well dressed.

This open secret lies for the most part in putting one's things away carefully; never tumbling them in a drawer or closet until they have been thoroughly dusted and brushed.

It is a great bother, I admit, when one comes home tired out from a day of social or business duties to put everything away with care in its right place. The impulse is to hang things round anywhere until tomorrow. Probably you have tried this "put off" method and realize that no neglect is possible in the domain of the well groomed woman. Eternal vigilance here is the price of a neat, smart appearance.

There are lots of little "first aids to the injured" and invaluable wardrobe labor savers known to the initiated. For instance, the neat and careful girl during a leisure hour runs ribbon in her lingerie. Her ribbon box contains the color of ribbon she affects in three widths. A bodkin is always threaded in each piece ready to run through the beading at a moment's notice. Gloves are overlooked after each wearing, carefully mended if necessary, smoothed out and put in a glove case between sachets perfumed with a favorite powder.

It is astonishing how few women put on and take off a glove properly, yet this has everything to do with its wear and appearance. To learn the right way watch an experienced saleswoman while she tries a pair on a customer. Invariably she will push the glove on the four fingers before putting it on the thumb. When the glove is removed the operation should begin at the wrist and the glove be carefully turned backward as far as the second joint of the fingers. It will then come off easily with a gentle hand, if it is jerked off by the fingers it will be stretched out of shape immediately. One glove should never be turned into another after the manner of stockings, but each finger should be laid out as flat as possible, with the thumb folded inside the palm. Too much stress cannot be laid upon a well clothed hand, as this and a neatly shod foot are the marks of a lady, no matter how shabby her frock.

While on the subject of gloves I must tell you how to make a pillow out of the wrists and part of the backs of discarded gloves. Every woman sooner or later acquires a lot of wrinkled wrists from evening to walking gloves. Cut up all the clean parts of these wrists into triangles and squares, baste them down on a canvas lining and work them with "outstitch" in yellow silk. The effect is charming when soft shades of gray and ivory are used. The [illegible] will make the most nerve soothing, smoothest pillow in the world. Stuff the pillow with hair if you can afford it.

"Lax in their gaiters, laxer in their gait," is an old saying which applies well to the modern shoe and its wearer. No shoe will keep in shape long unless it is put on a tree when out of use. These "trees" are very cheap, but most women in their ignorance look upon them as an extravagance. Another rule of the carefully shod woman is to ways wear a different pair indoors. Low shoes are better for house wear, as they permit of ventilation. Select a strong calfskin for a walking boot, keep it well oiled, and your pedestrian trips will be made in perfect comfort. Keep an old pair of shoes to wear under rubbers, as the perspiration which India rubber excites ruins good leather.

Nothing on earth is dowdier or more convincingly displays a lack of attention to details than a dirty, bedraggled skirt whose braid has begun to wear. Rip off the old protection and after thoroughly airing the skirt brush it with a good, large sponge, which removes the accumulation of dust much more effectually than a broom. When a skirt is in almost constant use it should be turned wrong side out once a week, hung on a line in the yard and every germ removed by an energetic beating. Of course a silk lining will not stand this sort of treatment, and a gentler method is required. When ready for the closet hang on a hanger, never by the loops found at the sides.

The fancy bodice, with its expensive frills, is another object of careful solicitude. If tissue paper is packed into sleeves and shoulders there is no danger of a crease settling in even the daintiest creation. A good idea when the collar and cuffs are of perishable material is to wrap soft paper around them. Silk covered hangers suspended from the center of the wardrobe afford a much better way of disposing of the waist than the drawer of a chiffonier.

"Thou troublest me; I am not in the vein," is often the sentiment felt when the hat is to be cared for. Many an imported confection has lost its chic from being thrown any old way into the hat box. To avoid this misfortune make a cuff-like roll of pasteboard the size of an average crown and slip it into the box before putting the hat in. This support keeps the trimming under the brim fresh.

The natural depravity of inanimate things is proverbial, and the pretty little face veil is capable of acting in the most provoking manner. The only safe treatment for this mischief maker is to get it on the satin sachet scented roll as soon as it is doffed.

Silk stockings are a source of endless worry. Whether colored or black, they should never be washed with soap, but with warm bran water. They must be squeezed, not wrung, and dried in the shade. Everybody knows a wet umbrella should be turned handle downward until dry and never placed in the holder rolled or with a case on.

The feminine world has long used the window glass for doing up the best handkerchiefs or delicate laces. Mucilage cases are an abomination, and a section of the top bureau drawer entirely padded with scented silk is a more convenient receptacle. This curriculum of clothes care may sound difficult to the freshman, but when the diploma is gained the graduate will prove a neat and useful adjunct if not an ornament to society.

ELINOR HEWITT.

We Can't Eat Celery Now.

Now the physicians are said to have forbidden another relish nearly as popular as oysters at this time. Celery has come under the ban of the doctors, who say that it is equally well adapted to transmitting the poisonous elements of the soil and carrying the germs of typhoid. The disease can be acquired only by introducing the microbes into the system in food or drink, and for that reason advice against certain kinds of food is always likely to be regarded. But to what extent this may be carried is well understood by the proprietor of one hotel, who has seen oysters during the past three weeks disappear almost entirely from the orders of his guests. Some weeks ago a well known man died of typhoid fever. He had lived at a large hotel, and the report went about that he had got his illness there. "Whatever you do, don't eat oysters at that hotel," was the advice that one friend was giving another, based on the belief that this man had died of a disease contracted in the hotel dining room, when the chances were immensely in favor of his having got the fever somewhere else.

If they keep on, there will be nothing left for us to eat except fish and fritters, and the latter will probably be cut off soon and pills substituted.

To Prevent Hair Falling Out.

There is nothing better than sage tea to prevent the hair from falling out. This should be well rubbed into the roots three or four times a week. Bran water is also good for the scalp where there is dandruff. After rubbing it in, the hair must be well washed or it will stick together. A frequent cause of the hair falling out is a deficient state of the circulation. Rubbing the scalp for a short time every night with the fingers will stimulate circulation.

Peppermint Cordial.

This cordial will keep for any length of time. Take one gallon of water, four and a half pounds of loaf sugar, two drams of the best oil of peppermint, one pint of gin. Boil the water and sugar together for twenty minutes, let stand till nearly cold, then add oil of peppermint and gin. Mix all together. When quite cold pour into bottles and cork tightly. Smaller quantity may be made by halving the measurements.

DAINTIES for AFTERNOON TEAS

SCONES.—Take one pound of fine flour, sift into it two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar and two ounces of powdered sugar. Rub into it three ounces of butter. Dissolve one small teaspoonful of carbonate of soda in half a pint of lukewarm milk and knead these ingredients into a stiff paste with the hands. Roll out half an inch thick, cut into rounds with a claret glass and bake in a brisk oven. When about half done brush over lightly with milk. Serve split open and buttered, either hot or cold.

Lemon Buns.—Mix two ounces of ground rice with six ounces of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and the grated rind of half a lemon. Rub in lightly two ounces of lard or butter. Beat up an egg with a gill of milk, stir into the other ingredients, beat for a few minutes, put into greased tins and bake in a quick oven for ten or fifteen minutes.

Sponge Cake With Chocolate Icing.—Carefully beat the whites of three eggs on a plate for twenty minutes. Separate the froth and add gradually six ounces of sugar and the well whipped yolks of three eggs. Beat all together, sifting in four ounces of flour. Flavor with essence of vanilla, pour into a tin lined with greased paper and bake in a steady oven for an hour. When cold cover with chocolate icing. To make it put a quarter of a pound of icing sugar, one ounce of grated chocolate and one tablespoonful of water into a saucepan. Stir over a moderate fire till as thick as cream. Lay this evenly over the cake with a knife, dipping it occasionally into boiling water. When finished set in a very cool place.

Cocoanut Cakes.—Mix together half a pound of flour, three ounces of grated cocoanut, three ounces of sugar, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Rub in three ounces of butter and mix with one egg and a little milk. Knead up stiffly, put rough pieces the size of a walnut on a greased tin and bake in a quick oven.

Sardine Sandwiches.—Dip half a dozen sardines into boiling water and remove the skin and bones. Pound them in a mortar with a hard boiled egg. Season with a squeeze of lemon juice and a few grains of cayenne. Cut some thin slices of brown bread and butter; spread with this paste. Press together, cut into fancy shapes and serve on a folded napkin garnished with parsley.

Restful simplicity is the rule in furnishing houses.

The Park Sisters, famous in Europe, as well as in America, are all great artists, and their program is so arranged that it pleases not only the most exacting critic, but also the average auditor who depends upon the melody for his entertainment, rather than upon the classical nature of the production or its artistic rendition.—Pittsburg Times.

Mr. Martin is truly a "singing bass." I thoroughly enjoy him. His voice, basso-cantante, belongs to the old Italian school and throughout its whole register is of a beautiful, even quality. His work was capitally done and enthusiastically received and encored.—Boston Evening Transcript.

McMAHON GAINED

Recount Gives Him Seven More Votes

Four Towns Yet to be Heard From--No Material Change in the 25th District Count—City Politics are Fairly Booming

The recount of the votes for representative in the 25th and 27th districts was finished last evening and resulted in no material change, though it brought forth a surprise in the Ward Nine vote and gives Mr. McMahon a fighting chance to beat Mr. O'Brien.

In the 27th Mr. McMahon gained seven. Mr. O'Brien's and Mr. Upton's votes were unchanged, and Mr. Westall gained two. Five of the votes credited to Mr. McAleer, the socialist candidate, were found to belong to Mr. McMahon.

At the present time Mr. Westall has a lead of seven votes on Mr McMahon, and Mr O'Brien a lead of three over him. The towns are yet to be heard from.

In the 25th, Mr. Hayes lost one vote, Mr. Henderson three, Mr. Hilton lost five, Mr. McMannmon lost five, Mr. Ripley lost eight and Mr. Roark gained 11.

Mr. M. D. Chenevert, who is president of the Young Men's club of Precinct 3 of Ward 6, in speaking of the good work the club can do, said to The Sun reporter: "When I first thought of the formation of our club, I felt that we would be able to do some good work in arousing the old-time democratic enthusiasm we had here a few years ago. I found, in mentioning the matter to the young men of the ward, that they were in accord with my idea and I entered into the work of organization. Tom Garvey is my personal friend, and as I knew he had had experience in politics, I suggested to the members that I invite him to give us some advice. I was listening to Tom but a short time when I realized that to follow his advice, meant that we could do a great work. I was favorably impressed with his remarks regarding the so-called touch club, and the result of our determination to avoid the touch club business, is that we have as members of our club some of the best citizens of the ward. Let me give you a few names of our members. There is one of our leading provision dealers, Mr. H. M. Demers. We have many other business men, among whom are E. J. Mercier, U. L. Chapelaine, O. J. David, J. M. Picard, George W. Pelmeault, L. Motard, C. L. Chapelaine, A. Guillmette, M. Forgette, M. Connolly, R. J.Chenevert, P. F. Chenevert, J. H. Marcotte and C. F. Sabell. You can rest assured that those men would not affiliate with any touch club and I become enthusiastic when I talk of the matter. Mr. Garvey made one suggestion to us, which struck me quite forcibly. That was that when the excitement of politics has gone, there was still work for our club to do. We should get rid of that detestable dump.

"We should get improvements along Ludlam, Exeter, Dolton streets, and all through that section of the ward, and we can get those improvements by just such an organization as ours. Just keep your eyes on the young men's club of Precinct 3 of Ward 6 and you will find us up and doing. We are assured of the co-operation and assistance of the people of our section of the ward and you will never hear of any act of ours which would make them regret having given us their co-operation and assistance."

Ward two has a host of democratic candidates this year. Among them are good, bad and indifferent material.

The following campaign card is unique. But no more so than the candidate whose cause it expounds:

"Democratic Candidate For Board of Aldermen.

"May it please the people of Lowell, Mass. Twenty-one years in the field of my honest toil in a manner of comparison. Having my troubles while I was young and able to bear them. If successful, and the merit or demerit of any question is to be discussed in City hall, you will hear from me. As you may perceive, I am of age. Office hours during business hours. Local Branch International Teaming and Express Company.

"Your humble servant,

"JOHN B. CLANCY,

"25 Floyd Street."

There is very little of the aldermanic tickets on either side, but the democrats will put up an unusually strong ticket, judging by some of the names mentioned. There is a sentiment all over the city, not confined to one party favorable to the candidacy of James F. Miskella of ward four, for another term. Mr. Miskella has not yet consented to run again, but the public is loathe to lose his services. During his incumbency he has been a most valuable and conscientious public servant and that the public appreciation his work is evidenced by the sentiment in favor of his re-nomination. Aldermen Gallagher and Gerow will be candidates for re-election.

The contest for overseer of the poor in ward four between Overseer Sheehan, who is seeking another term, and John J. Duff, who ran a close second two years ago, is waxing warm. Both are popular young men and desirable candidates, and whichever is nominated will make a good man for the place.

Maurice Flynn's friends announce that he is going to be one of the three lucky councilmanic candidates in ward two. Mr. Flynn is the son of the popular "Tom G." Flynn, one of the best known and liked of the early "Acre" settlers.

The Young French-American voters of ward seven are enthusiastic over the candidacy of Ernest Bernard for the common council on the democratic ticket in that ward, and predict his election if nominated.

Elie C. Laporte of ward six, a former member of the lower branch, has returned from a trip to the baronial estates of his European ancestors in Pontalmeldeau, on the Seine, and is a candidate for the common council once more. While in France he visited the municipalities of Paris, Havre and Rouen and smuggled in with him a number of imported ideas.

Thomas J. Bean, a prominent member of the Y. M. C. I., is a candidate for the democratic nomination for the school committee in Ward Nine.

Friends of Patrick Kelley are urging him to become a candidate for alderman in Ward Nine. Mr. Kelley is a large property holder and a heavy tax payer. He has resided in Ward Nine a great many years and is well known throughout the city.

PHILLIPPE BUNAU-VARILLA, the Panama Delegate to the United States.

FAIRMOUNTS WON

CENTRAL CLUB OF WOBURN THEIR VICTIMS.

The Fairmounts of Lowell won a decisive victory over the Central club of Woburn in a candle-pin match last night, taking all three strings by a comfortable margin.

The Lowell bowlers were in rare form and rolled steady throughout, while the local team reached 400 in only one string. The Fairmounts were at their best in the second string, when they rolled up a total of 444 O'Brien of the Fairmounts had the highest three-string total and Begley made the best single-string.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE

GIVEN AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

An interesting temperance meeting was held last night by the senior branch of the Star Army connected with the First Presbyterian church. An address was made by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Craig and readings were given by Miss Mary Sutherland and Ina Jamieson and speaking by Miss Lillian McAlister.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Well Known Wholesale Confectioner IS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND BATTERY

The Complainant is a Young Woman

Frank W. Smith, 35, a wholesale confectioner of this city, with residence in Gates street, was arrested by Inspectors Laflamme and Maher, yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with assault and battery.

She conducts a small variety store in Shaw street, in the vicinity of the Shaw Stocking company and Smith was in the habit of going to her store to sell his goods.

She alleges that Smith called at her store one day last week, that he went behind the counter and attempted to take unwarranted liberties with her. She says she screamed for help and that it was this fact which caused Smith to desist.

He was apprehended by the police near Towers' corner. He was on his delivery wagon in company with another man. Inspector Maher stepped up to him and told him that he had a warrant for his arrest.

Mr. Smith, the inspector alleges, did not ask him what he was wanted for, but said: "I suppose I'll be allowed time to get counsel." He asked to be allowed to drive to the police station in his wagon and his request was granted.

At police station he denied that he knew the girl and said it was a big mistake. He said he has several customers whose names he don't know, but whose faces are familiar to him.

Mr. Smith telephoned to John H. Morrison, who will represent him when the case comes to trial. It is understood that John J. Harvey will appear for the Commonwealth.

Smith told the officers that he had never been arrested before in his life and that he felt his position keenly. He is a married man. He was bailed shortly after his arrest by Morton N. Peabody. The bail was fixed at $300.

The case was called up in police court this morning and was continued until Nov. 18.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

Little Emile Phaneuf, son of Mrs. Phaneuf of 832 Lakeview avenue, broke his right arm yesterday while playing in the street. The arm was broken in two places and was the same arm which the little fellow broke six weeks ago.

FOOT INJURED.

LIVELY BLAZE

IN THE LAWRENCE HOSIERY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

A fire started in the Lawrence hosiery yesterday afternoon, but was extinguished before much damage was done. The fire started in Overseer Creever's room and was caused by a spark flying from one of the machines, setting fire to a pile of stockings.

Employes of the company put the fire out, but considerable fright was caused among the female employes. Some damage was done by water to goods stored in the room as well as to Overseer Thompson's room on the lower floor.

LOWELL GIRLS

Were Placed on Probation in Lawrence

Maud Fowler and Emma Mellow, ages 16 and 20 years, respectively, whose cases were continued from last Tuesday were tried yesterday in Lawrence police court. The young girls who were pretty and apparently well to do, were accompanied by their mothers. The charge against them was that of larceny. They each pleaded not guilty. Attorney Murphy of Lowell represented the Mellow girl, while J. C. Sullivan of this city appeared for the Fowler girl.

Mrs. Charles Day of 79 Springfield street, the complainant, said that she met the Fowler girl in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in Lowell one day and invited her to make a visit to her home in this city. On Tuesday, Oct. 27, the Fowler girl in company with Emma Mellow called at Mrs. Day's home. They were cordially received and stayed all night and Wednesday morning, when they left for their home, they carried with them two chains, a pair of shoes and a chatelaine bag. They pawned the goods in Samuel Goldberg's shop realizing the sum of 75 cents from the transaction. They enjoyed supper and paid their car fares to their homes in Lowell out of the money.

The Mellow girl told the court that the Fowler girl took the property from Mrs. Day's home, but did not deny that she accepted one of the chains, which she was wearing when arrested, nor that she went with her girl chum to pawn the goods, also of eating with the Fowler girl, who paid for the meal with money which she knew was obtained by selling the stolen property.

After she had given her testimony she burst into tears and went until after the disposition was made.

Maud Fowler next testified and accused the Mellow girl of taking the goods from the house, but admitted that she received the money from the pawnbroker.

The court talked to the girls, and after warning them against a repetition of the deed adjudged them guilty.

BROKER FELL DEAD

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—With nerve strained to the breaking point by hours of vigil beside the ticker today, watching the great decline in the price of steel stocks, Leonard G. Vail staggered out of his office to catch a breath of fresh air, and fell dead at the door.

Mr. Vail was office manager for the New York stock exchange firm of H. K. Burras, with offices at 35 Wall street. It was just 2.30 in the afternoon when he walked out of his office. He fell in the hall just as an elevator stopped to take him to the street.

The last fearful wave of liquidation in steel preferred had just begun, and was sweeping values before it at such a tremendous rate that Mr. Vail could see ruin for many of his friends who were tied up in the stock.

Mr. Burras of the firm was on the floor of the exchange in the thick of the battle over steel when word came that Mr. Vail had fallen in a fit of apoplexy. He rushed across the street with Dr. Hewitt, the stock exchange physician, but when they reached the stricken man they found two doctors already bending over him. He was beyond recovery.

Mr. Vail went into the service of the firm 26 years ago as a messenger boy. He was 42 years old, and lived at 33 Lombardy street, Newark, with his mother and sisters. He was unmarried. A brother is a member of the Consolidated stock exchange.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Jane B. Newton circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., met last evening at Post 185, G. A. R. hall, and made arrangements for the part they are to take in the bazaar, which is to be held for the purpose of collecting money for the erection of a Sailors' and Soldiers' monument at the Edson cemetery.

A short session of the Dahlgren association Naval Veterans, was held last night. Plans were discussed in regard to the bazaar for the Sailors' and Soldiers' monument.

The regular meeting of Minnequa council, No. 72, was held last night at Odd Fellows' hall. Hereafter the organization will hold its regular meetings in Mechanics hall, Middle street.

A meeting of John Erickson council, Royal Arcanum, was held last night, at which an invitation from Industry council was received. Industry council invited the John Erickson council to parade on the 23d of this month. The invitation was accepted.

POISONING CASE

Dr. Huntress Says Responsibility is Not Placed

The committee inquiring into the poisoning at the State hospital in Tewksbury have come to one conclusion—that atropine tablets, not belladonna in the liquid form, was given to the eleven patients who were poisoned at the hospital a few days ago.

In view of the fact that the committee has agreed upon the form in which the poison was administered and that there were no atropine tablets in the medicinal closet in the ward where the poisoning occurred, the committee finds itself face to face with twin theories—either the tablets were taken from the laboratory, or they were smuggled in from the outside.

Atropine is the active principle of belladonna and an atropine tablet dropped into a glass of water would not create any noticeable discoloration.

In conversation with a Sun reporter this forenoon Dr. Huntress said: "The committee has not yet arrived at any conclusion. There is no one inmate of the institution, in particular, that we suspect and no such statement as appears in the morning papers was given out by any member of the committee.

"The committee cannot afford to disclose the line of investigation. We have not given out any statement and will not until we have concluded the investigation. The committee will not meet today and I do not expect that we will get through with the investigation before another five days, at least."

"Then the committee has not yet placed the responsibility for the poisoning?" said the reporter.

"Certainly not," replied the doctor.

"No one in particular is suspected?"

"You wouldn't want to go on record as saying that the committee hasn't got its suspicions?" queried the reporter.

"No, I don't know that I would, but to tell our suspicions would mean, of course, a break in the line of our investigation. The main thing for the committee now is to find out where the poison came from; then and not till then will the committee be able to place the responsibility."

GOMPERS' ADDRESS

PRESIDENT SAMUEL GOMPERS, A. F. of L.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—Having on yesterday got the machinery of their meeting well started, the delegates to the 23d annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor today reassembled for deliberation on subjects, the important nature of which has drawn labor leaders to Boston from all sections of the country. President Gompers' address and the reports of Secretary Morrison and Treasurer Lennon were printed yesterday, so that the principal item of routine, as arranged for today, was to be the report of the executive council of the federation. Then it was expected that the many recommendations contained in President Gompers' address would be acted upon by the convention. His emphatic declaration that the great danger which confronts the federation is the internecine strife between affiliated unions over the jurisdiction of trades has been the chief topic of discussion amongst the delegates. It was generally accepted that some decided action on this matter would be taken before many days, if not immediately.

Shortly after 9 o'clock President Gompers called the delegates to order.

MESSAGE READ

President Roosevelt's Recommendations to Congress

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—President Roosevelt's message to congress was read today. The message is as follows:

To the senate and house of representatives: I have convened the congress that it may consider the legislation necessary to put into operation the commercial treaty with Cuba, which was ratified by the senate at its last session, and subsequently by the Cuban government. I deem such legislation demanded not only by our interest but by our honor. We cannot with propriety abandon the course upon which we have so wisely embarked. When the acceptance of the Platt amendment was required from Cuba by the action of the congress of the United States, this government thereby definitely committed itself to the policy of treating Cuba as occupying a unique position as regards this country.

It was provided that when the island became a free and independent republic she should stand in such close relations with us as in certain respects to come within our system of international policy, and it necessarily followed that she must also to a certain degree become included within the lines of our economic policy. Situated as Cuba is it would not be possible for this country to permit the strategic abuse of the island by any foreign military power. It is for this reason that certain limitations have been imposed upon her financial policy, and that naval stations are on the eve of completion. They are so situated as to prevent any idea that there is the intention ever to use them against Cuba, or otherwise than for the protection of Cuba from the assaults of foreign foes, and for the better safeguarding of American interests in the waters south of us.

These interests have been largely increased by the consequences of the war with Spain, and will be still further increased by the building of the Isthmian canal. They are both military and economic. The granting to us by Cuba of the naval stations above alluded to is of the utmost importance from a military standpoint and is proof of the good faith with which Cuba is treating us. Cuba has made great progress since her independence was established. She has advanced steadily in every way. She already stands high among her sister republics of the new world. She is loyally observing her obligations to us; and she is entitled to like treatment by us.

The treaty submitted to you for approval secures to the United States economic advantages as great as those given to Cuba. Not an American interest is sacrificed. By the treaty a large Cuban market is secured to our producers. It is a market which lies at our doors, which is already large, which is capable of great expansion, and which is especially important to the development of our export trade. It would be indeed shortsighted for us to take advantage of such an opportunity, and force Cuba into making arrangements with other countries to our disadvantage.

This reciprocity treaty stands by itself. It is demanded on considerations of broad national policy as well as by our economic interest. It will do harm to no industry. It will benefit many industries. It is in the interest of our people as a whole, both because of its importance from the broad standpoint of international policy, and because economically it intimately concerns us to develop and secure the rich Cuban market for our farmers, artisans, merchants and manufacturers. Finally, it is desirable as a guarantee of the good faith of our nation towards her young sister republic to the south, whose welfare must ever be closely bound with ours. We gave her liberty. We are knit to her by the memories of the blood and the courage of our soldiers who fought for her in war; by the memories of the wisdom and integrity of our administrators who served her in peace and who started her so well on the difficult path of self-government. We must help her onward and upward; and in helping her we shall help ourselves.

The foregoing considerations caused the negotiation of the treaty with Cuba and its ratification by the senate. They now with equal force support the legislation by the congress which by the terms of the treaty is necessary to render it operative. A failure to enact such legislation would come perilously near a repudiation of the pledged faith of the nation.

I transmit herewith the treaty, as amended by the senate and ratified by the Cuban government.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

SHOE

FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

There are a whole lot of young women that wore Spring Heel Boots last year. They won't wear Spring Heel Boots any more. Their mothers with their good judgment will not allow them to wear high heel boots, and that's right. The effect of high heels on young women's ankles would be ruinous. We could foresee all this, so we make a boot for young women with heels ⅝ in. high and 2½ in. long which support the ankle—better than the spring heel and please the young women much better. We make these boots double sole, solid throughout—Vici Kid Lace with Kid tip and with Patent tip. The Box Calf with tips of the same is as good style as any boot we make.

HORRIBLE TREATMENT

STORY OF HOW STUDENT LOEW MET HIS DEATH.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Dr. Leopold Hirschmann of this city, cousin of Martin Loew, a medical student, whose death occurred recently at Baltimore soon after his initiation into a Greek letter fraternity, says he has received details of the affair from a fellow student. The latter declared that when Loew went to the fraternity hall, to take the first degree, he was met by 25 men. He was told to undress and after doing so, was blindfolded and taken into a room where he was laid upon a cake of ice. He was then carried up stairs to the balcony and thrown over the rail—a drop of 25 feet. On the floor beneath stood a number of students holding a sheet.

"When Loew fell into this," said the doctor, "he was tossed up and down until he was unconscious. After being revived, he was beaten until his body was a mass of bruises.

"That night he was in such a wretched condition that his room-mate stayed up all night with him. Whiskey and quinine were given to him during the night and in the morning he felt relieved.

"The following Saturday he took the second degree. In the morning he was found dead and his chum who had just taken the first degree, was in a serious condition. The guilty ones should be sent to the gallows. They are murderers."

BRASS THIEVES

Robbed Factories, Dwelling Houses and Camps

Bad Trio Now in Custody—Their Work of Plundering Has Been Going on for Months—It Was Larceny and Vandalism Combined

The arrest of William McCarty, 22, and Joseph McCrann, 19, at early hour this morning, has brought to light one of the very worst cases of vandalism in the history of this city. All of the big thefts of brass and other metals that have been reported to the police during the last few months are attributed to McCarty, McCrann and Arthur Burnhart, who is now serving sentence at the Concord reformatory.

The wholesale destruction of new machinery, stored at the Coburn Shuttle works, at the corner of Plain and Tanner streets, for the sake of their brass fixings and trimmings was done by the trio now in the hands of the police. McCarty and McCrann admitted everything to the police shortly after their arrest. McCarty was not in some of the big raids made by the other two; in fact McCrann made McCarty his partner in crime after his former associate, Arthur Burnhart, had been sentenced to the reformatory. McCarty was under police espionage for a week. They knew that he had had a hand in some of the jobs that had been reported and they allowed him his liberty for the time being in order that they might watch his movements and find out who his associates were. The arrests were made by Capt. Kew, Inspectors Donaldson, Laflamme and Maher and Officers Cawley and Cogger.

OPERATED FOR MONTHS.

The story of Burnhart's and McCrann's depredations is a long one. Burnhart, the police allege, was the ring leader and he is regarded as a cool, deliberate fellow, who hates work as thoroughly as he loves stealing. He was in court several months ago on a complaint charging him with stealing money from a pool room proprietor and a few weeks later he and McCrann were in police court and were convicted of larceny. They were charged with breaking into trunks in a house at the corner of South and Appleton streets and the larceny of various articles of wearing apparel. It was for this offence that Burnhart was sentenced to the reformatory. McCrann was fined $20 and the fine was paid.

When the two young men pleaded not guilty to larceny from the trunks they must have been laughing up their sleeves, for at that time they were also guilty of breaking and entering and larceny from the Coburn Shuttle Works and vacant dwelling houses and camps. At that time, however, the Coburn Shuttle works larceny hadn't been reported to the police.

THEFTS ARE ADMITTED.

McCrann, the police allege, has admitted that Burnhart and himself did the job at the bobbin factory and that they also stripped the plumbing in unoccupied dwellings all of which had been reported to the police.

They visited a vacant house, the property of Sheppard & Fuller, at 565 Rogers street, and they didn't leave enough of the plumbing to hold an inquest on. They also destroyed the gas fixtures in the house and carried away two large copper boilers that were stored there for convenience sake.

A week or so later they broke into John J. Gray's cottage in Montreal street, Bennettville, and carried away pretty nearly everything that had one loose end. They didn't confine themselves to brass or copper, but loaded up with cutlery and anything else that they could lay their hands on.

A little later they visited a boat house owned by Mr. Nathaniel Parks, and in order to promote their brass stealing industry practically ruined a small steamer. They stripped the steamer of every particle of brass she carried and what they couldn't unscrew they hammered off. They also corralled a Johnston hand pump, brass oil cans and other fixings and articles that they thought they could dispose of.

MORE THAN $2000 DAMAGE.

The break at the old bobbin factory at the corner of Plain and Tannery streets was the worst of all. Parties from Boston and Lawrence as well as from this city had machinery stored there and some valuable pieces were ruined by the thiefs. What they couldn't unscrew they hammered off, and their work of destruction was carried to such an extent that machinery minus any brass was smashed and thrown about. The only way the police can account for the destruction of machinery that did not carry any brass is that the thieves were vandals of the worst description.

They had made several trips to the bobbin shop and their depredations there are estimated at upwards of $2000. Their work was not discovered for more than two weeks after they had made their last trip to the factory and when reported to the police the latter were absolutely without a clew.

TOOK A NEW PARTNER.

When Burnhart was sent to the reformatory, McCrann looked about him for a new partner and came in contact with McCarty. He found him to his liking and they started out to do business. That McCrann has offmonitory to burn is evidenced by the fact that his first expedition with McCarty was to bring Burnhart from the reformatory.

NOW FOR THE JUNK DEALERS.

The police are now actively engaged in ferreting out who it was that the brass thieves sold the stolen property to. They do not believe that they carried it out of Lowell to sell and several local junk dealers are under the ban. Judge Hadley has already declared that the junk dealer who bought stolen property was on a level with the thief.

GONE TO VICKSBURG

TO DEDICATE THE MASSACHUSETTS MONUMENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—A delegation from Massachusetts headed by Governor John L. Bates, left Boston today for Vicksburg, Miss., where on November 14 will be dedicated a monument erected to commemorate the work of Massachusetts soldiers in the Civil war.

The party includes President George R. Jones of the Massachusetts senate; Speaker James J. Myers, of the house of representatives; Department Commander Dwight O. Judd, of the G. A. R., the joint committee on military affairs of the state legislature, a special committee of the legislature and six representatives of the 29th, 35th and 36th regiments, Massachusetts volunteers.

Mrs. Henry H. Kitson, sculpturess of the monument, and the members of the monument commission, were also of the party.

On the way to Vicksburg the delegation will stop at Cincinnati, Ohio, Chattanooga, Tenn., and New Orleans, La. The travelers are due back to Boston on Wednesday, November 18.

THEY WANT COLE

GOVERNOR BATES ASKED TO GRANT REQUISITION PAPERS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SACO, Me., Nov. 10—Governor Bates of Massachusetts has been asked to grant requisition papers for the removal to this state of William H. Cole of Wakefield, Mass., against whom charges of embezzlement have been preferred by the city of Saco. Governor Hill has signed the papers.

Cole is charged with the embezzlement of $604.67 while serving as chairman of the board of overseers of the poor during 1901-02. The actual deficit in his accounts, it is alleged, was $104.67, Mr. Cole having paid in $500.

IN POLICE COURT

Other defendants charged with keeping liquor had their cases continued as follows: Isidore Dyer continued to November 14; Basil Silva, continued to November 12 and Antonio Marin, continued to November 13. Patrick Margan was fined $50.

For drunkenness, William F. Mead appealed from a state farm sentence and was ordered in $200 for the Superior court; Jennie Mead was fined $6 and Herbert L. Sponholtz was continued to November 11.

FIRE IN TAR KETTLE.

An alarm from box 338 shortly before noon today summoned a portion of the fire department to a fire in a tar kettle at the asphalt plant in Maple street. There was no damage.

10.10—U. S. Steel opened at 5¼, but the market sagged to 50⅜. The second bonds and the common stock opened at new low records, the bonds selling at 65¼. Five hundred shares of the common stock sold at 10¼ and the next sale was of 4200 shares at 10⅛. The transactions in both classes of stocks continued in very heavy volume. Union Pacific also opened wide on the sale of 2500 shares at 71¼ and 71 compared with 71⅝ last night and there was a subsequent sale at 70⅞.

Prices were down varying fractions throughout the list.

FALSE ALARM

Officer Lennon Caught Boy Who Pulled It in

The false alarm fiend has started on his work of giving the fire department runs for nothing. This morning about 10.30 o'clock an alarm from box 225 was sounded and a portion of the department responded. This box is located at the corner of Little and Lewis streets and when the department arrived there was not the least sign of fire, but Police Officer Lennon had a young man about 18 years of age in his custody, having arrested him for ringing in the alarm.

After Chief Hosmer found out that the alarm was a false one he dismissed the department and held a consultation with the young man, who gave his name as Wayne. Wayne claimed that he had nothing to do with ringing in the alarm.

He said that he was with a crowd of fellows when a fellow named Thomas Archibald, residing in Centralville, broke the glass on the box and inserting the key in the lock, opened the box and pulled in the alarm. The whole gang then ran away. Wayne was making himself scarce when Officer Lennon grabbed him.

Wayne was questioned pretty closely and after his name and residence had been taken, Chief Hosmer went to the police station and reported the matter to Supt. Moffatt, who will have the matter investigated. At the present time the chief and the police have only the word of Wayne, who claims that Archibald pulled in the alarm. The officers believe they can connect the crowd with the pulling in of the last two false alarms which were located in Centralville, one having been pulled in from box 67 in Hildreth street, opposite Lilley avenue and the other from box 132 at the pumping station, in West Sixth street.

Wayne, in relating the incident to the police, said that Archibald broke the glass, but another boy who was in the vicinity said that there had been no glass on the box for three or four days. It is pretty certain that there was glass on the box, for there were signs of freshly broken glass near the foot of the pole on which the box is located.

TWO MEN DYING

Italians Tried to Kill Policeman

ANGRY MOB THREATENS TO LYNCH ASSAILANTS

Italians From Ambush Fired on Officer

By Associated Press to The Sun

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—At Donora last night, as a result of an attempt of a gang of Italians to assassinate a policeman, two men are dying, a third is wounded and five Italians are in the Donora lockup threatened with lynching by an angry mob. The wounded men are:

Policeman Isaac Johnson, aged 45, married; shot through abdomen and fatally wounded.

A. W. Kallerl, aged 25; shot through the abdomen, cannot recover.

An unknown man, shot through the thigh, will recover.

Last night as Policeman Johnson was patrolling his beat, he was fired on by a gang of Italians from ambush. Johnson had just reached the Third street hollow on Third street, near Thompson hollow. Without the least warning a shot was fired from the roadside and Johnson fell mortally wounded with a bullet in his abdomen. A gang of Italians, numbering about ten, rushed from the roadside to seek cover in the Italian settlement. In a short time a mob collected and a posse was immediately organized. The Italians had been traced to an abandoned house standing by itself and the posse armed with clubs and revolvers made a rush for the house, only to find the doors barricaded. They were greeted with a volley from inside the house and A. W. Kallerl, one of the posse, fell with a bullet in his abdomen. He was carried away from the scene of the fight and again the mob made a rush at the house, breaking in the door and leaping at the Italians with their clubs in their hands. Another of the posse fell this time with a wound in his thigh and lay there while the Italians and the posse fought. The Italians, as soon as the door was broken, made a desperate attempt to escape and several managed to get away. Five of them were captured and taken to the Donora lockup under a heavy guard. By this time, the whole town was aroused and a mob of angry people were in front of the lockup.

The police of the town are guarding the lockup and it is expected that an attempt will be made to break in and lynch the prisoners.

PAPER CONTRACT

Causes Ripple in Health Department

BOARD GAVE TAXPAYER THE PREFERENCE

But May Have Exceeded Their Authority

The board of health and its agent, Mr. Knapp, have had a misunderstanding over the award of the contract to gather waste paper and once more there is "something doing in the news line" at the health department office.

It seems that up to this year a Portuguese has been collecting the waste paper of the city, paying a small figure for the privilege. This year, however, there were several out-of-town bidders for the place along with the Portugese and Francis Gallagher, a citizen of Lowell.

Agent Knapp was inclined to favor the Portugese who though he had made no formal bid, was willing to bid as high as any other concern. The board of health favored Mr. Gallagher, who bid $125, and still a Lynn company was in the field with a bid of $165 per year.

Agent Knapp favored the Portugese because he had done the work for a couple of years and had a little plant built, and furthermore gave the department no trouble. Then, also, he could not understand why the board should suddenly come in and take this minor matter out of his hands when he is allowed to do much more important business on his own responsibility. The board, however, decided that Mr. Gallagher being a citizen and a taxpayer, should receive first consideration, and accordingly awarded him the contract.

But they did not singly make a contract with Mr. Gallagher for one year at $125, but for $10 years at $125 per year, which brings the total amount considerably over the $300 limitation on department contracts placed by the city charter.

Hence, the matter is now under the consideration of the city solicitor as regards the legality of the action of the members of the board in making a contract over the amount of $300.

Another little matter to be ironed out at the next meeting is a vote of the board at its last meeting instructing the agent to write a letter to the different mill agents of the city in regard to their water supply. The vote anticipates a general letter whereas the conditions prevailing in the mills are not alike in any two cases and a general letter will have little effect.

FUNERALS.

ORCUTT—The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Orcutt took place from her home in South Tewksbury Sunday afternoon. The bearers were William Pringle, Enoch W. Foster, Harlesk Osborn, M. MacDonald. The burial was in the Shawsheen cemetery.

SWEET—The funeral of the late Gilbert W. Sweet took place yesterday afternoon from his late home, 108 Jenness street. Prayers were read by Rev. A. St. John Chambre, rector of St. Anne's church. The bearers were Charles Holmes, Elmer B. Robinson, Henry B. Sweet, John Schegel. Burial was in Edson cemetery, in the family tomb, under the direction of Undertaker John A. Weinbeck.

GRAVES—The funeral of Mary E. Graves took place yesterday afternoon upon the arrival of the remains at the Northern station from her late home in Revere. Services were held in the Lowell cemetery chapel, Rev. George F. Kenngott, pastor of the First Trinitarian Congregational church, officiating. Burial was in Lowell cemetery, Undertaker Weinbeck in charge.

ALLEN—The funeral of Thomas Allen was held yesterday from the Northern station, and burial was in the Catholic cemetery in charge of Undertaker Molloy.

GREEN—The remains of the late Mary Green were consigned to their final resting place in the Catholic cemetery this morning. The funeral took place from her late home, 156 Chapel street, at 8.30 o'clock and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased, including friends from Quincy, Taunton, Maynard and Lawrence.

The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church in Gorham street, where a high mass of requiem was sung at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The choir under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly sang the Gregorian mass and during the service solos were rendered by members of the choir. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in evidence.

The bearers were Messrs. Dennis Mc-Hugh, William H. Harrigan, Thomas Ryden, P. A. Rogers and James Sheridan of this city and Thomas Gaffney of Taunton. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery, where the last sad rites of the Catholic church were solemnized by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Director John F. Rogers.

COX—Mildred H. Cox, aged four years, died yesterday at the home of her parents, Philip and Clara, 78 Whipple street. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the interment was in the Catholic cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker John J. O'Connell.

GRANTED A PATENT.

Alfred A. Lovejoy of this city, has just secured through Gardner W. Pearson, Esq., a patent on a self closing gas burner. The object of the invention is to provide a burner in which if the light is extinguished the valve will be automatically closed, and thus all danger from escaping gas is avoided.

The device works remarkably well and it is said that a Boston syndicate is negotiating for its purchase for a substantial sum.

MAINE MAN PERISHED IN SNOW STORM.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ELLSWORTH, Me., Nov. 10.—A searching party yesterday found the body of Ansel P. Goodell in the woods five miles from his home in Plantation Eight, lying on his back at the foot of a tree where he is supposed to have fallen from exhaustion while trying to make his way home through a heavy snow fall Saturday.

Goodell and Fred Witham entered the woods on a deer hunt Saturday, during one of the severest snow storms ever experienced in eastern Maine. They got on the track of two deer, and when the deer separated the hunters parted company.

Later in the day Witham reached Frenkville, and when Goodell did not return home Sunday a party was organized to look for him, the search being continued yesterday. Just before noon the body was found partially covered with snow.

HOUSE WARMING

AT NEW ESTABLISHMENT OF LOWELL PACKING COMPANY.

The Lowell Packing and Provision company opened its new plant on Market street yesterday, and the "house-warming" was attended by every butcher, baker and grocer in Lowell, besides a number of personal friends of the owners and employes.

On the third floor of the building a hurdy gurdy furnished music, while an elaborate lunch was served throughout the afternoon.

The new establishment is one of the largest and best equipped in all New England, and there is nothing to compare with it outside of Boston. It occupies four floors on the building in Market street, opposite the police station, and is appointed in a most up-to-date manner.

The big refrigerator on the street floor is 30x15 feet and holds four carloads. Yesterday it was filled with a fine display of beef. There is also a refrigerator for lards and pork, a smoke house, mammoth Winchester boiler and kettle and all the other appurtenants and appliances going with the business. The steam plant, which is undoubtedly the best in Lowell, was fitted up by Welch Bros. of this city. The great carcasses are easily run from one end of the building to the other by an overhead trolley system.

The business offices are on the second floor and are large, bright and neatly furnished. Throughout the afternoon Mr. Fred Walsh, who directs the affairs of the company, was showered with congratulations and best wishes.

TOWN EXCITED

They Robbed Town Policeman and Then Locked Him in a Cell—Blew Open the Safe in Post Office and Got $1000 Belonging to the Postmistress—People are Searching for the Burglars

By Associated Press to The Sun

MERRIMAC, Mass., Nov. 10—Atwood Nixon, the only officer of the local police force, was knocked down early today, robbed, handcuffed and locked in a cell in the town jail by four unknown men who later blew off the door of the post office safe with a charge of dynamite, stole the valuables contained therein, and departed without leaving any clues behind them. Before departing the burglars held up one man at the point of a revolver and fired two shots at another, both bullets going wide of the mark.

The sounding of the fire alarm called the entire male population of the town to the scene and all citizens began scouring the town bent upon capturing the thieves. Nixon met the men about 3.30 o'clock this morning. Without a word they sprang upon him, knocked him down and handcuffed him with his own handcuffs. Then they went through his pockets and relieved him of his gold watch and chain and $26 in money, then, taking him to the town jail they thrust him into a cell, locked the door and went away.

Soon after this Philip Quimby, night watchman at the electrical power station, heard the sound of the explosion which wrecked the safe in the post office. He walked up the street to investigate and was met by the burglars who levelled their revolvers at him and told him that if he did not go back where he came from they would kill him.

Quimby immediately went back to the power station and on arriving there sounded a general alarm on the fire whistle.

The citizens of the town poured out of their houses and began excitedly inquiring of each other the cause of the alarm being sounded. It was not long before they found out, as Charles Howe, the engineer at the Walker Carriage company's shop soon appeared with a thrilling story. He told how he had met four men as he was coming down the street and someone in the party had fired two shots at him, neither taking effect.

A search by the citizens disclosed the fact that the post office had been the scene of an unusually bold band of burglars. The door of the safe was completely blown off and papers and records were scattered all about the office.

It occasioned considerable surprise among the citizens that Policeman Nixon was nowhere to be seen, and accordingly a search for him was begun. Among other places the town jail was visited and the officer was found handcuffed in a cell. Nixon said that the burglars were four in number, their ages ranging from 25 to 30 years. Nixon said that he would know two of them if he should meet them again. He described them as being well dressed and barring their treatment of him, very gentlemanly.

The government lost practically nothing through the robbery, but the postmaster, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Smart, had $1,000 in money and valuables taken.

It has been the custom of the postmaster to keep the greater part of the money and stamps in a safe deposit vault, so that the amount of government funds in the office was trifling.

As soon as the townsmen learned of the robbery each one became a self-appointed deputy and a thorough search for the thieves was begun. Surrounding cities and towns were notified and when the first car arrived in Haverhill, two person having a suspicious appearance were placed under arrest.

The Haverhill police this morning began an investigation of the safe blowing at the post office at Merrimac. State Officer Hammond was called into the case and with Captain Shannon and two policemen drove to that town but no clues were secured to the gang, which, it is believed, consists of semi-professional safe-blowers who have have been operating throughout Essex county for the past two weeks.

This morning Herbert C. Upton and Arthur S. Adams of Beverly were detained at the police station. They came to this city from Merrimac on one of the first electrics this morning, but after satisfactorily answering all questions and making known the object of their trip to Merrimac, they were allowed to depart.

Adams is employed by Dr. Stickney of Beverly and with Upton he had driven over the road last evening with a carriage which Dr. Stickney wished repaired by a Merrimac firm. The local police inquired of the Beverly police regarding the two men and as they also had letters disclosing their identity the two men were not held.

State Officer Hammond, after investigating the Merrimac job was of the opinion that te gang was the same which secured $330 in the liquor saloon of McCarthy & Cronin in tis city last Saturday morning.

TWO SHOT DEAD

Revolver Fight in the Wallace Theatre

MINER WHO CAUSED TROUBLE IS DEAD

Well Known Physician the Second Victim

CHIEF OF POLICE SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Many People Injured in Stampede

By Associated Press to The Sun

WALLACE, Idaho, Nov. 10—Two persons were killed and two wounded in a shooting affray at the entrance of the Wallace Opera House last night. The shooting took place just as the theatre-goers were leaving the theatre, following a performance by the James O'Neil company. The dead:

DR. W. F. FIMS, shot through the head.

WILLIAM CUFF, miner, shot three times.

The wounded:

Opera House policeman Rose, shot in leg.

Opera House Policeman Rose ordered him to desist but he refused. The policeman took the cigar away from Cuff after a struggle. Cuff left the theatre vowing vengeance. He returned with a revolver and waited until the performance was over. Rose was the first man to leave the opera house. As he stepped outside he began firing. The first shot missed and Rose returned the fire. Dr. Fims, who was escorting a woman, followed Rose out, and as he did so, a bullet struck him in the head, killing him instantly. Other policemen appeared at this moment and a general fusilade followed. The panic stricken theatre-goers rushed back into the foyer, men and women being trampled on in the mad rush to get away. Cuff continued firing, wounding Chief of Police McGovern and Special Officer Rose. Cuff then started up a running fire, but was intercepted by Policeman Quinn, who kept up a running fire, three bullets taking effect. Cuff fell unconscious and died in fifteen minutes.

A number of people were injured in the stampede.

Cuff was a miner and served in the [illegible] of Wallace and leaves a family.

LOST ON STOCKS

A STENOGRAPHER HAD DEBTS AMOUNTING TO $13,790.15.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10—Referee Henry G. Newton yesterday recommended a discharge in bankruptcy for Sarah S. Platt of Orange, who filed her petition in the United States court last August. Miss Platt is a stenographer and has debts amounting to $13,790.15, with normal assets of $20,670, which however, were so encumbered as to be of no value.

Miss Platt's financial difficulties were due to unfortunate stock speculations. She had $20,000 left to her and lost it all through speculating in Wall street.

Miss Platt is very pretty and her financial downfall created a sensation. Among her heaviest creditors were some of the best banks and brokers of this city.

GAGNON MAY LIVE

POLICE SAY ASSAILANT HAD DUAL MOTIVE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LAWRENCE, Nov. 10—The condition of Alfred Gagnon, who was murderously assaulted, was slightly changed for the better last night and it was thought at the general hospital that the chances of his recovery were about even.

The police are of the opinion that his assailant had a dual motive of revenge and robbery. Gagnon conducts a small wood and coal business and is said to have been in the habit of carrying quite a little money with him, and this being known it is thought that some former employe, being incensed at Gagnon, sought revenge and also an opportunity to rob.

DYNAMITE CASES

ACTION BEGUN IN SUPERIOR COURT AT LAWRENCE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LAWRENCE, Nov. 10.—In the superior court yesterday three cases, growing out of the dynamite explosions during the construction of the Middleton & Danvers street railway in North Andover in February, 1902, were placed on trial. The plaintiffs are William D. Hooe, Garrett E. Welch and Ernest Lane and the defendants the Boston & Northern street railway, Middleton & Danvers street railway and Loring N. Farnum, contractor. The dynamite was used in excavating for the roadbed, and the explosions were the result of charges of dynamite which had not exploded, being struck by picks. There were three separate explosions, one man being killed outright, two dying from injuries and several being hurt. Welch lost the sight of one eye, Hooe had his jaw broken, and his head was cut and bruised.

A ROUND TABLE FOR JUVENILE READERS

The Queer Brown People of Siam

By ALBERTA PLATT

YOU will see from the amount of ornamentation carried by Queen Savangvadana of Siam that she is of a country not yet far along the road of intellectual development. One of the titles of her husband, King Khonlalonkorn, is "lord of heads," and

The Siamese belong to the Malay or brown race. In Bangkok, the capital, they are beginning to learn the ways of white folks, but in the villages of the interior they still have their old customs and beliefs and are so loaded down with superstition that life must be a burden to them. The climate is so hot that its average temperature is 82, yet every mother of a young babe has to have a roasting fire burning beside her to keep the evil spirits away. To make sure the bad spirits will not get the baby there is fastened around its parents' house a cord the priests have blessed. It is not enough, however, to keep bad spooks away. Good ones must be invoked as well. It seems the priests cannot be trusted sufficiently to do this part of the job; so the Siamese always get three old women to attend to it. One of the things they do is to make three balls of rice and throw them in lucky directions and call on guardian angels to look out for the baby.

All Siamese babies have the same name when they are very little, and that name is "Dang," which means "red." But Siamese infants wear no clothes at all, which they would be very glad of if they knew enough to be, and the mosquitoes would soon sting them to death if their tender bodies were left unprotected. To avoid this they are covered all over with an unpleasant yellow paste which is supposed to keep the pests away. It ought to.

The no clothes fashion is continued for both boys and girls till the child is about ten years old. The hair of both is worn in the same way, in a style that seems to us very odd. It is all shaved off except in one round spot upon the crown. The tuft that is left is coaxed to grow by every means the Siamese brain can devise. It is combed and oiled and coiled in a knot. A jeweled pin is stuck through it, and a wreath of flowers is circled around this topknot. How would an American boy like to parade about with his hair in that fashion? The odd thing about it to us is, however, that when the little girl is eleven or twelve years old, just at the age when an American girl would begin to take pride in her long, thick hair, this topknot is shaved off, and the child is left with a head as bare as that of an American boy who has just had his summer cut. After this shave the hair is allowed to grow all over the girl's head, but she seldom lets it grow long. Boys lose their topknots at about the age of fourteen, and thereafter both sexes wear the hair short, as a rule, which is a most sensible fashion for a hot climate.

Some American boys who don't like to go to school would think that Siamese boys have a very "good time." There are few schools in Siam, and a boy has nothing to do but play and sleep. He is too lazy and the climate is too hot for him even to play very hard. He gets up in the morning at daylight and goes into a creek or river for a bath. He has no clothes, soap, bathing suit or towel, so his bath is not much trouble. He just pours water over himself or plunges into the stream and runs about on the sand till he gets dry, when he goes home to breakfast. This is of salt fish, rice and some fruit, and the Siamese boy sits upon the ground or floor like all orientals and eats with his fingers; again not much trouble about it, you see.

game of mud balling—throwing balls of mud as the children of cold countries throw snowballs. The oddest "amusement," though, of both Siamese boys and grown men is cricket fighting. At night when the crickets are out they are hunted and caught and put two and two into little baked mud jars. Then they are stirred up with a stick till the silly things each think it is the other cricket annoying him, and they attack each other savagely. An American boy who would take pleasure in such a foolish, cruel entertainment would be justly regarded as a very inferior specimen of civilization.

From a Youthful Viewpoint.

Here are some choice specimens of "associated ideas" drawn forth from the schoolboy mind during the tortures of examination:

"Queen Elizabeth was never married. She was so fond of dresses she was never seen without one, and she was beauteful and clever, with a red head and freckles."

"The provisions of Oxford were butter, eggs, cheese, bread and beer."

"The constitution of Clarendon was so shattered through grief that he died quite a young man before he had time to grow old."

"Lord Alfred Tennyson was a celebrated poet, and he wrote a lot of beautiful poims with long hair and studid so much that he used to say to his mother, 'Call me early dear!' His gratest poim is called 'The Idle King.' He was made a lord, but he was a good man and wrote many owls."

Well Supplied.

"No, thank you, I've got some money of my own," said little Tommy politely, as the contribution plate passed in front of him on the occasion of his first visit to church.

An Unnecessary Attention.

Sister—Now, when you divide an apple with Willie, ask him to have the largest piece.

Tommy—What's the use of askin' him?

THE AMUSING GAME OF HOW DO YOU LIKE IT?

This is an excellent and amusing game for evening parties. It may be played by any number of persons. The company being seated, one of the party, called the stock, is sent out of the room, and the company then agrees upon some word which will bear more than one meaning. When the stock comes back he or she asks each of the company in succession, "How do you like it?" One answers, "I like it hot;" another, "I like it cold;" another, "I like it old;" another, "I like it new." He then asks the company in succession again, "When do you like?" One says, "At all times;" another, "Very seldom;" a third, "At dinner;" a fourth, "On the water;" a fifth, "On the land," etc. Last the stock goes around and asks, "Where would you put it?" One answers, "I would put it up a chimney;" another, "I would throw it down a well;" a third, "I would hang it on a tree;" a fourth, "I would put it in a pudding." From these answers a witty girl may guess the word chosen, but should she be unable to do so she must pay a forfeit.

The Kaiser and the Child Musician.

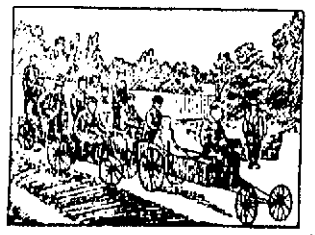

The kaiser has accepted the dedication of a march which the composer, a little Spanish boy of six years, was permitted to present to him in person. His majesty received the little lad most kindly and said, "My trumpeters must play that for me."

The Responsible Party.

"I don't know who the responsible party is," answered the sad, cynical office boy, "but I am the one who gets all the blame."

Oh, flower time is pleasant, but autumn is the best;
When the purple berries cluster round the empty robin's nest,
And the nuts are on the hill, and

Out then, quick then, berry picking,
Though bramble thorns may scratch,
and a rain shower fall.

An Alphabet Puzzle.

Cut out with a sharp pair of scissors the odd shaped pieces seen in the picture, which are parts of letters of the alphabet. By puzzling and twisting a little you will be able to fit them into perfect letters and make the letters form a short sentence. A. OF L. CONVENTION

Annual Meeting Held in Faneuil Hall

Gompers and Mitchell Among the Delegates in Attendance—Pres. Driscoll Welcomed the Delegates to Boston—Gompers Says a New Battle is Waging for the Trade Union Movement

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Assembling for a convention, which, according to labor leaders, is likely to be the most important meeting ever held in the United States, for the consideration of problems arising out of the relation of capital and labor, almost 500 delegates gathered in Faneuil hall today for the first sitting of the twenty-third annual deliberation of the American Federation of Labor. All the delegates, including Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell, the president of the United Mine Workers, had arrived yesterday and everything was in readiness for the opening of the convention at 10 o'clock this morning. The subjects to be taken up at the sessions, had not been announced, but from the discussion of the delegates, since their arrival, it seemed probable that the convention would pass upon whether the federation affiliated members would ally themselves with any political party, the socialist party for instance. Other topics mentioned have been trade jurisdiction, industrialism as distinct from trade autonomy, child-labor and the means of its prevention and the eight-hour day. Great interest prevailed also as to what action, if any, would be taken on the "Open shop issue" with President Roosevelt in connection with the Miller case at Washington.

President Gompers called the convention to order, and after the credentials had been examined, President D. D. Driscoll of the Central Labor Union of Boston, extended a cordial welcome to the visiting delegates.

After extending the greeting of Boston, President Driscoll made reference to the State Board of Arbitration, saying that the workingmen were always ready to abide by the decision of this tribunal. "We have many good state laws, but want better," he continued. "We mean to have the child-labor law lived up to."

In accepting the gift, Mr. Gompers touched upon many phases of the labor movement. He said that a new battle was waging for the trade union movement. "It is a fight," he said, "for the people in the cause of justice." He asked that the American Federation of Labor be judged upon its merits and upon what it accomplishes and that all preconceived notions be abandoned.

Chairman Owen Miller, from the committee on credentials, then reported. The committee reported credentials from representatives of 101 international unions, 123 central labor unions and 116 locals and federal labor unions, besides delegates from the state branch. Credentials also were received from the fraternal delegates.

John Grady and William Mullen, representing the United Trades congress of England; John Simpson, of the Canadian Trades congress, and Harriotta A. Keyser of New York city, representing the church association for the advancement of the interests of labor.

Protests were filed against delegations from the bakers' and confectioners' international union, the central labor union of Knoxville, Tenn., and the central labor union of Burlington, Vt.

Resolutions were adopted to the effect that the delegates while in Boston purchase newspapers from the Boston news boys' union.

This was followed by a flood of motions bearing upon union printing, smoking union cigars and wearing union-made clothing. One delegate suggested that if there were to be any entertainments furnished to the delegates that the talent be actors and actresses who are members of unions. All of these were quickly disposed of by the chairman, who declared that they were entirely out of order.

The nature of the motions and the manner in which they were presented occasioned considerable merriment.

Before adjournment, at noon, President Gompers announced the appointment of President Henry McMahon of the Boston Typographical union, No. 13, as assistant secretary of the convention, and Thomas J. Minihan of the team drivers' union and Andrew J. Lambert of the hoisting and portable engineers' union as sergeant at arms and messengers.

CARDINALS MET

NO AMERICAN CARDINAL WAS APPOINTED

Pope Wore Full Pontifical Robes

By Associated Press to The Sun

ROME, Nov. 9—The first secret consistory of the new pontificate was held today. No American cardinal was appointed. Several appointments of bishops and archbishops were made, including that of the Rev. J. J. Harty, as archbishop of Manila, Philippine Islands, who as an exceptional privilege, received the pallium at an extra consistory when he came to Rome for consecration.

The Rev. Pedro Gonzales y Estrada was appointed bishop of Havana and the Right Rev. Maximilian Reynoso y delCoral, formerly bishop of Tulancingo ,Mexico, was appointed titular bishop of Norcesarea.

The meeting of the cardinals was simple and private. Only the pope and the cardinals were present today. The latter gathered early in an ante-chamber near the hall of the consistory, whence they passed into the latter place, the many papal guards in attendance rendered them sovereign honors.

The pontiff walked from his apartment accompanied only by the personages in immediate attendance on him. As he entered the hall of the consistory, the picture produced was very striking, the red gowns of the cardinals and the white robes and gold and red mantle of the pope giving a pleasing coloring to the scene. He wore the full pontifical robes, which are only used at a secret consistory once in each pontificate, namely, for the first one. When the pope had seated himself on the throne, all those present, one by one, paid him homage, after which the master of ceremonies, called upon all but those authorized totake part in the consistory to leave the hall, which was done.

When the doors had been closed and a guard had been stationed before them outside, Pope Pius intoned a prayer. Cardinal Oreglia, dean of the sacred college, then thanked the pontiff for having put aside his private preferences and accepted the burden of the church. The pope replied in an allocution which received universal approbation.

Then the appointment of the two cardinals proceeded, Mgr. Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, and Mgr. Callegari, archbishop Padua, being announced by the pope who said in Latin:

"What have you to say?"

This was all, so every doubt was laid at rest for the present regarding the appointment of another American cardinal.

The confirmation of the appointment of Rev. J. J. Harty as archbishop of Manila and of the Rev. Pedro Gonzales y Estrada as bishop of Havana and the Rt. Rev. Maximilian Reynoso y del Coral as titular bishop of Nocesaren following.

The pope then bestowed the apostolic blessing after which he returned to his apartments.

GAS EXPLODED

Occupants of Sirk Block Got a Scare

A gas explosion that shook a portion of Salman Sirk's new block at the corner of George and French streets, tearing down ceilings and forcing walls, occurred about 10.30 this forenoon. The shock was plainly felt in Bridge street, and although there were many narrow escapes, none of the occupants of the block were injured.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. The odor of gas was quite strong in the different tenements in that portion of the block during the morning but no leak was found.

The explosion occurred in a tenement occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Tibbets. Mr. Tibbets is manager of the Boston Theatre, opposite city hall.

Walter W. Williams, an electrician in the employ of Derby & Morse, was engaged in wiring the tenement. He was connecting the wires about a gas jet when the explosion occurred.

To The Sun reporter Williamson said it was very evident that the gas was between the floors, but he couldn't account for it; that is he couldn't account for the fire necessary to do the business. He examined the meter and found that it was all right and an examination of the gas jets showed that they were all turned off.

The ceiling over Williamson's head came down but he escaped unhurt. Two ceilings on the floor above fell and two side walls on the same floor were blown out. People in the block were badly frightened. One woman was prevented from jumping out of a window by the timely arrival of a male tenant.

As soon as the explosion occurred men were set to work to ascertain the cause and plasterers were also engaged to rebuild the ceilings. No definite conclusion as to the cause of the explosion was arrived at up to the time of writing.

HE WANTS

President Asked H[im] to Manage the Camp[aign]

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A conference of significance and importance was held at the executive offices today between President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna of Ohio.

The president formally requested Senator Hanna to retain the chairmanship of the republican national committee and to conduct the campaign of next year. In the course of the conference, the subject of the presidential campaign was considered briefly, not only the chairmanship of the national committee being involved, but also Mr. Hanna's reported aspirations to the presidency. Senator Hanna, it is understood, indicated his desire to retire from the work of active political management. The president, however, urged him in strong [terms] to continue in the political harness, pointing out to him that as the head of the organization he would inspire great confidence throughout the country.

No definite conclusion was reached, the understanding being that further and more extended conference would be held in the near future.

When Senator Hanna left the White House, he declined to discuss the subject of the national chairmanship or comment on the reports that he might be a candidate for the presidency. From other sources, it is learned that the senator has indicated that he will not be a presidential candidate and has let it be understood that he means what he says.

FATALLY SHOT

Excited Dog Caused Arthur Keller's Death

By Associated Press to The Sun

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me., Nov. 9—An excited dog caused the death of Arthur Keller, of Dorchester, Mass., who together with his brother-in-law, George Ray, also of Dorchester, was gunning at Walker's Point, nearly two miles from Kennebunkport.

Keller and Ray were running after game when Ray suddenly stopped to fire. Just as he was about to discharge his gun, a dog which the men had with them, jumped, knocking the gun from Ray's hands and changing the course of the contents toward Keller who received a full charge of buckshot in the right side.

Keller was removed to the nearest house by his brother-in-law, and although medical assistance was quickly obtained, the man lived only half an hour.

STRONG DENIAL

President Has Not Conferred With Pope

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Some annoyance has been caused to the president by the publication of stories to the effect that he had been in communication with the pope with respect to the creation of another American cardinal and it was stated today by authority "that the president has made no request upon the pope for the appointment of an American cardinal either directly or indirectly in any way, shape or manner." It is also declared to be untrue, as has been stated, that any relative of the president has visited the vatican as his representative in church affairs. It is furthermore stated that there is "no foundation for the story that the president has requested that a cardinal be sent to attend the world's fair. No such suggestion has been made by the government of the United States and it has invited no one, of royal blood or otherwise, to attend the fair."

McMANMON GAINED TWO IN 25TH DISTRICT

Rourke Gained 11 in Ward Seven

The recount of the votes cast for representative in the 26th distdict, wards 4, 7 and 8, which was begun by the registrars of voters this morning, was completed late this afternoon, and the recount of the votes cast in the 27th district begun.

At the time of going to press in this this edition the registrars had one more precinct to count in ward eight and with eight precincts out of nine counted the vote was about the same as the original count in the case of the three winners, though McMannon had a gain of two votes.

The only remarkable changes noted were in ward seven where in one block of 50 ballots Ripley gained 10 votes while another block he lost 10 votes. On still another block Roarke gained 11 votes.

No material changes are looked for in either district.

ARMED OFFICERS

By Associated Press to The Sun

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 9—The Rock Island railroad officials last night sent out a special train bearing armed officers and bloodhounds to Dexter, Iowa, in the hope of capturing a gang of hold-up men.

The officers spent the night in the woods between Earlham and Dexter, but had no encounter with any robbers. A section man walking along the track, however, shot at a man whom he saw slouching along the right of way, but he escaped in the timber.

About ten days ago the general officers in Chicago received a letter directing the officers to see that $10,000 was thrown off No. 6, the Denver flyer, somewhere in Iowa Saturday night. Supt. Slifer came to Des Moines and it was decided to make the appearance of acceding to the demand of the hold-up men.

A special was made up at Council Bluffs to follow No. 6 about 10 minutes and it bore armed men and bloodhounds.

The engineer of No. 6 was given the money to throw from his engine at the given signal, the explosion of three torpedoes under his side of the machine. The torpedoes were not exploded. It was rumored today, however, that No. 5 preceding No. 6 half an hour had exploded the torpedoes. This or some other new information resulting in organizing a special force of armed officers who went out on a special from Des Moines to Dexter and then patrolled the right f way between Earlham and that town all night. Nothing developed, however, and the men remained in the timber watching for the criminals in vain.

The officials of the road will not discuss the matter. No. 6, wich passed through here to the east at 11.30 o'clock bore a large number of armed men prepared for an attempted hold-up.

LYNN, MASS., NOV. 9.—IN EXCAVATING FOR A CELLAR ON A HILL AT LITTLE NAHANT, WORKMEN HAVE UNEARTHED A DOZEN SKELETONS. THE BONES WERE FOUND IN THREE OR FOUR DIFFERENT LOTS, ALL ABOUT TWO FEET BELOW THE SURFACE OF THE GROUND. THEIR PRESENCE ON THE HILL CANNOT BE EXPLAINED BY THE OLD INHABITANTS OF THE TOWN.

ARMENIAN PLOT

IS IN HANDS OF POLICE

What Called for Volunteers

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Through tellers who have reached this country, further details have come to light of the Armenian plots which have resulted recently in three murders and one suicide in London of men prominent in the Huntchakist society. It is said, secret service agents and the police of several large cities in this country, are now at work and that evidence in their hands involves a prominent New England merchant and a resident of this city, said to be widely known in Armenian circles.

Letters bearing on the plot have just been received in this country from Saguiel Sagouni, the first victim of assassin in London. These letters Sagouni had intercepted and mailed to agents on this side of the Atlantic before he fell. They showed in detail the plans for disposing of the leaders in his faction of the Armenian society. They were addressed to the Armenian central committee in London, but were intended only for the eyes of one man, a trusted agent. How they fell into Sagouni's hands is not known. The evidence they contained is supplemented by a circular bearing the official seal of a secret society in Chicago and signed by its officers which has been secured in Salem, Mass. The circular calls for volunteers to take up the work of killing those opposed to the society, who are denounced as cowards. It is said the distribution of similar circulars in this city, Providence and New York results in the volunteering of 50 men. Lecturers are sent at once to Europe on their friendly mission. They were given their instructions, it is said, to act under the instructions of a central committee in

Boy is Charged With Manslaughter

By Associated Press to The Sun

TAUNTON, Mass., Nov. 9—Eleven year old Walter Bassett, who was arrested Saturday charged with shooting Peter Clark, another little fellow of the same age, today was held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. Bail was placed at $10,000. The sureties were furnished and the boy was released from custody. When Bassett appeared in court today, his attorney waived examination and the order holding him for the grand jury was immediately issued.

Bassett is alleged to have shot the Clark boy with a shotgun Saturday afternoon, when the latter insisted upon crossing a piece of land near the Bassett home. The full charge struck Clark in the head and he died almost instantly. The Bassett boy was immediately arrested, but after a preliminary hearing was released on $10,000 to appear in court today.

TEACHER REMOVED

WAS SUSPENDED, BUT SHE GOT HER MONEY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BENNINGTON, Vt., Nov. 9.—Miss Rose Murray secured a judgment against the town Saturday for $55 and costs for wages. She was a teacher in a district school when smallpox broke out, had never been vaccinated, and was suspended for that reason. The case will be appealed.

MINERS SATISFIED

THEY WILL CONTINUE AT THEIR WORK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SALT LAKE, Utah, Nov. 9—That the coal miners in Utah are unfavorable to the general strike movement inaugurated in Colorado is indicated by specials from several coal mining camps.

According to the reports received the men are satisfied with the present scale of wages and will continue to work, disregarding the orders to strike. There are about 800 men employed in the coal mines of the state.

GUTTED BY FIRE

LIVELY BLAZE IN BLOCK IN BELFAST, MAINE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BELFAST, Maine, Nov. 9—A three-story wooden block owned by F. B. Knowlton, was badly gutted today by a fire which originated in the third story occupied by a young men's club. The loss was nearly $10,000, partially covered by insurance. The losses were estimated as follows:

On the building about $2500; F. B. Knowlton, dry goods on the first floor, $2800; Stephenson & Sargent, confectioners, first floor, $2500; W. H. Clifford & Son, hair dressers, second floor, $250; Miss Ethel Webster, tenement, second floor, small; Dr. Fowler, tenement, third floor, small.

The Windsor hotel was saved only by the absence of wind.

SEVERELY INJURED

FIVE PERSONS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Five persons have been severely injured by an automobile accident on Mount Arlington Hill, near Hoptalong. They were Mr. and Mrs. James W. Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. William Blanchard and Charles W. Hoffman of Brooklyn.

While rounding one of the sharp curves Rankin, who was driving the machine, lost control. The automobile run into a horse and carriage coming down the hill. The carriage was wrecked and Mr. and Mrs. Rankin on the front seat of the machine were caught in the debris. Their injuries will not prove fatal, however. The others in the party leaped from the machine when they saw that a collision was inevitable and were badly bruised.

HAS HAD MORE EXPERIENCE IN THE TREATMENT, AND MADE MORE GREAT CURES OF DIFFICULT, PROTRACTED AND CHRONIC DISEASES AND WEAKNESSES OF MEN THAN ANY OTHER LIVING SPECIALIST.

Dr. Lougest's treatment has been tested on more than twenty thousand (20,000) young, middle-aged and old men, who, as the results of errors or excesses, were tortured by the woes of nervous debility or decay. It has never yet failed, even in the worst cases, to bring back manly power, remove every trace or symptom of weakness, build up the physical and mental health, and prepare men anew for the duties and pleasures of both married and single life.

Lost manhood, seminal weakness, effects of youthful indiscretion, nervous debility, pimples and blotches, hair falling out, loss of memory and energy, impotence, rheumatic pains, discharges and all private diseases quickly and permanently cured by an original and never-failing treatment. Blood poison, ulcers, stricture, varicocele and diseases of the kidneys, bladder and blood cured in the shortest possible time, without the use of mercury or ishdrgnce from business. Dr. Lougest's treatment for the complete cure of stricture and all unnatural discharges is the most wonderful of modern times. No matter how long the discharge has continued nor how many self-styled specialists have failed to relieve, let alone cure, Dr. Lougest will positively guarantee to stop the discharge entirely within (3) three days by means of his New Method Treatment. This treatment removes stricture, positively without pain, detention from business or the use of obnoxious or injurious medicines. No Experiment! No Failure! Nine-tenths of all the long standing discharges, strictures and weaknesses of men are caused by the experiments of the many inexperienced and self-styled specialists of the present day.

Many a man who has been fooled by the "Pay When Cured" racket, knows that it is the last and only resort of a dying out pretender to get a patient into his clutches. Beware of such schemes. Don't be deceived by misleading statements such as these seemingly charitable offers.

Don't entrust your lives to anyone not qualified by years of experience to treat you. Don't even step your foot across the threshold of an office run by inexperienced, irresponsible, illiterate pretenders. You had better save your money and let the disease take its own course than be practised and experimented upon and in the end lose both your money and life.

Dr. Lougest's offices occupy the entire building of five floors at 313 Columbus avenue, and they are supplied with every known means and device that science, skill, knowledge and money can provide that will aid in determining the exact location and nature of these diseases and effecting their cure promptly and thoroughly, and by the same sure methods as are used in the most celebrated Paris hospitals, which invariably result in

58th CONGRESS 5 Extraordinary Session Was Opened Today

Cannon Elected Speaker of the House—Hanna and Gorman Received Tremendous Ovations in the Senate

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The fifty-eighth congress convened in extraordinary session at noon today in accordance with the proclamation of President Roosevelt, for the purpose of enacting legislation necessary to make effective the Cuban reciprocity treaty. The day was devoted simply to personal greetings and organization.

The house assembled the largest membership in its history and the scene before the gavel fell in that body was one of animation, both on the floor, in the cloak rooms and in the lobbies and corridors.

The day was crisp and bright and the capitol building presented the appearance of a new structure with its coat of white paint and complete renovation within.

Crowds of eager spectators, both men and women, thronged the corridors and rotunda of the capital early in the day and the galleries to which admission was had by card only were taxed to their capacity long before the hour for assembling arrived. Many high officials of the government left their desks at the departments to witness the opening of the session and greet their legislative friends. Many strangers in Washington had their first glimpse of congress while the capitol was the mecca of the Washingtonians.

Committee rooms, which had been in the hands of renovators during the recess, were thrown open and many informal receptions were held by popular chairmen.

With the speakership question out of the way in the universal endorsement of Mr. Cannon, there was nothing to worry the legislative mind and the day was given up to the sentiment of the occasion.

Many handsome floral tributes to members were borne in unusual profusion to the lobbies back of both the senate and house chambers to be placed later on the desks of the members.

The new members of the house received their initiation to house employees and doorkeepers and many were turned back for identification because of their slight hesitation on presenting themselves for admission. Such incidents contributed to the general lively animation and good humor of the occasion.

GALLERIES CROWDED

GREAT INTEREST IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—The House of Representatives convened at noon today in extraordinary session. Today's session was full of interest to the spectators, likewise to the new members, but to the veteran it was but a routine proceeding.

The fact that a speaker was to be elected and that this was the first session of a new congress, added to the interest that usually attaches to an opening day. Long before the hour of noon, when the gavel fell, the galleries were filled, the ladies being largely in the majority. Many more were disappointed, holders of cards of admission even being among this number. Among the spectators were public officers, diplomats and a great many out of town visitors.

The floral display in the speaker's lobby was never more elaborate than today. The popular members on both sides were remembered by friends in lavish fashion.

The bright colors of smart gowns, the flowers and other scenes usual on a first day lent picturesqueness to the occasion. During the hour or two prior to the opening, members kept coming in.

The leaders of both sides were early on the scene. Old friends and associates met and chatted. New members were introduced to their colleagues.

First of importance among today's events was the election of Mr. Cannon as speaker, next was the swearing in of the members and the drawing for seats.

Many familiar figures of the last congress were missed today, some retiring voluntarily, others failing of re-election and a few going to the senate. Galusha A. Grow, the veteran member from Pennsylvania and former speaker, was among the absent ones.

The democrats rallied around a new leader, Mr. Williams, (Miss.), having been chosen to take the place of Mr. Richardson (Tenn.), who retired from the leadership of the minority.

At a quarter to twelve the floor was cleared of all save those entitled to remain within the law-making chamber, but the humming was not lessened to a perceptible degree.

Promptly at noon Clerk of the House Alexander McDowell dropped the gavel, formally calling the house to order.

Prayer by the chaplain followed.

After a call of the roll by states, the clerk called for nominations for speaker.

Mr. Bay (Va.) chairman of the democratic caucus, nominated Mr. Williams (Miss.).

No speeches were made in making the nominations.

The roll then was called.

The mention of Mr. Cannon's name was received with applause on the republican side and that of Mr. Williams as the minority candidate was likewise greeted on the democratic side. The red carnation was much in evidence on the republican side, fully one-third of the members of the majority side wearing the blossom on coat lapels.

It was just seven minutes of one when Clerk McDowell announced the vote, showing Mr. Cannon to have received 198 votes and Mr. Williams 166, Mr. Cannon being declared duly elected as speaker of the house.

Mr. Williams (Miss.) and Mr. Grosvenor (Ohio) were appointed a committee to notify Mr. Cannon of his election and to escort him to the speaker's chair.

As Mr. Cannon entered the north doors with Mr. Williams and Mr. Grosvenor, the applause beginning with a ripple, grew in its intensity as he approached the speaker's desk. Members of both sides of the chamber arose and joined in the ovation to the newly elected speaker.

Mr. Williams introduced Mr. Cannon, saying:

"Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:—It is a high honor to present a speaker of the House of Representatives—the greatest parliamentary body on the surface of the earth. It is an especial honor to present this house this particular speaker. I think the majority have selected their best type and I am satisfied the minority will be given a full measure of fairness and impartiality from him. I have the honor to present your speaker, the Hon. Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois." (Continued applause on both sides of the chamber.)

Mr. Cannon, in a brief response, said:

"Gentlemen, members of the House—I appreciate the honor you confer in choosing me as the presiding officer of the House. After 28 years service in the House such an expression of your confidence touches me profoundly. I thank you. In the performance of the duties of the office I bring to the service a sincere desire to acquit myself with courtesy, efficiency and fairness.

"If I err, it will be an error of the head, not of the heart.

"The contests on the floor touching policies that abound in partisanship will be spirited and earnest. The majority determines. I am quite sure that in the consideration of the people, however sharp, may be our differences, we will not forget that courtesy and demeanor which should always obtain between manly opponents, who honestly differ.

Mr. Bingham (Pennsylvania) called "That Father of the House," bestowed by reason of his having seen the longest continuous service, administered the oath to the speaker.

The members were then sworn in by Mr. Cannon.

Following this a resolution was adopted re-electing the old officers of the house—Alexander McDowell, clerk; Henry Casson, sergeant-at-arms; Frank B. Lyon, doorkeeper; J. C. McElroy, postmaster; and Rev. H. N. Couden, chaplain.

By resolution, the speaker appointed a committee to notify the president and the senate of the election of Mr. Cannon as speaker and Mr. McDowell as clerk. Another resolution was adopted for the appointment of a committee to join a committee from the senate to notify the president of the presence of a quorum in the two houses and that they were ready to receive any communication he may have to make.

Mr. Dalzell offered the resolution adopted in the republican caucus providing that the rules of the 57th congress be adopted for the 58th with the addition that the committee on industrial arts and expositions be made a standing committee and increased to 15 members.

Mr. Williams (Miss.) said the minority should have a larger representation on the committees than now provided, saying that when their representation was reduced it was explained to have been due to the fact that the democratic membership had been decreased. Now, he said, it has been increased and he hoped the majority would grant the request.

Mr. DeArmond (Mo.) said the rules should not be adopted for the entire congress, but only for the extra session. Then he said they could be tested. He also spoke for an increased representation of the minority on committees.

Mr. Dalzell, replying, said that if there was merit in the request of the minority, it no doubt would be recognized. He said the rules were the same that were in force in the fifty-first congress and substantially the same as those in force in the 52d and 53d, when the democrats were in the majority.

On demand, the ayes and noes were called, the resolution being agreed to by a vote of 191 to 165.

The daily hour of meeting was fixed at 12 o'clock noon.

The biennial lottery for seats was begun at 2 o'clock. Unanimous consent was granted with applause that Mr. Bingham (Pennsylvania), the oldest republican member in point of service, might choose his seat before the drawing began.

FLOOD OF BILLS

WAS PRESENTED IN THE HOUSE TODAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Several hundred bills were introduced in the house today.

A statehood bill for New Mexico, introduced by Delegate Rodey has the distinction of being the first house bill of the 58th congress and will be No. 1. Representative Bartholdt (Mo.) fought this distinction for a bill restoring the army canteen, but was compelled to take second place and this bill is No. 2. A bill giving congress the right to regulate trusts was introduced by Representative Palmer (rep., Pa.) Representative Bidley (rep., Pa.) introduced a bill to increase the pay of rural free delivery carriers.

Representative Greene (rep., Mass.) introduced a bill to induce favorable employment of American ships. Representative Sulzer (dem., N. Y.) introduced bills providing a territorial form of government for Alaska; to abolish granting rebates on exports and imports carried in American ships; an eight-hour bill and bills for the erection of monuments in Washington to Samuel J. Tilden and Amos J. Cummings. Representative Shafroth (rem., Col.) introduced bills establishing the metric system of weights and measures.

GORMAN AND HANNA

RECEIVED WITH LOUD CHEERS IN THE SENATE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—With galleries crowded, with the chamber a mass of elaborate floral tributes and nearly every senator in his seat, the gavel of President pro tem Frye sounded at noon today, calling the senate together in the second extraordinary session of the 57th congress. The special session of the senate following the adjournment last spring of the 57th congress eliminated much of the routine wor which otherwise would have been performed today. New senators had gone through the formality of taking the oath of office, seats had been assigned and excepting appointments to committee vacancies, all functions of organization had been complied with.

For more than two hours before the senate was called to order the galleries were filling up with early arrivals.

Senator Hanna's pronounced victory in the Ohio election won for him what was one of the most pretentious floral designs ever seen in the senate, a shield three and a half by four and a half feet, of blue immortelles in which was wrought out of California grasses, ribbons, and red white and blue immortelles, the design of the American eagle identical with that on a silver quarter of a dollar. The shield was surmounted with a gorgeous cluster of American Beauty roses. The offering bore the inscription:

Fully a score of smaller tributes were banked around Senator Hanna's desk.

Senator Gorman's triumph in the Maryland election was recognized by big floral pieces, a handsome wreath more than two feet in diameter, with a crossed cluster of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums. Chrysanthemums were used in abundance and there was hardly a desk that did not carry one or more huge bunches of these flowers. The fact that most of the new senators received the congratulatory offerings at the spring session of the senate colored the number of floral pieces, but seldom has there been seen in the senate a collection so gorgeous.

When Senator Hanna came through the swinging doors he was greeted with cheers, which increased to thunderous applause as he was followed a moment later by Senator Gorman and the two met in the centre aisle for a cordial handshake.

The senate was called to order as the hands of the clock reached noon, and the Rev. F. J. Prettyman of Washington made the opening prayer.

The formal proclamation calling the congress in extraordinary session was read.

Mr. Platt (Conn.) offered a resolution to notify the house of representatives that the senate was ready to proceed to business.

Mr. Hoar and Mr. Gorman were appointed a committee and John a committee appointed by the house to inform the president that congress had organized and was ready to receive any communication he had to make.

A resolution offered by Mr. Cullom fixing 12 o'clock noon as the hour of convening daily sessions was adopted, after which the senate, at 12.11 p. m., adjourned.

BOLD ATTEMPT

TO BURN A HOUSE IN RUMFORD FALLS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

RUMFORD FALLS, Maine, Nov. 9—A bold attempt by an incendiary to burn the home of Mr. Roy, a mile from this village, early today was frustrated by a prompt discovery of the fire by the occupants. A large pile of rags saturated with kerosene beneath the house had been ignited. The damage to the house which is owned by Hon. John P. Swasey did not exceed $50.

EXHIBITS FOR ST. LOUIS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9—Frederick Koltchoff and Charles Homeler of St. Michael, Alaska, have arrived here with a part of a large Arctic and Alaskan collection of exhibits for the St. Louis exposition.

They are on their way to New York where the collection will be shown during the winter. Mr. Koltchoff declares that the introduction of reindeer from Northern Europe has proved a costly folly.

FOREST FIRE

SIGHT THAT WAS ENJOYED BY CHICAGOANS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A forest fire was the unusual spectacle enjoyed by hundreds of Chicagoians last night. Four companies of firemen fought the blaze for hours. The fire started in the barns of the Graceland cemetery. In a few minutes the hay sheds were blazing fiercely. After destroying the buildings and wagons, the fire spread to the shrubbery growth and trees which covered a tract of almost four square blocks. The loss will exceed $60,000.

The tract combines almost virgin forest with carefully cultivated shrubbery. Rabbits, squirrels, gophers and other small animals abound in the inclosure. Scores of animals were killed as they ran among the crowd while others were captured and later turned loose. Two frame buildings, three greenhouses, 23 wagons and many tons of hay were destroyed while the large growth of shrubbery and trees was almost consumed.

NEW DIPLOMAT

HE IS A NATIVE OF FRANCE

His Part in the Dreyfus Case

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Philippe Varilla, the newly appointed diplomatic agent at Washington of the republic of Panama, is well-known to many persons in New York and Washington as well as in the inner political circles of Paris. He is a Frenchman by birth and was educated at the famous military school at St. Cyr, near Paris. At St. Cyr he was a classmate of Emile Dreyfus and took a prominent part in producing evidence in the defense of that officer at his trial at Rennes, France. Varilla's brother is the editor of Ma Le Matin, one of the best known Parisian journals.

"Philippe Bunau-Varilla and Philippe Varilla are different persons," said a gentleman who knows Panama's representative at Washington, "and it is the latter who has been sent to represent the republic of Panama at the national capital."

The story of the part that Varilla took in the Dreyfus case is an interesting one. A dozen years ago Philippe Varilla set out on an expedition to Central Africa. Upon the eve of his departure he received a letter from Dreyfus, who had been one of a party of French engineers to explore the country Varilla intended to visit. Dreyfus' letter was written with the object of advising him of the character of the country and telling him of the best way to succeed in his mission. Varilla kept the letter and filed it away with his papers. He returned to Paris after Dreyfus had been convicted and sent to Devil's island. At an officer's dinner in Paris one evening a young subaltern came in with the celebrated bordereau which had been used as the basis of the evidence to convict Dreyfus, and the document was passed around among those present.

Varilla saw the importance of the document as a newspaper story and asked to be allowed to take it until the following day. He carried the bordereau to his home and compared it with the letter he had received from Dreyfus on the eve of his journey. To his great surprise there was not the least similarity in the chirography. He carried the two documents to his brother, the editor of Le Martin, and the two became convinced that the bordereau was a forgery. Editor Varilla caused a fac simile of the bordereau to be his brother, the editor of Le Matin, and asked if there were any of the readers of the journal who could identify the author of the document, as it evidently was not written by Dreyfus. In response to this appeal a Parisian stock broker appeared at the office of Le Matin with a number of letters written by Col. Esterhazy. These letters were compared with the writing of the bordereau and it was shown beyond question that Esterhazy was the author.

Philippe Varilla came to this country a few years ago in behalf of the shareholders of the Panama canal company to negotiate the sale of the rights of that company.

SAFE WRECKERS

WERE FRIGHTENED AWAY BY THE EXPLOSION.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 9—Safe breakers wrecked the shoe factory office of Cobb & Putnam, Brookline street, during the night. The sound of the explosion, nitro-glycerine being used, was heard some distance away and attracted attention that evidently frightened the cracksmen, for the inner doors were not penetrated.

The attempt was discovered this morning when the factory was opened.

VALUABLE CATCH MADE BY STEAMER ALEXANDER.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9—The whaling steamer Alexander, just arrived, brings a catch in whalebone reckoned as being one of the best of the season.

It amounts to 12,000 pounds, worth in the neighborhood of $75,000, and was taken from seven whales. She reports the death on the voyage of John Landons, an old whaler 75 years of age of general debility.

The whaling bark Andrew Hicks also arrived and brought 850 barrels of sperm. She took 25 whales in all during her cruise, but they were mostly small, some giving up only five or six barrels. She lost two men by pneumonia during the voyage.

DAWES COMMISSION REPORT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., Nov. 9.—The reports of the Dawes commission and the attorneys of the Cherokee nation show that there are 4,420,670.13 acres of land subject to allotment in the Cherokee nation, from this must be deducted reservations of one acre for each country school, for cemeteries and small reservations for mission schools and new towns along railroads. This allotable land is valued at $13,133,000. The rolls show that there will be 40,000 Cherokees on the final rolls. The per capita share of each, not deducting the reservations above mentioned would be $328.82, leaving a surplus of $2.72 in land due each citizen.

GIFT OF $25,000

WAS MADE TO GRACE CHURCH OF CHICAGO.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—In announcing a new policy for Grace church, which will make it a church for business men and asking an endowment fund of $100,000, the Rev. William Waters has told of a recent gift of $25,000.

This sum which was presented as a memorial to the late William G. Hibbard by his widow and six children, Mr. Waters said, would form the foundation for the fund needed and he appealed to his hearers to raise the balance, $75,000 before Easter Sunday next.

Mr. Waters explained at some length his plans to have Grace church be to the Episcopalians of Chicago what Trinity church is to New York, a centrally located place of worship that will attract those who are busy during the day and are unable to take the time to attend service at more remote churches.

John Mitchell, the great strike leader, was a great object of attraction in Boston yesterday. Thousands tried in vain to see him.

It seems to be all off with Colombia. She wants the status quo ante restored. This is the time when the United States will not "ante."

The New Hampshire Dry Book is on a par with the Chinese exclusion act. It will soon be necessary to provide the photographs of the men on the dry list.

The pastor who went to police court for material for a sermon hit upon a rich mine of material. Almost every day furnishes material for many stirring sermons.

The poisoning mystery of the state almshouse is still unsolved, according to the statement of the investigating committee which, however, has not yet finished its work.

The opposition to Mayor Collins' renomination and re-election, whether conducted by democrats or republicans, is likely to fall flat this year. Collins will be his own successor. Fred S. Gore will run himself into a big political hole.

BATES SLATED FOR U. S SENATOR.

The friends of Gov. Bates are beginning to boom him for United States senator, to fill the first vacancy that occurs. Of course a man of Senator Hoar's age is liable to drop off at any time and if Roosevelt be re-elected they figure that Senator Lodge might enter the cabinet. In such an event John L. Bates will bob up as a candidate for the vacancy, although he has little to commend him as the successor of either senator. The legislature could easily select a better man from the congressmen, ex-congressmen and ex-governors; but it seems that Bates is ambitious and will fight openly for everything in sight. He is not the man to lose an opportunity of improving his graft.

THE OLNEY BOOM

Practical Politics has this to say about the Olney boom for the presidency:

"The next development of national interest in Massachusetts will be the announcement of the movement to press Richeard Olney forward toward the democratic presidential nomination. It will not come right away, but it is down on the cards for due consideration later on. Perhaps it is not right to say that there will be a formal step of that sort, for a lot of the work is to be done quietly, and the real attitude of the state democracy is to be that of offering Olney in answer to the demand of other and more powerful states."

When the proper time comes then the boom for Mr. Olney will be launched and it is bound to make a deep impression all over the country. Compared with Olney such men as Mr. Hearst would have to hide their diminished heads.

THE PRESIDENT'S INDIGNITY TO MILES.

As the the presidential contest approaches, some of President Roosevelt's official acts are looming up against him as calculated to injure him with the voters. It will be acknowledged that Mr. Roosevelt was originally placed upon the republican ticket as candidate for vice president on the strength of his record as a rough rider in the Spanish-American war. He figured in a skirmish on San Juan hill and shot a Spaniard in the back. That was the extent of his victory and his experience in battle.

It would naturally seem unbecoming for a soldier of this stamp to belittle such a veteran warrior as General Miles, yet that is what President Roosevelt did on more than one occasion.

When an order was passed transfering General Corbin from the war department to the command of the Eastern division, President Roosevelt took occasion to pay him a glowing tribute. Still later Captain Bradford, chief of the bureau of construction in the navy, was transferred to sea duty and the president eulogized him in strong terms. But General Nelson A. Miles was retired by an order signed by one of his discredited subordinates and the president did not see fit to pay him a parting compliment. The fact was that Miles as a soldier after forty years of the most illustrious service was by far a greater and a more patriotic figure in the eyes of the nation than the president himself. Furthermore, Roosevelt feared Miles as a presidential possibility, and between the two there is little doubt that the nation would prefer Miles.

That explains why the greatest living soldier of the United States today was slighted by the president. But the people of this country understand the situation. The old soldiers understand it, and they will retaliate at the polls if Roosevelt be nominated for president on the republican ticket next year.

IMPORTANCE OF THE PANAMA COUP.

The eyes of the world are fixed upon Panama at the present time.

England and Germany had each a hankering for an interest in the Isthmian canal.

Each had hoped that by some species of logrolling, the United States could be induced to adopt the Nicaraguan route. Then either England or Germany could secure the Panama route and build a canal that would be superior to the Nicaragua.

In any case the United States by the present coup with Panama has carried out a masterly piece of diplomacy that will probably give us full and complete control of the waterway to connect the two great oceans.

The value of having absolute control of this connecting link in case of war is incalculable.

The United States can not only build the canal as it pleases, but can control and own it afterwards, something that means more to this country than the acquisition of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines all combined.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay have quietly effected in this matter a piece of diplomatic work of supreme importance to this nation.

It is not known just what was at the bottom of Colombia's refusal to do the square thing with the United States in regard to the canal treaty. There may have been something more than mere greed in her unreasonable demands of the United States.

Columbia has lodged her protest at Washington against the recognition of the de facto government in Panama but Colombia has spoken too late. She had her opportunity when the ratification of the canal treaty was required. She had little regard for our wishes then and we have less for hers now. Colombia has lost Panama for all time and lost the interest she might have had in the canal. It serves her right.

It is not understood that the United States has given any cause for a declaration of war by Colombia, but if under the circumstances Colombia does declare war, she must be met. We opine that a few gun boats and their marines will give Colombia all the fighting she needs if fighting she wants. She finds the bonus for the canal grant slipping from her grasp and it is not likely she will ever control it again.

SEEN AND HEARD

Capt. John E. Pillsbury, who has been selected to become chief of the bureau of navigation in the navy department, was born in Tewksbury.

The members of the Collinsville club will be the guests of M. A. Corcoran at his home on Butterfield street, Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th.

Charlie Steele, who has been appointed captain of High chool basketball team, is the son of the late John T. Steele, who was a star bowler in this city.

The work of the Lowell High school can be appreciated when it is realized that it has 1000 pupils on its membership rolls. There are few educational institutions which are called colleges that have near so many pupils.

The Granite Cutters' union of this city has donated a sum of money to help build a memorial monument to the late Rev. Frederick O Macarthey of Rockland well known as an exponent of the socialistic cause.

Our city lost three very companionable men in the deaths of Jason Fuller, Samuel Tice and William Costello. They were in different lines of business—the first was a grocer-farmer; the second, a mill overseer, the third, a painter. Yet all were genial in their dealings with fellowmen, and were generally liked. A companionable man, who appreciates thrift and responsibility, is a distinct gain to a community.

"I want to go to Stone street," said a colored man to Conductor Frazer on a Broadway car, recently.

"I don't know of any such street in Lowell," replied the conductor.

"Do you know where Hanson's stables are?" asked the colored man.

And then the conductor knew that his passenger wanted Rock street.

The late Daniel Gage probably purchased and cut down more wood lots than any other person or firm in Lowell. The work of his axes and sawmills is seen in almost every direction as you travel from Lowell for miles and miles countryward. His heirs are continuing the work.

The committee appointed at the mass meeting held in the Linden district of Malden for the purpose of securing better electric car accommodations have waited upon President Sullivan of the Boston & Northern and President Bancroft of the Boston Elevated. Both have promised to bring the matter before their directors, and the committee feels confident of getting better service.

RAIN AND SLEET COMING.

Rev. R. L. Hicks of St. Louis, who has made some remarkably accurate weather predictions, says for November weather:

"About the 10th it will turn much warmer, winds will turn southerly, the barometer will begin falling in the west, cloudiness will rapidly ensue, and rain will follow. The areas of rain will pass eastwardly over the country from about Thursday, the 12th, to Sunday, the 15th, being followed up closely on the west and north by a temperature that will turn the rain to sleet; a blizzard is not at all improbable at this time."

Of course, the full force of this storm may not strike Lowell, but we are likely to get some of it. Watch and see.

TOMMY BYRNE FOR MAYOR.

"A good man, like a barrel hoop, crushed to earth, will rise again," said Tommy Byrne, the mill boy orator, and the defeated but unsquelchable candidate for representative, as he blew into The Sun office yesterday.

Tommy was loaded with nomination papers and he allowed that he could get three hundred autographs in as many minutes.

"I was a small toad in the representative puddle," said Tommy, as he picked a hair of suspicious length from the right sleeve of his a la Duke of Redbank coat, "but I want to assure you, my prince of good fellows, that I will be a —— of big toad in the mayoralty puddle."

"Then your defeat in the representative contest hasn't unnerved you for the battle," suggested the reporter.

"Not a bit," replied Tommy. "I meet defeat in business life every day and I want to assure my scrr-ffeated and embattled gentlemen who are running for the mayor's chair that I will march with them hand in hand through the golden harvest field, hand in hand by the spinning wheels and thundering looms, hand in hand by the monuments that mark the resting place of dead heroes, hand in hand—"

"What is your platform?" interrupted the reporter.

"Reformed economical republican protection for the benefit of all concerned," replied the versatile megaphonist. "I stand for government for all the people. I confess that I am an untutored politician and it may be that I am infatuated with the exuberance of my own verbosity but I do lay claim to the title of orator.

"This will be the fight of my life. I understand that a candidate for councilmanic honors from ward 5 will advocate overhead sewers and underground electric lights. I want to warn that man that I will veto every order of his that I can lay hands on. Such an arrangement might work all right down south, but it won't go here, not if Tommy Byrne is mayor. I have engaged Huntington hall for three nights, Nov. 16, 27 and 30. I will give a series of lectures on economic constitutionality and incidentally suggest a remedy for the abolition of graft.

"Mine will be a cold water candidacy, no beer or hard liquors allowed. I will accept all invitations to speak before clubs, societies or select circles on whatever subjects that such bodies shall see fit to assign. If that isn't strong enough for the people I'll come around tomorrow and make it a good deal stronger.

"Thanking you for your indefinite kindness, I remain, Lowell's public servant.

"THOMAS H. BYRNE."

POLO NEWS

Frank Wodtke, the Flying Dutchman, who played with Chelsea last season, is going to play rush on the Anderson team this season. He will also captain the brewery team, and his side partner will be little Jack Mercer, of the old Clinton team. Unless Mercer allows Wodtke to be the whole thing there will be trouble in Anderson.

The Lawrence Telegram says that Fred Jean's contract calls for $85 per week. By the way that Fox spoke when he was in this city we were given to understand that the big fellow would draw over a hundred every week.

Phil Jason and "Sunny Jim" Daly are among those who will be eastern stars this season. Phil writes that he is doing well and feeling fine, and says that he will stay where he is. "Sunny Jim" probably remembers his former trip to the west, as he recently refused the offer from the Danville management and says he will stay "at home." Manager Foor is greatly disappointed. —Muncie Star.

Already the Lawrence team of the American polo league has started crowing. Just because the down-river team has won six out of nine games the Lawrence Sun says: "Lawrence will be the top notcher all right this year." That same old cry has been heard year in and year out. The other teams in the league allow Lawrence to be jollied for a few weeks and then step in and take the cream.

A meeting of the managers of the American polo league will be held in Boston Friday.

A few remarks in regard to "roughing it up" come from the Richmond Item. Says the Item: "Who is a rougher player than 'Wild Charlie' Farrell or Tommy Holderness? Holderness has hurt more men than any other player in the league." This observation is rather uncalled for, and from Richmond more especially. Secretary Durbin says that the referees will be instructed to do everything in their power to stop such tactics, and that players will be fined for fouls instead of the management, as was the case last year.

John Roberts and Peggy White, of the Elwood team, arrived in Elwood Thursday and began practice at once. Reports say that "Big John" rushes just as swiftly and Peggy stops them just as cleverly as of yore.

Paddy Moran, halfback of the Danville team, ventures an opinion in regard to the Western league pennant possibilities. Paddy says that Muncie, Marion and Richmond will be the first three teams at the last of the season and that Anderson won't be anywhere near one, two, three.

It is said that 500 advance tickets have been sold in Anderson for the first game of the season between that city and Marion.

BOSTON DEMOCRATS

COTTON MARKET

Strong Opening Led to Heavy Realizing

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—There was a continuation yesterday of the great activity and excitement recently noticed in the cotton market. Influenced at first by the strength at Liverpool, less favorable weather forecasts and reports that New England spinners were buying more heavily, the market opened strong 7 to 16 points higher and on the call advanced another few points on the active months. This gain added to the already sensational advances of the past few days, led to heavy realizing. The receipts also promised to prove very heavy and in spite of a continued demand from outsiders and shorts the market was depressed in the first ten or fifteen minutes to 10.92 for January, 10.97 for March and to 11.00 for May. The market continued active at the lower level and ruled about steady on further coverings and demand from various sources including purchases by brokers representing New England interests.

THE McKAY WILL

LIBERAL PROVISION MADE FOR HARVARD UNIVERSITY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—Provisions for life annuities to relatives and friends, amounting to nearly $55,000 a year and for a liberal trust fund in favor of Harvard university, are made by the will of the late Gordon McKay, which was filed for probate here yesterday.

The annuities range from $11,500 given to Mrs. Marian VonBruning, to $100 each given to Victor McKay and to Robert McKay.

The Harvard university trust fund is to result from the accumulation year by year of 80 per cent. of the net annual income from the estate after the annuities are paid, said income to be held and invested by trustees named by Mr. McKay until one million dollars is reached, at which time the full amount is to be paid to the president and fellows of Harvard university to be used for the promotion of applied science.

FOOD POISONS

HOW THEY OPERATE ON DIFFERENT PERSONS.

Dr. Wiley, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, says in speaking of the experiments made in Washington last winter, that the doses of borax given to the 12 young men acting as poison testers were increased in each case until the man was made ill. This illness was caused in some cases by the administration of small doses. In other cases nearly three times the amount of borax was necessary bfor the subject showed signs of being poisoned. That is, a young man in apparently the best of health could be poisoned by preservatives that another man withstood until the quantity taken was greatly increased. Our chemically preserved foods quickly injure some who may be in a state of excellent health, and again they may be slow in having a bad effect. They are sure to have this in time, however, but it is plain that the limit of toleration greatly varies. It is the same thing in the case of the alcohol drinker. What will send one man under the table, it is well known may make another simply merry, and leave a third totally unaffected in deportment. There is a very old saying, "what is food to one may be poison to another," and the Washington experiments demonstrate this truth.

Dr. Wiley explains his work as having for its purpose simply the enforcement of the laws. Goods charged with what are virulent poisons for some people should be marked as containing the dangerous element, if it is decided to leave the consumer to decide whether to risk using it in his family or not. What a man pays for he should get in every case. Legislation, Dr. Wiley says should be brought into harmony in matters relating to preservatives and colors, so that laws may be uniform, free from any tendency to persecute or annoy, and supported by an enlightened public opinion, both on the part of the producer and the consumer.

FOR THE LAZY

AND THE LISTLESS—HOW TO BE PUNCTUAL.

Punctuality is a virtue that needs to be fixed as a habit. Its possession is one of the chief elements of success. Good business men learn this as one of their first practical lessons, and they not only adhere closely to its practice in the conduct of their business, but demand this same qualification of their employes. They soon learn that neglect to meet engagements promptly occasions inconvenience to the parties interested, and that failure to attend to business affairs at the proper time is very detrimental to one's business interests; that lack of promptness causes delay, and delay is attended by loss.

It is said that Webster was never late at a recitation at school or in college, and he was just as punctual in after life in court, in congress and in society. Horace Greeley, although one of the busiest of men, managed to be on time for every appointment. The habit of punctuality and promptness is characteristic of men of affairs.

Tardiness in business, in school, in fact, anywhere, is loss of time, and time is valuable. The manager of a mill employing a large number of persons said: "It is very important that we have a clock in the office that keeps perfect time, because the loss of a few minutes by all of those employes means the loss of many dollars to the company." A certain factory locks its doors at 7 o'clock each morning and the factory hands who arrive after that time are kept out until nine, and are docked one-fourth of a day's wages. At a certain coal mine it is a rule to permit no miner to descend the shaft to work after seven in the morning. If any later they must remain out until after noon, thus losing the wages for one-half day's work.

Railroad and street car men are required to be at their posts of duty promptly on time. Even slight failure in this respect is considered cause for dismissal. The managers of factories, mills, shops and all business concerns must exact punctuality of their employes in order to secure efficient service, and to conduct their business successfully.—School News.

HILL ORDINANCE

Adopted by Committee on Explosives

CASEY'S DRAFT WAS TURNED DOWN

Committee Held an Interesting Meeting

The Hill-Casey explosive ordinance contest was resumed before the special committee on explosives at City hall, last evening, and Mr. Casey was "bumped" real hard by his brother members.

Some time ago Messrs. Hill and Casey were appointed a sub-committee to draft an ordinance and while the other members of the committee were patiently waiting for them to report, a morning paper printed a lengthy document, purporting to be an ordinance prepared by Alderman Casey, which would be presented at the meeting of the committee.

Already there had been considerable talk of one-man power on the committee and the members were none too kindly disposed towards each other when this publication appeared and it made the relations somewhat more strained. When the date of the next meeting arrived, Aldermen Casey and Hill were the only members present and each had his own ordinance to present. After two unsuccessful attempts to get a quorum, the committee finally got together last evening and immediately one of the members called for the reading of both ordinances.

Alderman Hill spoke briefly for his own, which was considerably shorter than its rival. He said it followed the statutes pretty closely, was as brief as possible and in his opinion covered the law.

Councilman Hard said he favored Mr. Hill's ordinance with two amendments. He would have dynamite kept entirely outside of the city limits and have the venders of explosives licensed. He suggested that the penalty be $50 instead of $20 and that the chief of the fire department inspect all places 12 times a year to see if the laws were enforced.

Mr. Casey couldn't see any merit in the Hill production, claiming that it did not carry out the recommendations of the expert. He thought his own covered the matter and worked no hardship upon any corporation doing business.

Mr. Hill asked wherein his ordinance was lacking and Mr. Casey after criticizing it said:

"What's the matter with mine?"

"It's too long winded," promptly replied Mr. Hill. "It contains sections that are unnecessary and don't mean anything."

The committee then took up Mr. Hill's ordinance by sections and after adopting the amendments offered by Mr. Hard, it was voted to recommend the Hill ordinance at tonight's meeting of the common council.

Mr. Casey was much put out at this action and said he would present his ordinance as a minority report this evening in the board of aldermen.

GOVERNOR BATES

Issues His Thanksgiving Proclamation

Gov. Bates yesterday issued the following proclamation:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
By His Excellency John L. Bates, Governor.
Proclamation for a Day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise.

In accordance with ancient custom, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, I appoint Thursday, the 26th day of November, as a day of Thanksgiving and praise unto Almighty God for his manifold mercies and blessings to this commonwealth and its people.

Abundant has been the harvest of the farm and the harvest of the mill. Peace and prosperity have made their home with us. Our people are provided with the necessities of life, and to the necessities have been added the comforts. Happy because of these conditions, our citizens are yet more fortunate in the spirit inherited from the fathers that causes them to love morality, to foster education, to practice virtue, and to help their fellow-men. Therefore, may all the people, in church and at home, everywhere within our borders, join on the day thus set apart in prayer and praise to God for the heritage of the past, the blessings of the present and the hopes of the future.

"That our sons may be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as corner-stones, polished after the similitude of a palace;

"That our garners may be full, affording all manner of store;

"That our oxen may be strong to labor; that there may be no breaking in nor going out; that there may be no complaining in our streets. Happy is that people, that is in such a case; yea, happy is that people whose God is the Lord."

Given at the council chamber, in Boston, this 4th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1903 and of the independence of the United States the 128th.

JOHN L. BATES.

WILLIAM L. OLIN, Secretary.

AMATEUR SLEUTH

CAPTURED AN ALLEGED COLD HANDS' GIRL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Some time ago a man who gives his name as Paul Merkler of New York reported to the police that on Oct. 27 he met a colored woman on Ferdinand street and talked with her some time. Soon after the woman left he discovered that he had been robbed of $280, and he became satisfied that he had been the victim of the cold hands game. Merkler said he would know the girl if he met her again and since that time he has been playing the role of detective. Last evening he met Patrolman Underhill of station 5 on Tremont street and pointed out a woman he was following as the one he was looking for. Merkler and the policeman followed her to 20 Holyoke street and as she was about to enter the house the policeman stopped her. She said her name was Jennie Williams, 28 years old, and that she lived in that house. Merkler was positive in his identification and the woman was turned over to the 4th police, who locked her up on the charge of the larceny of the $280 from Merkler. The 5th police say that they have had several complaints from men that they had been robbed by a woman at the Holyoke street house and they think they may make several cases against the woman if the men who lost their money show up.

ISSUE REFUSED

Boston & Northern Petition Turned Down

FINDING MADE PUBLIC BY RAILROAD COMMISSION

Reasons for Dismissing the Petition

The board of railroad commissioners yesterday dismissed the petition of the Boston & Northern street railway company for the approval of an issue of stock to carry into effect and complete an issue originally undertaken by the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill, a leased line. The finding of the board is as follows: "The Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill street railway company was authorized under chapter 93, acts of 1893, to increase its capital stock by the amount of $1,500,000. Pursuant to this authority it issued stock to the amount of $1,000,000. April 24, 1893, the company voted to further increase its capital stock by the amount of $500,000. One thousand shares of the stock thus authorized were duly subscribed, paid for and issued. The remainder 4000 shares were subscribed and an assessment of $5.00 was paid upon each share. Subsequently the Lynn & Boston, now the petitioning Boston & Northern company, bought the property and assumed the obligations of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill, all the outstanding shares of stock of the last named company being surrendered and cancelled. The Boston & Northern company has recently levied an assessment of $95 upon each of the 4000 shares above named and now asks the board to approve the issue of these shares. It contends that, having acquired all rights and assumed all the obligations of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill company, it is bound to carry out the agreement with the subscribers for the above-mentioned stock, and that in doing this it may issue the stock at par, being exempted from the provisions of section 30, chapter 109, revised laws, by virtue of the special act above named.

"We cannot concede the correctness of this contention. The agreement of the subscribers was with a company now incapable of issuing stock as the result of an arrangement carried out with their knowledge and consent. Notwithstanding the vote of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill stockholders to issue these shares, the subscription for them and the payment of a first assessment levied upon them, the shares were in fact never issued. We cannot now consent to an issue of the Boston & Northern stock in place of them upon the theory that the petitioner can carry into effect and complete the issue originally undertaken by the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill company. The petition is therefore dismissed.

The schooners Terefoil Janet, Arthuse and a number of other New Foundland vessels also have been wrecked.

Two boats were driven to sea from Lawaline, a tug was sent after them, but it is feared that their occupants perished.

FOR PLACING OBSTRUCTIONS ON RAILROAD TRACK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BARRINGTON, R. I., Nov. 10—Three Italian boys each about 16 years old, were arrested here yesterday charged with putting obstructions on the railroad track. They are Frank Martinelli, John De Ressa and Pasco Took. It is claimed that the boys placed blocks of wood on the track on the Providence and Warren branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in this town. The blocks were of sufficient size to give the cars severe jolts, but not large enough to derail the train. They will be arraigned before Judge Bosworth in the district court of Bristo..

SENATOR MORGAN

Receives Entreating Letter From New Envoy

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—M. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the envoy of the new republic of Panama, yesterday sent the following letter to Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama:

"Republic of Panama, Nov. 9, 1903.

"Hon. John T. Morgan, U. S. Senator, Washington:

Mr. Senator:—As a champion of the completion of an inter-oceanic canal across the American isthmus, as the minister plenipotentiary of the new republic, I feel myself bound to express to you my admiration for the display of indomitable will you have shown in the service of this noble conception.

"The fact that we have fought for a common ideal is not lessened by the minor fact of having defended different solutions.

"If I have not been on the same side with you, allow me, Mr. Senator, to say that it is simply because I entered into the field of active life about one-third of a century after you.

"Gradual and scarcely noticeable changes in the technical necessities of the waterway are accountable for the differences of opinion between the champion of the solution of the middle of the nineteenth century and the champions of the solution of the beginning of the twentieth.

"Now, Mr. Senator, I say to you and most respectfully entreat you to take the high place which is due to the honored veteran of the noblest fight that ever took place for the progress of the world and the welfare of mankind.

"I beg you not to throw away the title which the thankfulness of humanity owes to you, that of the father of the isthmian canal. I beg you to take the laurels of the victory which is yours by accepting with a generous and Christian mind what the changes in the necessities of ocean traffic has made inevitable. You will well crown a noble life inspired by the greatest, the most patriotic, the most disinterested aim.

"I am, Mr. Senator, most respectfully yours,

"(Signed) P. BUNAU-VARILLA."

Senator Morgan yesterday admitted that he had received a letter from M. Bunau-Varilla, and reference to the communication said: "I have not discussed the letter in public and the fact that it was written came from another source."

SINGLE TAXERS

HAD A LIVELY TIME AT THEIR MEETING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—"I have been patient under abuse and insult and I will not stand it any longer. Unless this resolution is passed you will have to elect another president."

This declaration of President C. B. Fillebrown of the Massachusetts Single Tax League at the annual meeting of the league in Chipman hall, Tremont Temple, last night precipitated a heated discussion.

The debate was precipitated when Treasurer Willis introduced a resolution, the last clause of which read:

"It is further affirmed that any contention or vote as to the right or wrong of private property in land is foreign to the purpose of the league."

Judge Pike moved to lay the resolution on the table.

President Fillebrown then said this resolution did not commit the league to any action upon this question, but set it right on action taken a year ago.

A warm discussion followed in which different speakers said President Fillebrown's action was outrageous.

The resolution was finally passed in an amended form by a vote of 35 to 7.

CASE SETTLED

YOUNG CORBETT AND PIERCE AGREE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—The case in which William Rothwell, known as "Young Corbett" in pugilistic circles, charged William A. Pierce of Boston, editor of the Boston Police News, with libel, was disposed of yesterday afternoon by Judge Ely of the municipal court, who nol prossed the case at the request of the district attorney. The principals to the suit reached an agreement outside of court. The case attracted the attention of the local sporting world, and a number of Boston sports were on hand to watch the proceedings. Attorney M. J. Creed appeared for Pierce, while Rothwell's interests were looked after by Attorney Christopher of New York. Harry Pollock, Young Corbett's manager, who accompanied his protege here from New York, was subjected to the annoyance of an arrest on mesne process at the instance of parties said to belong in New York, alleging debt. The arrest was made by Constable McDonald. Pollock quickly gave bail for his appearance in court here when wanted

ADDRESSED MEMBERS OF PHILO S. BENNETT BOYS' CLUB.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10—William J. Bryan last night addressed several hundred boys, members of the Philo S. Bennett club of the People's church. He will appear in the probate court today, when his counsel and the attorney for Mrs. Philo S. Bennett will decide upon the decree of the probate court in accepting the will of Mr. Bennett for probate. Both sides will then take an appeal to the superior court. Mr. Bryan will appeal because Judge Cleaveland of the probate court would not accept as part of the will the sealed letter which instructed Mrs. Bennett to give Mr. Bryan $50,000, and Mr. Stoddard will appeal because Mr. Bryan has been named as executor.

FORGE VILLAGE

Mr. Edwards is slowly recovering from his painful injuries caused by a fall from an unsteady ladder, and will soon be at his old occupation.

The musicale given by the Girls' Guild was very entertaining and a good test of the new piano. A great many of the village people attended and were well pleased.

Mr. Higgly from Groton school has promised to give another musical treat next Wednesday evening.

The Groton school string band will give a concert in the new parish house on November 18th for the benefit of the mission.

St. Katharine's church will hold a fair on the 19th.

The store of Wilbur E. Parsons was broken into on Saturday night. Fruit, candy and some hosiery were taken. It is to be hoped that the thieves will be caught, as the experience in the village has been very unpleasant.

LEIGHTON IS DEAD

HE WAS ONE OF "BUNCOE" REED'S VICTIMS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 10.—Buncoed eight years ago out of $3500, a blow to his pride from which he never recovered, John F. Leighton died yesterday of softening of the brain which followed the discovery of the fraud of which he was the victim. Leighton was 71 years of age, a native of this place and long known as one of the county's most prosperous farmers. At Worcester in 1897 he claimed to identify John Reed as the man who defrauded him.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY

PAWTUCKET MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 10—James Muldoon, a young man employed in the mills at Valley Falls, was held up and robbed by two men at the Miller street bridge here, less than four minutes' walk from Main street square, at 9 o'clock last night. The men secured $9.00.

Muldoon reported to the police that his assailants were large men, one of whom seized him by the throat and arms, while the other went through his pockets. His description of the men was meagre.

FOUGHT A DRAW.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BROCKTON, Nov. 10.—A twelve-round boxing contest between Mattie Baldwin and Jimmy Hanlon, both of Boston, held here last night, was declared a draw. Billy Cass and Pete Scanlon were scheduled to go six rounds, but Cass was given the decision in the second round. Jim Barrow, of Whitman, got the decision in a six round bout with Fred Dunnch of Hanover.

HAND CAUGHT

IN GEAR OF GRINDING MACHINE.

While operating a grinding machine at the Kilson Machine shop yesterday afternoon, W. N. Hill, an employe of that company, who lives at 264 Appleton street, met with a painful accident, which will disable his right hand for many weeks.

Mr. Hill accidentally got his right hand caught in one of the wheels of the machine and he sustained an ugly gash about four inches in length across the palm of his hand just at the base of the thumb.

At the Emergency hospital, where he was taken to have the wound cared for, it was found that the ligaments of the thumb had been severed and in order to avoid amputation of the thumb it was necessary for the doctors to place the victim under chloroform and sew the cords together.

It will be several weeks before the hand will be in condition to warrant Mr. Hill's return to work.

ODOPTED BY THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION.

The executive committee of the Christian Endeavor Union of Lowell and vicinity, was held last evening at the parlors of the Young Men's Christian association, the president, Rev. Robert F. True, in the chair.

The attendance was large and the meeting enthusiastic. The most important item of business was the adoption of a practically new constitution to meet the present needs of the work, and which means an advance step in the progress of the local union. Another item of interest was the projection of a public rally to be held Wednesday evening of the United Society of the World.

All indications point to a renewal interest in this work, which will doubtless place the union among the foremost of the state.

NASHUA DISBANDS

THE MEMBERS OF TEAM WERE DISCOURAGED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NASHUA, Nov. 10.—Manager Frank Montgomery and Capt. Charles Cone of the High school foot ball team resigned and the team disbanded by the consent of all its members at a meeting held yesterday noon. What future action will be taken is unknown at present. The cause of the breaking up of the eleven is trouble over two members who played at Keene last Friday when they were behind in their studies.

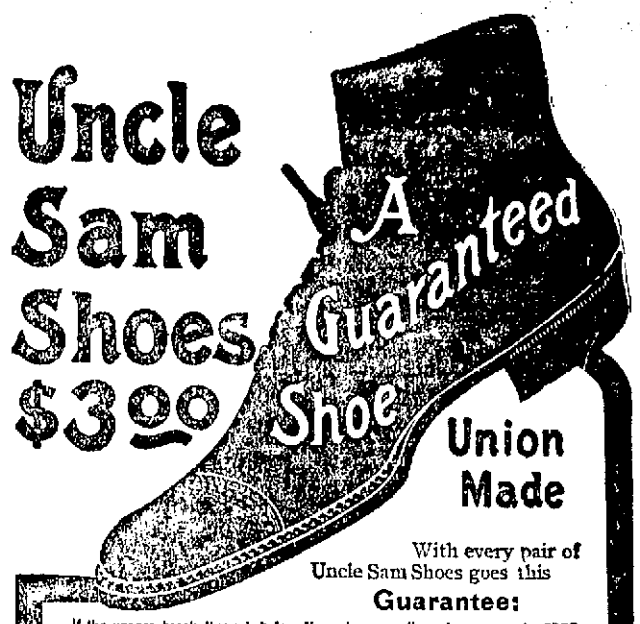

Principal L. S. Hastings when asked for a statement said: "I have been informed that the team has disbanded. This the members did of their own accord. I simply made inquiries regarding the men who played at Keene, but asked for no resignation. That is all I care to say."

The manager and captain say they believed their resignations were desired and took time by the forelock. The members were also discouraged, they say by lack of financial support. What effect the action will have on the triangular league remains to be seen.

LYDIA YEAMANS-TITUS AT THE CASTO.

For refined humor of the highest type, for genuine, pure, clean fun and clear artistic merit the offering of Lydia Yeamans-Titus at the Casto, this week, holds first place. This is high praise, but it is well deserved. Madame Titus, who has a fine soprano voice, which would be worth listening to in ballads, quite apart from her impersonations, mimics the various types of ballad singers, etc., one comes across in the drawing room and on the concert platform. All are wonderfully clever, but the imitation of a child singing a song for the first time is assuredly remarkably so. Madame Titus does not caricature a child, she becomes one for the time being, and her infantile enunciation and her babyish style are exceedingly well thought out; there is not a feature that is overdone, so the resemblance is far greater than is usual in such imitations. The Musical Goodmans scored an humorous hit in their refined musical act, which is very good. Hubert Deveau was a distinct success in "Studies in High Art." As an artist he stands in the front rank and the comedy work is exceedingly clever. The closing picture, "After the Snow Storm," is novel. Mr. Deveau draws a picture of a house nearly hidden in snow, the trees snow-laden, and in all forming a pretty picture. Then the sleigh loaded with merry people is seen to drive by. It is a creation which must be seen to be appreciated. The comedy sketch of Emerson and Omega entitled "In-de-bag-is-it" is a funny concoction of merriment, and is a big laughing success. John E. Drew, the character commedian and dancer, and Gaines and Hazard in contown talk and melodies were favorites and scored. Reserved seats will be in demand this week and they can be obtained by calling telephone 815-3.

WHARF ON FIRE

Portland Had a $60,000 Blaze

By Associated Press to The Sun

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 10.—One of the largest wharf fires which Portland has seen in years, broke out at 10.30 last night in the storehouses of J. H. Hamlin & Sons on Brown's wharf. The firm of Hamlin & Sons is among the largest American exporters on shook and similar stock to the West Indies and the storehouses were filled with shook and finished hogsheads and barrels awaiting shipment. The buildings were two stories in height and were practically destroyed.

An authoritative estimate of the loss was not obtainable last night as J. C. Hamlin, the resident member of the firm, is at Little Rock, Ark., but it is estimated that the value of the goods in the sheds exceeded $50,000. The firm carried heavy insurance. The buildings were the property of the J. R. Brown estate, which owns the wharf. They were worth $10,000 and the damage to wharf, the extent of which cannot be ascertained until the fire burns out will be in addition to the loss on the buildings. The Brown estate is well insured.

ORDER RECALLED

WESTERN UNION ASKED TO SHOW CAUSE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—The board of aldermen yesterday called back from Mayor Collins the order passed two weeks ago directing the Western Union Telegraph company to remove all of its poles in the city limits of Boston within a period of 60 days from the passage of the order. This action was taken at the request of Alderman Martin Lomasney, who introduced the order into the board.

After the order had been called back the board voted in favor of new order calling on the Western Union company to show at a hearing to be held Nov. 30, why the poles should not be removed. The messenger situation remains unchanged.

GRANITEVILLE

The Pepperell Court of the M. C. O. of F., held a box party last Saturday evening, which was well attended. Joseph Wall acted in the capacity of auctioneer for the evening, in a very fine manner. The highest contribution was $1.85 and the lowest was 85 cents. A neat sum was realized. Perry's orchestra furnished music for dancing.

Sparks from an engine were responsible for a slight blaze on the property between the Acton line and the town farm Sunday. Damage slight.

The local football club will have as its opponents next Saturday the Acton association, and a hot game is expected. On the last occasion of the Acton boys' visit a tie score was the result of a well-played contest. The local team is looking for games and would like to hear from the Beachmonts or some other organization. Address James R. Hosley or Mr. Putney, Graniteville.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

All this week special services are to be held at the Second Congregational church. The services started Sunday morning, and the sermon was preached by Rev. Robert W. Dunbar. His text was, "Where does religion come in?" In the evening Rev. Robert W. Dunbar spoke again, and his text was, "How I have received."

In the death of Mr. Luther Haines Sargent, which occurred Saturday, this village has lost one of its most highly esteemed citizens. He had resided here for about 40 years, and there has been quite a change in this village since he first came here to reside. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home in Main street.

The sale of the Snyder property yesterday afternoon brought out quite an attendance of the prominent real estate men of the city. The property is situated at the corner of Branch and Queen streets, and consists of three stores and six tenements. The bidding started at $9,000, and was purchased by Henry A. Williams for $10,500 plus unpaid taxes, making a total price of about $10,700. The property is assessed for about $9,000.

INVALID SAVED

AT A FIRE AT BEACHMONT LAST NIGHT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—A lively blaze which broke out in an unoccupied cottage on the Banks property on Endicott avenue, near the corner of Winthrop avenue, at Beachmont, shortly before 11 o'clock last night, destroyed four summer cottages and created considerable excitement. The loss is estimated at $6000.

Only one of the cottages destroyed was occupied. In that Mrs. Hoyt, mother of Patrolman Hoyt of the Chelsea police, a confirmed invalid, was alone with a servant, and she barely escaped with her life. All of the household goods were destroyed.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Frank Eaton, who lives nearby, and who called her husband. He ran to fire box 45 to pull an alarm, but the box would not work, and it was necessary to send in a call by telephone. Assisted by William Clark and Robert Wilson, Mr. Eaton hastened to the assistance of Mrs. Hoyt, who was carried to safety.

She was very much excited and was with difficulty restrained from attempting to return to the building to save her money and valuables at a time when to enter would almost certainly have been fatal.

AGAINST HEINZE

SUPREME COURT WILL NOT ISSUE WRIT OF CONTROL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 10.—The supreme court yesterday denied the writ of supervisory control asked for by F. A. Heinze to rescind the order granted by Judge Clancy and decided that the Boston and Montana company should be entitled to permission to survey the Minnie Healy mine through the Piccalo and Gambetta workings. The Boston and Montana company under the term of the order is permitted to make weekly inspections until the appeal in the case has been decided.

GREAT SUCCESS

Bazaar at Primitive Methodist Church

Money Will Go to Building Fund

The results of the four days' bazar at the Primitive Methodist church proved more encouraging than the most enthusiastic of the bazar conductors expected, the total profit being $1177.89.

The following figures tell the story:

Sunday school department	$334.28
Ladies' Aid	339.44
Men's League	179.90
Wesley League	168.93
Miscellaneous	342.15
Total	$1371.70
Total expense	193.81
	$1177.89

No lotteries or any chance games entered into the bazar and the people of the Primitive Methodist church feel as if they had accomplished a great deal. The result will be devoted to the building fund.

It will be remembered that the church fresh from the hands of the carpenters and plasterers, was badly damaged by the magazine explosion at South Lowell, and the misfortune of the little band of workers, who had striven so hard to establish a comfortable house of worship, appealed to the public in general, with the result that the substantial sum, herein mentioned, was realized.

Rev. Mr. Matthews, who has been an untiring worker in the establishment of the church and the development of his parish, and his willing and amiditious parishioners ae to be congatulated upon the splendid success obtained by the bazar.

LOWELL MAN

CRIMINAL'S MEASUREMENT APPLIED TO HIM AT SALEM.

For the first time in the history of the Salem police, the Bertillion system of measurements was used at the police station, Friday forenoon, says the Salem News.

Michael F. Casey, alias Frank B. Welch, of Lowell, the pickpocket, arrested Saturday night, and held for the grand jury at District court yesterday, was the one measured.

Deputy Inspector Gustavson of the Bureau of Identification, department of police, in Boston, came to Salem specially to do the measuring, bringing with him the necessary implements. To the layman the process is an interesting one, although to the one being measured, it is probably not so fascinating.

The Bertillion system is the accepted system of measurement of criminals all over the country and has been in vogue in this city under the supervision of Inspector David Donaldson, for about two years.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS

STIRRED UP OVER BILLS THAT ARE UNPAID.

A well attended meeting of the Spanish War Veterans was held last evening at Memorial hall. Capt. Dodge was delegated to investigate the cause for the non-payment of the Memorial Day bills which the command contracted and for which the city appropriated the sum of $150. A special meeting will be held next Monday evening to hear Capt. Dodge's report.

At the meeting three propositions were received and two recruits were mustered in, one of the men being a member of the Rough Riders under President Roosevelt.

The command will hold a smoke talk two weeks from last night to which all Spanish War Veterans of the city are cordially invited.

PEDDLER'S PARADE.

The Independent Order of Odd Ladies held a Peddler's Parade at Post 120, G. A. R., hall in Merrimack street last night. During the early part of the evening a business meeting was held and it was voted to hold a bean supper on the 23d of this month.

After the adjournment of the meeting the parade was held and it proved to be a very enjoyable affair. A long line of young people entered the hall dressed in quaint costumes and after a short drill passed about selling their wares. A good sum was realized by the peddlers.

Songs were rendered by Miss Belle Lavigne and piano duets were given by Miss Lillian Goodwin and Miss Elsie Grant.

HAPPY DAYS

When Friends Say "How Well You Look."

We can bring those days by a little care in the selection of food just as this young man did.

"I had suffered from dyspepsia for three years and last summer was so bad I was unable to attend school," he says. "I was very thin and my appetite at times was poor while again it was craving. I was dizzy and my food always used to ferment instead of digesting. Crossness, unhappiness and nervousness were very prominent symptoms.

"Late in the summer I went to visit a sister and there I saw and used Grape-Nuts. I had heard of this famous food before but never was interested enough to try it, for I never knew how really good it was. But when I came home we used Grape-Nuts in our household all the time and I soon began to note changes in my health. I improved steadily and am now strong and well in every way and am back at school able to get my lessons with ease and pleasure and can remember them, too, for the improvement in my mental power is very noticeable and I get good marks in my studies which always seemed difficult before.

"I have no more of the bad symptoms given above, but feel fine and strong and happy and it is mighty pleasant to hear my friends say: 'How well you look.'"

IN SECOND PLACE

Lowell Pulled Out of Tight Place in Haverhill

Haverhill came near turning the trick on Manager Gray's team in Haverhill last night.

Lowell won after four minutes extra play, but it was a game that the Gray boys will remember for some time. In fact it was just such a game as one will see only once in a season. The score was 23 to 21. At the close of the third period it was an even thing at 21 each, but four minutes after the extra period opened Skip Fields found the basket on a great throw from near the centre of the rink, and the Lowell boys trotted off the floor a happy lot.

Lowell started off like an easy winner and the six hundred spectators began to think that it was all off with Haverhill.

The first period ended with the score 13 to 2 in Lowell's favor, but in the second period Tighe, Lew, Dionne and Ellsworth got in their fine work and at the close the figures were 16 to 13 in Lowell's favor. Tighe started the Haverhill work in the third and with one minute to play the score was 21 to 20 in Haverhill's favor. Just then Lew committed a foul and it being the third chalked up against Haverhill it meant a point for Lowell and the score was tied. Then the teams started in again after a brief rest and after four minutes of play Fields threw his basket. The Lowell team showed up in great form and Abbott continued his great defensive work, that has made him a favorite in Lowell.

Fields never played better in his career. Haverhill will come to Lowell tonight and if the game is anything like last night's it will be worth going miles to see. The lineup and summary:

LOWELL.	HAVERHILL.
Allard rf	lb Harrington
Kynoch lf	rb Low
Field c	c Snow (Ellsworth)
Holleron rb	lf Dionne
Abbott lb	rf Tighe

Score, Lowell 23, Haverhill 21. Goals from field, Allard, Field 5, Holleron 2, Abbott 2, Lew 2, Harrington, Ellsworth, Dionne 3, Tighe. Points on fouls, Lowell 3, Haverhill 6. Fouls committed, Allard 3, Kynoch 3, Field 5, Holleron 6, Lew 7, Harrington 1, Tighe 3. Referee, Marley, Timers, Gray and Driscoll. Attendance, 500.

MANCHESTER 30, NASHUA 17.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 10.—The Manchester basketball team continued on its triumphant career by polishing off the Nashua club in approved fashion here last night. The visitors were never in the running, but they showed praiseworthy gameness and made several brilliant plays. Against the clock-work methods of Smith's men, however, their opportunities for baskets were scarce. The score was 30 to 17.

Devlin played a star game for Manchester, caging six baskets. Pat Doyle and McFarland did the honors for Nashua on the offensive line, and Kelliher did good work in the back field. Nashua tried out Crogen, a Connecticut league recruit, who retired in the second period in favor of McFarland.

Pat Doyle, the well-known Manchester boy who is a player of the Nashua team, and Lynch had it out in lively style throughout the game. Both played fast and hard and at the finish each had three baskets to his credit. Lynch slipped up on a number of chances. Doyle fouled repeatedly and was rather rough in some of the tactics he adopted. Lynch proved his equal and the players had it out in great style much to the delight of the spectators.

Manchester excelled in passing the ball and kept the Nashua players guessing as to where the ball was. Their floor work was very good, Captain Qualey excelling in this respect.

A number of the players received hard bumps and on three or four occasions it was necessary to call time. Crogan, who relieved Guthrie in the third period, was in the game but a few seconds when he had the middle finger of his left hand badly torn by catching it in the wire netting.

Frank Devlin scored the largest number of baskets, securing a total of 6. He played everywhere and was effective in his blocking. Healy played rather fast but was unfortunate on his shots, the majority striking the edge of the basket, to roll off. The only good he got was a hair raiser and came after the player had dodged the entire length of the floor through the Nashua confinent. Donnelly played well and was relieved by Regan in the third period.

HOLYOKE 11½, SPRINGFIELD 7.

Holyoke defeated the league leaders Springfield, 11½ to 7, last night in a fast and clean contest in Holyoke. The first basket from the field was scored 18 minutes from the call of play, and previous to that only two fouls had been called. In the second half Fox and Michaelman were ordered from the floor by Referee Byers because he thought they were fighting, whereas they were only wrestling. The usual demonstration against the referee ensued. The summary:

HOLYOKE	SPRINGFIELD
Matthieu rf	lb Corcoran
Davies (capt.) rf
Waterman lf	rb Harding
Scott c	c Matthews
Edgar rb	lf Riley
Fox lb	rf Michaelman
Davies lb	rf Shea

Score, Holyoke 11½, Springfield 7. Goals from floor, Edgar 3, Matthieu 2, Davies 2, Waterman, Matthews 3, Riley. Points from fouls, Holyoke 3½, Springfield 3. Referee, Byers. Scorer, Quigley. Timer, McLaughlin. Time, 20m. halves. Attendance, 1200.

WESTFIELD 17½, NORTHAMPTON 10½.

Westfield defeated Northampton last evening, 17½ to 10½. The game was fast and good. The visitors were much the heavier. The summary:

WESTFIELD	NORTHAMPTON
Ashe rf	lf Bothwell
Cullen lf	rf Ron
Huot, Zanger c	c Horn
Godley rf	lf O'Mara
Conlon lf	rf Price

Score, Westfield 17½, Northampton 10½. Goals from field, Cullen 2, Ashe 4, Zanger 2, Conlon 3, Godley 5, O'Mara 5, Price 2, Horn, Fouls, Huot 2, Zanger, Godley 2, O'Mara 3, Horn, Bothwell. BASKETBALL NOTES.

We are in second place now.

The Cadet band is more than pleased with the handsome treatment they have received from Manager Gray, and want to express their thanks.

The admission of a sixth city in the New England league is under contemplation, and a meeting of the league will be held on Wednesday afternoon in Nashua to take action. Chelsea will probably be admitted.

The Western league has released all claim to the following players who wish to play in the New England league: Curley, Edgarz, Maradonski, Lynch, Glen, Keegan and Leighton. Several of these men are recognized stars, and they will be used to strengthen the Nashua and Haverhill teams.

Haverhill will play in Lowell tonight. Lew, Harrington and Tighe, three of the former members of the P. A. C. team and three corkers at that, will be in the lineup of the visitors. The Cadet band will be on hand to give another concert prior to the game and between periods. "Dutchy" McDonald will referee the game and the attendance promises to be the largest of the season. The young lady clerks in several of the down town stores have made up parties to attend the game and cheer for the local team. It will be a warm game, for after last night's contest the Haverhill boys believe that their chances are good to pass Lowell in the league race.

Harry Hough, who played right forward on the Pittsfield basketball team against Westfield, was injured in the game Saturday night and it is probable that Capt. Deal will not allow him to go into the game again until Saturday. In some way he was thrown against the baseboard with great force, striking on something that projected and ripping his right leg open above the knee. It required several stitches to close the cut.

Hough is very eager to go into the game and does not like the idea of being taken out with his injuries. On account of this the team will be somewhat weakened this week, but it is hoped that he will be ready for the game with Springfield Saturday evening.

The results of last week indicate that Pittsfield is the fastest team of the octet. With Windellon and Shields in the lineup, the team that is representing Springfield will be found a match for the great aggregation that is playing for the Shire city, but at the present stage of the game Pittsfield is certainly first choice, as the New York stars will be able to play only the games in Whitney rink for the present at least. Pittsfield has a finely balanced team of great players and is likely to be alone in the lead at the end of this week.

Mike Hickey's team has more than justified the expectations. It has emerged victorious from four hard games and has shown itself capable of putting up some grand basketball. At the same time it has also shown that it can give a poor exhibition and thus far has given little evidence of real team work. Manager Hickey expects this defect to be remedied as soon as the players have grown accustomed to one another and he is urging continually the necessity of a passing game.

Chicopee was the disappointment of the league last week. Most people expected to see the Chicopee men make a runaway race of it from the start. The disappointment has not been through any inability of Chicopee to play as fast as it was believed the team could play, but rather through the unexpected strength displayed by Pittsfield and Springfield.—Springfield Union.

CYCLE NEWS.

Two retirements have been announced in the cycle-racing field—one of Walthour, a southerner, and the other of Major Taylor. Both give superabundance of wealth gained from cycle racing as a reason for retirement.

Despite this fact, there is every reason to believe that both riders will again be seen in harness next season. In fact, the name of Walthour is already on a contract to race under the management of Eli Whewell until Jan. 1, 1905. That tells the retirement story from Walthourville, otherwise Atlanta, Ga. Taylor has earned between $10,000 and $15,000 this year. He will hardly find another opportunity to clean up a like amount in any other field. Probably after mature deliberation he will think it all over again and decide to shy his castor once more into the ring.

"On to Australia" is the cry of the racing men. Lawson and MacFarland are now on their way there, and a number of European cracks are reported to have announced their intention of competing in the land of the kangaroo. "Plunger Bill" Martin is already on the ground. He departed from these shores some months ago, quietly and without any one knowing of his departure. The Australian racing season is just opening, and Martin will make his first appearance in Sidney at a meet given for the benefit of Walne, a favorite antipodean rider.

According to R. Sumi, the Japanese importer, who is now in this country, cycle racing is on the top wave of popularity in the empire. The best tracks are in Tokyo and Osaka, but he says nearly every little country town possesses a course of some sort. The mile record stands at about 2.25, the slow time being due to the sandy and poorly improved tracks that are the rule. No admission fee is charged, and as a result crowds of from 10,000 to 20,000 are common.

"Looping the loop" on bicycles, which has been a relenting sensation in Paris for some time, finally has been prohibited by the police. They took action after a man and his wife sought to perform the feat on a tandem, and landed in a hospital instead.

Five additional companies of cyclists are to be added to the French army. At the recent maneuvres one company carried out a night "march" of 53 miles, from Berzieux to Sedan, in six hours and a half without a single straggler.

Owen Kimble, the American racing man who has spent the season riding on European tracks, sails for home this week. He has had a fairly successful year, being placed in a large number of important races.

GERMANY HOLDS OFF

Will Not Mix up in Panama Affair

By Associated Press to The Sun

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The Colombian commission, if it comes here, will receive no consideration from the German government. The correspondent of the Associated Press called the foreign office's attention to the statement made yesterday by Arturo de Brigard, the Colombian consul-general in New York, that the Colombians were clamoring for a German protectorate over their country and that the Colombian government had been asked to send a commission to Germany to offer Emperor William certain pieces of land on both seas, in return for Germany's protection. The reply was:

"We have heard nothing on the subject, but if a commission comes with such a proposition, it would not be entertained for one moment. We have no intention of mixing ourselves in the affairs of the isthmian states. We are still without any communication from our consular representatives in regard to the revolution or asking protection, hence we have omitted to ask the United States to look after German interests. The statements regarding our commercial interests in Colombia and Panama have been much exaggerated, but, we hope to see our trade there prosper better after the United States builds the canal."

THE GILLIS CASE

POWERS IS HELD BY THE POLICE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—On Saturday last Mary Gillis, 33 years old, single, who had been living in apartments on Madison place, went to the house of a Mrs. Martin at 19 Cobb street, where she took two or three rooms on the ground floor.

Mrs. Martin was told that she was sick at the time she went there, and she shared her rooms with James Powers, 40 years old, who has occupied rooms with her for a long time.

About 8 o'clock last night Powers is said to have called Dr. Maurice Gerstein, who had an office at the corner of Davis and Washington streets, and when he arrived the woman was dead, and, in the doctor's opinion, had been so for some time.

The dead woman had a black eye and bruises on the nose and body, which it is said she had when she went to the Cobb street house last Saturday. Dr. Gerstein refused to give a death certificate.

Powers was taken to station 5, and will be held pending the action of the medical examiner, who will hold an autopsy today.

The police were not satisfied with Powers' statements, which were to the effect that the last time he spoke to the Gillis woman was about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He told the officers that she had been very sick all day yesterday, and about 4 o'clock he went to her room to give her something to drink, but she could not swallow it. He was sure she was alive then, but he could not satisfactorily explain to the officers why he waited until 8 o'clock in the evening before he called a doctor.

56,000 Yards Remnants Fine Velvets at Much Less Than Half Price

It is well known how these velvets come to us and why we can sell them at such a low price—lower than ever this year. Season after season we've told that it is the accumulation from the largest velvet mills in the country, etc.

This year we have more velvets than ever for the fashion craze is for "Velvet" this season—most emphatically so.

We offer Friday morning, Black and Plain Color Velvets, Panne Velvets and Fancy Velvets in qualities ranging from $1.25 to $2.50, all at one price,

Only 49c a Yard

We shall devote our entire Right Aisle, Palmer Street, to the velvet selling, and shall appoint fifty or more sales people to assist and serve you.

Today we begin the window display, the biggest and finest we've ever shown to you—Merrimack Street Windows.

Latest Development of the Paris Hat

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The charming salon of Mme. Carlier in the Rue de la Paix is the rendezvous these autumn days of the smart Parisienne and the equally stunning Americaine, each intent upon the pleasant pursuit of a chapeau. The creations displayed at this fascinating atelier are certainly the summum bonum of sartorial exclusiveness. If manners make the man, hats undoubtedly play a conspicuous part in making the woman. The possession of a becoming hat has often been the cause of more jealousy, hatred, malice and uncharitableness in the feminine world than one can well imagine. When two women meet at the beginning of a season the best thing they do is to pick each other's hats to pieces—in their minds; the next is to pay flattering compliments about them. Indeed, so all powerful is the question of head gear that some one has said a woman will make every sacrifice for her husband, will die for him if need be, but will always wear the hat she likes.

One of the confections over which the women were unblushingly breaking the tenth commandment at Carlier's was a cerise beaver. When I say cerise you very likely in imagination conjure up the hard, glaring, pinkish red we have been accustomed to associate with this color. The new cerise nuance is an exquisite blending of the pink and dahlia tones of the season. The almost imperceptible crown of this flat, round beaver creation was covered with a silk braid arranged in flat circles dotted with military buttons. Smart cerise and white wings on which circular velvet motifs were introduced completed the trimming. This description may sound rather bizarre, but to see the hat was to love it. Another delightful model was a gray fawn beaver rolled well up at one side, through which was thrust a long black feather. A similar plume encircled the crown.

The styles in headgear are most diverse, although most hats fit the head close in the back and have broad effects in front. They do not match the toilet, but harmonize perfectly with it. Some of the new models have such a frontal width that one wonders whether there is a face inside. The large hat we have been wearing for several seasons is held responsible for women not greeting each other with a kiss. It is well we have been educated up to the new extension brim, for should the contagion spread, to paraphrase a familiar quotation, "When brim meets brim then would come the tug of war." The club mainsail chapeau of last summer was extremely grotesque, and its successor of the woodpecker variety has only tacked in a different direction and is quite as absurd. The saving grace of the new development is, however, the fact of its not being a plaything for all the winds of heaven, as it holds its own on the head with commendable tenacity.

The kind of hat women of good taste will wear for all round occasions is a low, flat affair which comes down snugly over the face. This fashion may not be becoming to madame or mademoiselle, but it is chic, and she'll wear it without a murmur. A few models of the high crowned directoire type are observed. These are not evolved for the exclusive Parisienne, but are designed to catch the eye and please the fancy of the ultra feminine who insists upon something striking. There is a natty new Breton sailor very suitable for morning wear trimmed simply with queer wings in shadings to match the walking gown. The sailor shape is also smart when ornamented by a Romney ruche of satin ribbon and the brim faced with velvet.

Our heart is still true to the picturesque Devonshire hat, and reproductions of that dear duchess' favorite head covering will grace many reception and carriage costumes.

To continue the millinery talk, velvet is the material with which the happiest effects in the chiffon world are obtained this season; not the old time kind, but the soft, exquisite texture the Paris and Lyons firms are turning out in the new chiffon velours. A Caroline Reboux medium sized plateau charmingly illustrates the velvet possibilities. This little hat is formed of gathered wood colored velvet, and the suspicion of a crown is made by the addition of a rosette in the center. A slightly curved brim at the left side is faced with shirred chiffon velours, under which rests a bunch of mauve roses.

The hat question naturally suggests the veil, without which the average woman is about as complete as a ship without a rudder. This adjunct of the toilet is often chosen with a recklessness actually disfiguring. A veil's first duty is to be becoming, and its selection should be made with regard to the coloring of the wearer, the scheme of dress and the type of beauty. Large spots sparingly sprinkled over a surface are never good on the face. This hit or miss arrangement of dots is perilous to trifle with, and the cross barred affair makes the wearer look like a rabbit behind a wire. The most attractive veil is the fine diamond meshed black one without spots. It is both cheap and ladylike, two very important points. A leading Paris house is reviving the Victorian lace "fall." This relic of our grandmothers' day is charming on a beautiful woman with a certain verve who looks well in almost anything. Such a one may adopt this quaint fashion for a fad. A safe rule to follow in veils is that a face covering should strike the eye as such no more than a wall paper should overshadow the pictures.

UP TO DATE PARISIAN HEADGEAR.

Paris is prepared to be jauntily rotund in silhouette, and the short, dumpy woman's day is not yet. She has certainly pegs to hang her grievance on in the short skirts standing out full a little below the waist, in the great sleeves and in the fussy pelerines. Let her accept Paddy's consolation and "keep never minding," for there is a hybrid garment neither pelerine nor bolero, but a combination of the two, which is just the wrap for her to choose. This pretty jacket reaches the waist line back and front and is held in place by a bolero extension beneath the arms. The sleeves and cape are modeled in one.

A stunning little tailor costume which took my fancy was a dark wood brown cloth with a hairy surface on which were distinctly seen red and green flecks. The skirt fitted beautifully at the waist and flared in a fluffy fullness at the feet. Down the front width was a panel four inches wide formed of narrow green and red braid, the ends of the braid being finished with small enameled buttons. The freytable pelerine, trimmed with braid and buttons, finished the short, blouse jacket.

To be worn with this gown was a white silk shirt waist fashioned of heavy louisine. An "off the shoulder" yoke effect was stitched solidly with row after row of chain machine stitching in red, green and black. A long stole and collar and the high, fitted belt were also stitched. This stitching is one of the season's smartest trimmings for tailor mades.

Dyed wool laces will be much used, and a silk lace cut out and filled in with designs in thread is the dernier cri. An effective trimming is of braid or ribbon put on over a contrasting color which shows a little between the rows. The narrow belt and pouched waist are things of the past, the accepted coiture being a high, crushed directoire or fitted corselet fastened with an elaborate buckle of quaint design.

I must not forget to mention the new fur purse bags made of all the fashionable skins. They are mounted in gold and silver and sometimes studded with turquoise or emerald cabochons. A useful little pocket for the handkerchief is fitted at the back.

The up to date handkerchief is so frail and tiny, with its diminutive square of mull and lace frills, that the accepted place of bestowal is in the glove. Mme. La Mode has decreed that our glove shall not have a silver lining, but one of contrasting color in kid.

One of the pretty whimsicalities of the moment is to wear a miniature set in a circle of pearls or diamonds on a short chain around the neck. The swagger woman is now having all her jewelry reset after the antique, in which the new fashion which is the old is represented.

Evening toilets will be gorgeous if the handsome brocades which one sees on every hand go into their making. The all lace gown will be de rigueur, and the extreme cult is to embroider the lace with colored silks. Shaded mousseline de soie is evolving many of the prettiest ball costumes. A deep rose shading to a delicate pink in this material is wonderfully effective.

In all this wealth of material and style a sartorial tragedy is possible if there is a lack of suitability in the selection. A gown may be Paris made and chic to a degree, but if donned by the wrong woman she has the unfortunate appearance of masquerading in some one else's finery.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

Character Told by Shoes.

Sarpology is the name of a novel method of divination which is now attracting some attention in Europe. It was invented by a scientist of Basel, and it is based on the assumption that the character of any person can be told from his shoes.

When a heel and sole are worn equally, meaning thereby when neither is in a worse condition than the other, one may be confident, if a man wears the shoe, that he is energetic and is endowed with excellent business ability, and, if a woman, that she is loyal to her husband and a good housekeeper.

The outer edge of a sole if much worn is a sure token of a fantastic, wayward spirit; but, on the other hand, if the inner edge is worn the wearer is timid and irresolute.

When the shoes are much worn along the outer edge and the leather around the toes begins to look shabby, the other parts of the shoes meanwhile being almost as good as new, one may be confident that the wearer is a rogue."

The Newest Trimmings.

Embroidery, galloon and stitchery of various kinds will play an important part in the decoration of our garments during the winter, and those who are fortunate enough to have hoarded pieces of old needlework, brocade or embroidery should bring them out. A dainty vest, collar or other decorative trifle may be evolved by ingenious fingers from small pieces skillfully appliqued to a blouse or coat. Sapphire blue louisine with embroidery in greens and blues would be effective, and rust brown silk with embroidery of gold and Indian red would be equally pleasing.

A SMART WINTER COAT

THE stunning coat sketched is of heavy cloth in castor color. Four inverted box plaits form the front and flare into a three-quarter skirt. The back is plain and tight fitting. Three large and handsome brown butterfly ornaments fasten this smart wrap. The neck is collarless, and a double cape gives the necessary broad shoulder effect. The sleeves are also double and have an underpuff of the cloth. The castor beaver hat is trimmed simply with a white bird.

Belts to Be Worn This Winter.

Belts are wider than they have been. The new waistband is from two to four inches wide and rather bright in coloring. Suede and doeskin belts have taken the place of the shiny leather ones considered smart in the summer. All the belts fasten with the harness buckle or an antique clasp. A charming suede belt may be made at home with slight expense and trouble. Cut a piece of suede an eighth of an inch wide and the required size of the waist. Bind on each edge with ribbon. Graduate one end to a point and draw the other through the buckle in plaits. The belt is finished when a harness maker has riveted the eyelet holes in place. This belt is one of the new crushed kind.

The Season's Favorite Colors.

Now browns trimmed with white panne are among the smartest shows of color and dark blue, with grass green, continues in the affection of many. As to gray, the dark shades are returning to favor, and one of the smartest costumes among the Paris models is a dark gray cloth with scarlet velvet trimmings.

The Care of Woman's Wardrobe

THE average woman does not number among her luxuries the services of a maid. In our effort to be elegant nowadays the term maid has become very elastic and comprehensive in meaning. The word is often used to describe our drudge of all work as well as the trained domestic specialist. The particular maid to whom I refer is the one devoted entirely to madam and her sartorial interests. If we all cannot enjoy the comfort of having our belongings taken care of by a lady's maid we can go into training and do the work for ourselves in a professional manner. The art of knowing how is invaluable to the woman of limited wardrobe who is ambitious to always appear well dressed.

This open secret lies for the most part in putting one's things away carefully; never tumbling them in a drawer or closet until they have been thoroughly dusted and brushed.

It is a great bother, I admit, when one comes home tired out from a day of social or business duties to put everything away with care in its right place. The impulse is to hang things round anywhere until tomorrow. Probably you have tried this "put off" method and realize that no neglect is possible in the domain of the well groomed woman. Eternal vigilance here is the price of a neat, smart appearance.

There are lots of little "first aids to the injured" and invaluable wardrobe helps known to the initiated. For instance, the neat and careful girl during a leisure hour runs ribbon in her lingerie. Her ribbon box contains the color of ribbon she affects in three widths. A bodkin is always threaded in each piece ready to run through the beading at a moment's notice. Gloves are overlooked after each wearing, carefully mended if necessary, smoothed out and put in a glove case between sachets perfumed with a favorite powder.

It is astonishing how few women put on and take off a glove properly, yet this has everything to do with its wear and appearance. To learn the right way watch an experienced saleswoman while she tries a pair on a customer. Invariably she will push the glove on the four fingers before putting it on the thumb. When the glove is removed the operation should begin at the wrist and the glove be carefully turned backward so far as the second joint of the fingers. It will then come off easily with a gentle pull at the finger tips. On the other hand, if it is jerked off by the fingers it will be stretched out of shape immediately. One glove should never be turned into another after the manner of stockings, but each finger should be laid out as flat as possible, with the thumb folded inside the palm. Too much stress cannot be laid upon a well clothed hand, as this and a neatly shod foot are the marks of a lady, no matter how shabby her frock.

While on the subject of gloves I must tell you how to make a pillow out of the wrists and part of the backs of discarded gloves. Every woman sooner or later acquires a lot of wrinkled wrists from evening to walking gloves. Cut up all the clean parts of these wrists into triangles and squares. Baste them down on a canvas lining and work them with "catstitch" in yellow silk. The effect is charming when soft shades of gray and ivory are used. The discarded wrists will make the most nerve soothing, smoothest pillow in the world. Stuff the pillow with hair if you can afford it.

"Lax in their gaiters, laxer in their gait," is an old saying which applies well to the modern shoe and its wearer. No shoe will keep in shape long unless it is put on a tree when out of use. These "trees" are very cheap, but most women in their ignorance look upon them as an extravagance. Another rule of the carefully shod woman is to rest her shoes for a day or so and always wear a different pair indoors. Low shoes are better for house wear, as they permit of ventilation. Select a strong calfskin for a walking boot, keep it well oiled, and your pedestrian trips will be made in perfect comfort. Keep an old pair of shoes to wear under rubbers, as the perspiration which india rubber excites ruins good leather.

Nothing on earth is dowdier or more convincingly displays a lack of attention to details than a dirty, bedraggled skirt whose braid has begun to wear. Rip off the old protection and after thoroughly airing the skirt brush it with a good, large sponge, which removes the accumulation of dust much more effectually than a broom. When a skirt is in almost constant use it should be turned wrong side out once a week, hung on a line in the yard and every germ removed by an energetic beating. Of course a silk lining will not stand this sort of treatment, and a gentler method is required. When ready for the closet hang on a hanger, never by the loops found at the sides.

The fancy bodice, with its expensive frills, is another object of careful solicitude. If tissue paper is packed into sleeves and shoulders there is no danger of a crease setting in even the daintiest creation. A good idea when the collar and cuffs are of perishable material is to wrap soft paper around them. Silk covered hangers suspended from the center of the wardrobe afford a much better way of disposing of the waist than the drawer of a chiffonier.

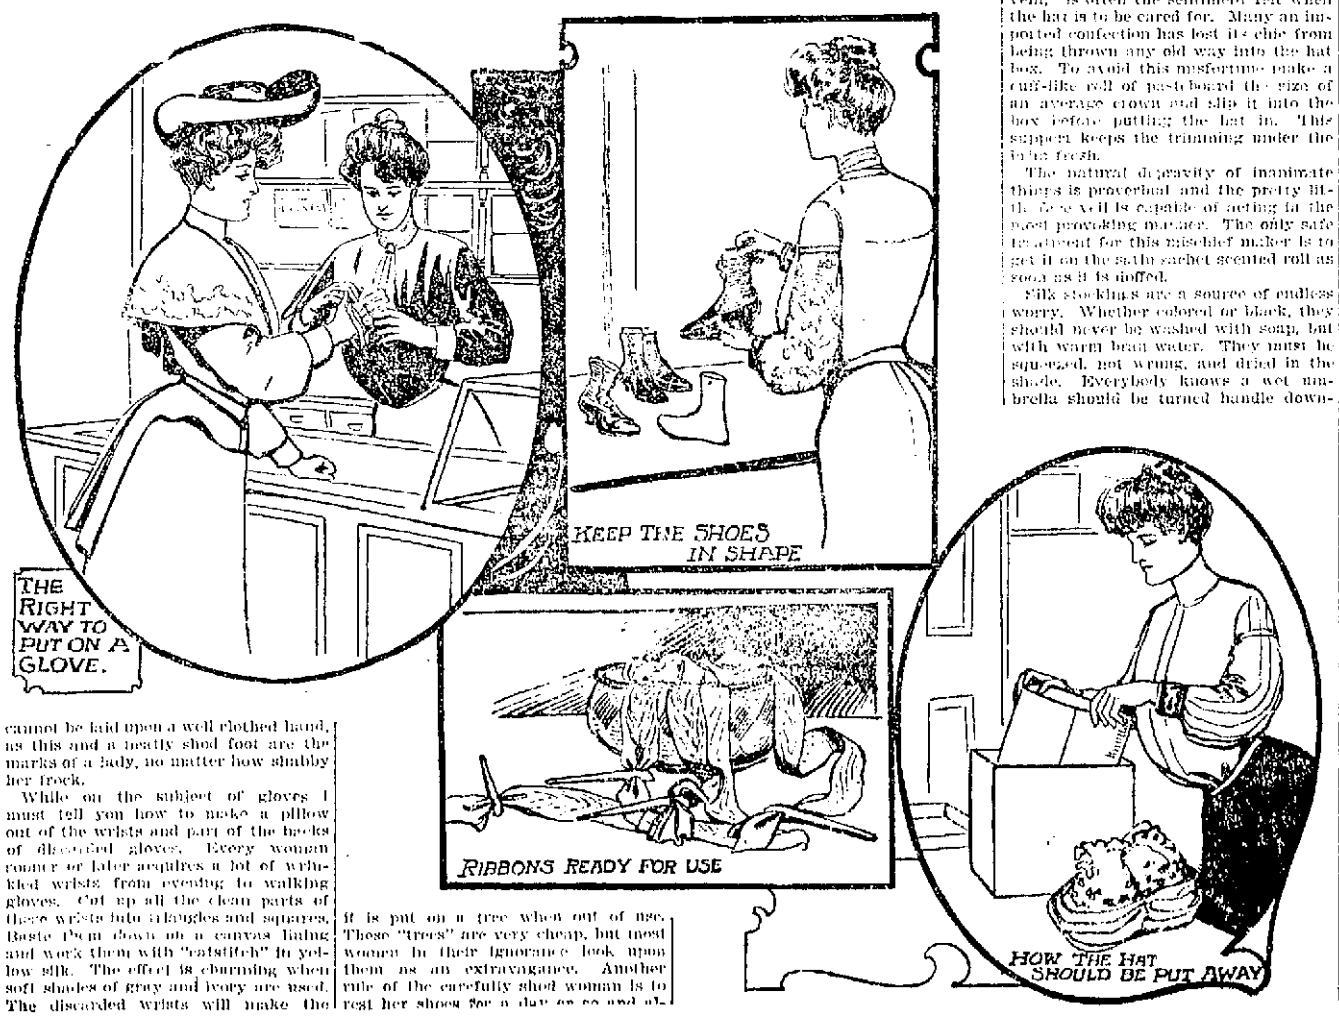

"Thou troublest me; I am not in the vein," is often the sentiment felt when the hair is to be cared for. Many an imported confection has lost its chic from being thrown any old way into the hat box. To avoid this misfortune make a cuff-like roll of pasteboard the size of an average crown and slip it into the box before putting the hat in. This support keeps the trimming under the brim fresh.

The natural depravity of inanimate things is proverbial and the pretty little fore will is capable of acting in the most provoking manner. The only safe treatment for this mischief maker is to get it on the satin sachet scented roll as soon as it is doffed.

Silk stockings are a source of endless worry. Whether colored or black, they should never be washed with soap, but with warm bran water. They must be squeezed, not wrung, and dried in the shade. Everybody knows a wet umbrella should be turned handle downward until dry and never placed in the holder rolled or with a case on.

The feminine world has long used the window glass for doing up the best handkerchiefs or delicate laces. Mouchoir cases are an abomination, and a section of the top bureau drawer entirely padded with scented silk is a more convenient receptacle. This curriculum of clothes care may sound difficult to the freshman, but when the diploma is gained the graduate will prove a neat and useful adjunct if not an ornament to society.

ELINOR HEWITT.

We Can't Eat Celery Now.

Now the physicians are said to have forbidden another relish nearly as popular as oysters at this time. Celery has come under the ban of the doctors, who say that it is equally well adapted to transmitting the poisonous elements of the soil and carrying the germs of typhoid. The disease can be acquired only by introducing the microbes into the system in food or drink, and for that reason advice against certain kinds of food is always likely to be regarded. But to what extent this may be carried is well understood by the proprietor of one hotel, who has seen oysters during the past three weeks disappear almost entirely from the orders of his guests. Some weeks ago a well known man died of typhoid fever. He had lived at a large hotel, and the report went about that he had got his illness there. "Whatever you do, don't eat oysters at that hotel," was the advice that one friend was giving another, based on the belief that this man had died of a disease contracted in the hotel dining room, when the chances were immensely in favor of his having got the fever somewhere else.

If they keep on, there will be nothing left for us to eat except fish and fritters, and the latter will probably be cut off soon and pills substituted.

To Prevent Hair Falling Out.

There is nothing better than sage tea to prevent the hair from falling out. This should be well rubbed into the roots three or four times a week. Bran water is also good for the scalp where there is dandruff. After rubbing it in, the hair must be well washed or it will stick together. A frequent cause of the hair falling out is a deficient state of the circulation. Rubbing the scalp for a short time every night with the fingers will stimulate circulation.

Peppermint Cordial.

This cordial will keep for any length of time. Take one gallon of water, four and a half pounds of loaf sugar, two drams of the best oil of peppermint, one pint of gin. Boil the water and sugar together for twenty minutes, let stand till nearly cold, then add oil of peppermint and gin. Mix all together. When quite cold pour into bottles and cork tightly. Smaller quantity may be made by halving the measurements.

DAINTIES for AFTERNOON TEAS

SCONES.—Take one pound of fine flour, stir into it two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar and two ounces of powdered sugar. Rub into it three ounces of butter. Dissolve one small teaspoonful of carbonate of soda in half a pint of lukewarm milk and knead these ingredients into a stiff paste with the hands. Roll out half an inch thick, cut into rounds with a claret glass and bake in a brisk oven. When about half done brush over lightly with milk. Serve split open and buttered, either hot or cold.

Lemon Buns.—Mix two ounces of ground rice with six ounces of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and the grated rind of half a lemon. Rub in lightly two ounces of lard or butter. Beat up an egg with a gill of milk, stir into the other ingredients, beat for a few minutes, put into greased tins and bake in a quick oven for ten or fifteen minutes.

Sponge Cake With Chocolate Icing.—Carefully beat the whites of three eggs on a plate for twenty minutes. Separate the froth and add gradually six ounces of sugar and the well whipped yolks of three eggs. Beat all together, sifting in four ounces of flour. Flavor with essence of vanilla, pour into a tin lined with greased paper and bake in a steady oven for an hour. When cold cover with chocolate icing. To make it put a quarter of a pound of icing sugar, one ounce of grated chocolate and one tablespoonful of water into a saucepan. Stir over a moderate fire till as thick as cream. Lay this evenly over the cake with a knife, dipping it occasionally into boiling water. When finished set in a very cool place.

Cocoanut Cakes.—Mix together half a pound of flour, three ounces of grated cocoanut, three ounces of sugar, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Rub in three ounces of butter and mix with one egg and a little milk. Knead up stiffly, put rough pieces the size of a walnut on a greased tin and bake in a quick oven.

Sardine Sandwiches.—Dip half a dozen sardines into boiling water and remove the skin and bones. Pound them in a mortar with a hard boiled egg. Season with a squeeze of lemon juice and a few grains of cayenne. Cut some thin slices of brown bread and butter; spread with this paste. Press together, cut into fancy shapes and serve on a folded napkin garnished with parsley.

Restful simplicity is the rule in furnishing houses.

McMAHON GAINED

Recount Gives Him Seven More Votes

Four Towns Yet to be Heard From—No Material Change in the 25th District Count—City Politics are Fairly Booming

The recount of the votes for representative in the 25th and 27th districts was finished last evening and resulted in no material change, though it brought forth a surprise in the Ward Nine vote and gives Mr. McMahon a fighting chance to beat Mr. O'Brien.

In the 27th Mr. McMahon gained seven. Mr. O'Brien's and Mr. Upton's votes were unchanged, and Mr. Westall gained two. Five of the votes credited to Mr. McAleer, the socialist candidate, were found to belong to Mr. McMahon.

At the present time Mr. Westall has a lead of seven votes on Mr McMahon, and Mr O'Brien a lead of three over him. The towns are yet to be heard from.

In the 25th, Mr. Hayes lost one vote, Mr. Henderson three, Mr. Hilton lost five, Mr. McMannon lost five, Mr. Ripley lost eight and Mr. Rourk gained 11.

Mr. M. D. Chenevert, who is president of the Young Men's club of Precinct 3 of Ward 6, in speaking of the good work the club can do, said to The Sun reporter: "When I first thought of the formation of our club, I felt that we would be able to do some good work in arousing the old-time democratic enthusiasm we had here a few years ago. I found, in mentioning the matter to the young men of the ward, that they were in accord with my idea and I entered into the work of organization. Tom Garvey is my personal friend, and as I knew he had had experience in politics, I suggested to the members that I invite him to give us some advice. I was listening to Tom but a short time when I realized that to follow his advice, meant that we could do a great work. I was favorably impressed with his remarks regarding the so-called touch club, and the result of our determination to avoid the touch club business, is that we have as members of our club some of the best citizens of the ward. Let me give you a few names of our members. There is one of our leading provision dealers, Mr. H. M. Demers. We have many other business men, among whom are E. J. Mercier, U. L. Chapdelaine, O. J. David, J. M. Picard, George W. Pelletault, L. Motard, C. L. Chapdelaine, A. Guillmette, M. Forgette, M. Connolly, R. J.Chenevert, P. F. Chenevert, J. H. Marcotte and C. F. Sabell. You can rest assured that those men would not affiliate with any touch club and I become enthusiastic when I talk of the matter. Mr. Garvey made one suggestion to us, which struck me quite forcibly. That was that when the excitement of politics has gone, there was still work for our club to do. We should get rid of that detestable dump.

"We should get improvements along Pulaski, Exeter, Dutton streets, and all through that section of the ward, and we can get those improvements by just such an organization as ours. Just keep your eyes on the young men's club of Precinct 3 of Ward 6 and you will find us up and doing. We are assured of the co-operation and assistance of the people of our section of the ward and you will never hear of any act of ours which would make them regret having given us their co-operation and assistance."

Ward two has a host of democratic candidates this year. Among them are good, bad and indifferent material.

The following campaign card is unique. But no more so than the candidate whose cause it expounds:

"Democratic Candidate For Board of Aldermen.

"May it please the people of Lowell, Mass. Twenty-one years in the field of my honest toil in a manner of comparis-m. Having my troubles while I was young and able to bear them. If successful, and the merit or demerit of any question is to be discussed in City hall, you will hear from me. As you may perceive, I am of age. Office hours during business hours. Local Branch International Teaming and Express Company.

"Your humble servant,

"JOHN B. CLANCY,

"25 Floyd Street."

There is very little of the aldermanic tickets on either side, but the democrats will put up an unusually strong ticket, judging by some of the names mentioned. There is a sentiment all over the city, not confined to one party favorable to the candidacy of James F. Miskella of ward four, for another term. Mr. Miskella has not yet consented to run again but the public is loathe to lose his services. During his incumbency he has been a most valuable and conscientious public servant and that the public appreciates his work is evidenced by the sentiment in favor of his re-nomination. Aldermen Gallagher and Gerow will be candidates for re-election.

The contest for overseer of the poor in ward four between Overseer Sheehan, who is seeking another term, and John J. Duff, who ran a close second two years ago, is waxing warm. Both are popular young men and desirable candidates, and whichever is nominated will make a good man for the place.

Maurice Flynn's friends announce that he is going to be one of the three lucky councilmanic candidates in ward two. Mr. Flynn is the son of the popular "Tom G." Flynn, one of the best known and liked of the early "Acre" settlers.

The Young French-American voters of ward seven are enthusiastic over the candidacy of Ernest Bernard for the common council on the democratic ticket in that ward, and predict his election if nominated.

Ellie C. Laporte of ward six, a former member of the lower branch, has returned from a trip to the baronial estates of his European ancestors in Fontainebleau, on the Seine, and is a candidate for the common council once more. While in France he visited the municipalities of Paris, Havre and Rouen and smuggled in with him a number of imparted ideas.

Thomas J. Bean, a prominent member of the Y. M. C. I., is a candidate for the democratic nomination for the school committee in Ward Nine.

Friends of Patrick Kelley are urging him to became a candidate for alderman in Ward Nine. Mr. Kelley is a large property holder and a heavy tax payer. He has resided in Ward Nine a great many years and is well known throughout the city.

PHILLIPPE BUNAU-VARILLA, the Panama Delegate to the United States.

FAIRMOUNTS WON

CENTRAL CLUB OF WOBURN THEIR VICTIMS.

The Fairmounts of Lowell won a decisive victory over the Central club of Woburn in a candle-pin match last night, taking all three strings by a comfortable margin.

The Lowell bowlers were in rare form and rolled steady throughout, while the local team reached 400 in only one string. The Fairmounts were at their best in the second string, when they rolled up a total of 444. O'Brien of the Fairmounts had the highest three-string total and Begley made the best single-string.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Well Known Wholesale Confectioner

IS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND BATTERY

The Complainant is a Young Woman

Frank W. Smith, 35, a wholesale confectioner of this city, with residence in Gates street, was arrested by Inspectors Laflamme and Maher yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with assault and battery.

She conducts a small variety store in Shaw street, in the vicinity of the Shaw Stocking company and Smith was in the habit of going to her store to sell his goods.

She alleges that Smith called at her store one day last week, that he went behind the counter and attempted to take unwarranted liberties with her. She says she screamed for help and that it was this fact which caused Smith to desist.

He was apprehended by the police near Towers' corner. He was on his delivery wagon in company with another man. Inspector Maher stepped up to him and told him that he had a warrant for his arrest.

Mr. Smith, the inspector alleges, did not ask him what he was wanted for, but said: "I suppose I'll be allowed time to get counsel." He asked to be allowed to drive to the police station in his wagon and his request was granted.

At police station he denied that he knew the girl and said it was a big mistake. He said he has several customers whose names he don't know, but whose faces are familiar to him.

Mr. Smith telephoned to John H. Morrison, who will represent him when the case comes to trial. It is understood that John J. Harvey will appear for the Commonwealth.

Smith told the officers that he had never been arrested before in his life and that he felt his position keenly. He is a married man. He was bailed shortly after his arrest by Morton N. Peabody. The bail was fixed at $300.

The case was called up in police court this morning and was continued until Nov. 18.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

Little Emile Phaneuf, son of Mrs. Phaneuf of 833 Lakeview avenue, broke his right arm yesterday while playing in the street. The arm was broken in two places and was the same arm which the little fellow broke six weeks ago.

FOOT INJURED.

LIVELY BLAZE

IN THE LAWRENCE HOSIERY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

A fire started in the Lawrence hosiery yesterday afternoon, but was extinguished before much damage was done. The fire started in Overseer Creever's room and was caused by a spark flying from one of the machines, setting fire to a pile of stockings.

Employes of the company put the fire out, but considerable fright was caused among the female employes. Some damage was done by water to goods stored in the room as well as to Overseer Thompson's room on the lower floor.

LOWELL GIRLS

Were Placed on Probation in Lawrence

Maud Fowler and Emma Mellow, ages 16 and 20 years, respectively, whose cases were continued from last Tuesday were tried yesterday in Lawrence police court. The young girls who were pretty and apparently well to do, were accompanied by their mothers. The charge against them was that of larceny. They each pleaded not guilty. Attorney Murphy of Lowell represented the Mellow girl, while J. C. Sullivan of this city appeared for the Fowler girl.

Mrs. Charles Day of 79 Springfield street, the complainant, said that she met the Fowler girl in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in Lowell one day and invited her to make a visit to her home in this city. On Tuesday, Oct. 27, the Fowler girl in company with Emma Mellow called at Mrs. Day's home. They were cordially received and stayed all night and Wednesday morning, when they left for their home. They carried with them two chains, a pair of shoes and a chatelaine bag. They pawned the goods in Samuel Goldberg's shop realizing the sum of 75 cents from the transaction. They enjoyed supper and paid their car fares to their homes in Lowell out of the money.

The Mellow girl told the court that the Fowler girl took the property from Mrs. Day's home, but did not deny that she accepted one of the chains, which she was wearing when arrested, nor that she went with her girl chum to pawn the goods, also of eating with the Fowler girl, who paid for the meal with money which she knew was obtained by selling the stolen property.

After she had given her testimony she burst into tears and went until after the disposition was made.

Maud Fowler next testified and accused the Mellow girl of taking the goods from the house, but admitted that she received the money from the pawnbroker.

The court talked to the girls, and after warning them against a repetition of the deed adjudged them guilty.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—With nerves strained to the breaking point by hours of vigil beside the ticker today, watching the great decline in the price of steel stocks, Leonard G. Vail staggered out of his office to catch a breath of fresh air, and fell dead at the door.

Mr. Vail was office manager for the New York stock exchange firm of H. K. Burras, with offices at 35 Wall street. It was just 2.30 in the afternoon when he walked out of his office. He fell in the hall just as an elevator stopped to take him to the street.

The last fearful wave of liquidation in steel preferred had just begun, and was sweeping values before it at such a tremendous rate that Mr. Vail could see ruin for many of his friends who were tied up in the stock.

Mr. Burras of the firm was on the floor of the exchange in the thick of the battle over steel when word came that Mr. Vail had fallen in a fit of apoplexy. He rushed across the street with Dr. Hewitt, the stock exchange physician, but when they reached the stricken man they found two doctors already bending over him. He was beyond recovery.

Mr. Vail went into the service of the firm 26 years ago as a messenger boy. He was 42 years old, and lived at 33 Lombardy street, Newark, with his mother and sisters. He was unmarried. A brother is a member of the Consolidated stock exchange.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Jane B. Newton circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., met last evening at Post 185, G. A. R. hall, and made arrangements for the part they are to take in the bazaar, which is to be held for the purpose of collecting money for the erection of a Sailors' and Soldiers' monument at the Edson cemetery.

A short session of the Dahlgren association Naval Veterans, was held last night. Plans were discussed in regard to the bazaar for the Sailors' and Soldiers' monument.

The regular meeting of Minnequa council, No. 72, was held last night at Odd Fellows' hall. Hereafter the organization will hold its regular meetings in Mechanics hall, Middle street.

A meeting of John Erickson council, Royal Arcanum, was held last night, at which an invitation from Industry council was received. Industry council invited the John Erickson council to parade on the 23d of this month. The invitation was accepted.

MORE THIEVES

Taken Into Custody by Police This Afternoon

Inspector Walsh added another capture to his long list of triumphs, this afternoon, by taking into custody Peter Labelle and John L. Sullivan, two more brass thieves.

The arrests were made in Jackson street. One of the men was carrying a suspicious bag and the other fellow seemed to be "watching out." The larceny of about 30 pounds of brass had been reported from Knapp's machine shop in Middlesex street about an hour before and the inspector made up his mind that he would see what was in the bag. He found it contained brass such as has been described in the report that reached the police station and he took the two young men to the police station.

They admitted that the brass had been stolen and that they were about to dispose of it when arrested. They also implicated another young fellow, Alexander Ryan, who was arrested later in the afternoon and was being examined by the police inspectors at the time of writing.

SHOOTING AFFAIR

At the Lowell Textile School

THE ENGINEER HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Young Man Was Having Target Practice

A report that the engineer at the Textile school in Moody street had been shot this morning went widespread through the city, but an investigation by a representative of The Sun bought out the fact that the rumor had little foundation and that no one was hurt, but the engineer as well as the young man who was using the revolver got a good scare.

A young fellow residing in Little Canada procured a revolver and went in the woods in the rear of the Textile school to have a little target practice. Placing a small tin can on a rock the fellow fired several shots at the can, none of which struck the mark.

One of the bullets struck the rock on which the can was placed and glancing to one side went through the window of the engine room of the Textile school. The engineer got a scare and rushing out of the building found the young man, who gave a satisfactory explanation of the affair.

SHOE

FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

There are a whole lot of young women that wore Spring Heel Boots last year. They won't wear Spring Heel Boots any more. Their mothers with their good judgment will not allow them to wear high heel boots, and that's right. The effect of high heels on young women's ankles would be ruinous. We could foresee all this, so we make a boot for young women with heels 5/8 in. high and 2½ in. long which support the ankle—better than the spring heel and please the young women much better. We make these boots double sole, solid throughout—Vici Kid Lace with Kid tip and with Patent tip. Box Calf with tips of the same is as good style as any boot we make.

Price $2.00. D and E wide.

MAYOR OF HALIFAX

ORDERS INVESTIGATION INTO CAUSE OF FIRE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 10.—An investigation was ordered today by the mayor of Halifax into the cause of the fire which recently did much damage on board the barkentine Albertina. The vessel, which was laden with lumber, put in here in distress and after she had been repaired and was about to sail, flames broke out in her hold late at night. A hearing was opened before a magistrate this afternoon.

OUT ON STRIKE

PROTEST AGAINST DISCHARGE OF A WORKMAN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MERIDEN, Conn., Nov. 10—As a protest against the discharge of a fellow workman, 125 employes of factory H of the International Silver company struck today by order of the buffers' and polishers' union. Union men say that James J. Stamons, the discharged man, is a member of the union grievance committee and as such recently requested the factory management to install new appliances for carrying off the dust from buffing wheels. They allege that his discharge followed the presentation of this request.

This evening a meeting of the 500 members of the polishers' and buffers' union will be held and it is said that the question of a sympathetic strike will be considered.

LETTER TO MORGAN

WRITTEN WHILE VARILLA WAS PRIVATE CITIZEN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Mr. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the representative of the new Isthmian republic, passed today in New York. When his attention was called to the fact that he was alleged to have committed a diplomatic error in having written to Senator Morgan, Mr. Bunau-Varilla said:

"I certainly should never do anything that could be construed as an intention to step beyond my prerogatives as a representative of the Republic of Panama. The letter to Senator Morgan was written when I was a private citizen, and before I had presented my credentials to the state department. In that capacity, as a citizen of Panama, deeply interested in the welfare of that country, I would see nothing improper in writing to Senator Morgan in the spirit that I did."

DUKE MARRIED

MISS MAY GOELET

Becomes Husband of Miss May Goelet

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The marriage of Miss May Goelet, only daughter of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, and one of the richest of American heiresses, to Henry John Innes-Ker, eighth duke of Roxburghe, was solemnized today at St. Thomas church, in this city, Bishop William Croswell Doane of Albany, assisted by the Rev. Ernest M. Stires of St. Thomas church, performing the ceremony.

A company of 250 guests witnessed the ceremony, but masses of palms, shrubs and flowers so embanked the church that the great nave seemed far from empty. In the chancel, where the ceremony took place, palms, Japanese chrysanthemums and English primroses were combined in an artistic color scheme.

From the vestibule of the church the bridal party proceeded down the aisle to the chancel steps, the bride on the arm of her brother, Robert Goelet. She wore a white satin dress covered with point valenciennes lace and trimmed with wreaths of orange blossoms. Her veil was of tulle and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Beatrice Mills, and the other bridesmaids, Lady Isabel Innes-Ker, Miss Martha Johnston, Miss Alice Babcock, Miss Marian Haven, Miss Therese Iselin, Miss Nina Thayer of Boston, and Miss Pauline Whittier, wore gowns of pink Mousseline de soie, of the Louis Seize period, combined with ecru lace, toques of pink velvet trimmed with lace and sable and carried in place of bouquets, muffs of pink velvet and sable.

The ushers, Hugo Baring, Howard Brassey, Robert Wharton Goelet, Rogers Winthrop, Henry Bull and William Woodward, did not precede the bridal party as customary but were seated before the bride entered.

At the chancel steps the bride was met by the duke and his best man, the Hon. Reginald Ward, son of the late Earl of Dudley, and the bethrothal service from the Protestant Episcopal church was read by Dr. Stires. The party then advanced to the altar rail, where the Episcopal marriage ceremony was said by Bishop Doane.

Afterwards the duke and duchess went to the home of Mrs. Ogden Goelet on Fifth avenue, where an informal reception, to which only a part of the wedding guests were bidden, was held. The ceremonies were much simpler than those of the two preceding ducal weddings celebrated in New York, those of Mrs. Louis Hammersley, now Lady William Beresford, to the Duke of Marlborough, father of the present duke and of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt to the present Duke of Marlborough, or of the nuptials of Miss Anna Gould to Count Boni de Castellane.

FELL INTO BROOK

CROWLEY WAS RESCUED BY THREE MEN.

A man, who said his name was Crowley, fell into Hale's brook at the rear of Good Templars' hall shortly after nine o'clock last night and was rescued by three young men who heard his cries for help. The man was not drunk and when asked how he happened to fall in the brook, said, "I just fell in, that's all."

His rescuers wanted him to step into a nearby house and dry his clothes, but he said he guessed he would go home.

MUST PAY TAXES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

DENVER, Col., Nov. 10.—Based on the decision of the court of appeals that railroad corporations can be forced to pay taxes assessed against them through receivership proceedings, an application had been made in the district court for a receiver for the Rock Island railroad. The complaint alleges that the railroad owes the county of Arapahoe $12,355 in taxes for the year 1901, together with interest and penalties, making a total of over $15,000.

POET 10¢ CIGAR NOTHING BETTER

LOST HIS MONEY

An Aged Man Dropped Pocketbook

IT CONTAINED MORE THAN $120 IN BILLS

Matter Reported to the Police

Solomon Shattuck, a well preserved man of 93 years and residing in Hollis, Mass., called at the police station this afternoon and reported the loss of a pocketbook containing in the vicinity of $120. He feels confident that he lost the money and that it was not stolen from him.

He said that he had been visiting at a farmhouse in Dracut and this afternoon one of the women of the house volunteered to drive him from the house to the electric car in Bridge street. Upon reaching Bridge street Mr. Shattuck took out his pocketbook and gave the woman a two dollar bill for her trouble and then put the pocketbook in his trousers pocket, but it is evident that the pocketbook went down the leg of his trousers.

He did not notice his loss until he got on the car, and at first thought that someone robbed him, but finally decided that he dropped it down the leg of his trousers. He was not sure as to the amount of money, but knew that there was a fifty dolar bill and seven tens, besides some other bills and change.

Despite the fact that he was an elderly man, he carried his years well, and was in a very talkative mood. He said that he had resided in East Dracut between forty and fifty years before moving to Hollis to live with his son. He asked a number of the officers at the station to guess at his age, and while they did, none of them thought he was over eighty.

"Well," said Mr. Shattuck, "I am 93 years of age, and I bet I have as good a set of teeth as anyone here.

"You must have voted for Andrew Jackson," said one of the men.

"Yes, I did. I wasn't a democrat, but I took a notion and voted for him."

After reporting his case he started to leave, and found he had mislaid his cane. After recovering it, he said: "I would not lose that cane for anything for it has been my friend for forty years."

City Election Session Opened Today

Registration for the city election opened this afternoon and there was no great rush, up to adjournment at 3 o'clock only four men and one woman had their names put on. The woman was Miss Appleton of Ward Three.

FUNERALS

McELROY—The funeral of the late Alice McElroy took place this morning at 9.30 o'clock from her late home, 170 Church street and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church in Gorham street, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated at ten o'clock by Rev. W. George Mullin. The choir under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by members of the choir.

There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in evidence, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends and acquaintances.

The bearers were Messrs. Thomas Horhan, William Donovan, Dennis Teague, Frank Gallagher, Owen McGoodwin and Patrick McQuade. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Mullin. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

RYAN—The funeral of Rose E. Ryan took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her parents, Michael and Catherine, 76 Fenwick street. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery under the direction of Undertaker Charles H. Molloy.

PAPPAS—The funeral of Charles Pappas took place from the funeral parlors of C. H. Molloy in Market street this afternoon at one o'clock. Services were conducted at the Greek Orthodox church in Lewis street at 1.30 o'clock. Rev. Puppayeugus officiated. The interment was in the Edson cemetery under the direction of Undertaker C. H. Molloy.

POWERS—The funeral of Harry Powers took place this afternoon from the funeral parlors of Charles H. Molloy, and the interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

GOMPERS' ADDRE...

PRESIDENT SAMUEL GOMPERS, A. F. of L.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—Having on yesterday got the machinery of their meeting well started, the delegates to the 23d annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor today reassembled for deliberation on subjects, the important nature of which has drawn labor leaders to Boston from all sections of the country. President Gompers' address and the reports of Secretary Morrison and Treasurer Lennon were printed yesterday, so that the principal item of routine, as arranged for today, was to be the report of the executive council of the federation. Then it was expected that the many recommendations contained in President Gompers' address would be acted upon by the convention. His emphatic declaration that the great danger which confronts the federation is the internecine strife between affiliated unions over the jurisdiction of trades has been the chief topic of discussion amongst the delegates. It was generally accepted that some decided action on this matter would be taken before many days, if not immediately.

Shortly after 9 o'clock President Gompers called the delegates to order.

The first business of the morning was the receiving of the report of the committee on rules, which recommended that the convention sit from 9 to 12 and 2 to 5 daily except Sunday.

With the amendment that the afternoon session be extended to 5.30, this report was accepted.

James Duncan of Washington, D. C., first vice-president of the federation, then read the annual report of the executive council of the organization. This was an exhaustive statement, largely a review in detail of what had been acted upon and accomplished by the council. The report contained an emphatically framed disapproval of the internal troubles of the federation arising from differing conceptions as to over what trades the various unions should have jurisdiction. Mr. Duncan read a long list of complaints received by the federation from various international unions against some other union, most of them founded upon alleged interference with their supposed field of activity. Almost always the executive council had recommended conferences between the unions to settle the differences and stopped at that.

Among the differences which arose during the year were those between the longshoremen and the seamen; the wood and wire metal lathers and the carpenters, and the silk workers and the textile workers. The council regretted that its proposition to amalgamate the silk and the textile workers was not accepted. The report contained all the correspondence in the Miller case at Washington arising from the question of the employing of union or non-union labor at the government printing office. It has been understood that this case, in which President Roosevelt decided that he could not discriminate against non-union labor in federal employment, will be brought later before the convention. The executive council made no comment upon the correspondence, but later added that the trades union movement stands for the strictly union shop and also discourages the recognition of the "open shop."

The reading of the executive council's report was concluded at 11.15 o'clock.

The delegates next listened to the report of the delegation of the federation which was sent to the last convention of the International Federation of Labor in England. This was read by M. S. Hayes of Cleveland, Ohio. The report was chiefly a narration of the convention proceedings, together with a reference to the Taff-Vall decision in the British courts under which labor unions were sued for picketing and boycotting.

The committee on credentials then made a supplementary report on the cases of protested credentials. The committee recommended that the International Union of Bakers & Confectioners be entitled to one delegate instead of three, that C. E. Jones, representing the Central Labor union of Burlington, Vt., be not seated, since his election was irregular and that the United Textile Workers be entitled to three instead of four delegates.

The unseating of two delegates from the bakers union caused general discussion, the unseated delegates declaring they legally represented the bakers and the members of the committee on credentials claiming that according to the evidence presented, the two to whom they had refused papers had not been elected as delegates by the referendum vote of the bakers.

Noon, the hour of adjournment having arrived, further consideration of the committee's report was postponed until afternoon.

McMAHON GAINED

Recount Gives Him Seven More Votes

Four Towns Yet to be Heard From--No Material Change in the 25th District Count—City Politics are Fairly Booming

The recount of the votes for representative in the 25th and 27th districts was finished last evening and resulted in no material change, though it brought forth a surprise in the Ward Nine vote and gives Mr. McMahon a fighting chance to beat Mr. O'Brien.

In the 27th Mr. McMahon gained seven. Mr. O'Brien's and Mr. Upton's votes were unchanged, and Mr. Westall gained two. Five of the votes credited to Mr. McAleer, the socialist candidate, were found to belong to Mr. McMahon.

At the present time Mr. Westall has a lead of seven votes on Mr McMahon, and Mr O'Brien a lead of three over him. The towns are yet to be heard from.

In the 25th, Mr. Hayes lost one vote, Mr. Henderson three, Mr. Hilton lost five, Mr. McMannon lost five, Mr. Ripley lost eight and Mr. Roark gained 14.

Mr. M. D. Chenevert, who is president of the Young Men's club of Precinct 3 of Ward 6, in speaking of the good work the club can do, said to The Sun reporter: "When I first thought of the formation of our club, I felt that we would be able to do some good work in arousing the old-time democratic enthusiasm we had here a few years ago. I found, in mentioning the matter to the young men of the ward, that they were in accord with my idea and I entered into the work of organization. Tom Garvey is my personal friend, and as I knew he had had experience in politics, I suggested to the members that I invite him to give us some advice. I was listening to Tom but a short time when I realized that to follow his advice, meant that we could do a great work. I was favorably impressed with his remarks regarding the so-called touch club, and the result of our determination to avoid the touch club business, is that we have as members of our club some of the best citizens of the ward. Let me give you a few names of our members. There is one of our leading provision dealers, Mr. B. M. Demers. We have many other business men, among whom are E. J. Mercier, U. L. Chapdelaine, O. J. David, J. M. Picard, George W. Pelneault, L. Motard, C. L. Chapdelaine, A. Guilmette, M. Forgette, M. Connolly, R. J. Chenevert, P. F. Chenevert, J. H. Marcotte and C. F. Sabell. You can rest assured that those men would not affiliate with any touch club and I become enthusiastic when I talk of the matter. Mr. Garvey made one suggestion to us, which struck me quite forcibly. That was that when the excitement of politics has gone, there was still work for our club to do. We should get rid of that detestable dump.

"We should get improvements along Cadham, Exeter, Dalton streets, and all through that section of the ward, and we can get those improvements by just such an organization as ours. Just keep your eyes on the young men's club of Precinct 3 of Ward 6 and you will find us up and doing. We are assured of the co-operation and assistance of the people of our section of the ward and you will never hear of any act of ours which would make them regret having given us their co-operation and assistance."

Ward two has a host of democratic candidates this year. Among them are good, bad and indifferent material.

The following campaign card is unique. But no more so than the candidate whose cause it expounds:

"Democratic Candidate For Board of Aldermen.

"May it please the people of Lowell, Mass. Twenty-one years in the field of my honest toil in a manner of comparison. Having my troubles while I was young and able to bear them. If successful, and the merit or demerit of any question is to be discussed in City hall, you will hear from me. As you may perceive, I am of age. Office hours during business hours. Local Branch International Teaming and Express Company.

"Your humble servant,
"JOHN H. CLANCY.
"25 Floyd Street."

There is very little of the aldermanic tickets on either side, but the democrats will put up an unusually strong ticket judging by some of the names mentioned. There is a sentiment all over the city, not confined to one party favorable to the candidacy of James F. Miskella of ward four, for another term. Mr. Miskella has not yet consented to run again, but the public is loathe to lose his services. During his incumbency he has been a most valuable and consciencious public servant and that the public appreciates his work is evidenced by the sentiment in favor of his re-nomination. Aldermen Gallagher and Gerow will be candidates for re-election.

The contest for overseer of the poor in ward four between Overseer Sheehan, who is seeking another term, and John J. Duff, who ran a close second two years ago, is waxing warm. Both are popular young men and desirable candidates, and whichever is nominated will make a good man for the place.

Maurice Flynn's friends announce that he is going to be one of the three lucky councilmanic candidates in ward two. Mr. Flynn is the son of the popular "Tom G." Flynn, one of the best known and liked of the early "Acre" settlers.

The Young French-American voters of ward seven are enthusiastic over the candidacy of Ernest Bernard for the common council on the democratic ticket in that ward, and predict his election if nominated.

Ellie C. Laporte of ward six, a former member of the lower branch, has returned from a trip to the baronial estates of his European ancestors in Pontainbleau, on the Seine, and is a candidate for the common council once more. While in France he visited the municipalities of Paris, Havre and Rouen and smuggled in with him a number of imported ideas.

Thomas J. Bean, a prominent member of the Y. M. C. L., is a candidate for the democratic nomination for the school committee in Ward Nine.

Friends of Patrick Kelley are urging him to became a candidate for alderman in Ward Nine. Mr. Kelley is a large property holder and a heavy tax payer. He has resided in Ward Nine a great many years and is well known throughout the city.

PHILLIPPE BUNAU-VARILLA, the Panama Delegate to the United States.

FAIRMOUNTS WON

CENTRAL CLUB OF WOBURN THEIR VICTIMS.

The Fairmounts of Lowell won a decisive victory over the Central club of Woburn in a candle-pin match last night, taking all three strings by a comfortable margin.

The Lowell bowlers were in rare form and rolled steady throughout, while the local team reached 403 in only one string. The Fairmounts were at their best in the second string, when they rolled up a total of 444. O'Brien of the Fairmounts had the highest three-string total and Begley made the best single string.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Well Known Wholesale Confectioner

The Complainant Is a Young Woman

Frank W. Smith, 35, a wholesale confectioner of this city, with residence in Gates street, was arrested by Inspectors Lafiamme and Maher, yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with assault and battery.

She conducts a small variety store in Shaw street, in the vicinity of the Shaw Stocking company and Smith was in the habit of going to her store to sell his goods.

She alleges that Smith called at her store one day last week, that he went behind the counter and attempted to take unwarranted liberties with her. She says she screamed for help and that it was this fact which caused Smith to desist.

He was apprehended by the police near Towers' corner. He was on his delivery wagon in company with another man. Inspector Maher stepped up to him and told him that he had a warrant for his arrest.

Mr. Smith, the inspector alleges, did not ask him what he was wanted for, but said: "I suppose I'll be allowed time to get counsel." He asked to be allowed to drive to the police station in his wagon and his request was granted.

At police station he denied that he knew the girl and said it was a big mistake. He said he has several customers whose names he don't know, but whose faces are familiar to him.

Mr. Smith telephoned to John H. Morrison, who will represent him when the case comes to trial. It is understood that John J. Harvey will appear for the Commonwealth.

Smith told the officers that he had never been arrested before in his life and that he felt his position keenly. He is a married man. He was bailed shortly after his arrest by Morton N. Peabody. The bail was fixed at $300.

The case was called up in police court this morning and was continued until Nov. 18.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

Little Emile Phaneuf, son of Mrs. Phaneuf of 833 Lakeview avenue, broke his right arm yesterday while playing in the street. The arm was broken in two places and was the same arm which the little fellow broke six weeks ago.

FOOT INJURED.

LIVELY BLAZE

IN THE LAWRENCE HOSIERY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

A fire started in the Lawrence hosiery yesterday afternoon, but was extinguished before much damage was done. The fire started in Overseer Creever's room and was caused by a spark flying from one of the machines, setting fire to a pile of stockings.

Employes of the company put the fire out, but considerable fright was caused among the female employes. Some damage was done by water to goods stored in the room as well as to Overseer Thompson's room on the lower floor.

LOWELL GIRLS

Were Placed on Probation in Lawrence

Maud Fowler and Emma Mellow, ages 16 and 20 years, respectively, whose cases were continued from last Tuesday were tried yesterday in Lawrence police court. The young girls who were pretty and apparently well to do, were accompanied by their mothers. The charge against them was that of larceny. They each pleaded not guilty. Attorney Murphy of Lowell represented the Mellow girl, while J. C. Sullivan of this city appeared for the Fowler girl.

Mrs. Charles Day of 79 Springfield street, the complainant, said that she met the Fowler girl in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in Lowell one day and invited her to make a visit to her home in this city. On Tuesday, Oct. 27, the Fowler girl in company with Emma Mellow called at Mrs. Day's home. They were cordially received and stayed all night and Wednesday morning, when they left for their home, they carried with them two chains, a pair of shoes and a chatelaine bag. They pawned the goods in Samuel Goldberg's shop realizing the sum of 75 cents from the transaction. They enjoyed supper and paid their car fares to their homes in Lowell out of the money.

The Mellow girl told the court that the Fowler girl took the property from Mrs. Day's home, but did not deny that she accepted one of the chains, which she was wearing when arrested, nor that she went with her girl chum to pawn the goods, also of eating with the Fowler girl, who paid for the meal with money which she knew was obtained by selling the stolen property.

After she had given her testimony she burst into tears and went until after the disposition was made.

Maud Fowler next testified and accused the Mellow girl of taking the goods from the house, but admitted that she received the money from the pawnbroker.

The court talked to the girls, and after warning them against a repetition of the deed adjudged them guilty.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—With nerves strained to the breaking point by hours of vigil beside the ticker today, watching the great decline in the price of steel stocks, Leonard G. Vail staggered out of his office to catch a breath of fresh air, and fell dead at the door.

Mr. Vail was office manager for the New York stock exchange firm of H. K. Burras, with offices at 35 Wall street. It was just 2.30 in the afternoon when he walked out of his office. He fell in the hall just as an elevator stopped to take him to the street.

The last fearful wave of liquidation in steel preferred had just begun, and was sweeping values before it at such a tremendous rate that Mr. Vail could see ruin for many of his friends who were tied up in the stock.

Mr. Burras of the firm was on the floor of the exchange in the thick of the battle over steel when word came that Mr. Vail had fallen in a fit of apoplexy. He rushed across the street with Dr. Hewitt, the stock exchange physician, but when they reached the stricken man they found two doctors already bending over him. He was beyond recovery.

Mr. Vail went into the service of the firm 26 years ago as a messenger boy. He was 42 years old, and lived at 32 Lombardy street, Newark, with his mother and sisters. He was unmarried. A brother is a member of the Consolidated stock exchange.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The Modern and Model Worsted Weaving and Finishing Mill

OF THE SIMSON & KIRKALDY CO., AT WOONSOCKET, RHODE ISLAND, ON TUESDAY, THE 17TH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1903.

This is not an abandoned or worn-out plant, but a new and going concern that can be started within 24 hours, or sooner, if the raw material is at hand or provided; after the assignment the business was continued long enough to complete all unfinished orders, or until about March 1 last; the care of the property since the shutdown has been excellent; the property, which is on River street, just beyond the plants of the Woonsocket Worsted Mills and the Perseverance Worsted Co., will be open for inspection after 8.30 o'clock a.m. on Saturday and Monday, the 14th and 16th days of November, 1903; the product was fine worsted suitings and trouserings. The business was started in 1888; the present mill was erected and equipped at an expense of $58,780 in 1895; the dyehouse plant was added in 1897 at an expenditure of $10,600; the same year two additional Manning type upright boilers were installed, costing $4000; in 1900 the storehouse property was purchased for $1000, very much less than its cost; in 1902 more land was purchased and a stable erected at an outlay of $973; between 1895 and 1902 new dressing, weaving and finishing machinery to the value of $13,976 was put into the mill. The mill is 211x107 ft., one story, is 13 ft. posted at walls and 15 ft. in centre, has 122 windows, 10 ft. 3 in. x 4 ft. 5 in.; 8 skylights, 9 ft. 6 in. x 8 ft.; is divided by semi-partitions into the winding, spooling and twisting room, the weave room and the finishing room, with the power plant in the centre; the coal is dumped from the cars into the boiler house; the land has 56,000 square feet. The equipment includes 45 Knowles broad looms, 2 pattern looms, 3 bobbin winders, 4 skein winders, 10 spoolers, 4 twisters, 3 dressers, 3 automatic yarn dryers, Perkins engine lathe, 2 rotary washers, hydro-extractor, 3 rotary fulling mills, Heathcote horizontal dryer, jumbo brush, shear, brush, press, dewing, measuring, doubling and winding machines, steam power and electric lighting plant, etc., etc.

Purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $4000 just as soon as the property is struck off. The property is sold subject to a mortgage of $18,550 and accrued interest; premises open for inspection two days before sale. For full terms and conditions of sale, catalogue in detail of the property, or other information, send to the office of the auctioneers.

The sale will take place upon the premises, and, regardless of weather conditions, will begin promptly at half-past two o'clock in the afternoon.

NIGHT EDITION

SIX O'CLOCK

MORE THIEVES

Taken Into Custody by Police This Afternoon

Inspector Walsh added another capture to his long list of triumphs, this afternoon, by taking into custody Peter Labelle and John L. Sullivan, two more brass thieves.

The arrests were made in Jackson street. One of the men was carrying a suspicious bag and the other fellow seemed to be "watching out." The larceny of about 30 poufids of brass had been reported from Knapp's machine shop in Middlesex street about an hour before and the inspector made up his mind that he would see what was in the bag. He found it contained brass such as has been described in the report that reached the police station and he took the two young men to the police station.

They admitted that the brass had been stolen and that they were about to dispose of it when arrested. They also implicated another young fellow, Alexander Ryan, who was arrested later in the afternoon and was being examined by the police inspectors at the time of writing.

DUKE MARRIED

Becomes Husband of Miss May Goelet

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The marriage of Miss May Goelet, only daughter of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, and one of the richest of American heiresses, to Henry John Innes-Ker, eighth duke of Roxburghe, was solemnized today at St. Thomas church, in this city, Bishop William Croswell Doane of Albany, assisted by the Rev. Ernest M. Stires of St. Thomas church, performing the ceremony.

A company of 250 guests witnessed the ceremony, but masses of palms, shrubs and flowers so embanked the church that the great nave seemed far from empty. In the chancel, where the ceremony took place, palms, Japanese chrysanthemums and English primroses were combined in an artistic color scheme.

From the vestibule of the church the bridal party proceeded down the aisle to the chancel steps, the bride on the arm of her brother, Robert Goelet. She wore a white satin dress covered with point valenciennes lace and trimmed with wreaths of orange blossoms. Her veil was of tulle and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Beatrice Mills, and the other bridesmaids, Lady Isabel Innes-Ker, Miss Martha Johnston, Miss Alice Babcock, Miss Marian Haven, Miss Therese Iselin, Miss Nina Thayer of Boston, and Miss Pauline Whittier, wore gowns of pink Mousseline de soie, of the Louis Seize period, combined with vern lace, toques of pink velvet trimmed with lace and sable and carried in place of bouquets, muffs of pink velvet and sable.

The ushers, Hugo Baring, Howard Brassey, Robert Wharton Goelet, Rogers Winthrop, Henry Bull and William Woodward, did not precede the bridal party as customary but were seated before the bride entered.

At the chancel steps the bride was met by the duke and his best man, the Hon. Reginald Ward, son of the late Earl of Dudley, and the bethrothal service from the Protestant Episcopal church was read by Dr. Stires. The party then advanced to the altar rail, where the Episcopal marriage ceremony was said by Bishop Doane.

Afterwards the duke and duchess went to the home of Mrs. Ogden Goelet on Fifth avenue, where an informal reception, to which only a part of the wedding guests were bidden, was held.

The ceremonies were much simpler than those of the two preceding ducal weddings celebrated in New York, those of Mrs. Louis Hammersley, now Lady William Beresford, to the Duke of Marlborough, father of the present duke and of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt to the present Duke of Marlborough, or of the nuptials of Miss Anna Gould to Count Boni de Castellane.

FELL INTO BROOK

CROWLEY WAS RESCUED BY THREE MEN.

A man, who said his name was Crowley, fell into Hale's brook at the rear of Good Templars' hall shortly after nine o'clock last night and was rescued by three young men who heard his cries for help. The man was not drunk and when asked how he happened to fall in the brook, said, "I just fell in, that's all."

His rescuers wanted him to step into a nearby house and dry his clothes, but he said he guessed he would go home.

MUST PAY TAXES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

DENVER, Col., Nov. 10.—Based on the decision of the court of appeals that railroad corporations can be forced to pay taxes assessed against them through receivership proceedings, an application had been made in the district court for a receiver for the Rock Island railroad. The complaint alleges that the railroad owes the county of Arapahoe $12,355 in taxes for the year 1901, together with interest and penalties, making a total of over $15,000.

SHOOTING AFFAIR

At the Lowell Textile School

Young Man Was Having Target Practice

A report that the engineer at the Textile school in Moody street had been shot this morning went widespread through the city, but an investigation by a representative of The Sun bought out the fact that the rumor had little foundation and that no one was hurt, but the engineer as well as the young man who was using the revolver got a good scare.

A young fellow residing in Little Canada procured a revolver and went in the woods in the rear of the Textile school to have a little target practice. Placing a small tin can on a rock the fellow fired several shots at the can, none of which struck the mark.

One of the bullets struck the rock on which the can was placed and glancing to one side went through the window of the engine room of the Textile school. The engineer got a scare and rushing out of the building found the young man, who gave a satisfactory explanation of the affair.

SHOE
FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

There are a whole lot of young women that wore Spring Heel Boots last year. They won't wear Spring Heel Boots any more. Their mothers with their good judgment will not allow them to wear high heel boots, and that's right. The effect of high heels on young women's ankles would be ruinous. We could foresee all this, so we make a boot for young women with heels 5/8 in. high and 2 1/16 in. long which support the ankle—better than the spring heel and please the young women much better. We make these boots double sole, solid throughout—Vici Kid Lace with Kid tip and with Patent tip. The Box Calf with tips of the same is as good style as any boot we make.

PROTEST AGAINST DISCHARGE OF A WORKMAN.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MERIDEN, Conn., Nov. 10—As a protest against the discharge of a fellow workman, 125 employes of factory H of the International Silver company struck today by order of the buffers' and polishers' union. Union men say that James J. Slamons, the discharged man, is a member of the union grievance committee and as such recently requested the factory management to install new appliances for carrying off the dust from buffing wheels. They allege that his discharge followed the presentation of this request.

This evening a meeting of the 500 members of the polishers' and buffers' union will be held and it is said that the question of a sympathetic strike will be considered.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Mr. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the representative of the new Isthmian republic, passed today in New York. When his attention was called to the fact that he was alleged to have committed a diplomatic error in having written to Senator Morgan, Mr. Bunau-Varilla said:

"I certainly should never do anything that could be construed as an intention to step beyond my prerogatives as a representative of the Republic of Panama. The letter to Senator Morgan was written when I was a private citizen, and before I had presented my credentials to the state department. In that capacity, as a citizen of Panama, deeply interested in the welfare of that country, I would see nothing improper in writing to Senator Morgan in the spirit that I did."

LOST HIS MONEY

IT CONTAINED MORE THAN $120 IN BILLS

Matter Reported to the Police

Solomon Shattuck, a well preserved man of 93 years and residing in Hollis, Mass., called at the police station this afternoon and reported the loss of a pocketbook containing in the vicinity of $120. He feels confident that he lost the money and that it was not stolen from him.

He said that he had been visiting at a farmhouse in Dracut and this afternoon one of the women of the house volunteered to drive him from the house to the electric car in Bridge street. Upon reaching Bridge street Mr. Shattuck took out his pocketbook and gave the woman a two dollar bill for her trouble and then put the pocketbook in his trousers pocket, but it is evident that the pocketbook went down the leg of his trousers.

He did not notice his loss until he got on the car, and at first thought that someone robbed him, but finally decided that he dropped it down the leg of his trousers. He was not sure as to the amount of money, but knew that there was a fifty dolar bill and seven tens, besides some other bills and change.

Despite the fact that he was an elderly man, he carried his years well, and was in a very talkative mood. He said that he had resided in East Dracut between forty and fifty years before moving to Hollis to live with his son. He asked a number of the officers at the station to guess at his age, and while they did, none of them thought he was over eighty.

"Well," said Mr. Shattuck, "I am 93 years of age, and I bet I have as good a set of teeth as anyone here.

"You must have voted for Andrew Jackson," said one of the men.

"Yes, I did. I wasn't a democrat, but I took a notion and voted for him."

After reporting his case he started to leave, and found he had mislaid his cane. After recovering it, he said: "I would not lose that cane for anything for it has been my friend for forty years."

FUNERALS

McELROY—The funeral of the late Alice McElroy took place this morning at 9.30 o'clock from her late home, 170 Church street and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church in Gorham street, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated at ten o'clock by Rev. W. George Mullin. The choir under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by members of the choir.

There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in evidence, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends and acquaintances.

The bearers were Messrs. Thomas Horhan, William Donovan, Dennis Teague, Frank Gallagher, Owen McGoodwin and Patrick McQuade. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Mullin. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

RYAN—The funeral of Rose E. Ryan took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of her parents, Michael and Catherine, 76 Fenwick street. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery under the direction of Undertaker Charles H. Molloy.

PAPPAS—The funeral of Charles Pappas took place from the funeral parlors of C. H. Molloy in Market street this afternoon at one o'clock. Services were conducted at the Greek Orthodox church in Lewis street at 1.30 o'clock. Rev. Pappayeagus officiated. The interment was in the Edson cemetery under the direction of Undertaker C. H. Molloy.

POWERS—The funeral of Harry Powers took place this afternoon from the funeral parlors of Charles H. Molloy, and the interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

GOMPERS' ADDRESS

PRESIDENT SAMUEL GOMPERS, A. F. of L.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—Having on yesterday got the machinery of their meeting well started, the delegates to the 23d annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor today reassembled for deliberation on subjects, the important nature of which has drawn labor leaders to Boston from all sections of the country. President Gompers' address and the reports of Secretary Morrison and Treasurer Lennon were printed yesterday, so that the principal item of routine, as arranged for today, was to be the report of the executive council of the federation. Then it was expected that the many recommendations contained in President Gompers' address would be acted upon by the convention. His emphatic declaration that the great danger which confronts the federation is the internecine strife between affiliated unions over the jurisdiction of trades has been the chief topic of discussion amongst the delegates. It was generally accepted that some decided action on this matter would be taken before many days, if not immediately.

Shortly after 9 o'clock President Gompers called the delegates to order.

The first business of the morning was the receiving of the report of the committee on rules, which recommended that the convention sit from 9 to 12 and 2 to 5 daily except Sunday.

With the amendment that the afternoon session be extended to 5.30, this report was accepted.

James Duncan of Washington, D. C., first vice-president of the federation, then read the annual report of the executive council of the organization. This was an exhaustive statement, largely a review in detail of what had been acted upon and accomplished by the council. The report contained an emphatically framed disapproval of the internal troubles of the federation arising from differing conceptions as to over what trades the various unions should have jurisdiction. Mr. Duncan read a long list of complaints received by the federation from various international unions against some other union, most of them founded upon alleged interference with their supposed field of activity. Almost always the executive council had recommended conferences between the unions to settle the differences and stopped at that.

Among the differences which arose during the year were those between the longshoremen and the seamen; the wood and wire metal lathers and the carpenters, and the silk workers and the textile workers. The council regretted that its proposition to amalgamate the silk and the textile workers was not accepted. The report contained all the correspondence in the Miller case at Washington arising from the question of the employing of union or non-union labor at the government printing office. It has been understood that this case, in which President Roosevelt decided that he could not discriminate against non-union labor in federal employment, will be brought later before the convention. The executive council made no comment upon the correspondence, but later added that the trades union movement stands for the strictly union shop and also discourages the recognition of the "open shop."

The reading of the executive council's report was concluded at 11.15 o'clock.

The delegates next listened to the report of the delegation of the federation which was sent to the last convention of the International Federation of Labor in England. This was read by M. F. Hayes of Cleveland, Ohio. The report was chiefly a narration of the convention proceedings, together with a reference to the Taft-Vall decision in the British courts under which labor unions were sued for picketting and boycotting.

The committee on credentials then made a supplementary report on the cases of protested credentials. The committee recommended that the International Union of Bakers & Confectioners be entitled to one delegate instead of three, that C. E. Jones, representing the Central Labor union of Burlington, Vt., be not seated, since his election was irregular and that the United Textile Workers be entitled to three instead of four delegates.

The unseating of two delegates from the bakers union caused general discussion, the unseated delegates declaring they legally represented the bakers and the members of the committee on credentials claiming that according to the evidence presented, the two to whom they had refused papers had not been elected as delegates by the referendum vote of the bakers.

Noon, the hour of adjournment having arrived, further consideration of the committee's report was postponed until afternoon.

FALSE ALARM

Officer Lennon Caught Boy Who Pulled It in

The false alarm fiend has started on his work of giving the fire department runs for nothing. This morning about 10.30 o'clock an alarm from box 225 was sounded and a portion of the department responded. This box is located at the corner of Little and Lewis streets and when the department arrived there was not the least sign of fire, but Police Officer Lennon had a young man about 18 years of age in his custody, having arrested him for ringing in the alarm.

After Chief Hosmer found out that the alarm was a false one he dismissed the department and held a consultation with the young man, who gave his name as Wayne. Wayne claimed that he had nothing to do with ringing in the alarm.

He said that he was with a crowd of fellows when a fellow named Thomas Archibald, residing in Centralville, broke the glass on the box and inserting the key in the lock, opened the box and pulled in the alarm. The whole gang then ran away. Wayne was making himself scarce when Officer Lennon grabbed him.

Wayne was questioned pretty closely and after his name and residence had been taken, Chief Hosmer went to the police station and reported the matter to Supt. Moffatt, who will have the matter investigated. At the present time the chief and the police have only the word of Wayne, who claims that Archibald pulled in the alarm. The officers believe they can connect the crowd with the pulling in of the last two false alarms which were located in Centralville, one having been pulled in from box 67 in Hildreth street, opposite Lilley avenue and the other from box 132 at the pumping station, in West Sixth street.

Wayne, in relating the incident to the police, said that Archibald broke the glass, but another boy who was in the vicinity said that there had been no glass on the box for three or four days. It is pretty certain that there was glass on the box, for there were signs of freshly broken glass near the foot of the pole on which the box is located.

FROZEN TO DEATH

MAINE MAN PERISHED IN SNOW STORM.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ELLSWORTH, Me., Nov. 10.—A searching party yesterday found the body of Ansel P. Goodell in the woods five miles from his home in Plantation Eight, lying on his back at the foot of a tree where he is supposed to have fallen from exhaustion while trying to make his way home through a heavy snow fall Saturday.

Goodell and Fred Witham entered the woods on a deer hunt Saturday, during one of the severest snow storms ever experienced in eastern Maine. They got on the track of two deer, and when the deer separated the hunters parted company.

Later in the day Witham reached Franklin, and when Goodell did not return home Sunday a party was organized to look for him, the search being continued yesterday. Just before noon the body was found partially covered with snow.

Decorative Art Course

Lowell Textile School

While the Decorative Art Course is mainly preparatory to textile design, it also prepares for any branch of Decorative Art, such as wall paper, book illustration, lithography, interior decoration, stained glass, etc., etc., and for pictorial art in water and oil. The facilities now offered permit of thorough instruction in these specialties. The classes are now open to ladies and gentlemen in connection with textile design or otherwise, and have been specially popular with ladies.

The studio is open daily from 9 to 4 p. m. except Saturday and Wednesday afternoons. Professor Vesper L. George is in charge and conducts the work on the basis of the Julian academy.

Lecture course on historic ornament. Terms moderate. Special rates of transportation. Pupils can enter at any time. Instruction from 9 to 4 p. m. except Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

For particulars address WILLIAM W. CROSBY, Principal.

HOUSE WARMING

AT NEW ESTABLISHMENT OF LOWELL PACKING COMPANY.

The Lowell Packing and Provision company opened its new plant on Market street yesterday, and the "housewarming" was attended by every butcher, baker and grocer in Lowell, besides a number of personal friends of the owners and employes.

On the third floor of the building a hurdy gurdy furnished music, while an elaborate lunch was served throughout the afternoon.

The new establishment is one of the largest and best equipped in all New England, and there is nothing to compare with it outside of Boston. It occupies four floors on the building in Market street, opposite the police station, and is appointed in a most up-to-date manner.

The big, refrigerator on the street floor is 90x45 feet and holds four carloads. Yesterday it was filled with a fine display of beef. There is also a refrigerator for butts and pork, a smoke house, mammoth Winchester boiler and kettle and all the other apartments and appliances going with the business. The steam plant, which is undoubtedly the best in Lowell, was fitted up by Welch Bros. of this city. The great carcasssses are easily run from one end of the buildin to the other by an overhead trolley system.

The business offices are on the second floor and are large, bright and neatly furnished. Throughout the afternoon Mr. Fred Walsh, who directs the affairs of the company, was showered with congratulations and best wishes.

TWO MEN DYING

Italians From Ambush Fired on Officer

By Associated Press to The Sun

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—At Donora last night, as a result of an attempt of a gang of Italians to assassinate a policeman, two men are dying, a third is wounded and five Italians are in the Donora lockup threatened with lynching by an angry mob. The wounded men are:

Policeman Isaac Johnson, aged 45, married; shot through abdomen and fatally wounded.

A. W. Kallert, aged 25; shot through the abdomen, cannot recover.

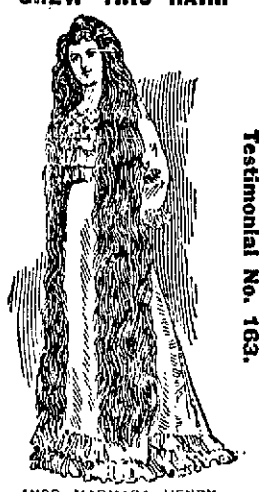

An unknown man, shot through the thigh, will recover.

Last night as Policeman Johnson was patrolling his beat, he was fired on by a gang of Italians from ambush. Johnson had just reached the Third street hollow on Third street, near Thompson hollow. Without the least warning a shot was fired from the roadside and Johnson fell mortally wounded with a bullet in his abdomen. A gang of Italians, numbering about ten, rushed from the roadside to seek cover in the Italian settlement. In a short time a mob collected and a posse was immediately organized. The Italians had been traced to an abandoned house standing by itself and the posse armed with clubs and revolvers made a rush for the house, only to find the doors barricaded. They were greeted with a volley from inside the house and A. W. Kallert, one of the posse, fell with a bullet in his abdomen. He was carried away from the scene of the fight and again the mob made a rush at the house, breaking in the door and leaping at the Italians with their clubs in their hands. Another of the posse fell this time with a wound in his thigh and lay there while the Italians and the posse fought. The Italians, as soon as the door was broken, made a desperate attempt to escape and several managed to get away. Five of them were captured and taken to the Donora lockup under a heavy guard. By this time, the whole town was aroused and a mob of angry people were in front of the lockup.

The police of the town are guarding the lockup and it is expected that an attempt will be made to break in and lynch the prisoners.

PAPER CONTRACT

Causes Ripple in Health Department

BOARD GAVE TAXPAYER THE PREFERENCE

But May Have Exceeded Their Authority

The board of health and its agent, Mr. Knapp, have had a misunderstanding over the award of the contract to gather waste paper and once more there is "something doing in the news line at the health department office.

It seems that up to this year a Portuguese has been collecting the waste paper of the city, paying a small figure for the privilege. This year, however, there were several out-of-town bidders for the place along with the Portugese and Francis Gallagher, a citizen of Lowell.

Agent Knapp was inclined to favor the Portugese who though he had made no formal bid, was willing to bid as high as any other concern. The board of health favored Mr. Gallagher, who bid $125, and still a Lynn company was in the field with a bid of $165 per year.

Agent Knapp favored the Portugese because he had done the work for a couple of years and had a little plant built, and furthermore gave the department no trouble. Then, also, he could not understand why the board should suddenly come in and take this minor matter out of his hands when he is allowed to do much more important business on his own responsibility. The board, however, decided that Mr. Gallagher being a citizen and a taxpayer, should receive first consideration, and accordingly awarded him the contract.

But they did not singly make a contract with Mr. Gallagher for one year at $125, but for $10 years at $125 per year, which brings the total amount considerably over the $300 limitation on department contracts placed by the city charter.

Hence, the matter is now under the consideration of the city solicitor as regards the legality of the action of the members of the board in making a contract over the amount of $300.

Another little matter to be ironed out at the next meeting is a vote of the board at its last meeting instructing the agent to write a letter to the different mill agents of the city in regard to their water supply. The vote anticipates a general letter wherein the conditions prevailing in the mills are not alike in any two cases and a general letter will have little effect.

FUNERALS.

ORCUTT—The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Orcutt took place from her home in South Tewksbury Sunday afternoon. The bearers were William Pringle, Enoch W. Foster, Harlesk Osborn, M. MacDonald. The burial was in the Shawsheen cemetery.

SWEET—The funeral of the late Gilbert W. Sweet took place yesterday afternoon from his late home, 108 Jenness street. Prayers were read by Rev. A. St. John Chambre, rector of St. Anne's church. The bearers were Charles Holmes, Elmer B. Robinson, Henry B. Sweet, John Schegel. Burial was in Edson cemetery, in the family tomb, under the direction of Undertaker John A. Weinbeck.

GRAVES—The funeral of Mary E. Graves took place yesterday afternoon upon the arrival of the remains at the Northern station from her late home in Revere. Services were held in the Lowell cemetery chapel, Rev. George F. Kennott, pastor of the First Trinitarian Congregational church, officiating. Burial was in Lowell cemetery, Undertaker Weinbeck in charge.

ALLEN—The funeral of Thomas Allen was held yesterday from the Northern station, and burial was in the Catholic cemetery in charge of Undertaker Molloy.

GREEN—The remains of the late Mary Green were consigned to their final resting place in the Catholic cemetery this morning. The funeral took place from her late home, 156 Chapel street, at 8.30 o'clock and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased, including friends from Quincy, Taunton, Maynard and Lawrence.

The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church in Gorham street, where a high mass of requiem was sung at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The choir under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly sang the Gregorian mass and during the service solos were rendered by members of the choir. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in evidence.

The bearers were Messrs. Dennis McHugh, William H. Harrigan, Thomas Ityden, P. A. Rogers and James Sheridan of this city and Thomas Gaffney of Taunton. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery, where the last sad rites of the Catholic church were solemnized by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Director John F. Rogers.

COX—Mildred H. Cox, aged four years, died yesterday at the home of her parents, Philip and Clara, 78 Whipple street. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the interment was in the Catholic cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker John J. O'Connell.

ROMOC

"No matter how dainty food may be or how carefully prepared, it looks simply repugnant to you, does it not?" says the Romoc man. "That dull pain in your stomach caused you to simply loathe the sight of food—you cannot eat and yet you want something and don't know what. When you do eat, you suffer tortures afterwards. Do you realize what will happen to you if you continue in this way. Your body will become depleted and any sickness is apt to take hold of you. If you escape such evils, you will do as lots of other dyspeptics have done—die of exhaustion. Or perhaps the irritation of your stomach will become so bad that gastric ulcers will form and hemorrhages from the stomach will ensue. You positively can avoid all these troubles by taking Romoc. It is Nature's own remedy. It contains no injurious drugs nor a particle of alcohol. Romoc builds up your entire system. It will make your stomach strong and will help it to digest the food eaten and what is best of all create a healthy, natural appetite. My word for it, Mr. Man, with indigestion, a single bottle of Romoc will prove to you that there is more in Nature than you have ever dreamed of."

GRANTED A PATENT.

Alfred A. Lovejoy of this city, has just secured through Gardner W. Pearson, Esq., a patent on a self closing gas burner. The object of the invention is to provide a burner in which if the light is extinguished the valve will be automatically closed, and thus all danger from escaping gas is avoided.

The device works remarkably well and it is said that a Boston syndicate is negotiating for its purchase for a substantial sum.

TOWN EXCITED

They Robbed Town Policeman and Then Locked Him in a Cell—Blew Open the Safe in Post Office and Got $1000 Belonging to the Postmistress—People are Searching for the Burglars

By Associated Press to The Sun

MERRIMAC, Mass., Nov. 10—Atwood Nixon, the only officer of the local police force, was knocked down early today, robbed, handcuffed and locked in a cell in the town jail by four unknown men who later blew off the door of the post office safe with a charge of dynamite, stole the valuables contained therein, and departed without leaving any clues behind them. Before departing the burglars held up one man at the point of a revolver and fired two shots at another, both bullets going wide of the mark.

The sounding of the fire alarm called the entire male population of the town to the scene and all citizens began scouring the town bent upon capturing the thieves. Nixon met the men about 3.30 o'clock this morning. Without a word they sprang upon him, knocked him down and handcuffed him with his own handcuffs. Then they went through his pockets and relieved him of his gold watch and chain and $26 in money, then, taking him to the town jail they thrust him into a cell, locked the door and went away.

Soon after this Philip Quimby, night watchman at the electrical power station, heard the sound of the explosion which wrecked the safe in the post office. He walked up the street to investigate and was met by the burglars who levelled their revolvers at him and told him that if he did not go back where he came from they would kill him.

Quimby imediately went back to the power station and on arriving there sounded a general alarm on the fire whistle.

The citizens of the town poured out of their houses and thronged the streets, inquiring of each other the cause of the alarm being sounded. It was not long before they found out, as Charles Howe, the engineer at the Walker Carriage company's shop soon appeared with a thrilling story. He told how he had met four men as he was coming down the street and someone in the party had fired two shots at him, neither taking effect.

A search by the citizens disclosed the fact that the post office had been the scene of an unusually bold band of burglars. The door of the safe was completely blown off and papers and records were scattered all about the office.

It occasioned considerable surprise among the citizens that Policeman Nixon was nowhere to be seen, and accordingly a search for him was begun. Among other places the town jail was visited and the officer was found handcuffed in a cell. Nixon said that the burglars were four in number, their ages ranging from 25 to 30 years. Nixon said that he would know two of them if he should meet them again. He described them as being well dressed and barring their treatment of him, very gentlemanly.

In their hurried departure, the burglars left behind them a horse and carriage which they had obtained from somebody out of town.

The government lost practically nothing through the robbery, but the postmaster, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Smart, had $1,000 in money and valuables taken.

It has been the custom of the postmaster to keep the greater part of the money and stamps in a safe deposit vault, so that the amount of government funds in the office was trifling.

As soon as the townsmen learned of the robbery each one became a self-appointed deputy and a thorough search for the thieves was begun. Surrounding cities and towns were notified and when the first car arrived in Haverhill, two person having a suspicious appearance were placed under arrest.

The Haverhill police this morning began an investigation of the safe blowing at the post office at Merrimac. State Officer Hammond was called into the case and with Captain Shannon and two policemen drove to that town but no clues were secured to the gang, which, it is believed, consists of semi-professional safe-blowers who have have been operating throughout Essex county for the past two weeks.

This morning Herbert C. Upton and Arthur S. Adams of Beverly were detained at the police station. They came to this city from Merrimac on one of the first electrics this morning, but after satisfactorily answering all questions and making known the object of their trip to Merrimac, they were allowed to depart.

Adams is employed by Dr. Stickney of Beverly and with Upton he had driven over the road last evening with a carriage which Dr. Stickney wished repaired by a Merrimac firm. The local police inquired of the Beverly police regarding the two men and as they also had letters disclosing their identity the two men were not held.

State Officer Hammond, after investigating the Merrimac job was of the opinion that te gang was the same which secured $330 in the liquor saloon of McCarthy & Cronin in tis city last Saturday morning.

TWO SHOT DEAD

Revolver Fight in the Wallace Theatre

Well Known Physician the Second Victim

CHIEF OF POLICE SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Many People Injured in Stampede

By Associated Press to The Sun

WALLACE, Idaho, Nov. 10—Two persons were killed and two wounded in a shooting affray at the entrance of the Wallace Opera House last night. The shooting took place just as the theatre-goers were leaving the theatre, following a performance by the James O'Neil company. The dead:

DR. W. F. FIMS, shot through the head.

WILLIAM CUFF, miner, shot three times.

The wounded:

Opera House policeman Rose, shot in leg.

Opera House Policeman Rose ordered him to desist but he refused. The policeman took the cigar away from Cuff after a struggle. Cuff left the theatre vowing vengeance. He returned with a revolver and waited until the performance was over. Rose was the first man to leave the opera house. As he stepped outside he began firing. The first shot missed and Rose returned the fire. Dr. Fims, who was escorting a woman, followed Rose out, and as he did so, a bullet struck him in the head, killing him instantly. Other policemen appeared at this moment and a general fusillade followed. The panic stricken theatre-goers rushed back into the foyer, men and women being trampled on in the mad rush to get away. Cuff continued firing, wounding Chief of Police McGovern and Special Officer Rose. Cuff then started up a running fire, but was intercepted by Policeman Quinn, who kept up a running fire, three bullets taking effect. Cuff fell unconscious and died in fifteen minutes.

A number of people were injured in the stampede.

Cuff was a miner and served in the Philippines with an Idaho regiment.

Dr. Fims was a well known surgeon of Wallace and leaves a family.

LOST ON STOCKS

A STENOGRAPHER HAD DEBTS AMOUNTING TO $13,790.15.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10—Referee Henry G. Newton yesterday recommended a discharge in bankruptcy for Sarah S. Platt of Orange, who filed her petition in the United States court last August. Miss Platt is a stenographer and has debts amounting to $13,790.15, with normal assets of $20,670, which however, were so encumbered as to be of no value.

Miss Platt's financial difficulties were due to unfortunate stock speculations. She had $20,000 left to her and lost it all through speculating in Wall street.

Miss Platt is very pretty and her financial downfall created a sensation. Among her heaviest creditors were some of the best banks and brokers of this city.

GAGNON MAY LIVE

POLICE SAY ASSAILANT HAD DUAL MOTIVE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LAWRENCE, Nov. 10—The condition of Alfred Gagnon, who was murderously assaulted, was slightly changed for the better last night and it was thought at the general hospital that the chances of his recovery were about even.

The police are of the opinion that his assailant had a dual motive of revenge and robbery. Gagnon conducts a small wood and coal business and is said to have been in the habit of carrying quite a little money with him, and this being known it is thought that some former employe, being incensed at Gagnon, sought revenge and also an opportunity to rob.

Police have been dispatched to the scene, the volunteers having been called out and severe fighting is expected.

DYNAMITE CASES

ACTION BEGUN IN SUPERIOR COURT AT LAWRENCE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LAWRENCE, Nov. 10.—In the superior court yesterday three cases, growing out of the dynamite explosions during the construction of the Middleton & Danvers street railway in North Andover in February, 1902, were placed on trial. The plaintiffs are William D. Hooe, Garrett E. Welch and Ernest Lane and the defendants the Boston & Northern street railway, Middleton & Danvers street railway and Loring N. Farnum, contractor. The dynamite was used in excavating for the roadbed, and the explosions were the result of charges of dynamite which had not exploded, being struck by picks. There were three separate explosions, one man being killed outright, two dying from injuries and several being hurt. Welch lost the sight of one eye, Hooe had his jaw broken, and his head was cut and bruised.

A ROUND TABLE FOR JUVENILE READERS

By ALBERTA PLATT

YOU will see from the amount of ornamentation carried by Queen Savangvadana of Siam that she is of a country not yet far along the road of intellectual development. One of the titles of her husband, King Khoulalonkorn, is "lord of heads," and

The Siamese belong to the Malay or brown race. In Bangkok, the capital, they are beginning to learn the ways of white folks, but in the villages of the interior they still have their old customs and beliefs and are so loaded down with superstition that life must be a burden to them. The climate is so hot that its average temperature is 82, yet every mother of a young babe has to have a roasting fire burning beside her to keep the evil spirits away. To make sure the bad spirits will not get the baby there is fastened around its parents' house a cord the priests have blessed. It is not enough, however, to keep bad spooks away. Good ones must be invoked as well. It seems the priests cannot be trusted sufficiently to do this part of the job; so the Siamese always get three old women to attend to it. One of the things they do is to make three balls of rice and throw them in lucky directions and call on guardian angels to look out for the baby.

All Siamese babies have the same name when they are very little, and that name is "Dang," which means "red." But Siamese infants wear no clothes at all, which they would be very glad of if they knew enough to be, and the mosquitoes would soon sting them to death if their tender bodies were left unprotected. To avoid this they are covered all over with an unpleasant yellow paste which is supposed to keep the pests away. It ought to.

The no clothes fashion is continued for both boys and girls till the child is about ten years old. The hair of both is worn in the same way, in a style that seems to us very odd. It is all shaved off except in one round spot upon the crown. The tuft that is left is coxed to grow by every means the Siamese brain can devise. It is combed and oiled and coiled in a knot. A jeweled pin is stuck through it, and a wreath of flowers is circled around this topknot. How would an American boy like to parade about with his hair in that fashion? The odd thing about it to us is, however, that when the little girl is eleven or twelve years old, just at the age when an American girl would begin to take pride in her long, thick hair, this topknot is shaved off, and the child is left with a head as bare as that of an American boy who has just had his summer cut. After this shave the hair is allowed to grow all over the girl's head, but she seldom lets it grow long. Boys lose their topknots at about the age of fourteen, and thereafter both sexes wear the hair short, as a rule, which is a most sensible fashion for a hot climate.

Some American boys who don't like to go to school would think that Siamese boys have a very "good time." There are few schools in Siam, and a boy has nothing to do but play and sleep. He is too lazy and the climate is too hot for him even to play very hard. He gets up in the morning at daylight and goes into a creek or river for a bath. He has no clothes, soap, bathing suit or towel, so his bath is not much trouble. He just pours water over himself or plunges into the stream and runs about on the sand till he gets dry, when he goes home to breakfast. This is of salt fish, rice and some fruit, and the Siamese boy sits upon the ground or floor like all orientals and eats with his fingers; again not much trouble about it, you see.

game of mud balling—throwing balls of mud as the children of cold countries throw snowballs. The oddest "amusement," though, of both Siamese boys and grown men is cricket fighting. At night when the crickets are out they are hunted and caught and put two and two into little baked mud jars. Then they are stirred up with a stick till the silly things each think it is the other cricket annoying him, and they attack each other savagely. An American boy who would take pleasure in such a foolish, cruel entertainment would be justly regarded as a very inferior specimen of civilization.

From a Youthful Viewpoint.

Here are some choice specimens of "associated ideas" drawn forth from the schoolboy mind during the tortures of examination:

"Queen Elizabeth was never married. She was so fond of dresses she was never seen without one, and she was beauteful and clever, with a red head and freckles."

"The provisions of Oxford were butter, eggs, cheese, bread and beer."

"The constitution of Clarendon was so shattered through grief that he died quite a young man before he had time to grow old."

"Lord Alfred Tennyson was a celebrated poet, and he wrote a lot of beautiful poims with long hair and studid so much that he used to say to his mother, 'Call me early dear!' His greatest poim is called 'The Idle King.' He was made a lord, but he was a good man and wrote many oads."

Well Supplied.

"No, thank you, I've got some money of my own," said little Tommy politely, as the contribution plate passed in front of him on the occasion of his first visit to church.

THE AMUSING GAME OF HOW DO YOU LIKE IT?

This is an excellent and amusing game for evening parties. It may be played by any number of persons. The company being seated, one of the party, called the stock, is sent out of the room, and the company then agrees upon some word which will bear more than one meaning. When the stock comes back he or she asks each of the company in succession, "How do you like it?" One answers, "I like it hot;" another, "I like it cold;" another, "I like it old;" another, "I like it new." He then asks the company in succession again, "When do you like?" One says, "At all times;" another, "Very seldom;" a third, "At dinner;" a fourth, "On the water;" a fifth, "On the land," etc. Last the stock goes around and asks, "Where would you put it?" One answers, "I would put it up a chimney;" another, "I would throw it down a well;" a third, "I would hang it on a tree," a fourth, "I would put it in a pudding." From these answers a witty girl may guess the word chosen, but should she be unable to do so she must pay a forfeit.

"I don't know who the responsible party is," answered the sad, cynical office boy, "but I am the one who gets all the blame."

POLICE ON GUARD

Attack Made on American Optical Company's Plant

By Associated Press to The Sun

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 10.—Notwithstanding the threat of the optical manufacturers of this town to close their factories if their employes held to their determination to belong to a union, the shops were open today but less than half of the regular force of 1900 men reported for work and several of the departments in the various factories were not running in full. The contest is really one between a number of manufacturers in Worcester county, who are resisting the introduction of union methods in their respective trades. The first disturbance occurred last week in Fiskedale, where the employes of the Snell Mfg. company were locked out because of the formation of a union among them. This week, however, the works are in operation, although Supt. John F. Hebard states that the polishers have not reported and will not be hired again.

During the night several of the police in Southbridge were called to guard the big plant of the American Optical company. Several windows in the establishment were smashed by some persons unknown and until the difficulty here is settled the police will give especial attention to the factories during the night time.

Some of the men who consider themselves locked out from the eye glass works, paraded the streets this forenoon, but beyond this there was no demonstration. At the American Optical company's factory 700 of the 1700 employes went in, this minority having determined to have nothing to do with the union.

At the Hyde Manufacturing company's works, ten out of 25 were at work and at T. Harrington & Sons all of their 12 workmen remained away.

Twenty out of a total of 50 reported at the Harrington Cutlery company's plant and at the Dupaul-Young Optical company's factory 60 out of 90 men went in.

It is claimed that the polishers, who were recently organized into the Metal Polishers, Buers, Brass Moulders & Brass Workers' Independent union of North America, by William Shea, a district organizer of Lowell, are causing the greatest trouble of any branch of the employes. Of 400 members in the union, it was stated today that only a scattered dozen polishers were at work. Mr. Dupaul of the Dupaul-Young company states that unless the men accede to the request of the manufacturers that they conduct their relations with their employers as heretofore, and without union influence, the factory owners will attempt to get operatives from elsewhere. The polishers held an informal meeting today and decided not to return to work until they are allowed to do so as union members.

The present trouble is the most serious that has occurred in Worcester county for several years and is of much importance in the optical manufacturing trade of which Southbridge is the headquarters in the United States.

FRANCE IN LINE

New Republic of Panama is Recognized

By Associated Press to The Sun

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The French government has recognized the De Facto government of the Republic of Panama.

The instructions forwarded by Foreign Minister Delcasse to the French consul at Panama authorize him to have relations with the new government.

The instructions are substantially the same as those sent from Washington to the United States consul at Panama.

The instructions sent to the French consul will have the effect of giving the same recognition of the new regime as the United States has already given. A formal recognition will follow later when the new government is fully organized; but, the instructions of the consul definitely establish the attitude of France toward the new republic.

PANAMA AFFAIRS

Discussed by President and "Boss" Hanna

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—An important conference concerning the Panama situation was held at the White House today just prior to the formal meeting of the cabinet.

The participants were President Roosevelt, Senator Hanna and members of the cabinet. The decision reached, if any, was not disclosed. It is understood, however, that the discussion was informal and not intended in any manner to be decisive.

Shortly before 11 o'clock, the hour of the meeting of the cabinet, Senator Hanna arrived at the executive offices accompanied by W. J. Curtis, a member of the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell of New York, attorneys in this country for the new Panama canal company. Mr. Curtis remained for only a few moments. He said he merely paid his respects to the president.

Senator Hanna remained with the president more than half an hour. Long after the members of the cabinet had assembled he and the president continued to talk, several of the cabinet officers joining in the conversation.

After Senator Hanna left the White House, he chatted frankly. He said that he and the president had not discussed the question of the chairmanship of the republican national committee. "In fact," said he, "that matter was not mentioned today. It's a dead issue, anyhow.

"We talked of a variety of topics," continued the senator, "among them the Panama situation. That is not a political question—not even a technical one. The people of this country want an isthmian canal built and they want it built by the Panama route. They have accepted the Panama route and they propose to stand by the president in the matter of constructing the canal by that route."

Senator Hanna was asked whether in his opinion it would be necessary to enact new legislation to provide for negotiations between the United States and the Republic of Panama for the construction of a canal. He replied that that was a question for a lawyer to answer. He felt that a new treaty would be necessary, of course, but did not think serious difficulty would be encountered in negotiating a canal treaty with Panama.

The navy department is advised that Rear-Admiral Glass, commanding the Pacific station, arrived at Panama this morning with the cruiser Marblehead and the gunboat Concord, having made a quick run from Acapulco. Their consort, the Monitor Wyoming, was not able to keep up with the two other vessels and probably will not reach Panama before Thursday. By virtue of his rank, Admiral Glass will have supreme command over the naval forces in the vicinity of Panama and in case of a juncture of the forces at Panama and Colon, he would have command of all operations.

There is no expectation here of a hostile clash on the isthmus in the immediate future for it is believed that the Colombian government, when fully advised of what has happened, will accept the inevitable and not attempt to send troops to attack Panama in the face of the United States naval vessels guarding the approaches. The naval officials say they know nothing of the movements of the Nashville and other smaller naval vessels which are said to be voyaging up and down the isthmus, so they are doubtless acting solely under the orders of Captain Delano, the senior officer of the fleet, simply to acquire information as on conditions.

The state department was notified today that the Colombian government had established a censorship over cablegrams destined for the interior of Colombia reaching Buenaventura. This practically cut off free communication between Bogota, the capital of Colombia, and the outside world. It may delay communication with United States Minister Beaupre but the United States government will not submit to any suppression of its dispatches so long as the telegraph route is open at all.

BRYAN APPEALS

Case Goes to Superior Court

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10—William J. Bryan, with his counsel and Judge Henry Stoddard, counsel for Mrs. Bennett, widow of Philo S. Bennett appeared in the probate court today for a hearing on the amount of the widow's allowance, pending the adjustment of Mr. Bennett's estate. Judge Stoddard's suggestion that the allowance be $7,500 a year paid in monthly installments of $625, was agreed to by Mr. Bryan as executor and that amount was ordered by the court.

Frank D. Brown, a brother of Mrs. Bennett, was named by Judge Stoddard to be an appraiser of the estate and the appointment was made by the court.

Mr. Brown will act with Charles Kleiner of this city, the other appraiser, who was appointed last week.

After the hearing, it was announced that Mr. Bryan had given his counsel power of attorney to perfect an appeal to the superior court from the decision of Judge Cleaveland of the probate court, declaring that the sealed letter referred to in the will of Mr. Bennett and which provided for a gift of $50,000 to Mr. Bryan, was not a part of the will.

Mr. Bryan will go to New York today to make arrangements regarding his proposed trip to Europe. He said the date of his departure had not been fixed.

POISONING CASE

Dr. Huntress Says Responsibility is Not Placed

The committee inquiring into the poisoning at the State hospital in Tewksbury have come to one conclusion—that atropine tablets, not belladonna in the liquid form, was given to the eleven patients who were poisoned at the hospital a few days ago.

In view of the fact that the committee has agreed upon the form in which the poison was administered and that there were no atropine tablets in the medicinal closet in the ward where the poisoning occurred, the committee finds itself face to face with twin theories—either the tablets were taken from the laboratory, or they were smuggled in from the outside.

Atropine is the active principle of belladonna and an atropine tablet dropped into a glass of water would not create any noticeable discoloration.

In conversation with a Sun reporter this forenoon Dr. Huntress said: "The committee has not yet arrived at any conclusion. There is no one inmate of the institution, in particular, that we suspect and no such statement as appears in the morning papers was given out by any member of the committee.

"The committee cannot afford to disclose the line of investigation. We have not given out any statement and will not until we have concluded the investigation. The committee will not meet today and I do not expect that we will get through with the investigation before another five days, at least."

"Then the committee has not yet placed the responsibility for the poisoning?" said the reporter.

"Certainly not," replied the doctor.

"No one in particular is suspected?"

"No, sir."

"You wouldn't want to go on record as saying that the committee hasn't got its suspicions?" queried the reporter.

"No, I don't know that I would, but to tell our suspicions would mean, of course, a break in the line of our investigation. The main thing for the committee now is to find out where the poison came from; then and not till then will the committee be able to place the responsibility."

WAR DECLARED

MOVE TO STAMP OUT PROFESSIONAL BEGGARS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—War has been declared on the professional beggars that infest the large eastern cities. Operations will begin in Philadelphia today, following out the campaign which has been going on in this city for several weeks.

The campaign as planned by the charity organization societies and the police of the various cities in the East is to pursue professional beggars, imposters and "Yegg men" from city to city toward the west until they are driven to seek honest employment.

Just now, it is said, the objective point of most of the migratory beggars is St. Louis, where they expect to reap a harvest during the exposition.

The professionals have been catalogued and hundreds of the worst characters photographed at various times so that the work can now be carried on systematically.

REPORT DENIED

GERMAN TROOPS CAN SMOKE AMERICAN CIGARETTES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BERLIN, Nov. 10—The War ministry authorizes the Associated Press to deny the report published by a news agency in the United States yesterday, that the ministry for war had prohibited the sale in the German army and navy of cigars or cigarettes of the American Tobacco company and that only German goods would be allowed to be sold.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—The hearing in the affairs of the United States Ship building company, which was to be resumed today, was postponed until Thursday, owing to the sickness of one of the attorneys.

LOSS IS $75,000

BIG FIRE IN COPPER PLANT AT CONSTABLE HOOK.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The loss by fire at the Orford Copper company's plant at Constable Hook, last night, is estimated at about $75,000. Two storage houses and the copper house were destroyed. The fire was not extinguished until early today. It was feared for a time that the plant of the Standard Oil company, which adjoins that of the copper company, would catch fire, but by hard work the fire department and the organized corps of the two companies kept the flames from spreading outside of the Orford works.

WORK RESUMED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 10—The large Shenango tin-plate plant has resumed operations after a shut down of several weeks and a majority of the 2500 employes were at work today.

BAIL REDUCED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 10.—William F. Wells, the Lynn printer who made lottery tickets, bogus and good, for a gang of swindlers with headquarters in Dayton, Ohio, and New York city, was called again in the Lynn police court this morning by continuance and further continuance was ordered to November 20. By that time the government expects to have Sanger, arrested at Dayton, here for trial and possibly the New York men whose arrest has been requested. Wells' bail was reduced from $2000 to $1000 and even that he had trouble in getting, for the men with whom he has been in closest business association left as soon as the news of the arrest was made, thinking that Wells would confess. While he has told Chief of Police Burrkes of the working of the scheme as he knew it, he has refused to give the name of anyone connected with the swindle. Wells himself says that he has not made over $10 or $15 a week out of his work and that if the police had been two days later in their raid there would not have been anything found in his printing office.

LAWYER ARRESTED

HE TRIED TO BRIBE A STATE WITNESS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Samuel Leibovitz, a lawyer, has been arrested by detectives attached to the staff of District Attorney Jerome, charged with attempting to bribe a state witness. The latter was a woman who had procured the arrest of two men for attempting to snatch her purse. She informed the district attorney that the lawyer had asked her to help have the prisoners released. Detectives were secreted in her home and when Leibovitz appeared again, it is alleged he offered her $25 to testify under his direction. The detectives stepped from their hiding places and arrested him.

MORGAN DROPPED

Loses Head of Canal Committee

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—The caucus of republican senators today authorized Senator Allison, the chairman, to appoint a committee to re-oganize the senate committees.

A resolution declaring that the committee on inter-oceanic canals should be a majority committee with a republican as chairman, was not adopted, but the whole matter was left with the committee on committees with the understanding that such action should be taken. This will displace Senator Morgan as chairman of the committee.

GIRL ATHLETES

Discussed Before the Women's Club

At the Middlesex Women's club yesterday afternoon, Miss Lucille Hill, director of physical culture at Wellesley college, gave an interesting talk before the education department on the subject: "Physical Education for Girls."

Miss Hill threw out many pointed hints in relation to the subject and at the outset she said that the time is coming when the school authorities can say to the parents that the girls cannot attend dances and after 9 o'clock at night if they are going to do good, intellectual work. The speaker dwelt at length on basket ball and concluded with:

"Interscholastic schools of basket ball for young girls should be discouraged for medical and ethical reasons, for reasons which any mother who has seen some of the conditions attending publicity and excitement of match games can understand.

"Morever it is a step in the wrong direction to encourage competition for girls beyond great moderation. Where matches are entirely between classes of the home school all the benefits of the game are more easily gained, and the 'greatest good to the greatest number' accomplished."

A discussion of the subject followed the talk.

TOWNS CELEBRATING

GREAT TIME OVER ROXBURGHE-GOELET WEDDING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

DUNBAR, Scotland, Nov. 10—East Lothian (or Haddington-Shire) is enjoying a holiday today in honor of the Duke of Roxburghe's wedding to Miss May Goelet. The towns are decorated, the church bells rung and the inhabitants are gathering at various points.

The town of Dunbar, near which Broxmouth Park, one of the Duke's seats, is situated, has cabled its congratulations to the bridegroom.

STORM WARNING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—The local weather bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Northeast storm warning, 10 a. m. Storm central off Middle Atlantic coast, moving northeast. Winds will shift to easterly tonight and probably will become strong to high."

LEIGHTON DEAD

He Was Victim of Bunco Reed

By Associated Press to The Sun

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 10—The remarkable success which attended the operations of the notorious New Jersey confidence man known throughout New England eight years ago, as John Reed, and the cleverly executed escape of the so-called "Bunco King," from the Massachusetts state prison, are recalled by the death of John F. Leighton, one of Reed's numerous victims.

Leighton died from brain trouble, the result of the shock which he sustained on realizing that he had been swindled out of $3500. Leighton was 71 years old. His family was one of the oldest pioneer families in Northfield. For many years he conducted a successful milk business and was one of the town's most successful farmers. He served one term as selectman. He was a republican and at one time was high in the councils of his party.

The arrest of Reed at Clinton, Mass., his re-arrest at Brockton, his escape to New Jersey and re-capture, followed in rapid succession. Many charges were preferred against him and finally he was committed to the state prison, only to escape from an officer at Worcester, whither he was taken as a witness in a court case.

MASSACHUSETTS DAY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 10.—Saturday, November 17, has been officially approved as Massachusetts Day at the World's Fair by Governor Bates, as it will commemorate the signing of the charter in 1630 of the old town of Trimountain, afterwards named Boston.

MISSOURI GETS $475,186.

By Associated Press to The Sun

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 10.—State Auditor Allen has completed the civil war claim of Missouri against the United States for $475,186 and forwarded it to Senator Cockrell, for presentation to the treasury department at Washington. Mr. Allen expects that this money will be paid in 1904.

EX-QUEEN "LIL"

SHE IS STILL LOOKING FOR THAT $200,000.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—Former Queen Lilluokalani of Hawaii, who has arrived from Honolulu, will stay in this city a few days before starting for Washington to prosecute her claims against the government. A recent senate committee reported favorably on a bill to award the former queen $200,000 damages on account of the loss of her crown lands. Congress has failed to act favorably upon the measure, but Lilluokalani expresses the hope that it will do so at the present session.

CABLE DAMAGED

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 10.—During the storm which swept over this section Sunday night and yesterday morning, the four-masted French bark Ville de Mulhouse fouled the Alaska cable, doing serious damage. The cable was hauled off its course fully half a mile and the vessel is still so entangled in the great wire rope that she cannot extricate herself.

NEW PLACER DISCOVERIES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 10.—The new placer discoveries at the headwaters of the Sushitna are as rich as any heretofore discovered in Alaska, according to Albert White of Valdez, who first sent prospecting parties into the country. Out of Discovery claim on Valdez creek, 100 ounces were taken in fifteen days by two men. On August 16 four men on the same creek, 100 miles from the mouth of the river, took $385 in nine hours. The gold is bright yellow in color and is reported to be generally coarse.

SUES FOR BACK TAXES.

By Associated Press to The Sun

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 10.—The revenue agent of the state of Mississippi has filed suit here to recover $1,035,000 back taxes alleged to be due the state from the Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans railroad, now a part of the Illinois Central railway. The amount for which suit is brought is for 11 years on $6,000,000 worth of stock of the company.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The city council last night passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of toy pistols in Chicago.

BUTTERWORTH RESIGNS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Horace C. Butterworth, physical director of Northwestern University, has tendered his resignation. Mr. Butterworth will not retire at once, but will continue his work during the remainder of the college year.

Mr. Butterworth last night said:

"The atmosphere at Northwestern is inimical to my frame of mind," and refused to give any other reason for resigning.

GOOD DOGS ENTERED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HAMPTON, Conn., Nov. 10—Forty members of the Connecticut field trials club, including owners of dogs from this and neighboring states, attended the opening of the annual meet here today. There was a good field of dogs entered in all the classes.

For the Derby stake, which was run off today, the field included nine setters and four pointers. The meeting will continue three days.

DR. LOUGEST

HAS HAD MORE EXPERIENCE IN THE TREATMENT, AND MADE MORE GREAT CURES OF DIFFICULT, PROTRACTED AND CHRONIC DISEASES AND WEAKNESSES OF MEN THAN ANY OTHER LIVING SPECIALIST.

Dr. Lougest's treatment has been tested on more than twenty thousand (20,000) young, middle-aged and old men, who, as the results of errors or excesses, were tortured by the woes of nervous debility or decay. It has never yet failed, even in the worst cases, to bring back manly power, remove every trace or symptom of weakness, build up the physical and mental health, and prepare men anew for the duties and pleasures of both married and single life.

Lost manhood, seminal weakness, effects of youthful indiscretion, nervous debility, pimples and blotches, hair falling out, loss of memory and energy, impotence, rheumatic pains, discharges and all private diseases quickly and permanently cured by an original and never-failing treatment. Blood poison, ulcers, stricture, varicocele and diseases of the kidneys, bladder and blood cured in the shortest possible time, without the use of mercury or hindrance from business. Dr. Lougest's treatment for the complete cure of stricture and all unnatural discharges is the most wonderful of modern times. No matter how long the discharge has continued nor how many self-styled specialists have failed to relieve, let alone cure, Dr. Lougest will positively guarantee to stop the discharge entirely within (3) three days by means of his New Method Treatment. This treatment removes stricture, positively without pain, detention from business or the use of obnoxious or injurious medicines. No Experiment! No Failure! Nine-tenths of all the long standing discharges, strictures and weaknesses of men are caused by the experiments of the many inexperienced and self-styled specialists of the present day.

Many a man who has been fooled by the "Pay When Cured" racket, knows that it is the last and only resort of a dying out pretender to get a patient into his clutches. Beware of such schemes. Don't be deceived by misleading statements such as these seemingly charitable offers.

Don't entrust your lives to anyone not qualified by years of experience to treat you. Don't even step your foot across the threshold of an office run by inexperienced, irresponsible, illiterate pretenders. You had better save your money and let the disease take its own course than be practised and experimented upon and in the end lose both your money and life.

Dr. Lougest's offices occupy the entire building of five floors at 313 Columbus avenue, and they are supplied with every known means and device that science, skill, knowledge and money can provide that will aid in determining the exact location and nature of these diseases and effecting their cure promptly and thoroughly, and by the same sure methods as are used in the most celebrated Paris hospitals, which invariably result in

ABSOLUTE CERTAINTY OF CURE.

President Roosevelt's Recommendations to Congress

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—President Roosevelt's message to congress was read today. The message is as follows:

To the senate and house of representatives: I have convened the congress that it may consider the legislation necessary to put into operation the commercial treaty with Cuba, which was ratified by the senate at its last session, and subsequently by the Cuban government. I deem such legislation demanded not only by our interest but by our honor. We cannot with propriety abandon the course upon which we have so wisely embarked. When the acceptance of the Platt amendment was required from Cuba by the action of the congress of the United States, this government thereby definitely committed itself to the policy of treating Cuba as occupying a unique position as regards this country.

It was provided that when the island became a free and independent republic she should stand in such close relations with us as in certain respects to come within our system of international policy, and it necessarily followed that she must also to a certain degree become included within the lines of our economic policy. Situated as Cuba is it would not be possible for this country to permit the strategic abuse of the island by any foreign military power. It is for this reason that certain limitations have been imposed upon her financial policy, and that naval stations are on the eve of completion. They are so situated as to prevent any idea that there is the intention ever to use them against Cuba, or otherwise than for the protection of Cuba from the assaults of foreign foes, and for the better safeguarding of American interests in the waters south of us.

These interests have been largely increased by the consequences of the war with Spain, and will be still further increased by the building of the Isthmian canal. They are both military and economic. The granting to us by Cuba of the naval stations above alluded to is of the utmost importance from a military standpoint and is proof of the good faith with which Cuba is treating us. Cuba has made great progress since her independence was established. She has advanced steadily in every way. She already stands high among her sister republics of the new world. She is loyally observing her obligations to us; and she is entitled to like treatment by us.

The treaty submitted to you for approval secures to the United States economic advantages as great as those given to Cuba. Not an American interest is sacrificed. By the treaty a large Cuban market is secured to our producers. It is a market which lies at our doors, which is already large, which is capable of great expansion, and which is especially important to the development of our export trade. It would be indeed shortsighted for us to take advantage of such an opportunity, and force Cuba into making arrangements with other countries to our disadvantage.

This reciprocity treaty stands by itself. It is demanded on considerations of broad national policy as well as by our economic interest. It will do harm to no industry. It will benefit many industries. It is in the interest of our people as a whole, both because of its importance from the broad standpoint of international policy, and because economically it intimately concerns us to develop and secure the rich Cuban market for our farmers, artisans, merchants and manufacturers. Finally, it is desirable as a guarantee of the good faith of our nation towards her young sister republic to the south, whose welfare must ever be closely bound with ours. We gave her liberty. We are knit to her by the memories of the blood and the courage of our soldiers who fought for her in war; by the memories of the wisdom and integrity of our administrators who served her in peace and who started her so well on the difficult path of self-government. We must help her onward and upward; and in helping her we shall help ourselves.

The foregoing considerations caused the negotiation of the treaty with Cuba and its ratification by the senate. They now with equal force support the legislation by the congress which by the terms of the treaty is necessary to render it operative. A failure to enact such legislation would come perilously near a repudiation of the pledged faith of the nation.

I transmit herewith the treaty, as amended by the senate and ratified by the Cuban government.

HORRIBLE TREATMENT

STORY OF HOW STUDENT LOEW MET HIS DEATH.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Dr. Leopold Hirschmann of this city, cousin of Martin Loew, a medical student, whose death occurred recently at Baltimore soon after his initiation into a Greek letter fraternity, says he has received details of the affair from a fellow student. The latter declared that when Loew went to the fraternity hall, to take the first degree, he was met by 25 men. He was told to undress and after doing so, was blindfolded and taken into a room where he was laid upon a cake of ice. He was then carried up stairs to the balcony and thrown over the rail—a drop of 25 feet. On the floor beneath stood a number of students holding a sheet.

"When Loew fell into this," said the doctor, "he was tossed up and down until he was unconscious. After being revived, he was beaten until his body was a mass of bruises.

"That night he was in such a wretched condition that his room-mate stayed up all night with him. Whiskey and quinine were given to him during the night and in the morning he felt relieved.

"The following Saturday he took the second degree. In the morning he was found dead and his chum who had just taken the first degree, was in a serious condition. The guilty ones should be sent to the gallows. They are murderers."

BRASS THIEVES

Robbed Factories, Dwelling Houses and Camps

Bad Trio Now in Custody—Their Work of Plundering Has Been Going on for Months—It Was Larceny and Vandalism Combined

The arrest of William McCarty, 22, and Joseph McCrann, 19, at early hour this morning, has brought to light one of the very worst cases of vandalism in the history of this city. All of the big thefts of brass and other metals that have been reported to the police during the last few months are attributed to McCarty, McCrann and Arthur Burnhart, who is now serving sentence at the Concord reformatory.

The wholesale destruction of new machinery, stored at the Coburn Shuttle works, at the corner of Plain and Tanner streets, for the sake of their brass fixings and trimmings was done by the trio now in the hands of the police. McCarty and McCrann admitted everything to the police shortly after their arrest. McCarty was not in some of the big raids made by the other two; in fact McCrann made McCarty his partner in crime after his former associate, Arthur Burnhart, had been sentenced to the reformatory. McCarty was under police espionage for a week. They knew that he had had a hand in some of the jobs that had been reported and they allowed him his liberty for the time being in order that they might watch his movements and find out who his associates were. The arrests were made by Capt. Kew, Inspectors Donaldson, Laflamme and Maher and Officers Cawley and Cogger.

OPERATED FOR MONTHS.

The story of Burnhart's and McCrann's depredations is a long one. Burnhart, the police allege, was the ring leader and he is regarded as a cool, deliberate fellow, who hates work as thoroughly as he loves stealing. He was in court several months ago on a complaint charging him with stealing money from a pool room proprietor and a few weeks later he and McCrann were in police court and were convicted of larceny. They were charged with breaking into trunks in a house at the corner of South and Appleton streets and the larceny of various articles of wearing apparel. It was for this offence that Burnhart was sentenced to the reformatory. McCrann was fined $20 and the fine was paid.

When the two young men pleaded not guilty to larceny from the trunks they must have been laughing up their sleeves, for at that time they were also guilty of breaking and entering and larceny from the Coburn Shuttle Works and vacant dwelling houses and camps. At that time, however, the Coburn Shuttle works larceny hadn't been reported to the police.

THEFTS ARE ADMITTED.

McCrann, the police allege, has admitted that Burnhart and himself did the job at the bobbin factory and that they also stripped the plumbing in unoccupied dwellings all of which had been reported to the police.

They visited a vacant house, the property of Sheppard & Fuller, at 565 Rogers street, and they didn't leave enough of the plumbing to hold an inquest on. They also destroyed the gas fixtures in the house and carried away two large copper boilers that were stored there for convenience sake.

A week or so later they broke into John J. Gray's cottage in Montreal street, Bennettville, and carried away pretty nearly everything that had one loose end. They didn't confine themselves to brass or copper, but loaded up with cutlery and anything else that they could lay their hands on.

A little later they visited a boat house owned by Mr. Nathaniel Parks, and in order to promote their brass stealing industry practically ruined a small steamer. They stripped the steamer of every particle of brass she carried and what they couldn't unscrew they hammered off. They also corralled a Johnston hand pump, brass oil cans and other fixings and articles that they thought they could dispose of.

MORE THAN $2000 DAMAGE.

The break at the old bobbin factory at the corner of Plain and Tannery streets was the worst of all. Parties from Boston and Lawrence as well as from this city had machinery stored there and some valuable pieces were ruined by the thiefs. What they couldn't unscrew they hammered off, and their work of destruction was carried to such an extent that machinery minus any brass was smashed and thrown about. The only way the police can account for the destruction of machinery that did not carry any brass is that the thieves were vandals of the worst description.

They had made several trips to the bobbin shop and their depredations there are estimated at upwards of $2000. Their work was not discovered for more than two weeks after they had made their last trip to the factory and when reported to the police the latter were absolutely without a clew.

TOOK A NEW PARTNER.

When Burnhart was sent to the reformatory, McCrann looked about him for a new partner and came in contact with McCarty. He found him to his liking and they started out to do business. That McCrann has effrontery to burn is evidenced by the fact that his first expedition with McCarty was return to places that he and Burnhart had visited. They went to the bobbin factory and to several vacant dwellings that had been visited before and if there was anything that Burnhart and McCrann forgot to take, McCarty and McCrann took it.

STRIPPED A STEAM ROLLER.

McCrann and McCarty, in the vernacular of their set, did a great job on a steam roller, the property of the Union Paving company. The roller was stored in Meadowcroft street, near Welch's mill, and the Union Paving Co. didn't know until notified by the police today that vandal hands had torn the brass trimmings from the roller. The thieves didn't leave as much as a brass screw behind.

POLICE HAVE WORKED HARD.

The larceny of brass and copper and the destruction of new plumbing have been thorns in the flesh of the police department for months. They succeeded in rounding up several small offenders, but they knew that the big jobs were being done by the same party or parties.

Since the report of the work of the vandals at the bobbin factory special attention has been given to the corralling of the men responsible for the work, but not until the arrest of the two young men this morning did the police know that the ring leader is now at the reformatory.

HOW THE THIEVES WERE CAUGHT.

The police had nothing more than descriptions of the thieves to work on. They had not been seen by officers, but suspicious characters in the vicinity of places where breaks had been made, were noticed by persons living in the vicinity and they were interviewed by the police. The latter had a better description of McCarty than they had of McCrann, and although they were sure McCarty was wanted, they allowed him to move about, unsuspicious of police espionage, until they found out who his chum was.

STARTED AT FOUR O'CLOCK.

The police started out at 4 o'clock this morning, after having satisfied themselves that McCarty and McCrann were the two men they wanted. At 4.15 they called upon McCrann at his home, 420 Central street, but the officers who visited McCarty's house were not so fortunate. His home is in Broadway and they were told that McCarty hadn't slept at home for several nights.

The house was searched and the officers were satisfied that the man they wanted was not there. Even though McCarty kept away from home it would seem that he was not fearing arrest, as a little later Inspector Maher spotted him sauntering leisurely along Broadway. The inspector caught up with him and placed him under arrest.

McCrann and McCarty will be arraigned in police court tomorrow and their case will be continued for a few days in order to allow the police time to bring Burnhart from the reformatory.

NOW FOR THE JUNK DEALERS.

The police are now actively engaged in ferreting out who it was that the brass thieves sold the stolen property to. They do not believe that they carried it out of Lowell to sell and several local junk dealers are under the ban. Judge Hadley has already declared that the junk dealer who bought stolen property was on a level with the thief.

THREE EDITIONS DAILY.

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, PROPRIETOR.

Member of the Associated Press.

Three Dollars per Year. Twenty-five Cents per Month

☞The Sun receives the full day service of The Associated Press, the greatest news-gathering organization in the world. The entire service received over a leased wire, by our own operator in our own office in The Sun building.

SWORN CIRCULATION FOR OCTOBER

The sworn daily average circulation of the Lowell Sun for the month of October, 1903, was 14,232

A gain of 725 copies per day over the average for the year of 1902.

Sworn to by Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman of The Sun, before me, November 2, 1903.

JOHN J. HOGAN, Notary Public.

☞An advertisement placed in The Sun is of more value to the advertiser than if it were inserted in all the other newspapers in Lowell, and the cost of inserting it in The Sun is about ONE THIRD the price charged by the other papers.

John Mitchell, the great strike leader, was a great object of attraction in Boston yesterday. Thousands tried in vain to see him.

It seems to be all off with Colombia. She wants the status quo ante restored. This is the time when the United States will not "ante."

The New Hampshire Dry Book is on a par with the Chinese exclusion act. It will soon be necessary to provide the photographs of the men on the dry list.

The pastor who went to police court for material for a sermon hit upon a rich mine of material. Almost every day furnishes material for many stirring sermons.

The poisoning mystery of the state almshouse is still unsolved, according to the statement of the investigating committee which, however, has not yet finished its work.

The opposition to Mayor Collins' renomination and re-election, whether conducted by democrats or republicans, is likely to fall flat this year. Collins will be his own successor. Fred S. Gore will run himself into a big political hole.

BATES SLATED FOR U. S SENATOR.

The friends of Gov. Bates are beginning to boom him for United States senator, to fill the first vacancy that occurs. Of course a man of Senator Hoar's age is liable to drop off at any time and if Roosevelt be re-elected they figure that Senator Lodge might enter the cabinet. In such an event John L. Bates will bob up as a candidate for the vacancy, although he has little to commend him as the successor of either senator. The legislature could easily select a better man from the congressmen, ex-congressmen and ex-governors; but it seems that Bates is ambitious and will fight openly for everything in sight. He is not the man to lose an opportunity of improving his graft.

THE OLNEY BOOM.

Practical Politics has this to say about the Olney boom for the presidency:

"The next development of national interest in Massachusetts will be the announcement of the movement to press Richcard Olney forward toward the democratic presidential nomination. It will not come right away, but it is down on the cards for due consideration later on. Perhaps it is not right to say that there will be a formal step of that sort, for a lot of the work is to be done quietly, and the real attitude of the state democracy is to be that of offering Olney in answer to the demand of other and more powerful states."

When the proper time comes then the boom for Mr. Olney will be launched and it is bound to make a deep impression all over the country. Compared with Olney such men as Mr. Hearst would have to hide their diminished heads.

THE PRESIDENT'S INDIGNITY TO MILES.

As the the presidential contest approaches, some of President Roosevelt's official acts are looming up against him as calculated to injure him with the voters. It will be acknowledged that Mr. Roosevelt was originally placed upon the republican ticket as candidate for vice president on the strength of his record as a rough rider in the Spanish-American war. He figured in a skirmish on San Juan hill and shot a Spaniard in the back. That was the extent of his victory and his experience in battle.

It would naturally seem unbecoming for a soldier of this stamp to belittle such a veteran warrior as General Miles, yet that is what President Roosevelt did on more than one occasion.

When an order was passed transfering General Corbin from the war department to the command of the Eastern division, President Roosevelt took occasion to pay him a glowing tribute. Still later Captain Bradford, chief of the bureau of construction in the navy, was transferred to sea duty and the president eulogized him in strong terms. But General Nelson A. Miles was retired by an order signed by one of his discredited subordinates and the president did not see fit to pay him a parting compliment. The fact was that Miles as a soldier after forty years of the most illustrious service was by far a greater and a more patriotic figure in the eyes of the nation than the president himself. Furthermore, Roosevelt feared Miles as a presidential possibility, and between the two there is little doubt that the nation would prefer Miles.

That explains why the greatest living soldier of the United States today was slighted by the president. But the people of this country understand the situation. The old soldiers understand it, and they will retaliate at the polls if Roosevelt be nominated for president on the republican ticket next year.

IMPORTANCE OF THE PANAMA COUP.

The eyes of the world are fixed upon Panama at the present time.

England and Germany had each a hankering for an interest in the Isthmian canal.

Each had hoped that by some species of logrolling, the United States could be induced to adopt the Nicaragnan route. Then either England or Germany could secure the Panama route and build a canal that would be superior to the Nicaragua.

In any case the United States by the present coup with Panama has carried out a masterly piece of diplomacy that will probably give us full and complete control of the waterway to connect the two great oceans.

The value of having absolute control of this connecting link in case of war is incalculable.

The United States can not only build the canal as it pleases, but can control and own it afterwards, something that means more to this country than the acquisition of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines all combined.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay have quietly effected in this matter a piece of diplomatic work of supreme importance to this nation.

It is not known just what was at the bottom of Colombia's refusal to do the square thing with the United States in regard to the canal treaty. There may have been something more than mere greed in her unreasonable demands of the United States.

Columbia has lodged her protest at Washington against the recognition of the de facto government in Panama but Colombia has spoken too late. She had her opportunity when the ratification of the canal treaty was required. She had little regard for our wishes then and we have less for hers now. Colombia has lost Panama for all time and lost the interest she might have had in the canal. It serves her right.

It is not understood that the United States has given any cause for a declaration of war by Colombia, but if under the circumstances Colombia does declare war, she must be met. We opine that a few gun boats and their marines will give Colombia all the fighting she needs if fighting she wants. She finds the bonus for the canal grant slipping from her grasp and it is not likely she will ever control it again.

SEEN AND HEARD

Capt. John E. Pillsbury, who has been selected to become chief of the bureau of navigation in the navy department, was born in Tewksbury.

The members of the Collinsville club will be the guests of M. A. Corcoran at his home on Butterfield street, Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th.

Charlie Seede, who has been appointed captain of High chool basketball team, is the son of the late John T. Seede, who was a star bowler in this city.

The work of the Lowell High school can be appreciated when it is realized that it has 900 pupils on its membership rolls. There are few educationay institutions which are called colleges that have near so many pupils.

The Granite Cutters' union of this city has donated a sum of money to help build a memorial monument to the late Rev. Frederick O. Macarthy of Rockland well known as an exponent of the socialist cause.

Our city lost three very companionable men in the deaths of Jason Fuller, Samuel Tice and William Costello. They were in different lines of business—the first was a grocer-farmer; the second, a mill overseer, the third, a painter. Yet all were genial in their dealings with fellowmen, and were generally liked. A companionable man, who appreciates thrift and responsibility, is a distinct gain to a community.

"I want to go to Stone street," said a colored man to Conductor Frazer on a Broadway car, recently.

"I don't know of any such street in Lowell," replied the conductor.

"Do you know where Hanson's stables are?" asked the colored man.

And then the conductor knew that his passenger wanted Rock street.

The late Daniel Gage probably purchased and cut down more wood lots than any other person or firm in Lowell. The work of his axes and sawmills is seen in almost every direction as you travel from Lowell for miles and miles countryward. His heirs are continuing the work.

The committee appointed at the mass meeting held in the Linden district of Malden for the purpose of securing better electric car accommodations have waited upon President Sullivan of the Boston & Northern and President Bancroft of the Boston Elevated. Both have promised to bring the matter before their directors, and the committee feels confident of getting better service.

RAIN AND SLEET COMING.

Rev. R. L. Hicks of St. Louis, who has made some remarkably accurate weather predictions, says for November weather:

"About the 10th it will turn much warmer, winds will turn southerly, the barometer will begin falling in the west, cloudiness will rapidly ensue, and rain will follow. The areas of rain will pass eastwardly over the country from about Thursday, the 12th, to Sunday, the 15th, being followed up closely on the west and north by a temperature that will turn the rain to sleet; a blizzard is not at all improbable at this time."

Of course, the full force of this storm may not strike Lowell, but we are likely to get some if it. Watch and see.

TOMMY BYRNE FOR MAYOR.

"A good man, like a barrel hoop, crushed to earth, will rise again," said Tommy Byrne, the mill boy orator, and the defeated but unquelchable candidate for representative, as he blew into The Sun office yesterday.

Tommy was loaded with nomination papers and he allowed that he could get three hundred autographs in as many minutes.

"I was a small toad in the representative puddle," said Tommy, as he picked a hair of suspicious length from the right sleeve of his a la Duke of Redbank coat, "but I want to assure you, my prince of good fellows, that I will be a —— of big toad in the mayoralty puddle."

"Then your defeat in the representative contest hasn't unnerved you for the battle," suggested the reporter.

"Not a bit," replied Tommy. "I meet defeat in business life every day and I want to assure my scrificated and carbonated gentlemen who are running for the mayor's chair that I will march with them hand in hand through the golden harvest field, hand in hand by the shining wheels and thundering looms, hand in hand by the monuments that mark the resting place of dead heroes, hand in hand—"

"What is your platform?" interrupted the reporter.

"Reformed economical republican protection for the benefit of all concerned," replied the versatile megaphonists. "I stand for government for all the people. I confess that I am an untutored politician and it may be that I am infatuated with the exuberance of my own verbosity but I do lay claim to the title of orator.

"This will be the fight of my life. I understand that a candidate for councilmanic honors from ward 5 will advocate overhead sewers and underground electric lights. I want to warn that man that I will veto every order of his that I can lay hands on. Such an arrangement might work all right down south, but it won't go here, not if Tommy Byrne is mayor. I have engaged Huntington hall for three nights, Nov. 16, 23 and 30. I will give a series of lectures on economic constitutionality and incidentally suggest a remedy for the abolition of graft.

"Mine will be a cold water candidacy, no beer or hard liquors allowed. I will accept all invitations to speak before clubs, societies or select circles on whatever subjects that such bodies shall see fit to assign. If that isn't strong enough for the people I'll come around tomorrow and make it a good deal stronger.

"Thanking you for your indefinite kindness, I remain, Lowell's public servant,

"THOMAS H. BYRNE."

POLO NEWS

Frank Wodtke, the Flying Dutchman, who played with Chelsea last season, is going to play rush on the Anderson team this season. He will also captain the brewery team, and his side partner will be little Jack Mercer, of the old Clinton team. Unless Mercer allows Wodtke to be the whole thing there will be trouble in Anderson.

The Lawrence Telegram says that Fred Jean's contract calls for $85 per week. By the way that Fox spoke when he was in this city we were given to understand that the big fellow would draw over a hundred every week.

Phil Jason and "Sunny Jim" Daly are among those who will be eastern stars this season. Phil writes that he is doing well and feeling fine, and says that he will stay where he is. "Sunny Jim" probably remembers his former trip to the west, as he recently refused the offer from the Danville management and says he will stay "at home." Manager Poor is greatly disappointed. —Muncie Star.

Already the Lawrence team of the American polo league has started crowing. Just because the down-river team has won six out of nine games the Lawrence Sun says: "Lawrence will be the top notcher all right this year." That same old cry has been heard year in and year out. The other teams in the league allow Lawrence to be jollied for a few weeks and then step in and take the cream.

A meeting of the managers of the American polo league will be held in Boston Friday.

A few remarks in regard to "roughing it up" come from the Richmond Item. Says the Item: "Who is a rougher player than 'Wild Charlie' Farrell or Tommy Holderness? Holderness has hurt more men than any other player in the league." This observation is rather uncalled for, and from Richmond more especially. Secretary Durbin says that the referees will be instructed to do everything in their power to stop such tactics, and that players will be fined for fouls instead of the management, as was the case last year.

John Roberts and Peggy White, of the Elwood team, arrived in Elwood Thursday and began practice at once. Reports say that "Big John" rushes just as swiftly and Peggy slops them just as cleverly as of yore.

Paddy Moran, halfback of the Danville team, ventures an opinion in regard to the Western league pennant possibilities. Paddy says that Muncie, Marion and Richmond will be the first three teams at the last of the season and that Anderson won't be anywhere near one, two, three.

It is said that 500 advance tickets have been sold in Anderson for the first game of the season between that city and Marion.

FLYNN'S MARKET 137 GORHAM ST.

COTTON MARKET

Strong Opening Led to Heavy Realizing

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—There was a continuation yesterday of the great activity and excitement recently noticed in the cotton market. Influenced at first by the strength at Liverpool, less favorable weather forecasts and reports that New England spinners were buying more heavily, the market opened strong 7 to 16 points higher and on the call advanced another few points on the active months. This gain added to the already sensational advances of the past few days, led to heavy realizing. The receipts also promised to prove very heavy and in spite of a continued demand from outsiders and shorts the market was depressed in the first ten or fifteen minutes to 10.92 for January, 10.97 for March and to 11.00 for May. The market continued active at the lower level and ruled about steady on further coverings and demand from various sources including purchases by brokers representing New England interests.

THE McKAY WILL

LIBERAL PROVISION MADE FOR HARVARD UNIVERSITY.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—Provisions for life annuities to relatives and friends, amounting to nearly $55,000 a year and for a liberal trust fund in favor of Harvard university, are made by the will of the late Gordon McKay, which was filed for probate here yesterday.

The annuities range from $11,500 given to Mrs. Marian VonBruning, to $100 each given to Victor McKay and to Robert McKay.

The Harvard university trust fund is to result from the accumulation year by year of 80 per cent. of the net annual income from the estate after the annuities are paid, said income to be held and invested by trustees named by Mr. McKay until one million dollars is reached, at which time the full amount is to be paid to the president and fellows of Harvard university to be used for the promotion of applied science.

FOOD POISONS

HOW THEY OPERATE ON DIFFERENT PERSONS.

Dr. Wiley, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, says in speaking of the experiments made in Washington last winter, that the doses of borax given to the 12 young men acting as poison testers were increased in each case until the man was made ill. This illness was caused in some cases by the administration of small doses. In other cases nearly three times the amount of borax was necessary bfor the subject showed signs of being poisoned. That is, a young man in apparently the best of health could be poisoned by preservatives that another man withstood until the quantity taken was greatly increased. Our chemically preserved foods quickly injure some who may be in a state of excellent health, and again they may be slow in having a bad effect. They are sure to have this in time, however, but it is plain that the limit of toleration greatly varies. It is the same thing in the case of the alcohol drinker. What will send one man under the table, it is well known may make another simply merry, and leave a third totally unaffected in deportment. There is a very old saying, "what is food to one may be poison to another," and the Washington experiments demonstrate this truth.

Dr. Wiley explains his work as having for its purpose simply the enforcement of the laws. Goods charged with what are virulent poisons for some people should be marked as containing the dangerous element, if it is decided to leave the consumer to decide whether to risk using it in his family or not. What a man pays for he should get in every case. Legislation, Dr. Wiley says should be brought into harmony in matters relating to preservatives and colors, so that laws may be uniform, free from any tendency to persecute or annoy, and supported by an enlightened public opinion, both on the part of the producer and the consumer.

FOR THE LAZY

AND THE LISTLESS—HOW TO BE PUNCTUAL.

Punctuality is a virtue that needs to be fixed as a habit. Its possession is one of the chief elements of success. Good business men learn this as one of their first practical lessons, and they not only adhere closely to its practice in the conduct of their business, but demand this same qualification of their employes. They soon learn that neglect to meet engagements promptly occasions inconvenience to the parties interested, and that failure to attend to business affairs at the proper time is very detrimental to one's business interests; that lack of promptness causes delay, and delay is attended by loss.

It is said that Webster was never late at a recitation at school or in college, and he was just as punctual in after life in court, in congress and in society. Horace Greeley, although one of the busiest of men, managed to be on time for every appointment. The habit of punctuality and promptness is characteristic of men of affairs.

Tardiness in business, in school, in fact, anywhere, is loss of time, and time is valuable. The manager of a mill employing a large number of persons said: "It is very important that we have a clock in the office that keeps perfect time, because the loss of a few minutes by all of these employes means the loss of many dollars to the company." A certain factory locks its doors at 7 o'clock each morning and the factory hands who arrive after that time are kept out until nine, and are docked one-fourth of a day's wages. At a certain coal mine it is a rule to permit no miner to descend the shaft to work after seven in the morning. If any later they must remain out until after noon, thus losing the wages for one-half day's work.

Railroad and street car men are required to be at their posts of duty promptly on time. Even slight failure in this respect is considered cause for dismissal. The managers of factories, mills, shops and all business concerns must exact punctuality of their employes in order to secure efficient service, and to conduct their business successfully.—School News.

HILL ORDINANCE

Adopted by Committee on Explosives

CASEY'S DRAFT WAS TURNED DOWN

Committee Held an Interesting Meeting

The Hill-Casey explosive ordinance contest was resumed before the special committee on explosives at City hall, last evening, and Mr. Casey was "bumped" real hard by his brother members.

Some time ago Messrs. Hill and Casey were appointed a sub-committee to draft an ordinance and while the other members of the committee were patiently waiting for them to report, a morning paper printed a lengthy document, purporting to be an ordinance prepared by Alderman Casey, which would be presented at the meeting of the committee.

Already there had been considerable talk of one-man power on the committee and the members were none too kindly disposed towards each other when this publication appeared and it made the relations somewhat more strained. When the date of the next meeting arrived, Aldermen Casey and Hill were the only members present and each had his own ordinance to present. After two unsuccessful attempts to get a quorum, the committee finally got together last evening and immediately one of the members called for the reading of both ordinances.

Alderman Hill spoke briefly for his own, which was considerably shorter than its rival. He said it followed the statutes pretty closely, was as brief as possible and in his opinion covered the law.

Councilman Hard said he favored Mr. Hill's ordinance with two amendments. He would have dynamite kept entirely outside of the city limits and have the venders of explosives licensed. He suggested that the penalty be $50 instead of $20 and that the chief of the fire department inspect all places 12 times a year to see if the laws were enforced.

Mr. Casey couldn't see any merit in the Hill production, claiming that it did not carry out the recommendations of the expert. He thought his own covered the matter and worked no hardship upon any corporation doing business.

Mr. Hill asked wherein his ordinance was lacking and Mr. Casey after criticizing it said:

"It's too long winded," promptly replied Mr. Hill. "It contains sections that are unnecessary and don't mean anything."

The committee then took up Mr. Hill's ordinance by sections and after adopting the amendments offered by Mr. Hard, it was voted to recommend the Hill ordinance at tonight's meeting of the common council.

Mr. Casey was much put out at this action and said he would present his ordinance as a minority report this evening in the board of aldermen.

HOWELL SENT TO PRISON.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 10—Richard L. Howell of Millville, who was arrested in New York recently on the charge of embezzling $11,000 of the funds of the Millville N. J. Loan Association, was yesterday sentenced to four years imprisonment by Judge Trenchton.

GOVERNOR BATES

Issues His Thanksgiving Proclamation

Gov. Bates yesterday issued the following proclamation:

By His Excellency John L. Bates, Governor.
Proclamation for a Day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise.

In accordance with ancient custom, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, I appoint Thursday, the 26th day of November, as a day of Thanksgiving and praise unto Almighty God for his manifold mercies and blessings to this commonwealth and its people.

Abundant has been the harvest of the farm and the harvest of the mill. Peace and prosperity have made their home with us. Our people are provided with the necessities of life, and to the necessities have been added the comforts. Happy because of these conditions, our citizens are yet more fortunate in the spirit inherited from the fathers that causes them to love morality, to foster education, to practice virtue, and to help their fellow-men. Therefore, may all the people, in church and at home, everywhere within our borders, join on the day thus set apart in prayer and praise to God for the heritage of the past, the blessings of the present and the hopes of the future.

"That our sons may be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as corner-stones, polished after the similitude of a palace;

"That our garners may be full, affording all manner of store;

"That our oxen may be strong to labor; that there may be no breaking in nor going out; that there may be no complaining in our streets. Happy is that people, that is in such a case; yea, happy is that people whose God is the Lord."

Given at the council chamber, in Boston, this 4th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1903 and of the independence of the United States the 128th.

JOHN L. BATES.

WILLIAM L. OLIN, Secretary.

AMATEUR SLEUTH

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Some time ago a man who gives his name as Paul Merkler of New York reported to the police that on Oct. 27 he met a colored woman on Ferdinand street and talked with her some time. Soon after the woman left he discovered that he had been robbed of $280, and he became satisfied that he had been the victim of the cold hands game. Merkler said he would know the girl if he met her again and since that time he has been playing the role of detective. Last evening he met Patrolman Underhill of station 5 on Tremont street and pointed out a woman he was following as the one he was looking for. Merkler and the policeman followed her to 20 Holyoke street and as she was about to enter the house the policeman stopped her. She said her name was Jennie Williams, 28 years old, and that she lived in that house. Merkler was positive in his identification and the woman was turned over to the 4th police, who locked her up on the charge of the larceny of the $280 from Merkler. The 5th police say that they have had several complaints from men that they had been robbed by a woman at the Holyoke street house and they think they may make several cases against the woman if the men who lost their money show up.

ISSUE REFUSED

Boston & Northern Petition Turned Down

FINDING MADE PUBLIC BY RAILROAD COMMISSION

Reasons for Dismissing the Petition

The board of railroad commissioners yesterday dismissed the petition of the Boston & Northern street railway company for the approval of an issue of stock to carry into effect and complete an issue originally undertaken by the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill, a leased line. The finding of the board is as follows: "The Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill street railway company was authorized under chapter 93, acts of 1893, to increase its capital stock by the amount of $1,500,000. Pursuant to this authority it issued stock to the amount of $1,000,000. April 24, 1893, the company voted to further increase its capital stock by the amount of $500,000. One thousand shares of the stock thus authorized were duly subscribed, paid for and issued. The remainder 4000 shares were subscribed and an assessment of $5.00 was paid upon each share. Subsequently the Lynn & Boston, now the petitioning Boston & Northern company, bought the property and assumed the obligations of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill, all the outstanding shares of stock of the last named company being surrendered and cancelled. The Boston & Northern company has recently levied an assessment of $95 upon each of the 4000 shares above named and now asks the board to approve the issue of these shares. It contends that, having acquired all rights and assumed all the obligations of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill company, it is bound to carry out the agreement with the subscribers for the above-mentioned stock, and that in doing this it may issue the stock at par, being exempted from the provisions of section 30, chapter 109, revised laws, by virtue of the special act above named.

"We cannot concede the correctness of this contention. The agreement of the subscribers was with a company now incapable of issuing stock as the result of an arrangement carried out with their knowledge and consent. Notwithstanding the vote of the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill stockholders to issue these shares, the subscription for them and the payment of a first assessment levied upon them, the shares were in fact never issued. We cannot now consent to an issue of the Boston & Northern stock in place of them upon the theory that the petitioner can carry into effect and complete the issue originally undertaken by the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill company. The petition is therefore dismissed.

FIERCE GALE

SEVERAL VESSELS WERE DRIVEN ASHORE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 10—A fierce gale has been raging along the entire seaboard for the past two days and several vessels have been driven ashore. The American schooner Edith Emery has been lost at Port Au Basque and the Canadian schooner Florence is ashore at Fortre.

The schooners Terefoil Janet, Arthuse and a number of other New Foundland vessels also have been wrecked.

Two boats were driven to sea from Lawaline, a tug was sent after them, but it is feared that their occupants perished.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BARRINGTON, R. I., Nov. 10—Three Italian boys each about 16 years old, were arrested here yesterday charged with putting obstructions on the railroad track. They are Frank Martinellis John De Resa and Pasco Took. It is claimed that the boys placed blocks of wood on the track on the Providence and Werren branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in this town. The blocks were of sufficient size to give the cars severe jolts, but not large enough to derail the train. They will be arraigned before Judge Bosworth in the district court of Bristol.

SENATOR MORGAN

Receives Entreating Letter From New Envoy

By Associated Press to The Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—M. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the envoy of the new republic of Panama, yesterday sent the following letter to Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama:

"Republic of Panama, Nov. 9, 1903.

Mr. Senator:—As a champion of the completion of an inter-oceanic canal across the American isthmus, as the minister plenipotentiary of the new republic, I feel myself bound to express to you my admiration for the display of indomitable will you have shown in the service of this noble conception.

"The fact that we have fought for a common ideal is not lessened by the minor fact of having defended different solutions.

"If I have not been on the same side with you, allow me, Mr. Senator, to say that it is simply because I entered into the field of active life about one-third of a century after you.

"Gradual and scarcely noticeable changes in the technical necessities of the waterway are accountable for the differences of opinion between the champion of the solution of the middle of the nineteenth century and the champions of the solution of the beginning of the twentieth.

"Now, Mr. Senator, I say to you and most respectfully entreat you to take the high place which is due to the honored veteran of the noblest fight that ever took place for the progress of the world and the welfare of mankind.

"I beg you not to throw away the title which the thankfulness of humanity owes to you, that of the father of the isthmian canal. I beg you to take the laurels of the victory which is yours by accepting with a generous and Christian mind what the changes in the necessities of ocean traffic has made inevitable. You will well crown a noble life inspired by the greatest, the most patriotic, the most disinterested aim.

"I am, Mr. Senator, most respectfully yours,

"(Signed) P. BUNAU-VARILLA."

Senator Morgan yesterday admitted that he had received a letter from M. Bunau-Varilla, and reference to the communication said: "I have not discussed the letter in public and the fact that it was written came from another source."

SINGLE TAXERS

HAD A LIVELY TIME AT THEIR MEETING.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—"I have been patient under abuse and insult and I will not stand it any longer. Unless this resolution is passed you will have to elect another president."

This declaration of President C. B. Fillebrown of the Massachusetts Single Tax League at the annual meeting of the league in Chipman hall, Tremont Temple, last night precipitated a heated discussion.

The debate was precipitated when Treasurer Willis introduced a resolution, the last clause of which read:

"It is further affirmed that any contention or vote as to the right or wrong of private property in land is foreign to the purpose of the league."

Judge Pike moved to lay the resolution on the table.

President Fillebrown then said this resolution did not commit the league to any action upon this question, but set it right on action taken a year ago.

A warm discussion followed in which different speakers said President Fillebrown's action was outrageous.

The resolution was finally passed in an amended form by a vote of 35 to 7.

CASE SETTLED

YOUNG CORBETT AND PIERCE AGREE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10 The case in which William Rothwell, known as "Young Corbett" in pugilistic circles, charged William A. Pierce of Boston, editor of the Boston Police News, with libel, was disposed of yesterday afternoon by Judge Ely of the municipal court, who not pressed the case at the request of the district attorney. The principals to the suit reached an agreement outside of court. The case attracted the attention of the local sporting world, and a number of Boston sports were on hand to watch the proceedings. Attorney M. J. Creed appeared for Pierce, while Rothwell's interests were looked after by Attorney Carsturphen of New York. Harry Pollock, Young Corbett's manager, who accompanied his protege here from New York, was subjected to the annoyance of an arrest on mesne process at the instance of parties said to belong in New York, alleging debt. The arrest was made by Constable McDonald. Pollock quickly gave bail for his appearance in court here when wanted

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10—William J. Bryan last night addressed several hundred boys, members of the Philo S. Bennett club of the People's church. He will appear in the probate court today, when his counsel and the attorney for Mrs. Philo S. Bennett will decide upon the decree of the probate court in accepting the will of Mr. Bennett for probate. Both sides will then take an appeal to the superior court. Mr. Bryan will appeal because Judge Cleave and of the probate court would not accept as part of the will the sealed letter which instructed Mrs. Bennett to give Mr. Bryan $50,000, and Mr. Stoddard will appeal because Mr. Bryan has been named as executor.

FORGE VILLAGE

The musicale given by the Girls' Guild was very entertaining and a good test of the new piano. A great many of the village people attended and were well pleased.

Mr. Higgly from Groton school has promised to give another musical treat next Wednesday evening.

The Groton school string band will give a concert in the new parish house on November 18th for the benefit of the mission.

St. Katharine's church will hold a fair on the 19th.

The store of Wilbur E. Parsons was broken into on Saturday night. Fruit, candy and some hosiery were taken. It is to be hoped that the thieves will be caught, as the experience in the village has been very unpleasant.

LEIGHTON IS DEAD

HE WAS ONE OF "BUNCOE" REED'S VICTIMS.

By Associated Press to The Sun

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 10.—Buncoed eight years ago out of $3500, a blow to his pride from which he never recovered, John F. Leighton died yesterday of softening of the brain which followed the discovery of the fraud of which he was the victim. Leighton was 71 years of age, a native of this place and long known as one of the county's most prosperous farmers. At Worcester in 1897 he claimed to identify John Reed as the man who defrauded him.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY

PAWTUCKET MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 10—James Muldoon, a young man employed in the mills at Valley Falls, was held up and robbed by two men at the Miller street bridge here, less than four minutes' walk from Main street square, at 9 o'clock last night. The men secured $9.00.

Muldoon reported to the police that his assailants were large men, one of whom seized him by the throat and arms, while the other went through his pockets. His description of the men was meagre.

FOUGHT A DRAW.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BROCKTON, Nov. 10.—A twelve-round boxing contest between Mattie Baldwin and Jimmy Hanlon, both of Boston, held here last night, was declared a draw. Billy Cass and Pete Scanlon were scheduled to go six rounds, but Cass was given the decision in the second round. Jim Barrow, of Whiteman, got the decision in a six round bout with Fred Dannch of Hanover.

HAND CAUGHT

IN GEAR OF GRINDING MACHINE.

While operating a grinding machine at the Kitson Machine shop yesterday afternoon, W. N. Hill, an employe of that company, who lives at 264 Appleton street, met with a painful accident, which will disable his right hand for many weeks.

Mr. Hill accidentally got his right hand caught in one of the wheels of the machine and he sustained an ugly gash about four inches in length across the palm of his hand just at the base of the thumb.

At the Emergency hospital, where he was taken to have the wound cared for, it was found that the ligaments of the thumb had been severed and in order to avoid amputation of the thumb it was necessary for the doctors to place the victim under chloroform and sew the cords together.

It will be several weeks before the hand will be in condition to warrant Mr. Hill's return to work.

ODOPTED BY THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION.

The executive committee of the Christian Endeavor Union of Lowell and vicinity, was held last evening at the parlors of the Young Men's Christian association, the president, Rev. Robert F. True, in the chair.

The attendance was large and the meeting enthusiastic. The most important item of business was the adoption of a practically new constitution to meet the present needs of the work, and which means an advance step in the progress of the local union. Another item of interest was the projection of a public rally to be held Wednesday evening of the United Society of the World.

All indications point to a renewal interest in this work, which will doubtless place the union among the foremost of the state.

NASHUA DISBANDS

THE MEMBERS OF TEAM WERE DISCOURAGED.

By Associated Press to The Sun

NASHUA, Nov. 10.—Manager Frank Montgomery and Capt. Charles Cone of the High school foot ball team resigned and the team disbanded by the consent of all its members at a meeting held yesterday noon. What future action will be taken is unknown at present. The cause of the breaking up of the eleven is trouble over two members who played at Keene last Friday when they were behind in their studies.

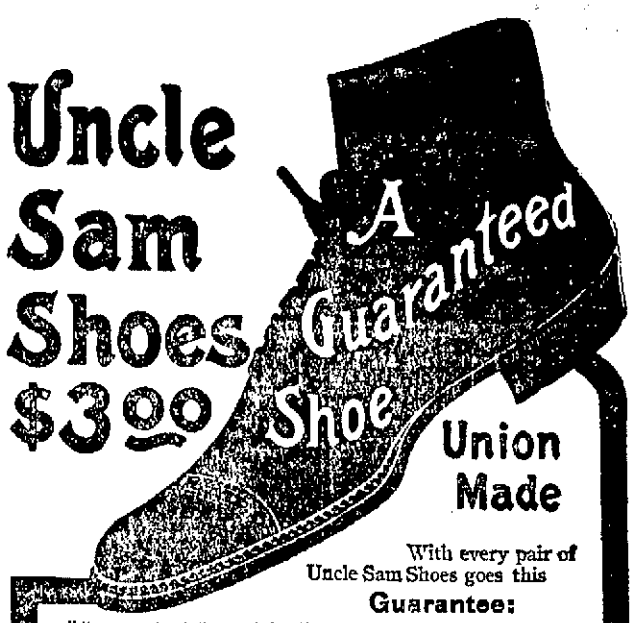

Principal L. S. Hastings when asked for a statement said: "I have been informed that the team has disbanded. This the members did of their own accord. I simply made inquiries regarding the men who played at Keene, but asked for no resignation. That is all I care to say."

The manager and captain say they believed their resignations were desired and took time by the forelock. The members were also discouraged, they say by lack of financial support. What effect the action will have on the triangular league remains to be seen.

LYDIA YEAMANS-TITUS AT THE CASTO.

For refined humor of the highest type, for genuine, pure, clean fun and clear artistic merit the offering of Lydia Yeamans-Titus at the Casto this week, holds first place. This is high praise, but it is well deserved. Madame Titus, who has a fine soprano voice, which would be worth listening to in ballads, quite apart from her impersonations, mimics the various types of ballad singers, etc., one comes across in the drawing room and on the concert platform. All are wonderfully clever, but the imitation of a child singing a song for the first time is assuredly remarkably so. Madame Titus does not caricature a child, she becomes one for the time being, and her infantile enunciation and her babyish style are exceedingly well thought out; there is not a feature that is overdone, so the resemblance is far greater than is usual in such imitations. The Musical Goolmans scored an immense hit in their refined musical act, which is very good. Hubert Deveau was a distinct success in "Studies in High Art." As an artist he stands in the front rank and the comedy work is exceedingly clever. The closing picture, "After the Snow Storm," is novel. Mr. Deveau draws a picture of a house nearly hidden in snow, the trees snow-laden, and in all forming a pretty picture. Then the sleigh loaded with merry people is seen to drive by. It is a creation which must be seen to be appreciated. The comedy sketch of Emerson and Omega entitled "In-de-bag-is-it" is a funny concoction of merriment, and is a big laughing success. John E. Drew, the character commedian and dancer, and Gaines and Hazard in coon-town talk and melodies were favorites and scored. Reserved seats will be in demand this week and they can be obtained by calling telephone 815-8.

WHARF ON FIRE

Portland Had a $60,000 Blaze

By Associated Press to The Sun

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 10.—One of the largest wharf fires which Portland has seen in years, broke out at 10.30 last night in the storehouses of J. H. Hamlin & Sons, on Brown's wharf. The firm of Hamlin & Sons is among the largest American exporters on shook and similar stock to the West Indies and the storehouses were filled with shook and finished hogsheads and barrels awaiting shipment. The buildings were two stories in height and were practically destroyed.

An authoritative estimate of the loss was not obtainable last night as J. C. Hamlin, the resident member of the firm, is at Little Rock, Ark., but it is estimated that the value of the goods in the sheds exceeded $50,000. The firm carried heavy insurance. The buildings were the property of the J. R. Brown estate, which owns the wharf. They were worth $10,000 and the damage to wharf, the extent of which cannot be ascertained until the fire burns out will be in addition to the loss on the buildings. The Brown estate is well insured.

ORDER RECALLED

WESTERN UNION ASKED TO SHOW CAUSE.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—The board of aldermen yesterday called back from Mayor Collins the order passed two weeks ago directing the Western Union Telegraph company to remove all of its poles in the city limits of Boston within a period of 60 days from the passage of the order. This action was taken at the request of Alderman Martin Lomasney, who introduced the order into the board.

After the order had been called back the board voted in favor of new order calling on the Western Union company to show at a hearing to be held Nov. 30, why the poles should not be removed. The messenger situation remains unchanged.

GRANITEVILLE

The Pepperell Court of the M. C. O. of F., held a box party last Saturday evening, which was well attended. Joseph Wall acted in the capacity of auctioneer for the evening, in a very fine manner. The highest contribution was $1.55 and the lowest was 35 cents. A neat sum was realized. Perry's orchestra furnished music for dancing.

Sparks from an engine were responsible for a slight blaze on the property between the Acton line and the town farm Sunday. Damage slight.

The local football club will have as its opponents next Saturday the Acton association, and a hot game is expected. On the last occasion of the Acton boys' visit a tie score was the result of a well-played contest. The local team is looking for games and would like to hear from the Beachmonts or some other organization. Address James R. Healey or Mr. Putney, Graniteville.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

All this week special services are to be held at the Second Congregational church. The services started Sunday morning, and the sermon was preached by Rev. Robert W. Dunbar. His text was, "Where does religion come in?" In the evening Rev. Robert W. Dunbar spoke again, and his text was, "How I have received."

In the death of Mr. Luther Haines Sargent, which occurred Saturday, this village has lost one of its most highly esteemed citizens. He had resided here for about 40 years, and there has been quite a change in this village, since he first came here to reside. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home in Main street.

The sale of the Snyder property yesterday afternoon brought out quite an attendance of the prominent real estate men of the city. The property is situated at the corner of Branch and Queen streets, and consists of three stores and six tenements. The bidding started at $8,000, and was purchased by Henry A. Williams for $10,300 plus unpaid taxes, making a total price of about $10,700. The property is assessed for about $9,000.

INVALID SAVED

AT A FIRE AT BEACHMONT LAST NIGHT.

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10—A lively blaze, which broke out in an unoccupied cottage on the Banks property on Endicott avenue, near the corner of Winthrop avenue, at Beachmont, shortly before 11 o'clock last night, destroyed four summer cottages and created considerable excitement. The loss is estimated at $6000.

Only one of the cottages destroyed was occupied. In that Mrs. Hoyt, mother of Patrolman Hoyt of the Chelsea police, a confirmed invalid, was alone with a servant, and she barely escaped with her life. All of the household goods were destroyed.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Frank Eaton, who lives nearby, and who called her husband. He ran to fire box 45 to pull an alarm, but the box would not work, and it was necessary to send in a call by telephone. Assisted by William Clark and Robert Wilson, Mr. Eaton hastened to the assistance of Mrs. Hoyt, who was carried to safety.

She was very much excited and was with difficulty restrained from attempting to return to the building to save her money and valuables at a time when to enter would almost certainly have been fatal.

AGAINST HEINZE

SUPREME COURT WILL NOT ISSUE WRIT OF CONTROL.

By Associated Press to The Sun

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 10.—The supreme court yesterday denied the writ of supervisory control asked for by F. A. Heinze to rescind the order granted by Judge Clancy and decided that the Boston and Montana company should be entitled to permission to survey the Minnie Healy mine through the Piccalo and Gambetta workings. The Boston and Montana company under the term of the order is permitted to make weekly inspections until the appeal in the case has been decided.

GREAT SUCCESS

Bazaar at Primitive Methodist Church

NETTED A VERY HANDSOME SUM

Money Will Go to Building Fund

The results of the four days' bazar at the Primitive Methodist church proved more encouraging than the most enthusiastic of the bazar conductors expected, the total profit being $1177.89.

The following figures tell the story:

Sunday school department	$341.28
Ladies' Aid	339.44
Men's League	379.90
Wesley League	168.93
Miscellaneous	342.35
Total	$1371.70
Total expense	193.81
	$1177.89

No lotteries or any chance games entered into the bazar and the people of the Primitive Methodist church feel as if they had accomplished a great deal. The result will be devoted to the building fund.

It will be remembered that the church fresh from the hands of the carpenters and plasterers, was badly damaged by the magazine explosion at South Lowell, and the misfortune of the little band of workers, who had striven so hard to establish a comfortable house of worship, appealed to the public in general, with the result that the substantial sum, herein mentioned, was realized.

Rev. Mr. Matthews, who has been an untiring worker in the establishment of the church and the development of his parish, and his willing and ambitious parishioners ae to be congratulated upon the splendid success obtained by the bazar.

LOWELL MAN

CRIMINAL'S MEASUREMENT APPLIED TO HIM AT SALEM.

For the first time in the history of the Salem police, the Bertillion system of measurements was used at the police station, Friday forenoon, says the Salem News.

Michael F. Casey, alias Frank B. Welch, of Lowell, the pickpocket, arrested Saturday night, and held for the grand jury at District court yesterday, was the one measured.

Deputy Inspector Gustavson of the Bureau of Identification, department of police, in Boston, came to Salem specially to do the measuring, bringing with him the necessary implements. To the layman the process is an interesting one, although to the one being measured, it is probably not so fascinating.

The Bertillion system is the accepted system of measurement of criminals all over the country and has been in vogue in this city under the supervision of Inspector David Donaldson, for about two years.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS

STIRRED UP OVER BILLS THAT ARE UNPAID.

A well attended meeting of the Spanish War Veterans was held last evening at Memorial hall. Capt. Dodge was delegated to investigate the cause for the non-payment of the Memorial Day bills which the command contracted and for which the city appropriated the sum of $160. A special meeting will be held next Monday evening to hear Capt. Dodge's report.

At the meeting three propositions were received and two recruits were mustered in, one of the men being a member of the Rough Riders under President Roosevelt.

The command will hold a smoke talk two weeks from last night to which all Spanish War Veterans of the city are cordially invited.

PEDDLER'S PARADE.

The Independent Order of Odd Ladies held a Peddler's Parade at Post 120, G. A. R., hall in Merrimack street last night. During the early part of the evening a business meeting was held and it was voted to hold a bean supper on the 23d of this month.

After the adjournment of the meeting the parade was held and it proved to be a very enjoyable affair. A long line of young people entered the hall dressed in quaint costumes and after a short drill passed about selling their wares. A good sum was realized by the peddlers.

Songs were rendered by Miss Belle Lavigne and piano duets were given by Miss Lillian Goodwin and Miss Elsie Grant.

HAPPY DAYS

When Friends Say "How Well You Look."

We can bring those days by a little care in the selection of food just as this young man did.

"I had suffered from dyspepsia for three years and last summer was so bad I was unable to attend school," he says. "I was very thin and my appetite at times was poor while again it was craving. I was dizzy and my food always used to ferment instead of digesting. Crossness, unhappiness and nervousness were very prominent symptoms.

"Late in the summer I went to visit a sister and there I saw and used Grape-Nuts. I had heard of this famous food before but never was interested enough to try it, for I never knew how really good it was. But when I came home we used Grape-Nuts in our household all the time and I soon began to note changes in my health. I improved steadily and am now strong and well in every way and am back at school able to get my lessons with ease and pleasure and can remember them, too, for the improvement in my mental power is very noticeable and I get good marks in my studies which always seemed difficult before.

"I have no more of the bad symptoms given above, but feel fine and strong and happy and it is mighty pleasant to hear my friends say: 'How well you look.'"

IN SECOND PLACE

Lowell Pulled Out of Tight Place in Haverhill

Haverhill came near turning the trick on Manager Gray's team in Haverhill last night.

Lowell won after four minutes extra play, but it was a game that the Gray boys will remember for some time. In fact it was just such a game as one will see only once in a season. The score was 23 to 21. At the close of the third period it was an even thing at 21 each, but four minutes after the extra period opened Skip Fields found the basket on a great throw from near the centre of the rink, and the Lowell boys trotted off the floor a happy lot.

Lowell started off like an easy winner and the six hundred spectators began to think that it was all off with Haverhill.

The first period ended with the score 13 to 2 in Lowell's favor, but in the second period Tighe, Lew, Dionne and Ellsworth got in their fine work and at the close the figures were 16 to 13 in Lowell's favor. Tighe started the Haverhill work in the third and with one minute to play the score was 21 to 20 in Haverhill's favor. Just then Lew committed a foul and it being the third chalked up against Haverhill it meant a point for Lowell and the score was tied. Then the teams started in again after a brief rest and after four minutes of play Fields threw his basket. The Lowell team showed up in great form and Abbott continued his great defensive work, that has made him a favorite in Lowell.

Fields never played better in his career. Haverhill will come to Lowell tonight and if the game is anything like last night's it will be worth going miles to see. The lineup and summary:

MANCHESTER 30, NASHUA 17.

By Associated Press to The Sun

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 10.—The Manchester basketball team continued on its triumphant career by polishing off the Nashua club in approved fashion here last night. The visitors were never in the running, but they showed praiseworthy gameness and made several brilliant plays. Against the clock-work methods of Smith's men, however, their opportunities for baskets were scarce. The score was 30 to 17.

Devlin played a star game for Manchester, caging six baskets. Pat Doyle and McFarland did the honors for Nashua on the offensive line, and Kellher did good work in the back field. Nashua tried out Crogen, a Connecticut league recruit, who retired in the second period in favor of McFarland.

Pat Doyle, the well-known Manchester boy who is a player of the Nashua team, and Lynch had it out in lively style throughout the game. Both played fast and hard and at the finish each had three baskets to his credit. Lynch slipped up on a number of chances. Doyle fouled repeatedly and was rather rough in some of the tactics he adopted. Lynch proved his equal and the players had it out in great style much to the delight of the spectators.

Manchester excelled in passing the ball and kept the Nashua players guessing as to where the ball was. Their floor work was very good, Captain Qualey excelling in this respect.

A number of the players received hard bumps and on three or four occasions it was necessary to call time. Creagan, who relieved Guthrie in the third period, was in the game but a few seconds when he had the middle finger of his left hand badly torn by catching it in the wire netting.

Frank Devlin scored the largest number of baskets, securing a total of 6. He played everywhere and was effective in his blocking. Healy played brilliantly but was unfortunate on his shots, the majority striking the edge of the basket, to roll off. The only goal he got was a fair raiser and came after the player had dodged the entire length of the floor through the Nashua contingent. Donnelly played well and was relieved by Reagan in the third period.

HOLYOKE 11½, SPRINGFIELD 7.

Holyoke defeated the league leaders Springfield, 11½ to 7, last night in a fast and clean contest in Holyoke. The first basket from the field was scored 18 minutes from the call of play, and previous to that only two fouls had been called. In the second half Fox and Michaelman were ordered from the floor by Referee Byers because he thought they were fighting, whereas they were only wrestling. The usual demonstration against the referee ensued. The summary:

BASKETBALL NOTES.

We are in second place now.

The Cadet band is more than pleased with the handsome treatment they have received from Manager Gray, and want to express their thanks.

The admission of a sixth city in the New England league is under contemplation, and a meeting of the league will be held on Wednesday afternoon in Nashua to take action. Chelsea will probably be admitted.

The western league has released all claim to the following players who wish to play in the New England league: Curry, Edgers, Macelowski, Lynch, Glon, Keegan and Leighton. Several of these men are recognized stars and they will be used to strengthen the Nashua and Haverhill teams.

Haverhill will play in Lowell tonight. Lew, Harrington and Tighe, three of the former members of the P. A. C. team and three corkers at that, will be in the lineup of the visitors. The Cadet band will be on hand to give another concert prior to the game and between periods. "Dutchy" McDonald will referee the game and the attendance promises to be the largest of the season. The young lady clerks in several of the down town stores have made up parties to attend the game and cheer for the local team. It will be a warm game, for after last night's contest the Haverhill boys believe that their chances are good to pass Lowell in the league race.

Harry Hough, who played right forward on the Pittsfield basketball team against Westfield, was injured in the game Saturday night and it is probable that Capt. Deal will not allow him to go into the game again until Saturday. In some way he was thrown against the baseboard with great force, striking on something that projected and ripping his right leg open above the knee. It required several stitches to close the cut.

Hough is very eager to go into the game and does not like the idea of being taken out with his injuries. On account of this the team will be somewhat weakened this week, but it is hoped that he will be ready for the game with Springfield Saturday evening.

The results of last week indicate that Pittsfield is the fastest team of the outfit. With Windelkin and Shields in the lineup, the team that is representing Springfield will be found a match for the great aggregation that is playing for the Shire city, but at the present stage of the game Pittsfield is certainly first choice, as the New York stars will be able to play only the games in Whitney rink for the present at least. Pittsfield has a finely balanced team of great players and is likely to be alone in the head at the end of this week.

Mike Hickey's team has more than justified the expectations. It has emerged victorious from four hard games and has shown itself capable of putting up some grand basketball. At the same time it has also shown that it can give a poor exhibition and thus far has given little evidence of real team work. Manager Hickey expects this defect to be remedied as soon as the players have grown accustomed to one another and he is urging continually the necessity of a passing game.

Chicopee was the disappointment of the league last week. Most people expected to see the Chicopee men make a runaway race of it from the start. The disappointment has not been through any inability of Chicopee to play as fast as it was believed the team could play, but rather through the unexpected strength displayed by Pittsfield and Springfield.—Springfield Union.

CYCLE NEWS.

Two retirements have been announced in the cycle-racing field—one of Walthour, a southerner, and the other of Major Taylor. Both give superabundance of wealth gained from cycle racing as a reason for retirement.

Despite this fact, there is every reason to believe that both riders will again be seen in harness next season. In fact, the name of Walthour is already on a contract to race under the management of Elf Winesett mill Jan. 1, 1905. That nulls the retirement story from Walthourville, otherwise, Atlanta, Ga. Taylor has earned between $10,000 and $15,000 this year. He will hardly find another opportunity to clean up a like amount in any other field. Probably after mature deliberation he will think it all over again and decide to slay his castor once more into the ring.

"On to Australia" is the cry of the racing men. Lawson and MacFarland are now on their way there, and a number of European cracks are reported to have announced their intention of competing in the land of the kangaroo. "Plugger Bill" Martin is already on the ground. He departed from these shores some months ago, quietly and without any one knowing of his departure. The Australian racing season is just opening, and Martin will make his first appearance in Sidney at a meet given for the benefit of Wame, a favorite antipodean rider.

According to R. Sumi, the Japanese importer, who is now in this country, cycle racing is on the top wave of popularity in the empire. The best tracks are in Tokyo and Osaka, but he says nearly every little country town possesses a course of some sort. The mile record stands at about 2.25, the slow time being due to the sandy and poorly improved tracks that are the rule. No admission fee is charged, and as a result crowds of from 10,000 to 20,000 are common.

"Looping the loop" on bicycles, which has been a relaxing sensation in Paris for some time, finally has been prohibited by the police. They took action after a man and his wife sought to perform the feat on a tandem, and landed in a hospital instead.

Five additional companies of cyclists are to be added to the French army. At the recent manoeuvres one company carried out a night "march" of 53 miles, from Berzlerx to Sedan, in six hours and a half without a single straggler.

Owen Kimble, the American racing man who has spent the season riding on European tracks, sails for home this week. He has had a fairly successful year, being placed in a large number of important races.

GERMANY HOLDS OFF

Will Not Mix up in Panama Affair

By Associated Press to The Sun

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The Colombian commission, if it comes here, will receive no consideration from the German government. The correspondent of the Associated Press called the foreign office's attention to the statement made yesterday by Arturo de Brigard, the Colombian consul-general in New York, that the Colombians were clamoring for a German protectorate over their country and that the Colombian government had been asked to send a commission to Germany to offer Emperor William certain pieces of land on both seas, in return for Germany's protection. The reply was:

"We have heard nothing on the subject, but if a commission comes with such a proposition, it would not be entertained for one moment. We have no intention of mixing ourselves in the affairs of the Isthmian states. We are still without any communication from our consular representatives in regard to the revolution or asking protection, hence we have omitted to ask the United States to look after German interests. The statements regarding our commercial interests in Colombia and Panama have been much exaggerated, but, we hope to see our trade there prosper better after the United States builds the canal."

THE GILLIS CASE

By Associated Press to The Sun

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—On Saturday last Mary Gillis, 33 years old, single, who had been living in apartments on Madison place, went to the house of a Mrs. Martin at 18 Cobb street, where she took two or three rooms on the ground floor.

Mrs. Martin was told that she was sick at the time she went there, and she shared her rooms with James Powers, 40 years old, who has occupied rooms with her for a long time.

About 8 o'clock last night Powers is said to have called Dr. Maurice Gerstein, who had an office at the corner of Davis and Washington streets, and when he arrived the woman was dead, and, in the doctor's opinion, had been so for some time.

The dead woman had a black eye and bruises on the nose and body, which it is said she had when she went to the Cobb street house last Saturday. Dr. Gerstein refused to give a death certificate.

Powers was taken to station 5, and will be held pending the action of the medical examiner, who will hold an autopsy today.

The police were not satisfied with Powers' statements, which were to the effect that the last time he spoke to the Gillis woman was about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He told the officers that she had been very sick all day yesterday, and about 4 o'clock he went to her room to give her something to drink, but she could not swallow it. He was sure she was alive then, but he could not satisfactorily explain to the officers why he waited until 8 o'clock in the evening before he called a doctor.

Latest Development of the Paris Hat

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The charming salon of Mme. Carlier in the Rue de la Paix is the rendezvous these autumn days of the smart Parisienne and the equally stunning Americaine, each intent upon the pleasant pursuit of a chapeau. The creations displayed at this fascinating atelier are certainly the summum bonum of sartorial exclusiveness. If manners make the man, hats undoubtedly play a conspicuous part in making the woman. The possession of a becoming hat has often been the cause of more jealousy, hatred, malice and uncharitableness in the feminine world than one can well imagine. When two women meet at the beginning of a season the first thing they do is to pick each other's hats to pieces—in their minds; the next is to pay flattering compliments about them. Indeed, so all powerful is the question of head gear that some one has said a woman will make every sacrifice for her husband, will die for him if need be, but will always wear the hat she likes.

One of the confections over which the women were unblushingly breaking the tenth commandment at Carlier's was a cerise beaver. When I say cerise you very likely in imagination conjure up the hard, glaring, pinkish red we have been accustomed to associate with this color. The new cerise nuance is an exquisite blending of the pink and dahlia tones of the season. The almost imperceptible crown of this flat, round beaver creation was covered with a silk braid arranged in flat circles dotted with military buttons. Smart cerise and white wings on which circular velvet motifs were introduced completed the trimming. This description may sound rather bizarre, but to see the hat was to love it. Another delightful model was a gray fawn beaver rolled well up at one side, through which was thrust a long black feather. A similar plume encircled the crown.

The styles in headgear are most diverse, although most hats fit the head close in the back and have broad effects in front. They do not match the toilet, but harmonize perfectly with it. Some of the new models have such a frontal width that one wonders whether there is a face inside. The large hat we have been wearing for several seasons is held responsible for women not greeting each other with a kiss. It is well we have been educated up to the new extension brim, for should the contagion spread, to paraphrase a familiar quotation, "When brim meets brim then would come the tug of war." The club mainsail chapeau of last summer was extremely grotesque, and its successor of the woodpecker variety has only tacked in a different direction and is quite as absurd. The saving grace of the new development is, however, the fact of its not being a plaything for all the winds of heaven, as it holds its own on the head with commendable tenacity.

The kind of hat women of good taste will wear for all round occasions is a low, flat affair which comes down snugly over the face. This fashion may not be becoming to madame or mademoiselle, but it is chic, and she'll wear it without a murmur. A few models of the high crowned directoire type are observed. These are not evolved for the exclusive Parisienne, but are designed to catch the eye and please the fancy of the ultra feminine who insists upon something striking. There is a natty new Breton sailor very suitable for morning wear trimmed simply with queer wings in shadings to match the walking gown. The sailor shape is also smart when ornamented by a Romney ruche of satin ribbon and the brim faced with velvet.

Our heart is still true to the picturesque Devonshire hat, and reproductions of that dear duchess' favorite head covering will grace many reception and carriage costumes.

To continue the millinery talk, velvet is the material with which the happiest effects in the chiffon world are obtained this season; not the old time kind, but the soft, exquisite texture the Paris and Lyons firms are turning out in the new chiffon velours. A Caroline Rebeau medium sized plateau charmingly illustrates the velvet possibilities. This little hat is formed of gathered wood colored velvet, and the suspicion of a crown is made by the addition of a rosette in the center. A slightly curved brim at the left side is faced with shirred chiffon velours, under which rests a bunch of mauve roses.

The hat question naturally suggests the veil, without which the average woman is about as complete as a ship without a rudder. This adjunct of the toilet is often chosen with a recklessness actually disfiguring. A veil's first duty is to be becoming, and its selection should be made with regard to the coloring of the wearer, the scheme of dress and the type of beauty. Large spots sparingly sprinkled over a surface are never good on the face. This hit or miss arrangement of dots is perilous to trifle with, and the crossbarred affair makes the wearer look like a rabbit behind a wire. The most attractive veil is the fine diamond meshed black one without spots. It is both cheap and ladylike, two very important points. A leading Paris house is reviving the Victorian lace "fall." This relic of our grandmothers' day is charming on a beautiful woman with a certain verve who looks well in almost anything. Such a one may adopt this quaint fashion for a fad. A safe rule to follow in veils is that a face covering should strike the eye as such no more than a wall paper should overshadow the pictures.

UP TO DATE PARISIAN HEADGEAR.

Paris is prepared to be jauntily rotund in silhouette, and the short, dumpy woman's day is not yet. She has certainly pegs to hang her grievance on in the short skirts standing out full a little below the waist, in the great sleeves and in the fussy peleriines. Let her accept Paddy's consolation and "keep never minding," for there is a hybrid garment neither peleriine nor bolero, but a combination of the two, which is just the wrap for her to choose. This pretty jacket reaches the waist line back and front and is held in place by a bolero extension beneath the arms. The sleeves and cape are modeled in one.

A stunning little tailor costume which took my fancy was a dark wood brown cloth with a hairy surface on which were distinctly seen red and green flecks. The skirt fitted beautifully at the waist and flared in a fluffy fullness at the feet. Down the front width was a panel four inches wide formed of narrow green and red braid, the ends of the braid being finished with small enameled buttons. The inevitable peleriine, trimmed with braid and buttons, finished the short, bloused jacket.

To be worn with this gown was a white silk shirt waist fashioned of heavy louisine. An "off the shoulder" yoke effect was stitched solidly with row after row of chain machine stitching in red, green and black. A long stole and collar and the high, fitted belt were also stitched. This stitching is one of the season's smartest trimmings for tailor mades.

Dyed wool laces will be much used, and a silk lace cut out and filled in with designs in thread is the dernier cri. An effective trimming is of braid or ribbon put on over a contrasting color which shows a trifle between the rows. The narrow belt and pouched waist are things of the past, the accepted cincture being a high, crushed directoire or fitted corselet fastened with an elaborate buckle of quaint design.

I must not forget to mention the new fur purse bags made of all the fashionable skins. They are mounted in gold and silver and sometimes studded with turquoise or emerald cabochons. A useful little pocket for the handkerchief is fitted at the back.

The up to date handkerchief is an frail and tiny, with its diminutive square of mull and lace frills, that the accepted place of bestowal is in the glove. Mme. La Mode has decreed that our glove shall not have a silver lining, but one of contrasting color in kid.

One of the pretty whimsicalities of the moment is to wear a miniature set in a circle of pearls or diamonds on a short chain around the neck. The swagger woman is now having all her jewelry reset after the antique, in which the new fashion which is the old is represented.

Evening toilets will be gorgeous if the handsome brocades which one sees on every hand go into their making. The all lace gown will be de rigueur, and the extreme cult is to embroider the lace with colored silks. Shaded mousseline de sole is evolving many of the prettiest ball costumes. A deep rose shading to a delicate pink in this material is wonderfully effective.

In all this wealth of material and style a sartorial tragedy is possible if there is a lack of suitability in the selection. A gown may be Paris made and chic to a degree, but if donned by the wrong woman she has the unfortunate appearance of masquerading in some one else's finery.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

Character Told by Shoes.

Scarpology is the name of a novel method of divination which is now attracting some attention in Europe. It was invented by a scientist of Basel, and it is based on the assumption that the character of any person can be told from his shoes.

When a heel and sole are worn equally, meaning thereby when neither is in a worse condition than the other, one may be confident, if a man wears the shoe, that he is energetic and is endowed with excellent business ability, and, if a woman, that she is loyal to her husband and a good housekeeper.

The outer edge of a sole if much worn is a sure token of a fantastic, wayward spirit; but, on the other hand, if the inner edge is worn the wearer is timid and irresolute.

When the shoes are much worn along the outer edge and the leather around the toes begins to look shabby, the other parts of the shoes meanwhile being almost as good as new, one may be confident that the wearer is a rogue."

The Newest Trimmings.

Embroidery, galloon and stitchery of various kinds will play an important part in the decoration of our garments during the winter, and those who are fortunate enough to have hoarded pieces of old needlework, brocade or embroidery should bring them out. A dainty vest, collar or other decorative trifle may be evolved by ingenious fingers from small pieces skillfully appliqued to a blouse or coat. Sapphire blue louisine with embroidery in greens and blues would be effective, and nut brown silk with embroidery of gold and Indian red would be equally pleasing.

A SMART WINTER COAT

THE stunning coat sketched is of heavy cloth in castor color. Four inverted box plaits form the front and flare into a three-quarter skirt. The back is plain and tight fitting. Three large and handsome brown butterfly ornaments fasten this smart wrap. The neck is collarless, and a double cape gives the necessary broad shoulder effect. The sleeves are also double and have an underpuff of the cloth. The castor beaver hat is trimmed simply with a white bird.

Belts to Be Worn This Winter.

Belts are wider than they have been. The new waistband is from two to four inches wide and rather bright in coloring. Suede and doeskin belts have taken the place of the shiny leather ones considered smart in the summer. All the belts fasten with the harness buckle or an antique clasp. A charming suede belt may be made at home with slight expense and trouble. Cut a piece of suede an eighth of an inch wide and the required size of the waist. Bind on each edge with ribbon. Graduate one end to a point and draw the other through the buckle in plaits. The belt is finished when a harness maker has riveted the eyelet holes in place. This belt is one of the new crushed kind.

The Season's Favorite Colors.

Now browns trimmed with white pannе are among the smartest shows of color and dark blue, with grass green, continues in the affection of many. As to gray, the dark shades are returning to favor, and one of the smartest costumes among the Paris models is a dark gray cloth with scarlet velvet trimmings.

The Care of Woman's Wardrobe

THE average woman does not number among her luxuries the services of a maid. In our effort to be elegant nowadays the term maid has become very elastic and comprehensive in meaning. The word is often used to describe our drudge of all work as well as the trained domestic specialist. The particular maid to whom I refer is the one devoted entirely to madam and her sartorial interests. If we all cannot enjoy the comfort of having our belongings taken care of by a lady's maid we can go into training and do the work for ourselves in a professional manner. The art of knowing how is invaluable to the woman of limited wardrobe who is ambitious to always appear well dressed.

This open secret lies for the most part in putting one's things away carefully; never tumbling them in a drawer or closet until they have been thoroughly dusted and brushed.

It is a great bother, I admit, when one comes home tired out from a day of social or business duties to put everything away with care in its right place. The impulse is to hang things round anywhere until tomorrow. Probably you have tried this "put off" method and realize that no neglect is possible in the domain of the well groomed woman. Eternal vigilance here is the price of a neat, smart appearance.

There are lots of little "first aids to the injured" and invaluable wardrobe labor savers known to the initiated. For instance, the neat and careful girl during a leisure hour runs ribbon in her lingerie. Her ribbon box contains the color of ribbon she affects in three widths. A bodkin is always threaded in each piece ready to run through the beading at a moment's notice. Gloves are overlooked after each wearing, carefully mended if necessary, smoothed out and put in a glove case between sachets perfumed with a favorite powder.

It is astonishing how few women put on and take off a glove properly, yet this has everything to do with its wear and appearance. To learn the right way watch an experienced saleswoman while she tries a pair on a customer. Invariably she will push the glove on the four fingers before putting it on the thumb. When the glove is removed the operation should begin at the wrist and the glove be carefully turned backward as far as the second joint of the fingers. It will then come off easily with a gentle pull. On the other hand, if it is jerked off by the fingers it will be stretched out of shape immediately. One glove should never be turned into another after the manner of stockings, but each finger should be laid out as flat as possible, with the thumb folded inside the palm. Too much stress cannot be laid upon a well clothed hand, as this and a neatly shod foot are the marks of a lady, no matter how shabby her frock.

While on the subject of gloves I must tell you how to make a pillow out of the wrists and part of the backs of discarded gloves. Every woman sooner or later acquires a lot of wrinkled wrists from evening to walking gloves. Cut up all the clean parts of these wrists into triangles and squares. Baste them down on a canvas lining and work them with "catstitch" in yellow silk. The effect is charming when soft shades of gray and ivory are used. The discarded wrists will make the most nerve soothing, smoothest pillow in the world. Stuff the pillow with hair if you can afford it.

"Lax in their gaiters, laxer in their gait," is an old saying which applies well to the modern shoe and its wearer. No shoe will keep in shape long unless it is put on a tree when out of use. These "trees" are very cheap, but most women in their ignorance look upon them as an extravagance. Another rule of the carefully shod woman is to wear her shoes [illegible] and always wear a different pair indoors. Low shoes are better for house wear, as they permit of ventilation. Select a strong calfskin for a walking boot, keep it well oiled, and your pedestrian trips will be made in perfect comfort. Keep an old pair of shoes to wear under rubbers, as the perspiration which india rubber excites ruins good leather.

Nothing on earth is dowdier or more convincingly displays a lack of attention to details than a dirty, bedraggled skirt whose braid has begun to wear. Rip off the old protection and after thoroughly airing the skirt brush it with a good, large sponge, which removes the accumulation of dust much more effectually than a broom. When a skirt is in almost constant use it should be turned wrong side out once a week, hung on a line in the yard and every germ removed by an energetic beating. Of course a silk lining will not stand this sort of treatment, and a gentler method is required. When ready for the closet hang on a hanger, never by the loops found at the sides.

The fancy bodice, with its expensive frills, is another object of careful solicitude. If tissue paper is packed into sleeves and shoulders there is no danger of a crease settling in even the daintiest creation. A good idea when the collar and cuffs are of perishable material is to wrap soft paper around them. Silk covered hangers suspended from the center of the wardrobe afford a much better way of disposing of the waist than the drawer of a chiffonier.

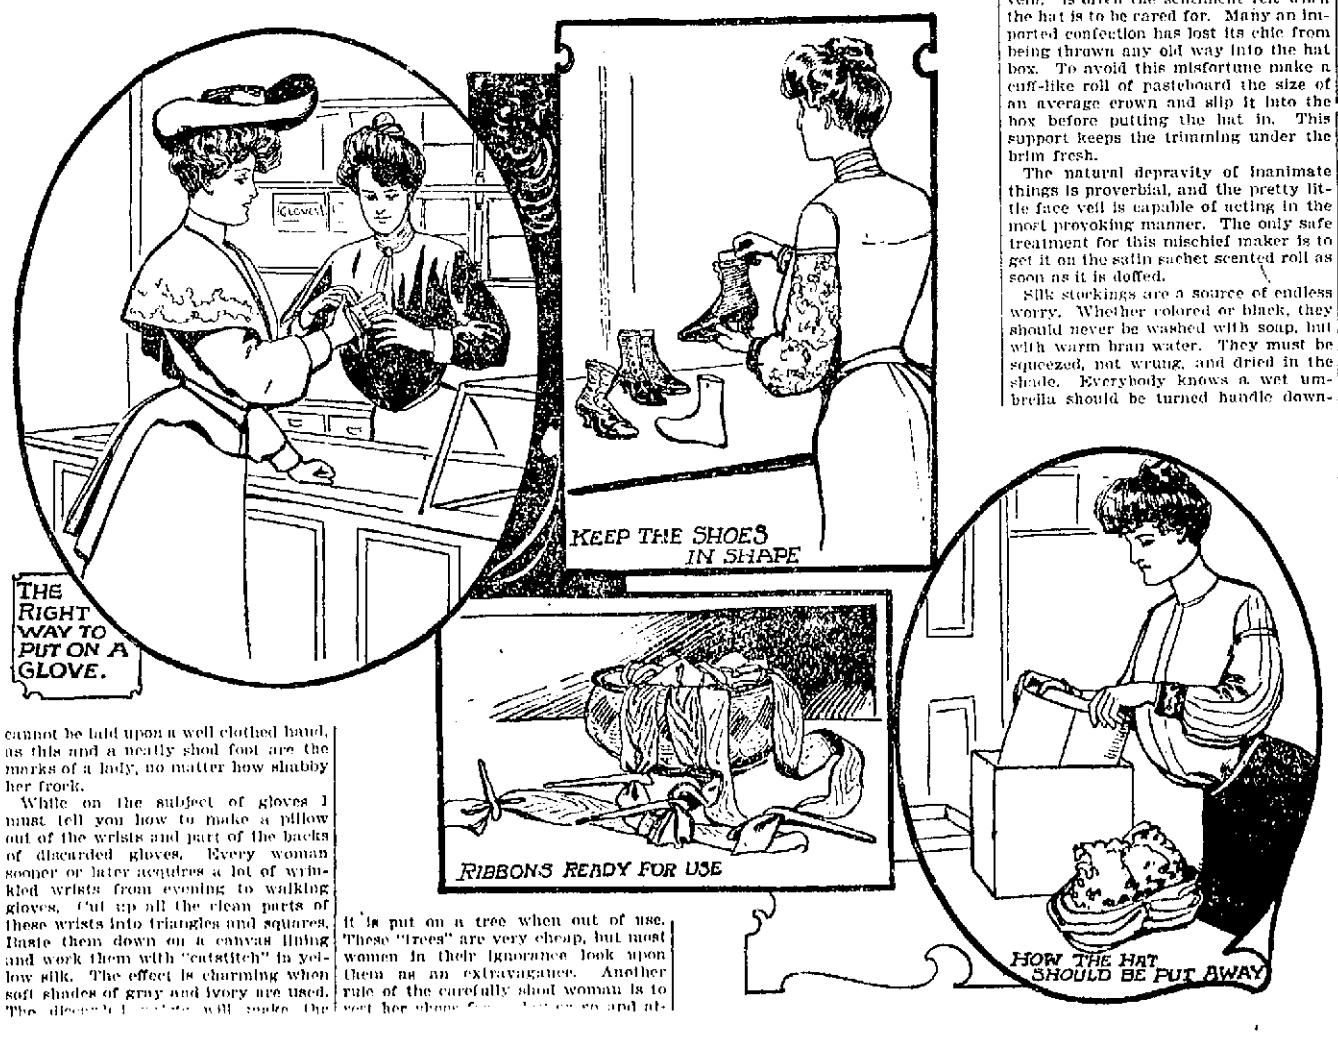

"Thou troublest me; I am not in the vein," is often the sentiment felt when the hat is to be cared for. Many an imported confection has lost its chic from being thrown any old way into the hat box. To avoid this misfortune make a cuff-like roll of pasteboard the size of an average crown and slip it into the box before putting the hat in. This support keeps the trimming under the brim fresh.

The natural depravity of inanimate things is proverbial, and the pretty little face veil is capable of acting in the most provoking manner. The only safe treatment for this mischief maker is to get it on the satin sachet scented roll as soon as it is doffed.

Silk stockings are a source of endless worry. Whether colored or black, they should never be washed with soap, but with warm bran water. They must be squeezed, not wrung, and dried in the shade. Everybody knows a wet umbrella should be turned handle downward until dry and never placed in the holder rolled or with a case on.

The feminine world has long used the window glass for doing up the best handkerchiefs or delicate laces. Mouchoir cases are an abomination, and a section of the top bureau drawer entirely padded with scented silk is a more convenient receptacle. This curriculum of clothes care may sound difficult to the freshman, but when the diploma is gained the graduate will prove a neat and useful adjunct if not an ornament to society.

ELINOR HEWITT.

We Can't Eat Celery Now.

Now the physicians are said to have forbidden another relish nearly as popular as oysters at this time. Celery has come under the ban of the doctors, who say that it is equally well adapted to transmitting the poisonous elements of the soil and carrying the germs of typhoid. The disease can be acquired only by introducing the microbes into the system in food or drink, and for that reason advice against certain kinds of food is always likely to be regarded. But to what extent this may be carried is well understood by the proprietor of one hotel, who has seen oysters during the past three weeks disappear almost entirely from the orders of his guests. Some weeks ago a well known man died of typhoid fever. He had lived at a large hotel, and the report went about that he had got his illness there. "Whatever you do, don't eat oysters at that hotel," was the advice that one friend was giving another, based on the belief that this man had died of a disease contracted in the hotel dining room, when the chances were immensely in favor of his having got the fever somewhere else.

If they keep on, there will be nothing left for us to eat except fish and fritters, and the latter will probably be cut off soon and pills substituted.

To Prevent Hair Falling Out.

There is nothing better than sage tea to prevent the hair from falling out. This should be well rubbed into the roots three or four times a week. Bran water is also good for the scalp where there is dandruff. After rubbing it in, the hair must be well washed or it will stick together. A frequent cause of the hair falling out is a deficient state of the circulation. Rubbing the scalp for a short time every night with the fingers will stimulate circulation.

Peppermint Cordial.

This cordial will keep for any length of time. Take one gallon of water, four and a half pounds of loaf sugar, two drams of the best oil of peppermint, one pint of gin. Boil the water and sugar together for twenty minutes, let stand till nearly cold, then add oil of peppermint and gin. Mix all together. When quite cold pour into bottles and cork tightly. Smaller quantity may be made by halving the measurements.

DAINTIES for AFTERNOON TEAS

SCONES.—Take one pound of fine flour, stir into it two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar and two ounces of powdered sugar. Rub into it three ounces of butter. Dissolve one small teaspoonful of carbonate of soda in half a pint of lukewarm milk and knead these ingredients into a stiff paste with the hands. Roll out half an inch thick, cut into rounds with a claret glass and bake in a brisk oven. When about half done brush over lightly with milk. Serve split open and buttered, either hot or cold.

Lemon Buns.—Mix two ounces of ground rice with six ounces of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and the grated rind of half a lemon. Rub in lightly two ounces of lard or butter. Beat up an egg with a gill of milk, stir into the other ingredients, beat for a few minutes, put into greased tins and bake in a quick oven for ten or fifteen minutes.

Sponge Cake With Chocolate Icing.—Carefully beat the whites of three eggs on a plate for twenty minutes. Separate the froth and add gradually six ounces of sugar and the well whipped yolks of three eggs. Beat all together, sifting in four ounces of flour. Flavor with essence of vanilla, pour into a tin lined with greased paper and bake in a steady oven for an hour. When cold cover with chocolate icing. To make it put a quarter of a pound of icing sugar, one ounce of grated chocolate and one tablespoonful of water into a saucepan. Stir over a moderate fire till as thick as cream. Lay this evenly over the cake with a knife, dipping it occasionally into boiling water. When finished set in a very cool place.

Cocoanut Cakes.—Mix together half a pound of flour, three ounces of grated cocoanut, three ounces of sugar, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Rub in three ounces of butter and mix with one egg and a little milk. Knead up stiffly, put rough pieces the size of a walnut on a greased tin and bake in a quick oven.

Sardine Sandwiches.—Dip half a dozen sardines into boiling water and remove the skin and bones. Pound them in a mortar with a hard boiled egg. Season with a squeeze of lemon juice and a few grains of cayenne. Cut some thin slices of brown bread and butter; spread with this paste. Press together, cut into fancy shapes and serve on a folded napkin garnished with parsley.

Restful simplicity is the rule in furnishing houses.

The Park Sisters, famous in Europe, as well as in America, are all great artists, and their program is so arranged that it pleases not only the most exacting critic, but also the average auditor who depends upon the melody for his entertainment, rather than upon the classical nature of the production or its artistic rendition.—Pittsburg Times.

Mr. Martin is truly a "singing bass." I thoroughly enjoy him. His voice, basso-cantante, belongs to the old Italian school and throughout its whole register is of a beautiful, even quality. His work was capitally done and enthusiastically received and encored.—Boston Evening Transcript.

McMAHON GAINED

Recount Gives Him Seven More Votes

Four Towns Yet to be Heard From--No Material Change in the 25th District Count—City Politics are Fairly Booming

The recount of the votes for representative in the 25th and 27th districts was finished last evening and resulted in no material change, though it brought forth a surprise in the Ward Nine vote and gives Mr. McMahon a fighting chance to beat Mr. O'Brien.

In the 27th Mr. McMahon gained seven. Mr. O'Brien's and Mr. Upton's votes were unchanged, and Mr. Westall gained two. Five of the votes credited to Mr. McAleer, the socialist candidate, were found to belong to Mr. McMahon.

At the present time Mr. Westall has a lead of seven votes on Mr McMahon, and Mr O'Brien a lead of three over him. The towns are yet to be heard from.

In the 25th, Mr. Hayes lost one vote, Mr. Henderson three, Mr. Hilton lost five, Mr. McMannon lost five, Mr. Ripley lost eight and Mr. Roark gained 14.

Mr. M. D. Chenevert, who is president of the Young Men's club of Precinct 3 of Ward 6, in speaking of the good work the club can do, said to The Sun reporter: "When I first thought of the formation of our club, I felt that we would be able to do some good work in arousing the old-time democratic enthusiasm we had here a few years ago. I found, in mentioning the matter to the young men of the ward, that they were in accord with my idea and I entered into the work of organization. Tom Garvey is my personal friend, and as I knew he had had experience in politics, I suggested to the members that I invite him to give us some advice. I was listening to Tom but a short time when I realized that to follow his advice, meant that we could do a great work. I was favorably impressed with his remarks regarding the so-called touch club, and the result of our determination to avoid the touch club business, is that we have as members of our club some of the best citizens of the ward. Let me give you a few names of our members. There is one of our leading provision dealers, Mr. H. M. Demers. We have many other business men, among whom are E. J. Mercier, U. L. Chapdelaine, O. J. David, J. M. Picard, George W. Pelneault, L. Motard, C. L. Chapdelaine, A. Guillmette, M. Forgette, M. Connolly, R. J.Chenevert, P. F. Chenevert, J. H. Marcotte and C. F. Subell. You can rest assured that those men would not affiliate with any touch club and I become enthusiastic when I talk of the matter. Mr. Garvey made one suggestion to us, which struck me quite forcibly. That was that when the excitement of politics has gone, there was still work for our club to do. We should get rid of that detestable dump.

"We should get improvements along Ludlam, Exeter, Dalton streets, and all through that section of the ward, and we can get those improvements by just such an organization as ours. Just keep your eyes on the young men's club of Precinct 3 of Ward 6 and you will find us up and doing. We are assured of the co-operation and assistance of the people of our section of the ward and you will never hear of any act of ours which would make them regret having given us their co-operation and assistance."

Ward two has a host of democratic candidates this year. Among them are good, bad and indifferent material.

The following campaign card is unique. But no more so than the candidate whose cause it expounds:

"Democratic Candidate For Board of Aldermen.

"May it please the people of Lowell, Mass. Twenty-one years in the field of my honest toil in a manner of comparison. Having my troubles while I was young and able to bear them. If successful, and the merit or demerit of any question is to be discussed in City hall, you will hear from me. As you may perceive, I am of age. Office hours during business hours, Local Branch International Teaming and Express Company.

"Your humble servant,

"JOHN B. CLANCY,

"25 Floyd Street."

There is very little of the aldermanic tickets on either side, but the democrats will put up an unusually strong ticket judging by some of the names mentioned. There is a sentiment all over the city, not confined to one party favorable to the candidacy of James F. Miskella of ward four, for another term. Mr. Miskella has not yet consented to run again, but the public is loathe to lose his services. During his incumbency he has been a most valuable and conscientious public servant and that the public appreciates his work is evidenced by the sentiment in favor of his re-nomination. Aldermen Gallagher and Gerow will be candidates for re-election.

The contest for overseer of the poor in ward four between Overseer Sheehan, who is seeking another term, and John J. Duff, who ran a close second two years ago, is waxing warm. Both are popular young men and desirable candidates, and whichever is nominated will make a good man for the place.

Maurice Flynn's friends announce that he is going to be one of the three lucky councilmanic candidates in ward two. Mr. Flynn is the son of the popular "Tom G." Flynn, one of the best known and liked of the early "Acre" settlers.

The Young French-American voters of ward seven are enthusiastic over the candidacy of Ernest Bernard for the common council on the democratic ticket in that ward, and predict his election if nominated.

Elie C. Laporte of ward six, a former member of the lower branch, has returned from a trip to the baronial estates of his European ancestors in Fontainebleau, on the Seine, and is a candidate for the common council once more. While in France he visited the municipalities of Paris, Havre and Rouen and smuggled in with him a number of imported ideas.

Thomas J. Bean, a prominent member of the Y. M. C. L., is a candidate for the democratic nomination for the school committee in Ward Nine.

Friends of Patrick Kelley are urging him to became a candidate for alderman in Ward Nine. Mr. Kelley is a large property holder and a heavy tax payer. He has resided in Ward Nine a great many years and is well known throughout the city.

PHILLIPPE BUNAU-VARILLA, the Panama Delegate to the United States.

FAIRMOUNTS WON

CENTRAL CLUB OF WOBURN THEIR VICTIMS.

The Fairmounts of Lowell won a decisive victory over the Central club of Woburn in a candle-pin match last night, taking all three strings by a comfortable margin.

The Lowell bowlers were in rare form and rolled steady throughout, while the local team reached 490 in only one string. The Fairmounts were at their best in the second string, when they rolled up a total of 444. O'Brien of the Fairmounts had the highest three-string total and Begley made the best single-string.

BELVIDERES SNOWED UNDER.

The Brownies and Belvideres met last night on the Y. M. C. L. alleys and the Brownies had 103 pins to spare at the end of the game. This was the rubber game between the two teams and the poor showing of the Belvideres came as a surprise to the admirers of the team. Coleman of the Brownies was high man with a three-string total of 282 pins and a single string total of 101. The Brownies won all three strings. The score:

TEMPERANCE LECTURE

GIVEN AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

An interesting temperance meeting was held last night by the senior branch of the Star Army connected with the First Presbyterian church. An address was made by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Craig and readings were given by Miss Mary Sutherland and Ina Jamieson and speaking by Miss Lillian McAlister.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Well Known Wholesale Confectioner

IS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND BATTERY

The Complainant is a Young Woman

Frank W. Smith, 35, a wholesale confectioner of this city, with residence in Gates street, was arrested by Inspectors Lallamme and Maher, yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with assault and battery.

She conducts a small variety store in Shaw street, in the vicinity of the Shaw Stocking company and Smith was in the habit of going to her store to sell his goods.

She alleges that Smith called at her store one day last week, that he went behind the counter and attempted to take unwarranted liberties with her. She says she screamed for help and that it was this fact which caused Smith to desist.

He was apprehended by the police near Towers' corner. He was on his delivery wagon in company with another man. Inspector Maher stepped up to him and told him that he had a warrant for his arrest.

Mr. Smith, the inspector alleges, did not ask him what he was wanted for, but said: "I suppose I'll be allowed time to get counsel." He asked to be allowed to drive to the police station in his wagon and his request was granted.

At police station he denied that he knew the girl and said it was a big mistake. He said he has several customers whose names he don't know, but whose faces are familiar to him.

Mr. Smith telephoned to John H. Morrison, who will represent him when the case comes to trial. It is understood that John J. Harvey will appear for the Commonwealth.

Smith told the officers that he had never been arrested before in his life and that he felt his position keenly. He is a married man. He was bailed shortly after his arrest by Morton N. Peabody. The bail was fixed at $300.

The case was called up in police court this morning and was continued until Nov. 18.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

Little Emile Phaneuf, son of Mrs. Phaneuf of 832 Lakeview avenue, broke his right arm yesterday while playing in the street. The arm was broken in two places and was the same arm which the little fellow broke six weeks ago.

FOOT INJURED.

LIVELY BLAZE

IN THE LAWRENCE HOSIERY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

A fire started in the Lawrence hosiery yesterday afternoon, but was extinguished before much damage was done. The fire started in Overseer Creever's room and was caused by a spark flying from one of the machines, setting fire to a pile of stockings.

Employes of the company put the fire out, but considerable fright was caused among the female employes. Some damage was done by water to goods stored in the room as well as to Overseer Thompson's room on the lower floor.

LOWELL GIRLS

Were Placed on Probation in Lawrence

Maud Fowler and Emma Mellow, ages 16 and 20 years, respectively, whose cases were continued from last Tuesday were tried yesterday in Lawrence police court. The young girls who were pretty and apparently well to do, were accompanied by their mothers. The charge against them was that of larceny. They each pleaded not guilty. Attorney Murphy of Lowell represented the Mellow girl, while J. C. Sullivan of this city appeared for the Fowler girl.

Mrs. Charles Day of 79 Springfield street, the complainant, said that she met the Fowler girl in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in Lowell one day and invited her to make a visit to her home in this city. On Tuesday, Oct. 27, the Fowler girl in company with Emma Mellow called at Mrs. Day's home. They were cordially received and stayed all night and Wednesday morning, when they left for their home, they carried with them two chains, a pair of shoes and a chatelaine bag. They pawned the goods in Samuel Goldberg's shop realizing the sum of 75 cents from the transaction. They enjoyed supper and paid their car fares to their homes in Lowell out of the money.

The Mellow girl told the court that the Fowler girl took the property from Mrs. Day's home, but did not deny that she accepted one of the chains, which she was wearing when arrested, nor that she went with her girl chum to pawn the goods, also of eating with the Fowler girl, who paid for the meal with money which she knew was obtained by selling the stolen property.

After she had given her testimony she burst into tears and went until after the disposition was made.

Maud Fowler next testified and accused the Mellow girl of taking the goods from the house, but admitted that she received the money from the pawnbroker.

The court talked to the girls, and after warning them against a repetition of the deed adjudged them guilty, and allowed them to go, their cases being on file.—Lawrence Sun.

BROKER FELL DEAD

By Associated Press to The Sun

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—With nerves strained to the breaking point by hours of vigil beside the ticker today, watching the great decline in the price of steel stocks, Leonard G. Vail staggered out of his office to catch a breath of fresh air, and fell dead at the door.

Mr. Vail was office manager for the New York stock exchange firm of H. K. Burras, with offices at 35 Wall street. It was just 2.30 in the afternoon when he walked out of his office. He fell in the hall just as an elevator stopped to take him to the street.

The last fearful wave of liquidation in steel preferred had just begun, and was sweeping values before it at such a tremendous rate that Mr. Vail could see ruin for many of his friends who were tied up in the stock.

Mr. Burras of the firm was on the floor of the exchange in the thick of the battle over steel when word came that Mr. Vail had fallen in a fit of apoplexy. He rushed across the street with Dr. Hewitt, the stock exchange physician, but when they reached the stricken man they found two doctors already bending over him. He was beyond recovery.

Mr. Vail went into the service of the firm 26 years ago as a messenger boy. He was 42 years old, and lived at 33 Lombardy street, Newark, with his mother and sisters. He was unmarried. A brother is a member of the Consolidated stock exchange.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Jane B. Newton circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., met last evening at Post 185, G. A. R. hall, and made arrangements for the part they are to take in the bazaar, which is to be held for the purpose of collecting money for the erection of a Sailors' and Soldiers' monument at the Edson cemetery.

A short session of the Dahlgren association Naval Veterans, was held last night. Plans were discussed in regard to the bazaar for the Sailors' and Soldiers' monument.

The regular meeting of Minnequa council, No. 72, was held last night at Odd Fellows' hall. Hereafter the organization will hold its regular meetings in Mechanics hall, Middle street.

A meeting of John Erickson council, Royal Arcanum, was held last night, at which an invitation from Industry council was received. Industry council invited the John Erickson council to parade on the 23d of this month. The invitation was accepted.

The Modern and Model Worsted Weaving and Finishing Mill

This is not an abandoned or worn-out plant, but a new and going concern that can be started within 24 hours, or sooner, if the raw material is at hand or provided; after the assignment the business was continued long enough to complete all unfinished orders, or until about March 1 last; the care of the property since the shutdown has been excellent; the property, which is on River street, just beyond the plants of the Woonsocket Worsted Mills and the Perseverance Worsted Co., will be open for inspection after 8.30 o'clock a.m. on Saturday and Monday, the 14th and 16th days of November, 1903; the product was fine worsted suitings and trouserings. The business was started in 1888; the present mill was erected and equipped at an expense of $58,780 in 1895; the dyehouse plant was added in 1897 at an expenditure of $10,600; the same year two additional Manning type upright boilers were installed, costing $4000; in 1900 the storehouse property was purchased for $1000, very much less than its cost; in 1902 more land was purchased and a stable erected at an outlay of $975; between 1895 and 1903 new dressing, weaving and finishing machinery to the value of $13,976 was put into the mill. The mill is 211x107 ft., one story, is 13 ft. posted at walls and 15 ft. in centre, has 122 windows, 10 ft. 3 in. x 4 ft. 5 in.; 8 skylights, 9 ft. 6 in. x 8 ft.; is divided by semi-partitions into the winding, spooling and twisting room, the weave room and the finishing room, with the power plant in the centre; the coal is dumped from the cars into the boiler house; the land has 56,000 square feet. The equipment includes 45 Knowles broad looms, 2 pattern looms, 3 bobbin winders, 4 skein winders, 10 spoolers, 4 twisters, 3 dressers, 3 automatic yarn dryers, Perkins engine lathe, 2 rotary washers, hydro-extractor, 3 rotary fulling mills, Heathcote horizontal dryer, jumbo brush, shear, brush, press, dewing, measuring, doubling and winding machines, steam power and electric lighting plant, etc., etc.

Purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $4000 just as soon as the property is struck off. The property is sold subject to a mortgage of $18,550 and accrued interest; premises open for inspection two days before sale. For full terms and conditions of sale, catalogue in detail of the property, or other information, send to the office of the auctioneers.

The sale will take place upon the premises, and, regardless of weather conditions, will begin promptly at half-past two o'clock in the afternoon.

AUCTION SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Saturday, Nov. 14, 1903, at 3.30 P. M.

AT NO. 46 OATIC STREET. RAIN OR SHINE.

I will sell by public auction for just what you will see fit to offer a piece of real estate consisting of two houses and about 3400 square feet of land, more or less, to be sold in one parcel. The house in front is a cottage of 7 rooms with pantry, has good cellar with bay-window and piazza, pipe for water with water closets, fine sewerage; house in rear has gravel roof, is two story with 6 good square rooms, piper for water, water closets, sewers and in the best of repair and well fenced. The entire property rents for $246 a year and is always rented. The owner has just had the property repaired and newly painted inside and out so that not a dollar need be laid out for sometime. Oatic street is situated with Moore street on one end and Agawam street on the other so that five minutes takes you to the Lawrence street electric car on one side while it is but three minutes' walk to Gorham street car line, also five minutes will take you to the Lowell bleachery mills, Faulkner woolen mills, Sterling mills and several large mills and industries that makes this property valuable to own as a home or to rent as it will always pay a good percent on the money invested. I invite you to attend this sale as some one will get a bargain.

Terms of sale: $200 must be paid to the auctioneer at time and place of sale. Other terms made known at sale.
